The landlord must notify the tenant of the decision on the review, and if the decision is to confirm the original decision, the landlord must also notify him of the reasons for the decision<sup>37</sup>. ### 1288 Extension of introductory tenancy

TEXT AND NOTES 15-36--For corresponding regulations in relation to Wales, see the Introductory Tenancies (Review of Decisions to Extend a Trial Period) (Wales) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/2983.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(1) INTRODUCTORY TENANCIES/(i) Tenancies which are Introductory Tenancies/1289. Licences.

1289. Licences.

The statutory provisions relating to introductory tenancies<sup>1</sup> apply in relation to a licence to occupy a dwelling house<sup>2</sup>, whether or not granted for a consideration, as they apply in relation to a tenancy<sup>3</sup>; but they do not apply to a licence granted as a temporary expedient to a person who entered the dwelling house or any other land as a trespasser, whether or not, before the grant of that licence, another licence to occupy that or another dwelling house had been granted to him<sup>4</sup>. It is, however, unlikely, in view of the decision of the House of Lords in a leading case<sup>5</sup>, that valid licences will be granted<sup>6</sup>.

6 See PARA 6 et seq. In relation to secure tenancies, it has been held that a 'licence' for the purposes of the similar provisions in the Housing Act 1985 s 79 must constitute a licence giving exclusive possession: see Westminster City Council v Clarke [1992] 2 AC 288, [1992] 1 All ER 695, HL. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(1) INTRODUCTORY TENANCIES/(ii) Rights of Succession/1290. Persons qualified to succeed tenant.

(ii) Rights of Succession

1290. Persons qualified to succeed tenant.

A person is qualified to succeed the tenant<sup>1</sup> under an introductory tenancy<sup>2</sup> if he occupies the dwelling house<sup>3</sup> as his only or principal home at the time of the tenant's death and either he is the tenant's spouse or civil partner, or he is another member of the tenant's family<sup>4</sup> and has resided with the tenant throughout the period of 12 months ending with the tenant's death unless, in either case, the tenant was himself a successor<sup>5</sup>.

The tenant is himself a successor if:

- 2723 (1) the tenancy vested in him by virtue of the statutory provision for succession to an introductory tenancy<sup>6</sup>;
- 2724 (2) he was a joint tenant and has become the sole tenant;
- 2725 (3) he became the tenant on the tenancy being assigned to him<sup>7</sup>; or
- 2726 (4) he became the tenant on the tenancy being vested in him on the death of the previous tenant<sup>8</sup>.

Where within six months of the coming to an end of an introductory tenancy ('the former tenancy') the tenant becomes a tenant under another introductory tenancy, and:

- 2727 (a) the tenant was a successor in relation to the former tenancy; and
- 2728 (b) under the other tenancy either the dwelling house or the landlord<sup>9</sup>, or both, are the same as under the former tenancy, the tenant is also a successor in relation to the other tenancy unless the agreement creating that tenancy otherwise provides<sup>10</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1286 note 5 ante.

2 As to election to operate an introductory tenancy regime see PARA 1286 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1286 note 6 ante.

4 A person is a member of another's family within the meaning of the Housing Act 1996 Pt V Ch I (ss 124-143) (as amended) if (1) he is the spouse or civil partner of that person, or he and that person live together as husband and wife or as if they were civil partners; or (2) he is that person's parent, grandparent, child, grandchild, brother, sister, uncle, aunt, nephew or niece; and for the purposes of head (2) supra, a relationship by marriage or civil partnership must be treated as a relationship by blood; (b) a relationship of the half-blood must be treated as a relationship of the whole blood; and (c) the stepchild of a person must be treated as his child: s 140(1), (2) (amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 81, Sch 8 para 51).

5 Housing Act 1996 s 131 (amended by the Civil Partnership (Family Proceedings and Housing Consequential Amendments) Order 2005, SI 2005/3336, art 20). It is still open to a local housing authority to consider granting a fresh tenancy in a person's name if he has been barred from succeeding by the one succession rule: see HC Official Report SC G (Housing Bill) cols 372-374, 27 February 1996. As to succession to secure tenancies see PARAS 1319-1322 post; and as to succession to assured tenancies see PARA 1084 ante. 6 Ie by virtue of the Housing Act 1996 s 133 (as amended): see PARA 1291 post.

7 As to assignment see PARA 1292 post. A tenant to whom the tenancy was assigned in pursuance of an order under the Matrimonial Causes Act 1973 s 24 (as amended) (property adjustment orders etc in connection with matrimonial proceedings) or the Matrimonial and Family Proceedings Act 1984 s 17(1) (as substituted) (property adjustment orders etc after overseas divorce etc) is a successor only if the other party to the marriage was a successor: Housing Act 1996 s 132(2). The Matrimonial Causes Act 1973 s 24 (as amended) is prospectively substituted, and the Matrimonial and Family Proceedings Act 1984 s 17(1) (as substituted) is prospectively amended, by the Family Law Act 1996 ss 15, 66(1), Sch 2 paras 1, 6, Sch 8 Pt I (as amended), as from a day to be appointed under s 67(3). At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

A tenant to whom the tenancy was assigned in pursuance of an order under the Civil Partnership Act 2004 Sch 5 Pt 2, or Sch 7 para 9(2) or (3) (property adjustment orders in connection with civil partnership proceedings or after overseas dissolution of civil partnership, etc) is a successor only if the other civil partner was a successor: Housing Act 1996 s 132(2A) (added by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 81, Sch 8, PARA 52).

INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(1) INTRODUCTORY TENANCIES/(ii) Rights of Succession/1291. Succession to introductory tenancy.

1291. Succession to introductory tenancy.

The following provisions apply where a tenant<sup>1</sup> under an introductory tenancy<sup>2</sup> dies<sup>3</sup>. Where there is a person qualified to succeed the tenant<sup>4</sup>, the tenancy vests in that person, or if there is more than one such person in the one to be preferred in accordance with the following rules:

- 2729 (1) the tenant's spouse or civil partner is to be preferred to another member of the tenant's family<sup>5</sup>;
- 2730 (2) of two or more other members of the tenant's family such of them is to be preferred as may be agreed between them or as may, where there is no such agreement, be selected by the landlord<sup>6</sup>.

Where there is no person qualified to succeed the tenant, the tenancy ceases to be an introductory tenancy:

- 2731 (a) when it is vested or otherwise disposed of in the course of the administration of the tenant's estate, unless the vesting or other disposal is in pursuance of a property adjustment order made in connection with matrimonial proceedings<sup>7</sup>, a property adjustment order after an overseas divorce, etc<sup>8</sup>, an order for financial relief against a parent<sup>9</sup> or a property adjustment order in connection with civil partnership proceedings or after overseas dissolution of a civil partnership<sup>10</sup>; or
- 2732 (b) when it is known that when the tenancy is so vested or disposed of it will not be in pursuance of such an order<sup>11</sup>.

1292. General prohibition on assignment.

An introductory tenancy<sup>1</sup> is not capable of being assigned except in certain excepted cases<sup>2</sup> and this prohibition also applies to a tenancy which is not an introductory tenancy but would be if the tenant<sup>3</sup>, or where the tenancy is a joint tenancy, at least one of the tenants, were occupying or continuing to occupy the dwelling house<sup>4</sup> as his only or principal home<sup>5</sup>.

The exceptions are:

2734 (2) an assignment to a person who would be qualified to succeed the tenant<sup>10</sup> if the tenant died immediately before the assignment<sup>11</sup>.

1293. Repairs.

6 Housing Act 1996 s 135. In exercise of the power so conferred, and prior to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State made the Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) (Amendment) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/73, which came into force on 12 February 1997: see reg 1. As to the application of the right to repair provisions to introductory tenants see reg 2; and for the relevant provisions see the Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133 (as amended); and PARA 1329 post.

INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(1) INTRODUCTORY TENANCIES/(iii) Terms of the Introductory Tenancy/1294. Variation of terms.

1294. Variation of terms.

2735 (1) by agreement between the landlord<sup>5</sup> and the tenant<sup>6</sup>;

The terms of an introductory tenancy which is a periodic tenancy<sup>10</sup> may be varied by the landlord by a notice of variation served on the tenant<sup>11</sup>. Before serving a notice of variation on the tenant, the landlord must serve on him a preliminary notice.

- 2738 (a) informing the tenant of the landlord's intention to serve a notice of variation;
- 2739 (b) specifying the proposed variation and its effect; and
- 2740 (c) inviting the tenant to comment on the proposed variation within such time, specified in the notice, as the landlord considers reasonable;

and the landlord must consider any comments made by the tenant within the specified time<sup>12</sup>.

The notice of variation must specify:

- 2741 (i) the variation effected by it; and
- 2742 (ii) the date on which it takes effect;

and the period between the date on which it is served and the date on which it takes effect must be at least four weeks or the rental period<sup>13</sup>, whichever is the longer<sup>14</sup>.

The notice of variation, when served, must be accompanied by such information as the landlord considers necessary to inform the tenant of the nature and effect of the variation<sup>15</sup>.

If, after the service of a notice of variation, the tenant, before the date on which the variation is to take effect, gives a valid notice to quit, the notice of variation does not take effect unless the tenant, with the written agreement of the landlord, withdraws his notice to quit before that date<sup>16</sup>.

1 The statutory definition of 'term' (see PARA 1302 note 8 post) does not appear to apply for these purposes.

2 For the meaning of 'introductory tenancy' see PARA 1286 ante.

3 For these purposes, and for the purposes of the Housing Act 1985 s 103 (as applied to introductory tenancies) (see the text and notes 10-16 infra), references to variation include addition and deletion; and the conversion of a monthly tenancy into a weekly tenancy, or a weekly tenancy into a monthly tenancy, is a variation of a term of the tenancy, but a variation of the premises let under a tenancy is not: s 102(2) (ss 102(1), (2), (3)(a), 103 applied to introductory tenancies by s 111A (added by the Housing Act 1996 (Consequential Amendments) Order 1997, SI 1997/74, art 2, Schedule para 3(i)).

4 The mere circulation of a booklet to tenants is not sufficient to vary the terms of the tenancy: see Palmer v Metropolitan Borough of Sandwell (1987) 20 HLR 74, [1987] 2 EGLR 79, CA.

5 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 post.

6 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 post.

8 In accordance with the Housing Act 1985 s 103 ((see the text and notes 10-16 infra).

9 Ibid s 102(1) (amended by the Local Government Finance (Housing) (Consequential Amendments) Order 1993, SI 1993/651, art 2(1), Sch 2 para 13; applied to introductory tenancies (see note 3 supra)). The Housing Act 1985 s 102 (as so amended and applied) does not apply to a term of a tenancy which is implied by an enactment: s 102(3)(a) (as so applied). See also R (on the application of Kilby) v Basildon District Council [2006] EWHC 1892 (Admin), (2006) Times, 21 August, [2006] All ER (D) 372 (Jul) (a case on secure tenancies) where it was held that a clause of a tenancy agreement whereby it was agreed that the authority could only vary the terms of the agreement if tenants' representatives agreed to the change was void as an unlawful fetter on the statutory powers of variation in the 1985 Act).

10 As to periodic tenancies see PARA 233 ante.

11 Housing Act 1985 s 103(1) (as applied: see note 3 supra). Section 103 does not apply to a term of a tenancy which is implied by an enactment: s 102(3)(a) (as so applied).

12 Ibid s 103(2) (as applied: see note 3 supra). Section 103(2) (as so applied) does not apply, however, to a variation of the rent, or of payments in respect of services or facilities provided by the landlord or of payments in respect of rates: s 103(3) (as so applied). As to the abolition of domestic rates see PARA 521 ante.

13 The statutory definition of 'rental period' (see PARA 1338 note 8 post) does not appear to apply for these purposes.

1295. Provision of information about tenancies and heating charges.

Every local housing authority<sup>1</sup> or housing action trust<sup>2</sup> which lets<sup>3</sup> dwelling houses<sup>4</sup> under introductory tenancies<sup>5</sup> must from time to time publish information about its introductory tenancies, in such form as it considers best suited to explain in simple terms, and, so far as it considers it appropriate, the effect of the express terms<sup>6</sup> of its introductory tenancies, the provisions of the Housing Act 1996 relating to introductory tenancies<sup>7</sup> and the provisions of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1985 relating to the landlord's repairing obligations<sup>8</sup>, and must ensure that so far as is reasonably practicable the information so published is kept up to date<sup>9</sup>. The landlord<sup>10</sup> under an introductory tenancy must supply the tenant<sup>11</sup> with a copy of the information for introductory tenants published by it under these provisions and a written statement of the terms of the tenancy, so far as they are neither expressed in the lease<sup>12</sup> or written tenancy agreement, if any, nor implied by law<sup>13</sup>. The statement so required must be supplied on the grant of the tenancy or as soon as practicable afterwards<sup>14</sup>.

The statutory provisions relating to information about heating charges to be provided to secure tenants<sup>15</sup> apply in relation to introductory tenancies as they apply in relation to secure tenancies<sup>16</sup>.

1296. Consultation on matters of housing management.

The following provisions apply in relation to every local housing authority<sup>1</sup> and housing action trust<sup>2</sup> which lets<sup>3</sup> dwelling houses<sup>4</sup> under introductory tenancies<sup>5</sup> and which is a landlord authority for the purposes of the statutory provisions<sup>6</sup> relating to secure tenancies<sup>7</sup>. The authority or trust must maintain such arrangements as it considers appropriate to enable those of its introductory tenants who are likely to be substantially affected by a relevant matter of housing management to be informed of the proposals of the authority or trust in respect of the matter, and to make their views known to the authority or trust within a specified period, and the authority or trust must, before making a decision on the matter, consider any representations made to it in accordance with those arrangements<sup>8</sup>.

A matter is one of housing management if, in the opinion of the authority or trust concerned, it relates to:

- 2743 (1) the management, improvement, maintenance or demolition of dwelling houses let by the authority or trust under introductory or secure tenancies; or
- 2744 (2) the provision of services or amenities<sup>9</sup> in connection with such dwelling houses, but not so far as it relates to the rent payable under an introductory or secure tenancy or to charges for services or facilities provided by the authority or trust<sup>10</sup>; and a matter is relevant if, in the opinion of the authority or trust concerned, it represents a new programme of maintenance, improvement or demolition, or a change in the practice or policy of the authority or trust, and is likely substantially to affect either its introductory tenants as a whole or a group of them who form a distinct social group or occupy dwelling houses which constitute a distinct class (whether by reference to the kind of dwelling house, or the housing estate or other larger area in which they are situated)<sup>11</sup>.

The authority or trust must publish details of the arrangements which it makes under these provisions, and a copy of the documents so published must be made available at its principal office for inspection at all reasonable hours, without charge, by members of the public, and be given, on payment of a reasonable fee, to any member of the public who asks for one<sup>12</sup>.

1297. In general.

The landlord<sup>1</sup> may only bring an introductory tenancy<sup>2</sup> to an end by obtaining an order of the court<sup>3</sup> for the possession of the dwelling house<sup>4</sup>. The court must make such an order unless the provisions set out below<sup>5</sup> apply<sup>6</sup>.

The court must not entertain proceedings for the possession of a dwelling house let<sup>7</sup> under an introductory tenancy unless the landlord has served on the tenant<sup>8</sup> a notice of proceedings complying with the following provisions<sup>9</sup>. The notice must:

- 2745 (1) state that the court will be asked to make an order for the possession of the dwelling house<sup>10</sup>;
- 2746 (2) set out the reasons for the landlord's decision to apply for such an order<sup>11</sup>;
- 2747 (3) specify a date after which proceedings for the possession of the dwelling house may be begun, which must not be earlier than the date on which the tenancy could otherwise<sup>12</sup> be brought to an end by notice to quit given by the landlord on the same date as the notice of proceedings<sup>13</sup>;
- 2748 (4) inform the tenant of his right to request a review of the landlord's decision to seek an order for possession and of the time within which such a request must be made<sup>14</sup>; and
- 2749 (5) inform the tenant that if he needs help or advice about the notice, and what to do about it, he should take it immediately to a citizens' advice bureau, a housing aid centre, a law centre or a solicitor<sup>15</sup>.

The court must not entertain any proceedings for possession of the dwelling house unless they are begun after the date specified in the notice of proceedings<sup>16</sup>.

Where the court makes an order for possession of the dwelling house, the tenancy comes to an end on the date on which the tenant is to give up possession in pursuance of the order<sup>17</sup>. Thus where the local housing authority is entitled to possession, the court has no discretion and cannot make a suspended possession order.

2 As to elections to introduce an introductory tenancy regime see PARA 1286 ante.

3 A county court has jurisdiction to determine questions arising under the Housing Act 1996 Pt V Ch I (ss 124-143) (as amended) and to entertain proceedings brought thereunder and claims, for whatever amount, in connection with an introductory tenancy: s 138(1). If a person takes proceedings in the High Court which, by virtue of s 138, he could have taken in the county court, he is not entitled to recover any costs: s 138(3).

A decision to terminate an introductory tenancy is subject to judicial review. As to whether the tenant can raise, in county court possession proceedings, an issue such as the lawfulness of a local housing authority's rent increases see Wandsworth London Borough Council v Winder [1985] AC 461, [1984] 3 All ER 976, HL (a case involving a secure tenant). It has been held that a possession order does not contravene the right to a fair trial under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)), art 6(1), now set out in the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1(3), Sch 1 Pt I art 6 or the right to respect for private and family life under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950) art 8 now set out in the Human Rights Act 1998 Sch 1 Pt I art 8: R (on the application of McLellan) v Bracknell Forest Borough Council, Reigate and Banstead Borough Council v Benfield [2001] EWCA Civ 1510, [2002] QB 1129, [2002] 1 All ER 899, affg R (on the application of Johns) v Bracknell Forest District Council [2000] All ER (D) 2448; and see R (on the application of McDonagh) v Salisbury District Council [2001] EWHC 567 (Admin), (2001) Times, 15 August, [2001] All ER (D) 58 (Jul). As to those Convention rights see PARA 46 ante. Courts ought to proceed on the assumption that domestic law strikes a fair balance and is compatible with the tenant's Convention rights (Kay v Lambeth London Borough Council, Leeds City Council v Price [2006] UKHL 10 at [39], [2006] 4 All ER 128, [2006] 2 FCR 20 per Lord Bingham of Cornhill, with whom the majority concurred on this point); but cf Merton London Borough Council v Williams [2002] EWCA Civ 980, [2003] HLR 257, [2002] All ER (D) 263 (Jul) (not cited to the court in Kay v Lambeth London Borough Council, Leeds City Council v Price supra) (the court has a general duty in possession proceedings relating to an introductory tenancy to consider the procedure which has been followed, and to have in mind both the statutory procedure and the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms. If a tenant is protesting that an order for possession would be wrong for some reason, and some apparent basis exists for saying that there has been a serious flaw in the procedure, including the reasons expressed for any review decision, the court ought to raise the possible flaw of its own motion and give both parties the opportunity to consider it).

4 Housing Act 1996 s 127(1). For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1286 note 6 ante. Proceedings for possession under ss 127, 128 cannot be begun after the expiry of the introductory period, since the tenancy will have become a secure tenancy: see eg Salford City Council v Garner [2004] EWCA Civ 364, [2004] HLR 572, [2004] All ER (D) 465 (Feb). As to the procedure on a claim for possession see generally para 656 et seq ante.

5 le the Housing Act 1996 s 128: see the text and notes 7-16 infra.

6 Ibid s 127(2). The mandatory terms in which s 127(2) is drafted have been judicially described as 'a remarkable constriction of the court's powers'; the function of the court is reduced to that of ascertaining that it has jurisdiction to entertain the proceedings and once it has done so it is required to make a possession order and has no discretion in the matter at all: see Manchester City Council v Cochrane [1999] 1 WLR 809 at 819, [1999] LGR 626 at 636, CA, per Sir John Knox. The court has, however, a general duty to consider the procedure which has been followed in the light of the statutory requirements and the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950): see Merton London Borough Council v Williams [2002] EWCA Civ 980, [2003] HLR 257, [2002] All ER (D) 263 (Jul), cited in note 3 supra; but cf Kay v Lambeth London Borough Council, Leeds City Council v Price [2006] UKHL 10 at [39], [2006] 4 All ER 128, [2006] 2 FCR 20.

8 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1286 note 5 ante.

9 Housing Act 1996 s 128(1). A landlord need not give a second notice before seeking a court order following resumption of possession proceedings previously suspended (see R (on the application of Stone) v Cardiff City Council [2002] EWCA Civ 298, [2003] HLR 678, [2002] All ER (D) 379 (Jan), cited in note 17 infra); but cf Forbes v Lambeth London Borough Council, R (on the application of Forbes) v Lambeth London Borough Council [2003] EWHC 222 (Admin), [2003] HLR 702, [2003] All ER (D) 236 (Feb) (letter, sent to tenant by landlord, stating that, for time being, it would not proceed with possession proceedings, even though it had already served notice for possession, had effect of quashing original notice and rendering subsequent order for possession null and void).

12 le apart from ibid Pt V Ch I (as amended).

13 Ibid s 128(4).

14 Ibid s 128(6). As to such reviews see PARA 1298 post. Where additional grounds for seeking possession are to be taken into account on a review, the correct procedure is normally to serve a fresh notice under s 128 specifying those grounds, but a failure to do so will not necessarily render the review unfair: see R (on the application of Laporte) v Newham London Borough Council [2004] EWHC 227 (Admin), [2004] All ER (D) 309 (Jan).

15 Housing Act 1996 s 128(7).

17 Ibid s 127(3). Where on a review hearing a local housing authority agrees that the tenant can remain in the property provided that arrears of rent are paid off, but that otherwise possession proceedings will be brought, and the arrears are not paid, there is no need for the authority to issue a fresh notice under s 128 and it can rely on its original notice; the position of a landlord ought not be prejudiced simply because it has chosen to make allowances for a tenant's difficulties and defer proceedings to bring the tenancy immediately to an end: see R (on the application of Stone) v Cardiff City Council [2002] EWCA Civ 298, [2003] HLR 678, [2002] All ER (D) 379 (Jan).

INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(1) INTRODUCTORY TENANCIES/(v) Proceedings for Possession/1298. Review of decision to seek possession.

1298. Review of decision to seek possession.

A request for review of the landlord's<sup>1</sup> decision to seek an order for possession of a dwelling house<sup>2</sup> let<sup>3</sup> under an introductory tenancy<sup>4</sup> must be made before the end of the period of 14 days beginning with the day on which the notice of proceedings is served<sup>5</sup>. On a request being duly made to it, the landlord must review its decision<sup>6</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>7</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>8</sup> may make provision by regulations as to the procedure to be followed in connection with such a review and nothing in the following provisions affects the generality of this power<sup>9</sup>. Provision may be made by regulations requiring the decision on review to be made by a person of appropriate seniority who was not involved in the original decision, and as to the circumstances in which the person concerned is entitled to an oral hearing, and whether and by whom he may be represented at such a hearing<sup>10</sup>.

The review of the decision to seek an order for possession of a dwelling house let under an introductory tenancy is not to be by way of an oral hearing unless the tenant informs the landlord that he wishes to have such a hearing before the end of the time permitted to request a review of that decision<sup>11</sup>. The review must be carried out by a person who was not involved in the decision to apply for an order for possession<sup>12</sup> and where the review of a decision made by an officer is also to be made by an officer, that officer must be someone who is senior to the officer who made the original decision<sup>13</sup>.

If there is not to be a hearing the tenant may make representations in writing in connection with the review and such representations must be considered by the landlord who must inform the tenant of the date by which such representations must be received, which must not be earlier than five clear days after receipt of this information by the tenant<sup>14</sup>.

Subject as follows, the procedure in connection with a review by way of hearing is to be such as the person hearing the review determines<sup>15</sup>. However, a tenant who has requested a hearing has the right to:

- 2750 (1) be heard and to be accompanied and may be represented by another person whether that person is professionally qualified or not<sup>16</sup>;
- 2751 (2) call persons to give evidence;
- 2752 (3) put questions to any person who gives evidence at the hearing; and
- 2753 (4) make representations in writing<sup>17</sup>.

The landlord must give the tenant notice of the date, time and place of the hearing, which must be not less than five days after receipt of the request for a hearing<sup>18</sup>. If the tenant has not been given such notice, the hearing may only proceed with the consent of the tenant or his representative<sup>19</sup>. If, after having been duly given notice, any person fails to appear at the hearing, the person conducting the review may, having regard to all the circumstances including any explanation offered for the absence, proceed with the hearing notwithstanding his absence, or give such directions with a view to the conduct of the further review as that person may think proper<sup>20</sup>.

A tenant may apply to the landlord requesting a postponement of the hearing and the landlord may grant or refuse the application as it sees fit<sup>21</sup>. A hearing may be adjourned by the person hearing the review at any time during the hearing on the application of the tenant, his representative, or at the motion of the person hearing the review and, if a hearing is adjourned part heard and after the adjournment the person or persons hearing the review differ from those at the first hearing<sup>22</sup>, proceedings must be by way of a complete rehearing of the case<sup>23</sup>.

Where more than one person is conducting the review, the hearing may be proceeded with in the absence of one of the persons who is to determine the review provided the tenant, or his representative, agree<sup>24</sup>.

The landlord must notify the person concerned of the decision on the review and, if the decision is to confirm the original decision, the landlord must also notify him of the reasons for the decision<sup>25</sup>.

The review must be carried out and the tenant notified before the date specified in the notice of proceedings as the date after which proceedings for the possession of the dwelling house may be begun<sup>26</sup>.

1299. Effect of beginning proceedings for possession.

Where the landlord<sup>1</sup> has begun proceedings for the possession of a dwelling house<sup>2</sup> let<sup>3</sup> under an introductory tenancy<sup>4</sup> and the trial period<sup>5</sup> ends, or any of the specified events<sup>6</sup> occurs, then subject as follows, the tenancy remains an introductory tenancy until the tenancy comes to an end<sup>7</sup> on the date on which the tenant is to give up possession in pursuance of an order of the court, or until the proceedings are otherwise finally determined<sup>8</sup>. If:

- 2754 (1) a person or body other than a local housing authority<sup>9</sup> or housing action trust<sup>10</sup> becomes the landlord under the tenancy; or
- 2755 (2) the election in force when the tenancy was entered into or adopted is revoked; or
- 2756 (3) the tenancy ceases to be an introductory tenancy by virtue of certain statutory provisions<sup>11</sup> relating to succession<sup>12</sup>, the tenancy thereupon ceases to be an introductory tenancy but the landlord (or, as the case may be, the new landlord) may continue the proceedings, and if he or it does so, the statutory provisions relating to termination by the landlord<sup>13</sup> apply as if the tenancy had remained an introductory tenancy<sup>14</sup>. Where a tenancy so ceases to be an introductory tenancy and becomes a secure tenancy<sup>15</sup>, the tenant is not entitled to exercise the right to buy<sup>16</sup> unless and until the proceedings are finally determined on terms such that he is not required to give up possession of the dwelling house<sup>17</sup>.

(2) SECURE TENANCIES

(i) Tenancies which are Secure Tenancies

1300. Meaning of 'secure tenancy'.

The landlord condition is that the interest belongs to one of the following authorities or bodies:

- 2757 (1) a local authority<sup>8</sup>;
  - 2758 (2) a new town corporation<sup>9</sup>;
  - 2759 (3) a housing action trust<sup>10</sup>;
  - 2760 (4) an urban development corporation<sup>11</sup>;
  - 2761 (5) a housing co-operative<sup>12</sup> where the dwelling house is comprised in a housing co-operative agreement<sup>13</sup>;
  - 2762 (6) where the tenancy was created before 15 January 1989:
- 167
- 1. (a) the relevant authority<sup>14</sup>;
  - 2. (b) a housing trust<sup>15</sup> which is a charity<sup>16</sup>;
  - 3. (c) a registered social landlord other than a co-operative housing association<sup>17</sup>;
  - 4. (d) a co-operative housing association which is not a registered social landlord<sup>18</sup>.
- 168

The tenant condition is that the tenant is an individual and occupies the dwelling house as his only or principal home<sup>19</sup> or, where the tenancy is a joint tenancy, that each of the joint tenants is an individual and at least one of them occupies the dwelling house as his only or principal home<sup>20</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'lease' and 'tenancy' have the same meaning; and both expressions include a sublease or subtenancy and an agreement for a lease or tenancy or sublease or subtenancy: Housing Act 1985 s 621(1), (2). The expressions 'lessor' and 'lessee' and 'landlord' and 'tenant', and references to letting, to the grant of a lease or to covenants or terms, are to be construed accordingly: s 621(3).

The provisions of Pt IV (ss 79-117) (as amended) (see the text and notes 2-12 infra; and PARA 1301 et seq post) apply in relation to a licence to occupy a dwelling house, whether or not granted for a consideration, as they apply in relation to a tenancy: s 79(3). Section 79(3) does not, however, apply to a licence granted as a temporary expedient to a person who entered the dwelling house or any other land as a trespasser, whether or not, before the grant of that licence, another licence to occupy that or another dwelling house had been granted to him: s 79(4). For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see note 2 infra. A licence must constitute a licence giving exclusive possession: Family Housing Association v Miah (1982) 5 HLR 94, CA; Kensington Royal Borough Council v Hayden (1984) 17 HLR 114, CA; Westminster City Council v Clarke [1992] 2 AC 288, [1992] 1 All ER 695, HL (clarified in Uratemp Ventures Ltd v Collins [2001] UKHL 43, [2002] 1 AC 301, [2002] 1 All ER 46 (a decision on the meaning of 'dwelling house' for the purposes of the Housing Act 1988 s 1 (as amended) (see PARA 1018 ante)); Parkins v Westminster City Council (1997) 30 HLR 894, [1998] 1 EGLR 22, CA. A person occupying pending determination of a right of occupation and court proceedings does not have a 'licence' for these purposes: Hammersmith and Fulham London Borough Council v Harrison [1981] 2 All ER 588, sub nom Harrison v London Borough of Hammersmith and Fulham [1981] 1 WLR 650, CA. See also Restormel Borough Council v Buscombe (1982) 14 HLR 91, CA ('tolerated trespassers'); Camden London Borough Council v Shortlife Community Housing Ltd (1992) 25 HLR 330 ('shortlife accommodation').

2 For these purposes, a dwelling house may be a house or part of a house; and land let together with a dwelling house is treated as part of the dwelling house unless the land is agricultural land, as defined in the General Rate Act 1967 s 26(3)(a) (as amended; saved for these purposes) (see PARA 867 note 2 ante), exceeding two acres: Housing Act 1985 s 112(1), (2). Cf the Rent Act 1977 ss 1, 26; and PARAS 818, 867 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'let as a separate dwelling' cf ibid s 1; and PARAS 819-823 ante. See also Tomkins v Basildon District Council [2002] EWCA Civ 876, [2002] 3 EGLR 33, [2002] All ER (D) 179 (Jun); Parkins v Westminster City Council (1997) 30 HLR 894, [1998] 1 EGLR 22, CA. Accommodation with shared kitchen facilities is not 'let as a separate dwelling': Central YMCA Housing Association Ltd v Saunders (1990) 23 HLR 212, CA. See also Central YMCA Housing Association Ltd & St Giles Hotel Ltd v Goodman (1991) 24 HLR 109, CA. Where there is a tenancy for mixed business and residential purposes, a unilateral change of use which takes the tenancy outside the protection of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 Pt II (ss 23-46) (as amended): see PARA 701 et seq ante) does not render the tenancy a secure tenancy for the purposes of the Housing Act 1985: Webb and Barrett v London Borough of Barnet (1988) 21 HLR 228, [1989] 1 EGLR 49, CA.

4 For the meaning of 'at any time when' cf the Rent Act 1977 ss 14-16 (as amended); and PARA 884 note 3 ante.

5 le the condition described in the Housing Act 1985 s 80 (as amended) as the landlord condition: see heads (1)-(6) in the text. The landlord condition is not satisfied when the interest of the landlord belongs to two authorities or bodies jointly one of which is one of the specified authorities and one of which is not: R v Plymouth City Council and Cornwall County Council, ex p Freeman (1987) 19 HLR 328, CA. Nor is the landlord condition satisfied in relation to a sublease where the local authority is the head lessor but the intermediate lessor does not satisfy the landlord condition: Lambeth London Borough Council v Kay [2004] EWCA Civ 926, [2005] QB 352, [2004] All ER (D) 344 (Jul); affd [2006] UKHL 10, [2006] 4 All ER 128, [2006] 2 FCR 20. As to the continuation of a secure tenancy despite the disposal and subsequent leaseback of the public sector landlord's interest in the premises under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Pt I Ch I (ss 1-38) see s 37, Sch 10 para 2(2) (as amended); and PARA 1668 post.

6 le the condition described in the Housing Act 1985 s 81 as the tenant condition: see the text and notes 19-20 infra.

7 Ibid s 79(1). Section 79(1) has effect subject to (1) the exceptions in Sch 1 (as amended) (see PARA 1303 et seq post); (2) s 89(3), (4) (as amended) (see PARA 1321 post) and s 90(3), (4) (as amended) (see PARA 1322 post); and (3) s 91(2) (see PARA 1323 post) and s 93(2) (see PARA 1326 post): s 79(2).

8 For these purposes, 'local authority' means a county, county borough, district or London borough council, the Common Council of the City of London or the Council of the Isles of Scilly and in the Housing Act 1985 s 80(1) (as amended) (see head (1) in the text), s 157(1) (as amended) (see PARA 1899 post) s 171(2) (as amended) (see PARA 1798 post), Sch 1 para 2(1) (as amended) (see PARA 1306 post), Sch 2, Grounds 7, 12 (as amended) (see PARAS 1364, 1371 post), Sch 3, Ground 5 (as amended) (see PARA 1325 post), Sch 4 para 7(1) (as amended) (see PARA 1823 post) and Sch 5 para 5(1) (as amended) (see PARA 1812 post) includes the Broads Authority, a police authority established under the Police Act 1996 s 3 (see POLICE vol 36(1) (2007 Reissue) PARA 139) and a joint authority established by the Local Government Act 1985 Pt IV (ss 23-42) (as amended) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 47 et seq) and the London Fire and Emergency Planning Authority (see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 217); Housing Act 1985 s 4(e) (amended by the Norfolk and Suffolk Broads Act 1988 s 21, Sch 6 para 25; the Education Reform Act 1988 s 237(2), Sch 13 Pt I; the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 s 22(2), Sch 8 para 5(3); the Police and Magistrates' Courts Act 1994 ss 43, 93, Sch 4 Pt I para 58, Sch 9 Pt I; the Police Act 1996 s 103, Sch 7 para 1(2)(v); the Police Act 1997 s 134(1), Sch 9 para 49; the Greater London Authority Act 1999 ss 325, 328, 423, Sch 27, PARA 51, Sch 29 Pt I para 42, Sch 34 Pt VIII; the Criminal Justice and Police Act 2001 ss 128(1), 137, Sch 6 Pt 3 para 67, Sch 7 Pt 5(1); the Police Reform Act 2002 ss 100(1), 107(2), Sch 8). As to the counties in England and counties and county boroughs in Wales and their councils see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARAS 24 et seq, 37 et seq; as to districts in England and their councils see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 17 et seq; as to the London boroughs see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 30; as to the Common Council of the City of London see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 51 et seq; as to the Council of the Isles of Scilly see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 36; and as to the Broads Authority see WATER AND WATERWAYS vol 101 (2009) PARA 734. The former body corporate known as the Residuary Body for Wales (Corff Gweddilliol Cymru) was to be treated as a local authority for the purposes of the Housing Act 1985 s 80 (as amended) (see the Local Government (Wales) Act 1994 Sch 13 para 21(c)); and a residuary body within the meaning of the Local Government Act 1985 was to be treated as a local authority for the purposes of the Housing Act 1985 Pt IV (ss 79-117) (as amended) and Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended): see PARA 1795 et seq post) (see the Local Government Act 1985 s 57(7), Sch 13 para 22 (substituted by the Housing (Consequential Provisions) Act 1985 s 4, Sch 2 para 61)). 9 For these purposes, 'new town corporation' means a development corporation or the Commission for the New Towns and 'development corporation' means a development corporation established by an order made, or having effect as if made, under the New Towns Act 1981: Housing Act 1985 s 4(b), (c). As to the Commission for the New Towns (now part of English Partnerships) see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1383 et seq; and as to new town development corporations see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1322 et seq.

10 For these purposes, 'housing action trust' means a housing action trust established under the Housing Act 1988 Pt III (ss 60-92) (as amended) (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 319 et seq); Housing Act 1985 s 4(f) (added by the Housing Act 1988 s 62(7)).

11 For these purposes, 'urban development corporation' means an urban development corporation established under the Local Government, Planning and Land Act 1980 Pt XVI (ss 134-172) (as amended) (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1426 et seq); Housing Act 1985 s 4(d).

12 le a housing co-operative within the meaning of ibid s 27B (as added and amended) (agreements under certain superseded provisions).

13 Ibid s 80(1), (4) (amended by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 24(2), Sch 5 Pt II para 26; the Housing Act 1988 s 83(1), (2), 140(2), Sch 18; the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 152, Sch 18 Pt IV). As to secure tenancies created on or after 15 January 1989 see further PARA 1301 post; and as to the transfer of existing tenancies from the public to the private sector see PARA 1015 ante.

15 For the meaning of 'housing trust' see ibid s 6; and HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 12.

16 In the Housing Act 1985 'charity' now has the same meaning as in the Charities Act 1993: see the Housing Act 1985 s 622(1) (definition amended by the Charities Act 1993 s 98(1), Sch 6 para 30); and CHARITIES vol 8 (2010) PARA 1.

17 'Co-operative housing association' means a fully mutual housing association which is a society registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act 1965; and 'fully mutual', in relation to a housing association, means that the rules of the association restrict membership to persons who are tenants or prospective tenants of the association, and preclude the granting or assignment of tenancies to persons other than members: Housing Act 1985 s 5(2). As to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11.

18 See ibid s 80(1), (2) (as originally enacted; s 80(2) repealed with savings by the Housing Act 1988 s 140, Sch 18 and amended by the Housing Act 1996 (Consequential Provisions) Order 1996, SI 1996/2325, art 5, Sch 2 para 14(8)). If a co-operative housing association ceases to be a registered social landlord, it must, within the period of 21 days beginning with the date on which it ceases to be a registered social landlord, notify each of its tenants who thereby becomes a secure tenant, in writing, that he has become a secure tenant: Housing Act 1985 s 80(3) (as so amended).

The repeals in the Housing Act 1985 s 80 effected by the Housing Act 1988 (see note 8 supra): (1) have effect, subject to the Housing Act 1988 s 35(5) (as amended) (see PARA 1301 note 15 post), in relation to any tenancy or licence entered into before 15 January 1989 unless, immediately before that time, the landlord or, as the case may be, the licensor is a body which, in accordance with the repeals, would cease to be within the Housing Act 1985 s 80 (now as amended); (2) do not have effect in relation to a tenancy or licence entered into on or after 15 January 1989 if the tenancy or licence falls within any of the Housing Act 1988 s 35(4)(c)-(f) (see PARA 1301 post at heads (3)-(6) in the text); and (3) do not have effect in relation to a tenancy while it is a housing association tenancy: s 140(2), Sch 18 para 4 (amended by the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 s 194(1), Sch 11 para 112). For the meaning of 'housing association tenancy' see PARA 1013 note 3 ante. On its true construction, the Housing Act 1988 Sch 18 para 4(c) creates the possibility of a housing association tenancy becoming a secure tenancy in the future if the landlord's interest should become vested in a non-mutual association: see Bhai v Black Roof Community Housing Association Ltd [2001] 2 All ER 865, [2000] All ER (D) 1668, CA.

Where an authority or body within the Housing Act 1985 s 80 (as amended) becomes the landlord of a dwelling house subject to a statutory tenancy, the tenancy is treated for all purposes as if it were a contractual tenancy on the same terms; and the provisions of Pt IV (as amended) (see PARA 1302 et seq post) apply accordingly: s 109A (added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 24(1)(b), Sch 5 para 2). For these purposes, 'statutory tenancy' and 'statutory tenant' mean a statutory tenancy or statutory tenant within the meaning of the Rent Act 1977 (see PARA 831 ante) or the Rent (Agriculture) Act 1976 (see PARAS 1146-1149 ante): Housing Act 1985 s 622.

19 For the meaning of 'only or principal home' see Crawley Borough Council v Sawyer (1987) 86 LGR 629, 20 HLR 98, CA (an individual may occupy as his home more than one dwelling at a time). Physical presence is not, therefore, necessary to occupation; but where the whole premises are sublet, the tenant condition is no longer fulfilled: see eg Lewisham London Borough Council v Robinson [2003] EWHC 2630 (Ch), [2003] All ER (D) 239 (Oct). See also Notting Hill Housing Trust v Etoria [1989] CLY 1912 (a convicted prisoner serving a life sentence with a possibility of early release on licence who had left his brother in occupation of his flat as caretaker had demonstrated an intention to return; held that he continued to enjoy a secure tenancy). Cf Braintree District Council v Vincent [2004] EWCA Civ 415, [2004] All ER (D) 167 (Mar) (elderly tenant admitted to hospital and from there to long-term residence in a nursing home; held that the tenant condition in relation to her bungalow was no longer fulfilled) and Hammersmith and Fulham London Borough Council v Clarke [2000] All ER (D) 1893, CA (tenant's furniture remained in the property and she spent time living there between spells at a nursing home; held that the tenant retained an enduring intention to return to the house).

20 Housing Act 1985 s 81. The tenant condition cannot be fulfilled by a corporate body; thus, where a corporate body is a licensee of the landlord, a person occupying the premises by virtue of a licence granted by that corporate body cannot be a secure tenant: Shepherds Bush Housing Association Ltd v HATS Co-operative (1991) 24 HLR 176, CA.

- 2764 (2) the interest of the landlord belongs to a housing co-operative<sup>9</sup> and the tenancy or licence is of a dwelling house<sup>10</sup> comprised in a housing co-operative agreement<sup>11</sup>; or
- 2765 (3) it is entered into in pursuance of a contract made before 15 January 1989; or

- 6. (b) the tenancy or licence is of the premises which constitute the suitable accommodation as to which the court was so satisfied; and
- 7. (c) in the proceedings for possession the court considered that, in the circumstances, the grant of an assured tenancy<sup>13</sup> would not afford the required security and accordingly directed that the tenancy or licence would be a secure tenancy; or TENANCIES/(i) Tenancies which are Secure Tenancies/1302. Periodic tenancy arising on termination of fixed term.

1302. Periodic tenancy arising on termination of fixed term.

Where a secure tenancy<sup>1</sup> ('the first tenancy') is a tenancy for a term certain<sup>2</sup> and comes to an end by effluxion of time or by an order of the court pursuant to a right of re-entry or forfeiture<sup>3</sup>, a periodic tenancy<sup>4</sup> of the same dwelling house<sup>5</sup> arises unless the tenant<sup>6</sup> is granted another secure tenancy of the same dwelling house, whether a tenancy for a term certain or a periodic tenancy, to begin on the coming to an end of the first tenancy<sup>7</sup>.

Where a periodic tenancy so arises:

2769 (1) the periods of the tenancy are the same as those for which rent was last payable under the first tenancy; and

2770 (2) the parties and the terms<sup>8</sup> of the same as those of the first tenancy at the end of it; except that the terms are confined to those which are compatible with a periodic tenancy and do not include any provision for re-entry or forfeiture<sup>9</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante.

2 As to the nature of a term certain see PARA 235 et seq ante.

3 I.e. an order of the court under the Housing Act 1985 s 82(3): see PARA 1350 post. As to the court having jurisdiction see PARA 1385 post.

8 For these purposes, 'term', in relation to a secure tenancy, includes a condition of the tenancy: ibid s 116.

9 Ibid s 86(2). A tenancy which is a secure tenancy within the meaning of Pt IV (ss 79-117) (as amended) and which is not capable of being assigned except in the cases mentioned in s 91(3) (as amended) (see PARA 1323 post) would normally be excluded from a bankrupt's estate: see the Insolvency Act 1986 s 283(3A) (as added); para 598 note 2 ante; and BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 216. ## (ii) Exceptions

1303. Long tenancies.

For these purposes, the following are long tenancies:

- 2771 (1) a tenancy granted for a term certain<sup>4</sup> exceeding 21 years, whether or not it is, or may become, terminable before the end of that term by notice given by the tenant<sup>5</sup> or by re-entry or forfeiture<sup>6</sup>;
- 2772 (2) a tenancy for a term fixed by law under a grant with a covenant or obligation for perpetual renewal<sup>7</sup>, other than a tenancy by sub-demise from one which is not a long tenancy;
- 2773 (3) any tenancy granted in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>8</sup> or the right<sup>9</sup> to acquire<sup>10</sup>.

A tenancy granted so as to become terminable by notice after a death<sup>11</sup> is not, however, a long tenancy for these purposes unless:

- 2774 (a) it is granted by a housing association which at the time of the grant is a registered social landlord<sup>12</sup>;
- 2775 (b) it is granted at a premium calculated by reference to a percentage of the value of the dwelling house<sup>13</sup> or of the cost of providing it; and
- 2776 (c) at the time it is granted it complies with the requirements of the regulations relating to conditions for excluding shared ownership leases from the right to enfranchise<sup>14</sup> or, in the case of a tenancy granted before any such regulations were brought into force, with the first such regulations to be in force<sup>15</sup>.

1304. Introductory tenancies.

A tenancy<sup>1</sup> is not a secure tenancy<sup>2</sup> if it is an introductory tenancy<sup>3</sup> or a tenancy which has ceased to be an introductory tenancy:

- 2777 (1) by virtue of its disposal on the death of the tenant to a non-qualifying person<sup>4</sup>; or 2778 (2) by virtue of the tenant, or in the case of a joint tenancy every tenant, ceasing to occupy the dwelling house as his only or principal home<sup>5</sup>.

1305 Demoted tenancies

NOTES--Certain functions under provisions mentioned in this paragraph are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/(ii) Exceptions/1306. Premises occupied in connection with employment.

1306. Premises occupied in connection with employment.

2780 (2) if the tenant is a member of a police force<sup>14</sup> and the dwelling house is provided<sup>15</sup> for him free of rent and rates<sup>16</sup>;

- 2781 (3) if the tenant is an employee of a fire and rescue authority<sup>17</sup> and his contract of employment requires him to live in close proximity to a particular fire station and the dwelling house was let to him by the authority in consequence of that requirement<sup>18</sup>;
- 2782 (4) if, within the period of three years immediately preceding the grant, the conditions in heads (1), (2) or (3) above have been satisfied with respect to a tenancy of the dwelling house and before the grant the landlord notified the tenant in writing of the circumstances in which this exception applies and that in its opinion the proposed tenancy would fall within this exception<sup>19</sup>.

Except where the landlord is a local housing authority<sup>20</sup>, a tenancy under head (4) above becomes a secure tenancy when the periods, during which the conditions mentioned in head (1), head (2) or head (3) above are not satisfied with respect to the tenancy, amount in aggregate to more than three years<sup>21</sup>; and where the landlord is a local housing authority, a tenancy under any of heads (1) to (4) above becomes a secure tenancy if the authority notifies the tenant that the tenancy is to be regarded as a secure tenancy<sup>22</sup>.

2 The subject, in the case of heads (1)-(3) in the text, to the Housing Act 1985 s 79(2)(a), Sch 1 para 2(4A) (as added) and in the case of head (4) in the text to Sch 1 para 2(4A), (4B) (as added).

3 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

10 As to voluntary aided schools see EDUCATION vol 15(1) (2006 Reissue) PARA 104.

11 For these purposes, 'contract of employment' means a contract of service or apprenticeship, whether express or implied and, if express, whether oral or in writing: Housing Act 1985 s 79(2)(a), Sch 1 para 2(5). See South Glamorgan County Council v Griffiths (1992) 24 HLR 334, CA (implied term of school caretaker's contract of employment that he was required to reside in the dwelling house for the better performance of his duties).

See also Brent London Borough Council v Charles (1997) 29 HLR 876, CA. As to the right to buy see PARA 1795 et seq post. The Housing Act 1985 Sch 1 para 2(1) (as so amended) is not to be construed as laying down a once-and-for-all condition which has to be satisfied when the tenancy first commenced but instead it applies to remove a tenancy out of the category of secure tenancy at any time when the tenant's contract of employment requires him to occupy the premises for the better performance of his duties: Elvidge v Coventry City Council [1994] QB 241 [1993] 4 All ER 903, CA. The status of the tenancy is not unchangeably fixed at the moment it is entered into and whether or not a change in the tenant's circumstances causes a change in the status of the tenancy is to be determined by asking (1) whether the occupation of the house is still referable to the terms of the tenant's employment and the requirement that he occupy it for the better performance of his duties; and (2) whether there has been any agreed or intended change in the nature or purpose of that occupation: Greenfield v Berkshire County Council (1996) 95 LGR 327, 73 P & CR 280, CA.

- 2783 (1) the person to whom the tenancy was granted was not, immediately before the grant, resident in the district<sup>4</sup> in which the dwelling house<sup>5</sup> is situated;

Except where the landlord is a local housing authority, such a tenancy becomes a secure tenancy on the expiry of one year from the grant or on earlier notification by the landlord to the tenant<sup>9</sup> that the tenancy is to be regarded as a secure tenancy<sup>10</sup>; and where the landlord is a local housing authority, such a becomes a secure tenancy if at any time the authority notifies the tenant that the tenancy is to be regarded as a secure tenancy<sup>11</sup>.

5 For these purposes, a person is a member of another's family if (1) he is the spouse or civil partner of that person, or he and that person live together as husband and wife or as if they were civil partners; or (2) he is that person's parent, grandparent, child, grandchild, brother, sister, uncle, aunt, nephew or niece: Housing Act 1985 s 113(1) (amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 81, Sch 8 para 27(1), (2)). For the purposes of head (2) supra: (a) a relationship by marriage or civil partnership is treated as a relationship by blood; (b) a relationship of the half-blood is treated as a relationship of the whole blood; (c) the stepchild of a person is treated as his child; and (d) an illegitimate child is treated as the legitimate child of his mother and reputed father: Housing Act 1985 s 113(2) (amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 Sch 8 para 27(1), (3)). As to 'living together as husband and wife' see PARA 846 note 17 ante; and see Westminster City Council v Peart (1991) 24 HLR 389, CA. An adopted child is treated as a natural child: Reading Borough Council v Ilesley [1981] CLY 1323. A foster child is not included in the statutory definition; but see Sheffield City Council v Personal Representatives of Wall [2006] EWCA Civ 495, [2006] All ER (D) 360 (Mar), CA (where the judge estopped the council from submitting that, in the particular circumstances, the defendant was not a member of his deceased foster mother's family, and this part of his decision was upheld by the Court of Appeal).

6 The requirement of 12 months' residence with the tenant prior to his or her death does not have to be at a particular house, or even in a house which was subject to a secure tenancy. The successor must simply have resided for a period of 12 months as a member of the family of the deceased: Waltham Forest London Borough Council v Thomas [1992] 2 AC 198, [1992] 3 All ER 244, HL, overruling South Northamptonshire District Council

v Power [1987] 3 All ER 831, [1987] 1 WLR 1433, CA. A period of absence from a property does not necessarily break the continuity of residence; in order to determine whether or not that continuity is broken, regard must be had (1) to the nature and extent of the continuing connection with the property in dispute throughout the period of absence; and (2) to the quality of the intention to return to the property: Camden London Borough Council v Goldenberg (1996) 95 LGR 693, [1996] 3 FCR 9, CA. ### 1320. Cases where the tenant is a successor.

The tenant<sup>1</sup> is himself a successor if:

- 2801 (1) the tenancy<sup>2</sup> vested in him on succession to a periodic tenancy<sup>3</sup>; or
- 2802 (2) he was a joint tenant and had become the sole tenant<sup>4</sup>; or
- 2803 (3) the tenancy is a periodic tenancy arising on the ending of a term certain<sup>5</sup> and the first tenancy<sup>6</sup> was granted to another person or jointly to him and another person; or
- 2804 (4) he became the tenant on the tenancy being assigned to him<sup>7</sup>; or
- 2805 (5) he become the tenant on the tenancy being vested in him on the death of the previous tenant; or
- 2806 (6) the tenancy was previously an introductory tenancy<sup>8</sup> and he was a successor to the introductory tenancy<sup>9</sup>.

A tenant to whom the tenancy was assigned in pursuance of a property adjustment order in connection with matrimonial proceedings or after overseas divorce etc<sup>10</sup> is a successor only if the other party to the marriage was a successor<sup>11</sup>; and a tenant to whom the tenancy was assigned in pursuance of a property adjustment order in connection with civil partnership proceedings or after overseas dissolution of a civil partnership etc<sup>12</sup> is a successor only if the other civil partner was a successor<sup>13</sup>.

A tenant to whom the tenancy was assigned by way of exchange<sup>14</sup> is a successor only if he was a successor in relation to the tenancy which he himself assigned<sup>15</sup>.

Where, within six months of the coming to an end of a secure tenancy which is a periodic tenancy ('the former tenancy'), the tenant becomes a tenant under another secure tenancy which is a periodic tenancy, and:

- 2807 (a) the tenant was a successor in relation to the former tenancy; and
- 2808 (b) under the other tenancy either the dwelling house<sup>16</sup> or the landlord<sup>17</sup>, or both, are the same as under the former tenancy, the tenant is also a successor in relation to the other tenancy unless the agreement creating that tenancy otherwise provides<sup>18</sup>.

1321. Succession to a periodic tenancy.

The following provisions apply where a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> dies and the tenancy<sup>2</sup> is a periodic tenancy<sup>3</sup>.

Where there is a person qualified to succeed<sup>4</sup> the tenant, the tenancy vests<sup>5</sup> in that person or, if there is more than one such person, in the one to be preferred in accordance with the following rules:

- 2809 (1) the tenant's spouse or civil partner is to be preferred to another member of the tenant's family<sup>6</sup>;
- 2810 (2) of two or more other members of the tenant's family such of them is to be preferred as may be agreed between them or as may, where there is no such agreement, be selected by the landlord<sup>7</sup>.

Where there is no person qualified to succeed the tenant, the tenancy ceases to be a secure tenancy:

- 2811 (a) when it is vested or otherwise disposed of in the course of the administration of the tenant's estate, unless the vesting or other disposal is in pursuance of a property adjustment made in connection with matrimonial proceedings<sup>8</sup>, a property adjustment order after an overseas divorce, etc<sup>9</sup>, an order for financial relief against a parent<sup>10</sup> or a property adjustment order in connection with civil partnership proceedings or after overseas dissolution of a civil partnership<sup>11</sup>;
- 2812 (b) when it is known that when the tenancy is so vested or disposed of it will not be in pursuance of such an order as is mentioned in head (a) above<sup>12</sup>.

A tenancy which so ceases to be a secure tenancy cannot subsequently become a secure tenancy<sup>13</sup>.

1322. Devolution of term certain.

2813 (1) it is vested or otherwise disposed of in the course of the administration of the tenant's estate<sup>4</sup>; or 2814 (2) it is known that, when it is so vested or disposed of, it will not be a secure tenancy<sup>5</sup>.

The tenancy ceases to be a secure tenancy on being vested or otherwise disposed of in the course of administration of the tenant's estate unless:

2815 (a) the vesting or other disposal is in pursuance of a property adjustment order made in connection with matrimonial proceedings<sup>6</sup>, a property adjustment order after an overseas divorce, etc<sup>7</sup>, an order for financial relief against a parent<sup>8</sup> or a property adjustment order in connection with civil partnership proceedings or after overseas dissolution of a civil partnership<sup>9</sup>; or ##### 1323. Assignment in general prohibited.

A secure tenancy<sup>1</sup> which is a periodic tenancy<sup>2</sup> or a tenancy for a term certain<sup>3</sup> granted on or after 5 November 1982 is not capable of being assigned except where the assignment is:

2817 (1) by way of exchange<sup>4</sup>; or

- 2818 (2) in pursuance of a property adjustment order made in connection with matrimonial proceedings<sup>5</sup>, a property adjustment order after an overseas divorce, etc<sup>6</sup>, an order for financial relief against a parent<sup>7</sup> or a property adjustment order in connection with civil partnership proceedings or after overseas dissolution of a civil partnership<sup>8</sup>;
- 2819 (3) to a person who would be qualified to succeed<sup>9</sup> the tenant<sup>10</sup> if the tenant died immediately before the assignment<sup>11</sup>.

If a secure tenancy for a term certain granted before 5 November 1982 is assigned, then, except in the cases specified in heads (1) to (3) above, it ceases to be a secure tenancy and cannot subsequently become a secure tenancy<sup>12</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante.

11 Housing Act 1985 s 91(1), (3) (amended by the Housing Act 1996 s 222, Sch 18 para 12; the Civil Partnership Act 2004 ss s 81, 261(4), Sch 8 para 24, Sch 30; prospectively amended by the Family Law Act 1996 s 66(1), Sch 8 para 34). The Housing Act 1985 s 91 (as amended) does not, however, apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association: s 109. For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; as to housing associations and other registered social landlords see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 11, 66 et seq; and for the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

On its true construction, the Housing Act 1985 s 91(1) precludes one joint tenant of a periodic secure tenancy from transferring his interest in that tenancy to the other joint tenant, irrespective of the label attached to the means of transfer; thus a deed of release cannot operate as an 'assignment' for the statutory purposes: Burton v Camden London Borough Council [2000] 2 AC 399, [2000] 1 All ER 943, HL.

1324. Assignments by way of exchange.

It is a term<sup>1</sup> of every secure tenancy<sup>2</sup> that the tenant<sup>3</sup> may, with the written consent of the landlord<sup>4</sup>, assign the tenancy to another secure tenant who satisfies the specified condition<sup>5</sup> or to an assured tenant<sup>6</sup> who satisfies the specified<sup>7</sup> conditions<sup>8</sup>.

The condition which the other secure tenant must satisfy is that he has the written consent of his landlord to an assignment of his tenancy either to the first-mentioned tenant or to another secure tenant who satisfies this condition<sup>9</sup>.

The conditions to be satisfied with respect to an assured tenant are:

- 2820 (1) that the landlord under his assured tenancy is either the Housing Corporation<sup>10</sup>, a registered social landlord<sup>11</sup> or a housing trust<sup>12</sup> which is a charity<sup>13</sup>; and
- 2821 (2) that he intends to assign his assured tenancy to the secure tenant or to another secure tenant who satisfies the specified<sup>14</sup> condition<sup>15</sup>.

The consent so required may not be withheld except on one or more of the specified grounds<sup>16</sup> and, if withheld otherwise than on one of those grounds, is to be treated as given<sup>17</sup>. The landlord may not rely on any of those grounds unless he has, within 42 days of the tenant's application for the consent, served on the tenant a notice specifying the ground and giving particulars of it<sup>18</sup>.

Where rent lawfully due from the tenant has not been paid or an obligation of the tenancy has been broken or not performed, the consent so required may be given subject to a condition requiring the tenant to pay the outstanding rent, remedy the breach or perform the obligation<sup>19</sup>. A consent so required cannot otherwise be given subject to a condition; and a condition imposed otherwise than as so provided must be disregarded<sup>20</sup>.

8 Ibid s 92(1) (amended by the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 s 163(1), (2)). The Housing Act 1985 s 92 (as amended) does not, however, apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association: s 109. For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11.

There are two relevant transactions, the assignment and the consent to the assignment, and the fact that the consent has been obtained by fraud does not vitiate the assignment: see Sanctuary Housing Association v Baker (1997) 30 HLR 809, [1998] 1 EGLR 42, CA.

1325. Grounds for withholding consent.

The grounds for withholding consent to an assignment by way of exchange<sup>1</sup> are:

- 2822 (1) the tenant<sup>2</sup> or the proposed assignee is obliged to give up possession of the dwelling house<sup>3</sup> of which he is the secure tenant<sup>4</sup> in pursuance of an order of the court, or will be so obliged at a date specified in such an order<sup>5</sup>;
- 2823 (2) proceedings have been begun for possession of the dwelling house of which the tenant or the proposed assignee is the secure tenant on one or more of the grounds on which possession may be ordered despite the absence of suitable alternative accommodation<sup>6</sup>, or there has been served on the tenant or the proposed assignee a notice of proceedings for possession<sup>7</sup> which specifies one or more of those grounds and is still in force<sup>8</sup>;
- 2824 (3) either:
- 171 8. (a) a relevant order<sup>9</sup> or suspended Ground 2 or Ground 14 possession order<sup>10</sup> is in force; or
9. (b) an application is pending before any court for a relevant order, a demotion order<sup>11</sup> or a Ground 2 or Ground 14 possession order to be made,
- 172 2825 in respect of the tenant or the proposed assignee or a person who is residing with either of them<sup>12</sup>;

- 2826 (4) the accommodation afforded by the dwelling house is substantially more extensive than is reasonably required by the proposed assignee<sup>13</sup>;
- 2827 (5) the extent of the accommodation afforded by the dwelling house is not reasonably suitable to the needs of the proposed assignee and his family<sup>14</sup>;
- 2828 (6) the dwelling house:
- 173
10. (a) forms part of or is within the curtilage of a building which, or so much of it as is held by the landlord<sup>15</sup>, is held mainly for purposes other than housing purposes<sup>16</sup> and consists mainly of accommodation other than housing accommodation, or is situated in a cemetery<sup>17</sup>; and
11. (b) was let to the tenant or a predecessor in title of his in consequence of the tenant or predecessor being in the employment of the landlord, a local authority<sup>18</sup>, a new town corporation<sup>19</sup>, a housing action trust<sup>20</sup>, an urban development corporation<sup>21</sup> or the governors of an aided school<sup>22</sup>;
- 174
- 2829 (7) the landlord is a charity<sup>23</sup> and the proposed assignee's occupation of the dwelling house would conflict with the objects of the charity<sup>24</sup>;
- 2830 (8) the dwelling house has features which are substantially different from those of ordinary dwelling houses and which are designed to make it suitable for occupation by a physically disabled person who requires accommodation of the kind provided by the dwelling house and, if the assignment were made, there would no longer be such a person residing in the dwelling house<sup>25</sup>;
- 2831 (9) the landlord is a housing association<sup>26</sup> or housing trust<sup>27</sup> which lets dwelling houses only for occupation, alone or with others, by persons whose circumstances, other than merely financial circumstances, make it especially difficult for them to satisfy their need for housing and, if the assignment were made, there would no longer be such a person residing in the dwelling house<sup>28</sup>;
- 2832 (10) the dwelling house is one of a group of dwelling houses which it is the practice of the landlord to let for occupation by persons with special needs and a social service or special facility is provided in close proximity to the group of dwelling houses in order to assist persons with those special needs and, if the assignment were made, there would no longer be a person with those special needs residing in the dwelling house<sup>29</sup>;
- 2833 (11) the dwelling house is the subject of a management agreement<sup>30</sup> under which the manager is a housing association of which at least half the members are tenants of dwelling houses subject to the agreement, at least half the tenants of the dwelling houses are members of the association and the proposed assignee is not, and is not willing to become, a member of the association<sup>31</sup>.

1326. Lodgers and subletting.

2834 (1) may allow any persons to reside as lodgers in the dwelling house<sup>4</sup>; but 2835 (2) will not, without the written consent<sup>5</sup> of the landlord<sup>6</sup>, sublet or part with possession of part of the dwelling house<sup>7</sup>.

If the tenant under a secure tenancy parts with the possession of the dwelling house or sublets the whole of it, or sublets first part of it and then the remainder, the tenancy ceases to be a secure tenancy and cannot subsequently become a secure tenancy<sup>8</sup>.

TENANCIES/(iv) Terms of the Secure Tenancy/A. ASSIGNMENT, LODGERS AND SUBLETTING/1327. Consent to subletting.

1327. Consent to subletting.

Consent may not be unreasonably withheld and, if unreasonably withheld, is treated as given; and, if a question arises whether the withholding of consent was unreasonable, it is for the landlord to show that it was not<sup>3</sup>. In determining that question, the following matters, if shown by the landlord, are among those to be taken into account:

- 2836 (1) that the consent would lead to overcrowding of the dwelling house<sup>4</sup>;
- 2837 (2) that the landlord proposes to carry out works on the dwelling house, or on the building of which it forms part, and that the proposed works will affect the accommodation likely to be used by the subtenant who would reside in the dwelling house as a result of the consent<sup>5</sup>.

Consent may be validly given notwithstanding that it follows, instead of preceding, the action requiring it<sup>6</sup>.

Consent cannot be given subject to a condition and, if purporting to be given subject to a condition, is treated as given unconditionally<sup>7</sup>.

Where the tenant<sup>8</sup> has applied in writing for consent, then:

- 2838 (a) if the landlord refuses to give consent, it must give the tenant a written statement of the reasons why consent was refused; and
- 2839 (b) if the landlord neither gives nor refuses to give consent within a reasonable time, consent is taken to have been withheld<sup>9</sup>.

TENANCIES/(iv) Terms of the Secure Tenancy/A. ASSIGNMENT, LODGERS AND SUBLETTING/1328. Assignment or subletting where tenant condition not satisfied.

1328. Assignment or subletting where tenant condition not satisfied.

The following provisions apply to a tenancy<sup>1</sup> which is not a secure tenancy<sup>2</sup> but would be if the tenant condition<sup>3</sup> were satisfied<sup>4</sup>.

The statutory restrictions on assignment or subletting of the whole dwelling house<sup>5</sup> apply to such a tenancy as they apply to a secure tenancy, except that:

- 2840 (1) the statutory provisions relating to assignments excepted from the restrictions<sup>6</sup> do not apply to such a tenancy for a term certain<sup>7</sup> granted before 5 November 1982; and
- 2841 (2) references to the tenancy ceasing to be secure are to be disregarded, without prejudice to the application of the remainder of the provisions in which those references occur<sup>8</sup>.

INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/(iv) Terms of the Secure Tenancy/B. REPAIRS, MAINTENANCE AND IMPROVEMENTS/1329. Right to have repairs carried out.

B. REPAIRS, MAINTENANCE AND IMPROVEMENTS

1329. Right to have repairs carried out.

The regulations may make all or any of the following provisions, namely:

- 2842 (1) provision that, where a secure tenant makes an application to his landlord for a qualifying repair to be carried out, the landlord shall issue a repair notice:
175
12. (a) specifying the nature of the repair, the listed contractor<sup>9</sup> by whom the repair is to be carried out and the last day of any prescribed period; and 13. (b) containing such other particulars as may be prescribed<sup>10</sup>;
- 2843 (2) provision that, if the contractor specified in a repair notice fails to carry out the repair within a prescribed period, the landlord shall issue a further repair notice specifying such other listed contractor as the tenant may require<sup>11</sup>; and
- 2844 (3) provision that, if the contractor specified in a repair notice fails to carry out the repair within a prescribed period, the landlord shall pay to the tenant such sum by way of compensation as may be determined by or under the regulations<sup>12</sup>.

The regulations may also make such procedural, incidental, supplementary and transitional provisions as may appear to the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister to be necessary or expedient, and may in particular:

- 2845 (i) require a landlord to take such steps as may be prescribed to make its secure tenants aware of the provisions of the regulations;
- 2846 (ii) require a landlord to maintain a list of contractors who are prepared to carry out repairs for which it is responsible under the regulations;
- 2847 (iii) provide that, where a landlord issues a repair notice, it shall give to the tenant a copy of the notice and the prescribed particulars of at least two other listed contractors who are competent to carry out the repair;
- 2848 (iv) provide for questions arising under the regulations to be determined by the county court<sup>13</sup>; and
- 2849 (v) enable the landlord to set off against any compensation payable under the regulations any sums owed to it by the tenant<sup>14</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante.

2 As to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

3 Regulations under the Housing Act 1985 s 96 (as substituted) (1) may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas; and (2) must be made by statutory instrument which is subject, in the case of regulations made by the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see s 96(5) (s 96 substituted by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 121). See also note 8 infra. In exercise of the power under s 96 (as substituted), and prior to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State made the Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133 (now as amended) which came into force on 1 April 1994: reg 1.

4 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

6 For the meaning of 'local housing authority' see PARA 1311 note 4 ante.

7 For these purposes, 'qualifying repair', in relation to a dwelling house, means any repair of a prescribed description which the landlord is obliged by a repairing covenant to carry out; and a prescribed description may be framed by reference to any circumstances whatever: Housing Act 1985 s 96(6) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). 'Repairing covenant', in relation to a dwelling house, means a covenant, whether express or implied, obliging the landlord to keep in repair the dwelling house or any part of the dwelling house: Housing Act 1985 s 96(6) (as so substituted). For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1300 note 2 ante. See also note 8 infra.

A repair to a dwelling house which (1) remedies a defect specified in the Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133, Schedule col 1; and (2) will not, in the opinion of the landlord, cost more than £250 to carry out, is a repair of a prescribed description for the purpose of the definition of a qualifying repair in the Housing Act 1985 s 96(6) (as so substituted): Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133, reg 4.

8 Housing Act 1985 s 96(1) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). Section 96 (as substituted) does not, however, apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association: s 109. For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations and other registered social landlords see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 11, 66 et seq.

Subject to and in accordance with the Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133 (as amended), secure tenants and introductory tenants whose landlords are local housing authorities are entitled (1) to have qualifying repairs carried out, at their landlords' expense, to the dwelling houses of which they are such tenants; and (2) to receive compensation from their landlords if qualifying repairs are not carried out within a prescribed period; but this right does not apply in a case where the landlord has less than 100 relevant dwelling houses on the day it receives an application from the tenant to have a repair carried out; and for these purposes 'a relevant dwelling house' means a dwelling house let to a secure tenant or to an introductory tenant: see reg 3(1), (2) (amended by SI 1997/73). Further, the right to have qualifying repairs carried out ceases to apply in relation to a repair if (a) the tenant informs the landlord that he no longer wants the repair carried out; or (b) the tenant, although he has been given a reasonable opportunity, fails (i) to provide details of the arrangements for the contractor to obtain access to the dwelling house, or (ii) to provide access for an inspection or for the repair to be carried out: Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133, reg 3(3). For the meaning of 'introductory tenant' see PARA 1304 note 3 ante.

9 For these purposes, 'listed contractor', in relation to a landlord, means any contractor (which may include the landlord) who is specified in the landlord's list of contractors: Housing Act 1985 s 96(6) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). See also the Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133, reg 2(1) (amended by SI 1994/844) which provides that 'contractor' means a person prepared to carry out a qualifying repair and may include the landlord.

10 Housing Act 1985 s 96(2)(a) (as substituted: see note 6 supra). Nothing in s 96(2) (as so substituted) or s 96(3) (as substituted) (see heads (i)-(v) in the text) is to be taken as prejudicing the generality of s 96(1) (as substituted): s 96(4) (as so substituted). See also note 8 supra.

Where a secure tenant or introductory tenant of a local housing authority applies to his landlord for a repair to be carried out to the dwelling house of which he is the secure tenant or introductory tenant; (1) if the landlord considers it necessary to inspect the dwelling house to satisfy itself that the repair is (or is not) a qualifying repair, the landlord must forthwith inspect the dwelling house; (2) if the landlord is satisfied that the repair is not a qualifying repair, it must notify the tenant of that and explain why it is so satisfied and give the tenant an explanation of the provisions of the Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133 (as amended); and (3) if the landlord is satisfied that the repair is a qualifying repair, the landlord must issue a repair notice to a contractor and give to the tenant a copy of the notice and an explanation of the provisions of the 1994 Regulations: reg 5(1) (amended by SI 1997/73). A repair notice must contain a reference sufficient to identify the completed notice and must specify (a) the name of the secure tenant or introductory tenant; (b) the address of the dwelling house; (c) the nature of the repair; (d) the name, address and telephone number of the contractor who is to carry out the repair; (e) the arrangements made for the contractor to obtain access to the dwelling house; and (f) the last day of the first prescribed period: Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133, reg 5(2) (as so amended). 'First prescribed period' means, in relation to repairing a defect described in Schedule col 1, the period specified in Schedule col 2 opposite the description of that defect starting (i) in a case where the landlord considers it necessary to inspect the dwelling house to satisfy itself that a repair is a qualifying repair (A) if the day the landlord issues the repair notice under reg 5(1)(c) to the contractor is a working day, on the first working day after the day of issue, and (B) in any other case, on the second working day after the day of issue; and (ii) in any other case (A) if the day the landlord receives the application for the qualifying repair to be carried out is a working day, on the first working day after that day, and (B) in any other case, on the second working day after the day the application is received; and 'working day' means a day which is not a public holiday, a Saturday or a Sunday. reg 2(1). The first prescribed period or, as the case may be, the second prescribed period (see note 11 infra), is to be suspended for so long as there are circumstances of an exceptional nature, beyond the control of the landlord or the contractor who is to carry out the qualifying repair, which prevent the repair being carried out: reg 8.

Any notice required to be issued or given by the 1994 Regulations may be issued or given by post: reg 9.

11 Housing Act 1985 s 96(2)(b) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). See also note 8 supra.

Subject to the Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133, reg 6(3) and reg 8 (see note 10 supra), if (1) the qualifying repair has not been carried out within the first prescribed period; and (2) the tenant notifies the landlord that he requires another contractor to carry out the qualifying repair, the landlord, where it is reasonably practicable, must issue a further repair notice to another contractor and give a copy of the notice to the tenant: reg 6(1). The further repair notice must contain a reference sufficient to identify it and specify the matters referred to in reg 5(2)(a)-(e) (see note 10 supra) and the last day of the second prescribed period: reg 6(2). This does not, however, apply if compliance with reg 6(1) would infringe the terms of a guarantee for work done or materials supplied of which the landlord has the benefit: reg 6(3). 'Second prescribed period' means, in relation to repairing a defect described in Schedule col 1, the period specified in Schedule col 2 opposite the description of that defect starting (1) if the day the landlord receives notification from the tenant that he requires another contractor to carry out the qualifying repair is a working day, on the first working day after that day; and (2) in any other case, on the second working day after the day the notification is received: reg 2(1).

12 Housing Act 1985 s 96(2)(c) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). See also note 8 supra.

Subject to the Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133, reg 8 (see note 10 supra), the landlord must pay the specified sum to the secure tenant or introductory tenant if the qualifying repair has not been carried out within the second prescribed period: see reg 7(1), (2) (amended by SI 1997/73). The landlord may, however, set off any sums owed to it by the secure tenant or introductory tenant against any compensation so payable: Secure Tenants of Local Housing Authorities (Right to Repair) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/133, reg 7(3) (as so amended).

13 For the provision so made see ibid reg 10.

1330. Tenant's improvements require consent.

It is a term<sup>1</sup> of every secure tenancy<sup>2</sup> that the tenant<sup>3</sup> will not make any improvement<sup>4</sup> without the written consent<sup>5</sup> of the landlord<sup>6</sup>; and the consent so required may not be unreasonably withheld and, if unreasonably withheld, is to be treated as given<sup>7</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'term' see PARA 1302 note 8 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'improvement' means any alteration in, or addition to, a dwelling house and includes (1) any addition to or alteration in landlord's fixtures and fittings; (2) any addition or alteration connected with the provision of services to the dwelling house; (3) the erection of a wireless or television aerial; and (4) the carrying out of external decoration: Housing Act 1985 s 97(2). For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

5 As to consent see PARA 1331 post.

6 Housing Act 1985 s 97(1). The provisions of s 97 have effect, in relation to secure tenancies, in place of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1927 s 19(2) (see PARA 470 ante): Housing Act 1985 s 97(4).

Section 97 does not, however, apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association: s 109. For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11.

INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/(iv) Terms of the Secure Tenancy/B. REPAIRS, MAINTENANCE AND IMPROVEMENTS/1331. Consent to improvements.

1331. Consent to improvements.

If a question arises whether the withholding by a landlord<sup>1</sup> of consent to tenant's improvements<sup>2</sup> was unreasonable, it is for the landlord to show that it was not<sup>3</sup>. In determining that question, the court must in particular have regard to the extent to which the improvement<sup>4</sup> would be likely:

- 2850 (1) to make the dwelling house<sup>5</sup>, or any other premises, less safe for occupiers;
- 2851 (2) to cause the landlord to incur expenditure which it would be unlikely to incur if the improvement were not made; or
- 2852 (3) to reduce the price which the dwelling house would fetch if sold on the open market or the rent which the landlord would be able to charge on letting the dwelling house<sup>6</sup>.

A consent so required may be validly given notwithstanding that it follows, instead of preceding, the action requiring it<sup>7</sup>.

Where a tenant has applied in writing for such a consent:

- 2853 (a) the landlord must, if it refuses consent, give the tenant a written statement of the reason why consent was refused; and
- 2854 (b) if the landlord neither gives nor refuses to give consent within a reasonable time, consent is taken to have been withheld<sup>8</sup>.

A landlord's consent to improvements may be given subject to conditions<sup>9</sup>; but, if the tenant has applied in writing for consent and the landlord gives consent subject to an unreasonable condition, consent is to be taken to have been unreasonably withheld<sup>10</sup>. If a question arises whether a condition was reasonable, it is for the landlord to show that it was<sup>11</sup>.

A failure by a secure tenant to satisfy a reasonable condition imposed by his landlord in giving consent to an improvement which the tenant proposes to make, or has made, is treated as a breach by the tenant of an obligation of his tenancy<sup>12</sup>.

2 Is a consent required by virtue of the Housing Act 1985 s 97: see PARA 1330 ante. For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

3 Ibid s 98(1). Sections 98, 99 (see the text and notes 4-12 infra) do not, however, apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association: s 109. For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11.

INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/(iv) Terms of the Secure Tenancy/B. REPAIRS, MAINTENANCE AND IMPROVEMENTS/1332. Right to compensation for improvements.

1332. Right to compensation for improvements.

The powers conferred by the following provisions are exercisable as respects cases where a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> has made an improvement<sup>2</sup> and:

- 2855 (1) the work on the improvement was begun not earlier than 1 April 1994;
- 2856 (2) the landlord<sup>3</sup>, or a predecessor in title of the landlord, being a local authority<sup>4</sup>, has given its written consent to the improvement or is to be treated as having given its consent; and
- 2857 (3) at the time when the tenancy comes to an end<sup>5</sup> the landlord is a local authority and the tenancy is a secure tenancy<sup>6</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>7</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>8</sup> may make regulations<sup>9</sup> for entitling the qualifying person or persons<sup>10</sup> at the time when the tenancy comes to an end, and subject to and in accordance with the regulations, to be paid compensation by the landlord in respect of the improvement<sup>11</sup>. The regulations may provide that compensation shall not, however, be payable if:

- 2858 (a) the improvement is not of a prescribed description<sup>12</sup>;
- 2859 (b) the tenancy comes to an end in prescribed circumstances<sup>13</sup>;
- 2860 (c) compensation has been paid<sup>14</sup> in respect of the improvement<sup>15</sup>; or
- 2861 (d) the amount of any compensation which would otherwise be payable is less than a prescribed amount<sup>16</sup>; and, for these purposes, a prescribed description may be framed by reference to any circumstances whatever<sup>17</sup>.

The regulations may provide that the amount of any compensation payable shall not exceed a prescribed amount<sup>18</sup> but, subject thereto, must be determined by the landlord, or calculated, in such manner, and taking into account such matters, as may be prescribed<sup>19</sup>.

The regulations may also make such procedural, incidental, supplementary and transitional provisions as may appear to the Secretary of State or to the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister to be necessary or expedient, and may in particular:

- 2862 (i) provide for the manner in which and the period within which claims for compensation under the regulations are to be made, and for the procedure to be followed in determining such claims<sup>20</sup>;

- 2863 (ii) prescribe the form of any document required to be used for the purposes of or in connection with such claims<sup>21</sup>;
- 2864 (iii) provide for questions arising under the regulations to be determined by the district valuer<sup>22</sup> or the county court<sup>23</sup>; and
- 2865 (iv) enable the landlord to set off against any compensation payable under the regulations any sums owed to it by the qualifying person or persons<sup>24</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante; and for the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'improvement' see PARA 1330 note 4 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 1300 note 8 ante.

5 For these purposes, and for the purposes of the Housing Act 1985 s 99B (as added) (see PARA 1333 post), a tenancy is treated as coming to an end if (1) it ceases to be a secure tenancy by reason of the landlord condition no longer being satisfied; or (2) it is assigned, with the consent of the landlord (a) to another secure tenant who satisfies the condition in s 92(2) (see PARA 1324 ante); or (b) to an assured tenant who satisfies the conditions in s 92(2A) (as added) (see PARA 1324 ante): s 99A(8) (s 99A added by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 122). For the meaning of 'the landlord condition' see PARA 1300 ante; and for the meaning of 'assured tenancy' see PARA 1324 note 6 ante.

6 Housing Act 1985 s 99A(1) (as added: see note 5 supra); Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 (Commencement and Transitional Provisions No 3) Order 1993, SI 1993/2762, arts 4(b), 5(2). The Housing Act 1985 s 99A (as added) does not, however, apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association: s 109. For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11.

7 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante.

8 As to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

9 Such regulations: (1) may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas; and (2) must be made by statutory instrument which, if made by the Secretary of State and except in the case of regulations making only such provision as is mentioned in head (ii) in the text, are subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: Housing Act 1985 s 99A(7) (as added: see note 5 supra). In exercise of this power, and prior to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State made the Secure Tenants of Local Authorities (Compensation for Improvements) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/613, which came into force on 1 April 1994: reg 1.

10 Ie within the meaning given by the Housing Act 1985 s 99B (as added): see PARA 1333 post.

11 Ibid s 99A(2) (as added: see note 5 supra). See also note 6 supra.

Subject to and in accordance with the Secure Tenants of Local Authorities (Compensation for Improvements) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/613, regs 3(2), 4-7, in the cases described by the Housing Act 1985 s 99A(1) (as added) (see the text and notes 1-6 supra), a qualifying person is entitled to be paid compensation by his landlord in respect of a qualifying improvement at the time when his tenancy comes to an end: Secure Tenants of Local Authorities (Compensation for Improvements) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/613, reg 3(1). 'Qualifying improvement' means an improvement consisting of the installation or replacement of an item specified in Schedule, col A: reg 2(1). As to calculating the amount of compensation see reg 4(1), (2). No compensation is payable if the amount which would otherwise be payable would be less than £50 (reg 3(2)(a)) or to the extent that the amount of compensation for a qualifying improvement would exceed £3,000 (reg 4(3)(a)).

12 As to qualifying improvements see note 11 supra.

13 The following circumstances are prescribed for these purposes, ie where the tenancy comes to an end because (1) an order for possession was made on any of the grounds in the Housing Act 1985 Sch 2 Pt I (Grounds 1-8) (as amended) (see PARA 1357 et seq post); (2) the right to buy (see PARA 1795 et seq post) or the (former) right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms in Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended) has been exercised; (3) the dwelling house has been disposed of to the tenant or one of the joint tenants under s 32 (as amended) or s 43 (as amended) (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 305, 314); or (4) a new tenancy of the same, or substantially the same, dwelling house has been granted to the qualifying person (or, in the case of a joint tenancy, to all of the joint tenants) whether or not with anyone else: see the Secure Tenants of Local Authorities (Compensation for Improvements) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/613, reg 3(2)(b).

A claim for compensation (1) must contain sufficient information for the landlord to determine the claim; (2) must be made in writing within the period starting 28 days before, and ending 14 days after, the tenancy comes to an end; and (3) may be served by post: Secure Tenants of Local Authorities (Compensation for Improvements) Regulations 1994, SI 1994/613, reg 6.

22    For these purposes, 'district valuer', in relation to any land in the district of a local housing authority, means an officer of the Commissioners for Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs appointed by them for the purpose of exercising, in relation to that district, the functions of the district valuer under the Housing Act 1985: s 622(1) (definition substituted by the References to Rating (Housing) Regulations 1990, SI 1990/434, reg 2, Schedule para 23; amended by virtue of the Commissioners for Revenue and Customs Act 2005 s 50(1)). ### 1334. Power to reimburse cost of tenant's improvements.

Where a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> has made an improvement<sup>2</sup> and:

- 2870 (1) the work on the improvement was begun on or after 3 October 1980;
- 2871 (2) the landlord<sup>3</sup>, or a predecessor in title of the landlord, has given its written consent to the improvement or is treated as having given its consent; and
- 2872 (3) the improvement has materially added to the price which the dwelling house<sup>4</sup> may be expected to fetch if sold on the open market, or the rent which the landlord may be expected to be able to charge on letting the dwelling house, the landlord may, at or after the end of the tenancy, make to the tenant, or his personal representatives, such payment in respect of the improvement as the landlord considers to be appropriate<sup>5</sup>. The power so conferred to make such payments as are mentioned above is in addition to any other power of the landlord to make such payments<sup>6</sup>.

Rent not to be increased on account of tenant's improvements.

1335. Rent not to be increased on account of tenant's improvements.

The following provisions apply where a person (the improving tenant<sup>1</sup>) who is or was the secure tenant<sup>1</sup> of a dwelling house<sup>2</sup> has lawfully made an improvement<sup>3</sup> and has borne the whole or part of its cost<sup>4</sup>.

In determining, at any time whilst the improving tenant or his qualifying successor is a secure tenant of the dwelling house, whether or to what extent to increase the rent, the landlord must treat the improvement as justifying only such part of an increase which would otherwise be attributable to the improvement as corresponds to the part of the cost which was not borne by the tenant, and accordingly as not justifying an increase if he bore the whole cost<sup>5</sup>.

The following are qualifying successors of an improving tenant:

- 2873 (1) a person in whom the tenancy was vested, or to whom the tenancy was disposed of, by succession to a periodic tenancy<sup>6</sup> or on devolution of a term certain<sup>7</sup> on the death of the tenant or in the course of the administration of his estate;
- 2874 (2) a person to whom the tenancy was assigned by the tenant and who would have been qualified to succeed<sup>8</sup> him if he had died immediately before the assignment;
- 2875 (3) a person to whom the tenancy was assigned by the tenant in pursuance of a property adjustment order made in connection with matrimonial proceedings<sup>9</sup>, a property adjustment order after an overseas divorce, etc<sup>10</sup>, an order for financial relief against a parent<sup>11</sup> or a property adjustment order in connection with civil partnership proceedings or after overseas dissolution of a civil partnership<sup>12</sup>;
- 2876 (4) a spouse, former spouse, civil partner, former civil partner, cohabitant or former cohabitant of the improving tenant to whom the tenancy has been transferred by an order<sup>13</sup> made on divorce, separation etc<sup>14</sup>.

Note that such grants are now only available from local housing authorities towards the cost of works required for the provision of facilities for disabled persons (1) in dwellings, qualifying houseboats and caravans; and (2) in the common parts of buildings containing one or more flats: see the Housing Grants, Construction and Regeneration Act 1996 s 1(1) (amended by the Housing Act 2004 s 224(1), (2); and by the Regulatory Reform (Housing Assistance) (England and Wales) Order 2002, SI 2002/1860, arts 11(1), 15(1), Sch 3 paras 1, 2, Sch 6); and HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 621 et seq.

INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/(iv) Terms of the Secure Tenancy/B. REPAIRS, MAINTENANCE AND IMPROVEMENTS/1336. Directions as to service charges by social landlords.

1336. Directions as to service charges by social landlords.

- 2877 (1) requiring or permitting the waiver or reduction of charges<sup>6</sup> where relevant assistance<sup>7</sup> is given by the Secretary of State or the Assembly; and
- 2878 (2) permitting the waiver or reduction of charges in such other circumstances as may be specified in the directions<sup>8</sup>.

A direction may not require the waiver or reduction of charges by reference to assistance for which application was made before the date on which the direction was given, but subject to that directions may relate to past charges or works to such extent as appears to the Secretary of State or to the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister to be appropriate<sup>9</sup>. Directions which require or permit the waiver or reduction of charges have corresponding effect:

- 2879 (a) in relation to charges already demanded so as to require or permit the non-enforcement of the charges; and
- 2880 (b) in relation to charges already paid so as to require or permit a refund<sup>10</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister must publish any such direction relating to all social landlords or any description of social landlords in such manner as he or the Assembly or minister considers appropriate for bringing it to the notice of the landlords concerned<sup>11</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante.

2 As to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

3 Directions under the Housing Act 1996 s 219 (see the text and notes 4-10 infra) may make different provision for different cases or descriptions of case; and this includes power to make (1) different provision for different social landlords or descriptions of social landlords, and (2) different provision for different areas: ss 219(6), 220(1).

4 For these purposes, 'social landlord' means (1) an authority or body within the Housing Act 1985 s 80(1) (as amended) (the landlord condition for secure tenancies: see PARA 1300 ante), other than a housing co-operative; or (2) a registered social landlord: Housing Act 1996 s 219(4). For the meaning of 'housing co-operative' see PARA 1300 note 12 ante; and as to registered social landlords see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 11, 66 et seq.

5 For these purposes, 'service charge' means an amount payable by a lessee of a dwelling (1) which is payable, directly or indirectly, for repairs, maintenance or improvements; and (2) the whole or part of which varies or may vary according to the relevant costs: ibid s 220(5). The relevant costs are the costs or estimated costs incurred or to be incurred by or on behalf of the social landlord, or a superior landlord, in connection with the matters for which the service charge is payable; and for this purpose costs are relevant costs in relation to a service charge whether they are incurred, or to be incurred, in the period for which the service charge is payable or in an earlier or later period: s 220(6). 'Costs' includes overheads and 'dwelling' means a building or part of a building occupied or intended to be occupied as a separate dwelling: s 220(7).

6 Directions under ibid s 219 requiring the reduction of a service charge (see head (1) in the text) may specify the amount (or proportion) of the reduction or provide for its determination in such manner as may be specified; and such directions permitting the waiver or reduction of a service charge (see heads (1)-(2) in the text) may specify criteria to which the social landlord is to have regard in deciding whether to do so or to what extent: s 220(2), (3).

7 For these purposes, 'assistance' means grant or other financial assistance of any kind; and directions may specify what assistance is relevant for these purposes and to what buildings or other land any assistance is to be regarded as relevant: ibid s 219(5).

8 Ibid s 219(1).

9 Ibid s 219(2).

10 Ibid s 219(3).

11 Ibid s 220(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/(v) Variation of Terms of Secure Tenancy/1337. Variation of terms of secure tenancy.

(v) Variation of Terms of Secure Tenancy

1337. Variation of terms of secure tenancy.

- 2881 (1) by agreement between the landlord<sup>5</sup> and the tenant<sup>6</sup>;
- 2882 (2) to the extent that the variation relates to rent or to payments in respect of rates, council tax or services, by the landlord or the tenant in accordance with a provision in the lease<sup>7</sup> or agreement creating the tenancy, or in an agreement varying it;
- 2883 (3) by notice of variation<sup>8</sup> of a periodic tenancy<sup>9</sup>.

A clause of a tenancy agreement whereby it was agreed that the authority could only vary the terms of the agreement if tenants' representatives agreed to the change has been held to be void as an unlawful fetter on these statutory powers of variation<sup>10</sup>.

2 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante.

3 For these purposes, and for the purposes of the Housing Act 1985 s 103 (see PARA 1338 post), references to variation include addition and deletion; and the conversion of a monthly tenancy into a weekly tenancy, or a weekly tenancy into a monthly tenancy, is a variation of a term of the tenancy, but a variation of the premises let under a tenancy is not: s 102(2).

4 The mere circulation of a booklet to tenants is not sufficient to vary the terms of the tenancy: see Palmer v Metropolitan Borough of Sandwell (1987) 20 HLR 74, [1987] 2 EGLR 79, CA.

5 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

6 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

7 For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

8 In accordance with the Housing Act 1985 s 103: see PARA 1338 post.

9 Ibid s 102(1) (amended by the Local Government Finance (Housing) (Consequential Amendments) Order 1993, SI 1993/651, art 2(1), Sch 2 para 13). The Housing Act 1985 s 102 (as amended) does not apply to a term of a tenancy which is implied by an enactment or may be varied under the Rent Act 1977 s 93 (as amended) (see PARA 907 ante) (Housing Act 1985 s 102(3)); nor does s 102 (as amended) apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association (s 109). For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11.

Section 102 (as amended) does, however, apply in relation to the terms of a periodic tenancy arising by virtue of s 86 (see PARA 1302 ante) as it would have applied to the terms of the first tenancy mentioned in s 86 had that tenancy been a periodic tenancy: s 102(4).

1337 Variation of terms of secure tenancy

NOTE 9--Kilby, cited, reported at [2006] HLR 892.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/(v) Variation of Terms of Secure Tenancy/1338. Notice of variation of periodic tenancy.

1338. Notice of variation of periodic tenancy.

The terms<sup>1</sup> of a secure tenancy<sup>2</sup> which is a periodic tenancy<sup>3</sup> may be varied<sup>4</sup> by the landlord<sup>5</sup> by a notice of variation served on the tenant<sup>6</sup>. Before serving a notice of variation on the tenant, the landlord must serve on him a preliminary notice.

2885 (2) specifying the proposed variation and its effect; and 2886 (3) inviting the tenant to comment on the proposed variation within such time, specified in the notice, as the landlord considers reasonable;

and the landlord must consider any comments made by the tenant within the specified time<sup>7</sup>.

The notice of variation must specify:

2887 (a) the variation effected by it; and 2888 (b) the date on which it takes effect;

and the period between the date on which it is served and the date on which it takes effect must be at least four weeks or the rental period<sup>8</sup>, whichever is the longer<sup>9</sup>.

The notice of variation, when served, must be accompanied by such information as the landlord considers necessary to inform the tenant of the nature and effect of the variation<sup>10</sup>.

If, after the service of a notice of variation, the tenant, before the date on which the variation is to take effect, gives a valid notice to quit, the notice of variation does not take effect unless the tenant, with the written agreement of the landlord, withdraws his notice to quit before that date<sup>11</sup>.

2 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante.

4 For the meaning of references to variation see PARA 1337 note 3 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

6 Housing Act 1985 s 103(1). For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante. Section 103 does not apply to a term of a tenancy which is implied by an enactment or may be varied under the Rent Act 1977 s 93 (as amended) (see PARA 907 ante) (Housing Act 1985 s 102(3)); nor does s 103 apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association (s 109). For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11.

Section 103 does, however, apply in relation to the terms of a periodic tenancy arising by virtue of s 86 (see PARA 1302 ante) as it would have applied to the terms of the first tenancy mentioned in s 86 had that tenancy been a periodic tenancy: s 102(4).

7 Ibid s 103(2). Section 103(2) does not apply, however, to a variation of the rent, or of payments in respect of services or facilities provided by the landlord or of payments in respect of rates: s 103(3). Variation under s

103 represents no substantial diminution in tenants' rights, since their basic protection is afforded by statute: see R v London Borough of Brent, ex p Blatt (1991) 24 HLR 319, DC. See also note 6 supra. As to the abolition of domestic rates see PARA 521 ante.

8 For these purposes, 'rental period' means a period in respect of which a payment of rent falls to be made: Housing Act 1985 s 116.

A. IN GENERAL

1339. Provision of information about tenancies.

Every body which lets dwelling houses<sup>1</sup> under secure tenancies<sup>2</sup> must from time to time publish information about its secure tenancies, in such form as it considers best suited to explain in simple terms, and so far as it considers appropriate, the effect of:

- 2889 (1) the express terms<sup>3</sup> of its secure tenancies;
- 2890 (2) the statutory provisions relating to secure tenancies<sup>4</sup>; and
- 2891 (3) the statutory provisions relating to a landlord's repairing obligations<sup>5</sup>; and must ensure that, so far as is reasonably practicable, the information so published is kept up to date<sup>6</sup>.

The landlord<sup>7</sup> under a secure tenancy must supply the tenant<sup>8</sup> with:

- 2892 (a) a copy of the information for secure tenants so published by it; and
- 2893 (b) a written statement of the terms of the tenancy, so far as they are neither expressed in the lease<sup>9</sup> or written tenancy agreement, if any, nor implied by law; and the statement required by head (b) above must be supplied when the secure tenancy arises or as soon as practicable afterwards<sup>10</sup>.

A local authority<sup>11</sup> which is the landlord under a secure tenancy must supply the tenant, at least once in every relevant year<sup>12</sup>, with a copy of such information relating to the provisions in head (2) and (3) above as was last published by it<sup>13</sup>.

1340. Policies and procedures about anti-social behaviour.

The provisions set out below apply to the following landlords:

- |      |     |   |
|------|-----|---|
| 2894 | (1) | a local housing authority <sup>1</sup> ;    |
| 2895 | (2) | a housing action trust <sup>2</sup> ;       |
| 2896 | (3) | a registered social landlord <sup>3</sup> . |

The landlord must prepare a policy in relation to anti-social behaviour<sup>4</sup> and procedures for dealing with occurrences of anti-social behaviour<sup>5</sup> and must publish<sup>6</sup> a statement of the policy and procedures so prepared<sup>7</sup>.

The landlord must from time to time keep the policy and procedures under review and, when it thinks appropriate, publish a revised statement<sup>8</sup>. In preparing and reviewing the policy and procedures the landlord must have regard to guidance issued:

A copy of a statement or revised statement so published must be available for inspection at all reasonable hours at the landlord's principal office and must be provided on payment of a reasonable fee to any person who requests it<sup>13</sup>. The landlord must also prepare a summary of its current policy and procedures and provide a copy of the summary, without charge, to any person who requests it<sup>14</sup>.

1340 Policies and procedures about anti-social behaviour

NOTES--Certain functions under provisions mentioned in this paragraph are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

NOTE 4--Anti-social behaviour is (1) any housing-related anti-social conduct, or (2) any conduct to which the 1996 Act s 153B applies: s 218A(8) (s 218A(8), (8A) substituted by the Police and Justice Act 2006 Sch 14 para 33). Housing-related anti-social conduct has the same meaning as in the 1996 Act s 153A: s 218A(8A) (s 218A(8A) as so substituted).

Disclosure of information as to orders etc in respect of anti-social behaviour.

1341. Disclosure of information as to orders etc in respect of anti-social behaviour.

Any person may disclose relevant information<sup>1</sup> to a landlord under a secure tenancy<sup>2</sup> if the information is disclosed for the purpose of enabling the landlord:

- 2899 (1) to decide whether either of the specified provisions of the Housing Act 1985<sup>3</sup> can be invoked in relation to the tenant under the tenancy<sup>4</sup>; or
- 2900 (2) to take any appropriate action in relation to the tenant in reliance on either of those provisions<sup>5</sup>.

The specified provisions for these purposes are:

- 2901 (a) the provision allowing the landlord to withhold consent to an assignment by way of mutual exchange where an order is in force or an application is pending in connection with anti-social behaviour<sup>6</sup>; and
- 2902 (b) the provision suspending the landlord's obligation to complete a purchase in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>7</sup> while an application is pending in connection with such behaviour<sup>8</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'relevant information' means information relating to any order or application relevant for the purposes of either of the provisions mentioned in the Housing Act 2004 s 194(2) (see heads (a)-(b) in the text), including (in particular) information identifying the person in respect of whom any such order or application has been made: s 194(3)(a).

2 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARA 1300 ante (meaning applied by ibid s 194(3)(b)).

3 Ie the provisions mentioned in ibid s 194(2): see heads (a)-(b) in the text.

4 For these purposes, any reference to the tenant under a secure tenancy is, in relation to a joint tenancy, a reference to any of the joint tenants: ibid s 194(3)(c).

5 Ibid s 194(1).

6 Ie the Housing Act 1985 s 92(3), Sch 3, Ground 2A (as added): see PARA 1325 ante at head (3) in the text.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/(vi) Provision of Information; Consultation/A. IN GENERAL/1342. Consultation on matters of housing management.

1342. Consultation on matters of housing management.

A landlord authority<sup>1</sup> must maintain such arrangements as it considers appropriate to enable those of its secure tenants<sup>2</sup> who are likely to be substantially affected by a matter of housing management<sup>3</sup> to which these provisions apply<sup>4</sup>:

- 2903 (1) to be informed of the authority's proposals in respect of the matter; and
- 2904 (2) to make their views known to the authority within a specified period; and the authority must, before making any decision on the matter, consider any representations made to it in accordance with those arrangements<sup>5</sup>.

A landlord authority must publish details of the arrangements which it so makes, and a copy of the documents so published must:

- 2905 (a) be made available at the authority's principal office for inspection at all reasonable hours, without charge, by members of the public; and
- 2906 (b) be given, on payment of a reasonable fee, to any member of the public who asks for one<sup>6</sup>.

A landlord authority which is a registered social landlord<sup>7</sup> must, instead of complying with head (a) above, send a copy of any document so published:

- 2907 (i) to the relevant authority<sup>8</sup>; and
- 2908 (ii) to the council of any district<sup>9</sup>, Welsh county or county borough<sup>10</sup> or London borough<sup>11</sup> in which there are dwelling houses let by the landlord authority under secure tenancies; and a council to which a copy is so sent must make it available at its principal office for inspection at all reasonable hours, without charge, by members of the public<sup>12</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'landlord authority' see PARA 1344 post.

2 For these purposes, secure tenants include demoted tenants, and secure tenancies include demoted tenancies, within the meaning of the Housing Act 1996 s 143A (as added) (see PARA 1376 post): Housing Act 1985 s 105(7) (added by the Anti-social Behaviour Act 2003 s 14(5), Sch 1 para 2(1), (2)). For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' generally see PARAS 1300-1301 ante; and for the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

3 For these purposes, a matter is one of housing management if, in the opinion of the landlord authority, it relates to (1) the management, maintenance, improvement or demolition of dwelling houses let by the authority under secure tenancies; or (2) the provision of services or amenities in connection with such dwelling houses; but not so far as it relates to the rent payable under a secure tenancy or to charges for services or facilities provided by the authority: Housing Act 1985 s 105(2). In the case of a landlord authority which is a local housing authority, the reference in s 105(2) to the provision of services or amenities is a reference only to the provision of services or amenities by the authority acting in its capacity as landlord of the dwelling houses concerned: s 105(4). For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1300 note 2 ante; for the meaning of 'improvement' see PARA 1330 note 4 ante; and for the meaning of 'local housing authority' see PARA 1311 note 4 ante.

4 Ibid s 105 (as amended) applies to matters of housing management which, in the opinion of the landlord authority, represent (1) a new programme of maintenance, improvement or demolition; or (2) a change in the practice or policy of the authority, and are likely substantially to affect either its secure tenants as a whole or a group of them who form a distinct social group or occupy dwelling houses which constitute a distinct class, whether by reference to the kind of dwelling house, or the housing estate or other larger area in which they are situated: s 105(3).

5 Ibid s 105(1). Section 105 (as amended) does not, however, apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association: s 109. For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11. In relation to a disposal to which s 106A, Sch 3A (as added and amended) (see PARAS 1345-1348 post) applies, the provisions of Sch 3A (as added and amended) apply in place of the provisions of s 105 (as amended) (see s 106A(2) (as added and amended)); and PARA 1345 note 1 post); and in relation to the approval or variation of a redevelopment scheme the provisions of s 84(2)(b), Sch 2 Pt V para 2 (as added) apply in place of the provisions of s 105 (as amended) (see Sch 2 Pt V para 2(3) (as added); and PARA 1369 note 13 post).

Section 105 does not require an authority to inform every tenant, only to ensure that the tenants are able to be informed of its decisions: R v Brent London Borough Council, ex p Morris (1997) 30 HLR 324, CA. There is no legal requirement that a local authority must set out the case against its proposals in its publicity material; the obligation in the Housing Act 1985 s 105(1) is to inform the relevant group of the authority's proposals and not to canvass the disadvantages of its proposals: see R (on the application of Beale) v Camden London Borough Council [2004] EWHC 6 (Admin), [2004] HLR 917, [2004] All ER (D) 52 (Jan).

1342 Consultation on matters of housing management

NOTES--Certain functions under provisions mentioned in this paragraph are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/(vi) Provision of Information; Consultation/A. IN GENERAL/1343. Information about housing allocation.

1343. Information about housing allocation.

A landlord authority<sup>1</sup> must publish a summary of its rules:

2909 (1) for determining priority as between applicants in the allocation of its housing accommodation; and 2910 (2) governing cases where secure tenants<sup>2</sup> wish to move, whether or not by way of exchange of dwelling houses<sup>3</sup>, to other dwelling houses let under secure tenancies by that authority or another body<sup>4</sup>.

A landlord authority must:

- 2911 (a) maintain a set of such rules and of the rules which it has laid down governing the procedure to be followed in allocating its housing accommodation; and
- 2912 (b) make them available at its principal office for inspection at all reasonable hours, without charge, by members of the public<sup>5</sup>.

- 2913 (i) to the relevant authority<sup>7</sup>; and
- 2914 (ii) to the council of any district<sup>8</sup>, Welsh county or county borough<sup>9</sup> or London borough<sup>10</sup> in which there are dwelling houses let or to be let by the landlord authority under secure tenancies;

and a council to which a set of the rules is so sent must make it available at its principal office for inspection at all reasonable hours, without charge, by members of the public<sup>11</sup>.

At the request of a person who has applied to it for housing accommodation, a landlord authority must make available to him, at all reasonable times and without charge, details of the particulars which he has given to the authority about himself and his family and which the authority has recorded as being relevant to his application for accommodation<sup>12</sup>.

The provisions of s 106 (as amended) do not, however, apply to a landlord authority which is a local housing authority so far as they impose requirements corresponding to those to which such an authority is subject under the Housing Act 1996 s 168 (as amended) (provision of information about allocation schemes: see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 245): Housing Act 1985 s 106(6) (added by the Housing Act 1996 s 173, Sch 16 para 1; amended by the Homelessness Act 2002 s 18(1), (2), Sch 1 para 1, Sch 2). Nor does the Housing Act 1985 s 106 (as amended) apply to a tenancy when the interest to the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association: s 109. For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11.

B. CONSULTATION BEFORE DISPOSAL TO PRIVATE SECTOR LANDLORD

1345. Consultation before disposal; in general.

The following provisions<sup>1</sup> have effect with respect to the duties:

- 2921 (1) of a local authority<sup>2</sup> proposing to dispose of dwelling houses<sup>3</sup> subject to secure tenancies<sup>4</sup> or introductory tenancies<sup>5</sup>; and to have regard to the views of tenants<sup>9</sup> liable as a result of the disposal to cease to be secure tenants or introductory tenants<sup>10</sup>.

The disposals to which those provisions apply are disposals by a local authority of an interest in land as a result of which a secure tenant or an introductory tenant of the authority will become the tenant of a private sector landlord<sup>11</sup>. The grant of an option which, if exercised, would result in a secure tenant or an introductory tenant of a local authority becoming the tenant of a private sector landlord is treated as a disposal of the interest which is the subject of the option<sup>12</sup>.

1 The provisions of the Housing Act 1985 s 106A, Sch 3A (as added and amended): see the text and notes 2-12 infra; and PARAS 1346-1348 post. In relation to a disposal to which Sch 3A (as added and amended) applies, the provisions of Sch 3A (as added and amended) apply in place of the provisions of s 105 (as amended) (consultation on matters of housing management: see PARA 1342 ante) in the case of secure tenants and the Housing Act 1996 s 137 (consultation on matters of housing management: see PARA 1296 ante) in the case of introductory tenants: Housing Act 1985 s 106A(2) (s 106A added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 6(1); the Housing Act 1985 s 106A(1), (2) amended by the Housing Act 1996 (Consequential Amendments) Order 1997, SI 1997/74, art 2, Schedule para 3(h)).

4 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'introductory tenancy' see PARA 1304 note 3 ante.

6 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante.

7 As to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

8 References for these purposes to the Secretary of State's or the Assembly's or minister's consent to a disposal are to the consent required by the Housing Act 1985 s 32 (as amended) or s 43 (as amended) (general requirement of consent for disposal of houses or land held for housing purposes: see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 305, 314): see Sch 3A para 2(3) (Sch 3A added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 6(2), Sch 1).

The Secretary of State's or Assembly's or minister's consent to a disposal is not invalidated by a failure on his or its part or that of the local authority to comply with the requirements of the Housing Act 1985 Sch 3A (as added and amended): see Sch 3A para 6 (as so added).

9 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

10 Housing Act 1985 s 106A(1) (as added and amended: see note 1 supra). Section 106A (as added and amended) does not, however, apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association: s 109. For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11.

11 Ibid Sch 3A para 1(1) (as added (see note 8 supra); Sch 3A para 1(1), (2) amended by the Housing Act 1996 (Consequential Amendments) Order 1997, SI 1997/74, art 2, Schedule para 3(l)). For these purposes, 'private sector landlord' means a person other than an authority or body within the Housing Act 1985 s 80 (as amended) (see PARA 1300 ante): Sch 3A para 1(4) (as so added).

Where a disposal of land by a local authority is in part a disposal to which Sch 3A (as added and amended) applies, the provisions of Sch 3A (as added and amended) apply to that part as to a separate disposal: Sch 3A para 1(3) (as so added).

1346. Application for the Secretary of State's or the Assembly etc's consent.

- 2923 (1) that the requirements as to consultation<sup>4</sup> have been complied with; or
- 2924 (2) that those requirements as to consultation have been complied with except in relation to tenants<sup>5</sup> expected to have vacated the dwelling house<sup>6</sup> in question before the disposal; and the certificate must be accompanied by a copy of the notices given<sup>7</sup> by the authority<sup>8</sup>.

Where the certificate is in the latter form, the Secretary of State or the Assembly may not determine the application until the authority certifies as regards the tenants not originally consulted:

- 2925 (a) that they have vacated the dwelling house in question; or
- 2926 (b) that the requirements as to consultation have been complied with;

and a certificate under head (b) above must be accompanied by a copy of the notices given<sup>9</sup> by the authority<sup>10</sup>.

1347. Requirements as to consultation.

The statutory requirements as to consultation<sup>1</sup> are as follows<sup>2</sup>. The authority must serve a notice in writing on the tenant<sup>3</sup> informing him of:

- 2927 (1) such details of its proposal as the authority considers appropriate, but including the identity of the person to whom the disposal is to be made;
- 2928 (2) the likely consequences of the disposal for the tenant; and and informing him that he may, within such reasonable period as may be specified in the notice, make representations to the authority<sup>7</sup>.

The authority must consider any representations made to it within that period and must serve a further written notice on the tenant informing him:

- 2930 (a) of any significant changes in the authority's proposal; and
- 2931 (b) that he may within such period as is specified, which must be at least 28 days after the service of the notice, communicate to the Secretary of State<sup>8</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>9</sup> his objection to the proposal, and, in the case of a secure tenant, informing him of the effect of the statutory provision<sup>10</sup> requiring consent to be withheld if the majority of the tenants are opposed<sup>11</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister may require the authority to carry out such further consultation with its tenants, and to give him or the Assembly or minister such information as to the results of that consultation, as he or it may direct<sup>12</sup>.

TEXT AND NOTES--Housing Act 1985 Sch 3A para 5 amended, Sch 3A para 5A added: Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 294.

1349. Heating charges.

The Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>6</sup> may by regulations require heating authorities to adopt such methods for determining heating charges<sup>7</sup> payable by such tenants as will secure that the proportion of heating costs<sup>8</sup> borne by each of those tenants is no greater than is reasonable<sup>9</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister may by regulations make provision for entitling such tenants, subject to and in accordance with the regulations, to require the heating authority:

- 2932 (1) to give them, in such form as may be prescribed by the regulations, such information as to heating charges and heating costs as may be so prescribed; and
- 2933 (2) where such information has been given, to afford them reasonable facilities for inspecting the accounts, receipts and other documents supporting the information and for taking copies or extracts from them<sup>10</sup>.

Such regulations:

- 2934 (a) may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas;
- 2935 (b) may make such procedural, incidental, supplementary and transitional provision as appears to the Secretary of State or to the Assembly or minister to be necessary or expedient, and may in particular provide for any question arising under the regulations to be referred to and determined by the county court; and
- 2936 (c) must be made by statutory instrument<sup>11</sup>.

2 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1300 note 2 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'heating authority' means a housing authority or housing action trust which operates a heating installation and supplies to premises heat produced at the installation; 'heating installation' means a generating station or other installation for producing heat; and references to heat produced at an installation include steam produced from, and air and water heated by, heat so produced: Housing Act 1985 s 108(5)(a)-(c) (amended by the Housing Act 1988 s 83(1), (3)). 'Housing authority' means a local housing authority or a new town corporation: Housing Act 1985 s 4(a) (amended by the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 129, Sch 15 para 7). For the meaning of 'local housing authority' see PARA 1311 note 4 ante; for the meaning of 'new town corporation' see PARA 1300 note 9 ante; and for the meaning of 'housing action trust' see PARA 1300 note 10 ante.

4 Housing Act 1985 s 108(1). Section 108 (as amended) does not, however, apply to a tenancy when the interest of the landlord belongs to a co-operative housing association: s 109. For the meaning of 'co-operative housing association' see PARA 1300 note 17 ante; and as to housing associations see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 11.

5 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante.

6 As to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

7 For these purposes, 'heating charge' means an amount payable to a heating authority in respect of heat produced at a heating installation and supplied to premises, including in the case of heat supplied to premises let by the authority such an amount payable as part of the rent: Housing Act 1985 s 108(5)(d).

8 For these purposes, 'heating costs' means expenses incurred by a heating authority in operating a heating installation: ibid s 108(5)(e).

9 Ibid s 108(2). At the date at which this title states the law, no such regulations had been made and none had effect as if so made. See also note 4 supra.

10 Ibid s 108(3). See also notes 4, 9 supra.

11 Ibid s 108(4). See also notes 4, 9 supra. If made by the Secretary of State, the statutory instrument by which the regulations are made is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see s 108(4).

(vii) Security of Tenure; Recovery of Possession

A. IN GENERAL

1350. Security of tenure; in general.

A secure tenancy<sup>1</sup> which is either a weekly or other periodic tenancy<sup>2</sup> or a tenancy for a term certain<sup>3</sup> but subject to termination by the landlord<sup>4</sup> cannot be brought to an end by the landlord except by obtaining:

- 2937 (1) an order of the court for the possession of the dwelling house<sup>5</sup>;
- 2938 (2) an order terminating the tenancy<sup>6</sup>; or
- 2939 (3) a demotion order<sup>7</sup>.

Where the landlord obtains an order for the possession of the dwelling house, the tenancy ends on the date on which the tenant is to give up possession in pursuance of the order<sup>8</sup>.

Where a secure tenancy is a tenancy for a term certain but with a provision for re-entry or forfeiture<sup>9</sup>, the court may not order possession of the dwelling house in pursuance of that provision; but in a case where the court would have made such an order, it must instead make an order terminating the tenancy on a date specified in the order and the statutory provisions relating to a periodic tenancy arising on the termination of a fixed term<sup>10</sup> apply<sup>11</sup>.

A secure tenancy which is a joint tenancy may be brought to an end by notice to quit served by one of the tenants<sup>12</sup> and in that case the possession proceedings brought by the local housing authority after termination of the tenancy do not violate the essence of the Convention right<sup>13</sup> to respect for private and family life<sup>14</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante. A landlord is entitled to treat a tenancy as ended by no longer being secure where the tenant condition is no longer satisfied: R v London Borough of Croydon Council, ex p Toth (1987) 20 HLR 576, CA. As to the tenant condition see PARA 1300 ante. It has, however, been held that a local authority which housed an illegal immigrant before becoming aware of his true immigration status could not deny him his statutory right of protection against unlawful eviction, as that right derived from the security of tenure which he enjoyed under the Housing Act 1985 Pt II (ss 79-117) (as amended) and the local authority's powers are not limited by public policy to render void a tenancy granted to a person unlawfully resident: see Akinbolu v Hackney London Borough Council (1996) 29 HLR 259, [1996] NPC 60, CA.

2 As to periodic tenancies see PARA 233 ante.

The landlord cannot bring the tenancy to an end by obtaining any other order, eg an order for rescission: see Islington London Borough Council v Uckac [2006] EWCA Civ 340, [2006] 1 WLR 1303, [2006] All ER (D) 441 (Mar).

8 Housing Act 1985 s 82(2). If the period of suspension of a possession order is extended, that does not of itself change the date on which the tenant is to give up possession, for the purposes of s 82(2), if that date has already arrived: Richmond v Kensington and Chelsea London Borough Council [2006] EWCA Civ 68, [2006] 1

WLR 1693, [2006] All ER (D) 193 (Feb). Where a possession order is suspended pending punctual payment of current rent and arrears and the tenant fails to comply with the terms of the order, the tenancy terminates at the moment of the breach: Thompson v Elmbridge Borough Council [1987] 1 WLR 1425, 86 LGR 245, CA. Where a possession order was made and suspended pending payment of the current rent and arrears, and the tenant was later declared bankrupt on his own petition, the secure tenancy had already ended so that the maintenance of the possession order did not constitute 'a remedy against the property of the defendant' which would have been precluded by the Insolvency Act 1986 s 285(3)(a) (see BANKRUPTCY AND INDIVIDUAL INSOLVENCY vol 3(2) (2002 Reissue) PARA 218): Harlow District Council v Hall [2006] EWCA Civ 156, [2006] 1 WLR 2116, [2006] All ER (D) 393 (Feb).

The Law of Property Act 1925 s 146 (as amended) (see PARA 619 et seq ante), except s 146(4) (see PARA 627 ante), and any other enactment or rule of law relating to forfeiture, apply in relation to proceedings for an order under the Housing Act 1985 s 82(3) as if they were proceedings to enforce a right of re-entry or forfeiture: s 82(4).

INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/ (vii) Security of Tenure; Recovery of Possession/A. IN GENERAL/1351. Demotion because of anti-social behaviour.

1351. Demotion because of anti-social behaviour.

The following provisions apply to a secure tenancy<sup>1</sup> if the landlord<sup>2</sup> is a local housing authority<sup>3</sup>, a housing action trust<sup>4</sup> or a registered social landlord<sup>5</sup>.

The landlord may apply to a county court for a demotion order<sup>6</sup>; and a demotion order has the following effect:

- 2940 (1) the secure tenancy is terminated with effect from the date specified in the order;
- 2941 (2) if the tenant<sup>7</sup> remains in occupation of the dwelling house<sup>8</sup> after that date a demoted tenancy<sup>9</sup> is created with effect from that date<sup>10</sup>;
- 2942 (3) it is a term of the demoted tenancy that any arrears of rent payable at the termination of the secure tenancy become payable under the demoted tenancy;
- 2943 (4) it is also a term of the demoted tenancy that any rent paid in advance or overpaid at the termination of the secure tenancy is credited to the tenant's liability to pay rent under the demoted tenancy<sup>11</sup>.

The court must not entertain proceedings for a demotion order unless the statutory notice requirements<sup>12</sup> are satisfied<sup>13</sup>. The procedure on a demotion claim has already been discussed in the context of proceedings for a demotion order under the Housing Act 1988<sup>14</sup>. The court must not make a demotion order unless it is satisfied that the tenant or a person residing in or visiting the dwelling house has engaged or has threatened to engage in conduct amounting to anti-social behaviour or use of the premises for unlawful purposes<sup>15</sup> and that it is reasonable to make the order<sup>16</sup>.

A demotion order may be claimed in the alternative to a possession order, in which case there are different procedural rules<sup>17</sup>.

2 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

8 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1300 note 2 ante.

9 For these purposes, a demoted tenancy is (1) a tenancy to which the Housing Act 1996 s 143A (as added) applies (see PARA 1376 post) if the landlord of the secure tenancy is a local housing authority or a housing action trust; (2) a tenancy to which the Housing Act 1988 s 20B (as added) (see PARA 1050 ante) applies if the landlord of the secure tenancy is a registered social landlord: Housing Act 1985 s 82A(8) (as added: see note 5 supra).

10 Each of the following has effect in respect of a demoted tenancy at the time it is created by virtue of an order under ibid s 82A (as added) as it has effect in relation to the secure tenancy at the time it is terminated by virtue of the order: (1) the parties to the tenancy; (2) the period of the tenancy; (3) the amount of the rent; (4) the dates on which the rent is payable: s 82A(5) (as added: see note 5 supra). Section 82A(5)(b) (as so added) (see head (2) supra) does not, however, apply if the secure tenancy was for a fixed term and in such a case the demoted tenancy is a weekly periodic tenancy: s 82A(6) (as so added). If the landlord of the demoted tenancy serves on the tenant a statement of any other express terms of the secure tenancy which are to apply to the demoted tenancy such terms are also terms of the demoted tenancy: s 82A(7) (as so added).

note 5 supra). The claimant's evidence should include details of the conduct to which the Housing Act 1996 s 153A or s 153B (each as added) applies and in respect of which the demotion claim is made: see PARA 1066 note 22 ante.

Certain functions under provisions mentioned in these paragraphs are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

1351 Demotion because of anti-social behaviour

TEXT AND NOTE 15--For 'conduct ...unlawful purposes' read 'housing-related anti-social conduct, or conduct to which the 1996 Act s 153B applies': 1985 Act s 82A(4)(a) (s 82A(4)(a) amended, s 82A(7A) added by the Police and Justice Act 2006 Sch 14 para 12(2), (3)). In the 1985 Act s 82A(4)(a), 'housing-related anti-social conduct' has the same meaning as in the 1996 Act s 153A: 1985 Act s 82A(7A).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/ (vii) Security of Tenure; Recovery of Possession/A. IN GENERAL/1352. Notice of proceedings for possession, termination or demotion; in general.

1352. Notice of proceedings for possession, termination or demotion; in general.

The court may not entertain proceedings for an order<sup>1</sup> for the possession of a dwelling house<sup>2</sup> let on a secure tenancy<sup>3</sup>, an order terminating the tenancy or a demotion order<sup>4</sup> unless:

2944 (1) the landlord<sup>5</sup> has served a notice on the tenant<sup>6</sup> complying with the following provisions; or 2945 (2) the court considers it just and equitable to dispense with the requirement of such a notice<sup>7</sup>.

A notice under head (1) above must:

2946 (a) be in a form prescribed by regulations<sup>8</sup> made by the Secretary of State<sup>9</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>10</sup>;

2947 (b) specify the ground on which the court will be asked to make the order; and 2948 (c) give particulars of that ground<sup>11</sup>.

Where the tenancy is a periodic tenancy and the ground or one of the grounds specified in the notice is Ground 2 (nuisance or other anti-social behaviour)<sup>12</sup>, the notice must also state that proceedings for the possession of the dwelling house may be begun immediately<sup>13</sup> and specify the date<sup>14</sup> sought by the landlord as the date on which the tenant is to give up possession of the dwelling house<sup>15</sup>. The notice ceases to be in force 12 months after the date so specified<sup>16</sup>.

Where the tenancy is a periodic tenancy and Ground 2<sup>17</sup> is not specified in the notice, the notice must also specify the date<sup>18</sup> after which proceedings for the possession of the dwelling house may be begun<sup>19</sup>. The notice ceases to be in force 12 months after the date so specified<sup>20</sup>.

If the proceedings are for a demotion order<sup>21</sup> the notice must specify the date<sup>22</sup> after which the proceedings may be begun<sup>23</sup> and ceases to be in force 12 months after the date so specified<sup>24</sup>.

Where a notice under these provisions is served with respect to a secure tenancy for a term certain, it has effect also with respect to any periodic tenancy arising<sup>25</sup> on the termination of that tenancy<sup>26</sup>.

Where, after the service of such a notice, the ownership of the dwelling houses is transferred to a registered social landlord which does not satisfy the landlord condition in the Housing Act 1985 s 80 (as amended) (see PARA 1300 ante), service of the notice under s 83 (as amended) cannot be relied upon to found proceedings for possession under the Housing Act 1988 (see PARA 1100 et seq ante) without amendment of the pleadings or the service of a fresh notice under that Act: see Knowsley Housing Trust v Revell, Helena Housing Ltd v Curtis [2003] EWCA Civ 496, [2004] LGR 236, [2003] All ER (D) 137 (Apr).

For the prescribed forms of notice to be served before the court may entertain proceedings: (1) for possession of a dwelling house let under a secure tenancy which is a periodic tenancy see the Secure Tenancies (Notices) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/755, reg 2(1), Schedule Pt I (amended by SI 1997/71; SI 1997/377); (2) for possession of a dwelling house let under a secure tenancy which is a tenancy for a term certain, and for possession of the dwelling house let under that tenancy see the Secure Tenancies (Notices) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/755, reg 2(2), Schedule Pt II; and (3) for a demotion order see reg 3, Schedule Pt III (added in relation to England by SI 2004/1627 and in relation to Wales by SI 2005/1226). A form substantially to the same effect may be used: see the Secure Tenancies (Notices) Regulations 1987, SI 1987/755, reg 2(1), (2), reg 3 (as so added); and Dudley Metropolitan Borough Council v Bailey (1990) 22 HLR 424, [1991] 1 EGLR 53, CA. 14 The date specified in accordance with ibid s 83(3), (4) or (4A) (as substituted and amended) must not be earlier than the date on which the tenancy could, apart from Pt IV (ss 79-117) (as amended), be brought to an end by notice to quit given by the landlord on the same date as the notice under s 83 (as substituted and amended): s 83(5) (as substituted and amended: see note 7 supra).

1350-1352 Security of tenure; in general...Notice of proceedings for possession, termination or demotion; in general

Certain functions under provisions mentioned in these paragraphs are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

1352 Notice of proceedings for possession, termination or demotion; in general

NOTE 7--As to failure by landlord to follow statutory scheme for evicting a tenant, see Application 19009/04 McCann v United Kingdom [2009] 1 FCR 390, ECtHR (notice to quit procured from one joint tenant dispossessed other tenant of home); and CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 152. The landlord's right to seek possession is a purely statutory rather than a proprietary right. It follows that where a tenant dishonestly withholds a fact from the landlord in order to avoid being served with a notice for possession within the applicable time limit, this will give rise to an estoppel by representation rather than a proprietary estoppel, which cannot be relied on to found an action for possession: Newport City Council v Charles [2008] EWCA Civ 1541, [2009] 1 WLR 1884, [2009] All ER (D) 12 (Feb).

1353. Notice of proceedings for possession; additional requirements.

Where a notice in the prescribed form<sup>1</sup> has been served on a tenant<sup>2</sup> containing the following information<sup>3</sup>, that is that proceedings for the possession of the dwelling house<sup>4</sup> may be begun immediately and specifying the date sought by the landlord<sup>5</sup> as the date on which the tenant is to give up possession of the dwelling house, the court may not entertain proceedings for the possession of the dwelling house unless they are begun at a time when the notice is still in force<sup>6</sup>.

Where a notice<sup>7</sup> has been served on a tenant and a date after which proceedings may be begun has been specified in the notice<sup>8</sup>, the court may not entertain proceedings for the possession of the dwelling house unless they are begun after the date so specified and at a time when the notice is still in force<sup>9</sup>.

Where the ground or one of the grounds specified in a notice<sup>10</sup> is Ground 2A (domestic violence)<sup>11</sup>, and the partner who has left the dwelling house as mentioned in that ground is not a tenant of the dwelling house, the court may not entertain proceedings for the possession of the dwelling house unless it is satisfied that the landlord has served a copy of the notice on the partner who has left or has taken all reasonable steps to serve a copy of the notice on that partner<sup>12</sup>; but this requirement as to service may be dispensed with where Ground 2 (nuisance or anti-social behaviour)<sup>13</sup> is also specified in the notice and the court considers it just and equitable to dispense with the service requirement<sup>14</sup>. Similarly, where Ground 2A is added to a notice<sup>15</sup> with the leave of the court after proceedings for possession are begun, and the partner who has left the dwelling house as mentioned in that ground is not a party to the proceedings, the court may not continue to entertain the proceedings unless it is satisfied that the landlord has served a notice containing the specified information<sup>16</sup> on the partner who has left or has taken all reasonable steps to serve such a notice on that partner<sup>17</sup>. Where, however, Ground 2 is also specified in the first-mentioned notice, the court may dispense with the requirements as to service in relation to the partner who has left the dwelling house if it considers it just and equitable to do so<sup>18</sup>.

INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/ (vii) Security of Tenure; Recovery of Possession/A. IN GENERAL/1354. Grounds and orders for possession; in general.

1354. Grounds and orders for possession; in general.

The court may not make an order for the possession of a dwelling house<sup>1</sup> let under a secure tenancy<sup>2</sup> except on one or more of the specified<sup>3</sup> grounds<sup>4</sup>.

The court may not make an order for possession:

- 2949 (1) on Grounds 1 to 8<sup>5</sup>, unless it considers it reasonable to make the order<sup>6</sup>;
- 2950 (2) on Grounds 9 to 11<sup>7</sup>, unless it is satisfied that suitable accommodation<sup>8</sup> will be available for the tenant<sup>9</sup> when the order takes effect<sup>10</sup>;
- 2951 (3) on Grounds 12 to 16<sup>11</sup>, unless it both considers it reasonable to make the order and is satisfied that suitable accommodation will be available for the tenant when the order takes effect<sup>12</sup>.

Where a notice in the prescribed form<sup>13</sup> has been served on the tenant, the court may not make such an order on any of the above grounds unless the ground is specified in the notice; but the grounds so specified may be altered or added to with the leave of the court<sup>14</sup>. Furthermore, where a date is specified in such a notice as the date sought by the landlord<sup>15</sup> as the date on which the tenant is to give up possession of the dwelling house<sup>16</sup>, the court may not make an order which requires the tenant to give up possession of the dwelling house in question before the date so specified<sup>17</sup>.

Where possession is sought by the landlord and the tenant is claiming to exercise the right to buy<sup>18</sup>, the court will normally hear both claims together in order to balance the parties' competing claims<sup>19</sup>.

The propriety of a landlord council's policy is not a factor relevant to the exercise of discretion, since the trial judge is concerned, not with the propriety or impropriety of a policy rule, but with the reasonableness in the particular case of ordering possession: see London Borough of Barking and Dagenham v Hyatt and Hyatt (1991) 24 HLR 406, CA. In considering whether it is reasonable to make a possession order, it is relevant to have in mind that, if a possession order is made, the date of possession can be postponed, or the execution of the order stayed or suspended, under the powers conferred by the Housing Act 1985 s 85(2), (3) (see PARA 1356 post): Norwich City Council v Famuyiwa [2004] EWCA Civ 1770, (2005) Times, 24 January, [2004] All ER (D) 332 (Dec). ### 1354 Grounds and orders for possession; in general

1355. Suitability of accommodation.

Accommodation is suitable<sup>1</sup> if it consists of premises which are to be let as a separate dwelling:

- 2952 (1) under a secure tenancy<sup>2</sup>; or
- 2953 (2) under a protected tenancy<sup>3</sup>, not being a tenancy under which the landlord might recover possession under one of the Cases in the Rent Act 1977 where the court must order possession<sup>4</sup>; or
- 2954 (3) under an assured tenancy<sup>5</sup> which is neither an assured shorthold tenancy<sup>6</sup> nor a tenancy under which the landlord might recover possession under any of the specified grounds in the Housing Act 1988<sup>7</sup>, and in the opinion of the court the accommodation is reasonably suitable to the needs of the tenant<sup>8</sup> and his family<sup>9</sup>.

In determining whether the accommodation is reasonably suitable to the needs of the tenant and his family, regard must be had to:

- 2955 (a) the nature of the accommodation which it is the practice of the landlord<sup>10</sup> to allocate to persons with similar needs;
- 2956 (b) the distance of the accommodation available from the place of work or education of the tenant and of any members of his family<sup>11</sup>;
- 2957 (c) its distance from the home of any member of the tenant's family if proximity to it is essential to that member's or the tenant's well-being;
- 2958 (d) the needs, as regards extent of accommodation, and means of the tenant and his family;
- 2959 (e) the terms on which the accommodation is available and the terms of the secure tenancy;
- 2960 (f) if furniture was provided by the landlord for use under the secure tenancy, whether furniture is to be provided for use in the other accommodation and, if so, the nature of the furniture to be provided<sup>12</sup>.

Where possession of a dwelling house<sup>13</sup> is sought on Ground 9<sup>14</sup>, other accommodation may be reasonably suitable to the needs of the tenant and his family notwithstanding that the permitted number of persons for that accommodation<sup>15</sup> is less than the number of persons living in the dwelling house of which possession is sought<sup>16</sup>.

A certificate of the appropriate local housing authority<sup>17</sup> that it will provide suitable accommodation for the tenant by a date specified in the certificate is conclusive evidence that suitable accommodation will be available for him by that date<sup>18</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/ (vii) Security of Tenure; Recovery of Possession/A. IN GENERAL/1356. Extended discretion of the court in certain proceedings for possession.

1356. Extended discretion of the court in certain proceedings for possession.

Where proceedings are brought for possession of a dwelling house<sup>1</sup> let under a secure tenancy<sup>2</sup> on any of Grounds 1 to 8<sup>3</sup> and Grounds 12 to 16<sup>4</sup>, the court may adjourn the proceedings for such period or periods as it thinks fit<sup>5</sup>.

On the making of an order for possession of such a dwelling house on any of those grounds, or at any time before the execution of the order, the court may:

- 2961 (1) stay or suspend the execution of the order; or
- 2962 (2) postpone the date of possession, for such period or periods as the court thinks fit<sup>6</sup>.

On such an adjournment, stay, suspension or postponement the court:

- 2963 (a) must impose conditions with respect to the payment by the tenant<sup>7</sup> of arrears of rent, if any, and rent or payments in respect of occupation after the termination of the tenancy (mesne profits), unless it considers that to do so would cause exceptional hardship to the tenant or would otherwise be unreasonable; and
- 2964 (b) may impose such other conditions as it thinks fit<sup>8</sup>.

If the conditions are complied with, the court may, if it thinks fit, discharge or rescind the order for possession<sup>9</sup>.

Where proceedings are brought for possession of a dwelling house which is let under a secure tenancy and:

- 2965 (i) the tenant's spouse or former spouse, or civil partner or former civil partner, having home rights under Part IV of the Family Law Act 1996<sup>10</sup>, is then in occupation of the dwelling house;
- 2966 (ii) the tenancy is terminated as a result of those proceedings, the spouse or former spouse, or the civil partner or former civil partner, so long as he or she remains in occupation, has the same rights in relation to, or in connection with, any adjournment, stay, suspension or postponement in pursuance of the above provisions as he or she would have if those home rights were not affected by the termination of the tenancy<sup>11</sup>.

If proceedings are brought for possession of a dwelling house which is let under a secure tenancy and:

- 2967 (A) an order is in force<sup>12</sup> conferring rights on the former spouse or former civil partner of the tenant or an order is in force<sup>13</sup> conferring rights on a cohabitant or former cohabitant<sup>14</sup> of the tenant;
- 2968 (B) the former spouse, former civil partner, cohabitant or former cohabitant is then in occupation of the dwelling house; and
- 2969 (C) the tenancy is terminated as a result of those proceedings, the former spouse, former civil partner, cohabitant or former cohabitant has, so long as he or she remains in occupation, the same rights in relation to, or in connection with, any adjournment, stay, suspension or postponement in pursuance of the above provisions as he or she would have if the rights conferred by the order referred to in head (i) above were not affected by the termination of the tenancy<sup>15</sup>.

2 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARAS 1300-1301 ante.

3 I.e. the Housing Act 1985 s 84(2)(a), Sch 2 Pt I, Grounds 1-8 (as amended): see PARAS 1357-1365 post.

5 Ibid s 85(1).

6 Ibid s 85(2). A judge is not obliged to set an absolute date for possession on the face of the order; it is therefore lawful for him to make an order which sets out a date for possession but provides that the date will be postponed and the tenancy will continue so long as the conditions set out in the order continue to be satisfied: Bristol City Council v Hassan, Bristol City Council v Glastonbury [2006] EWCA Civ 656, [2006] 4 All ER 420, [2006] 1 WLR 2582. For a suggested form of order see Bristol City Council v Hassan, Bristol City Council v Glastonbury supra at [39]; for the prescribed form of order see Practice Direction--Forms PD 4, Table 1, Form N28A. Where the discretion under the Housing Act 1985 s 85(2) is not exercised, the reasons for making an immediate possession order must be stated: see Gallagher v Castle Vale Action Trust Ltd [2001] EWCA Civ 944, 33 HLR 810, [2001] All ER (D) 409 (Feb). For a case where the court's exercise of its discretion to suspend a possession order was overturned on appeal see Manchester City Council v Higgins [2005] EWCA Civ 1423, [2006] 1 All ER 841, [2005] 48 EG 222 (CS). The Housing Act 1985 s 85(2) does not deprive the court of its power to set aside a writ of possession even after execution: Governors of the Peabody Donation Fund v Hay (1986) 19 HLR 145, CA, distinguished in Brent London Borough Council v Botu [2000] 11 LS Gaz R 40, [2000] All ER (D) 298, CA. However, the court has no power under the Housing Act 1985 s 85(2) to postpone the date of possession under a previous order for possession in circumstances where possession has been given up by the tenant without the need for execution of the order: Dunn v Bradford Metropolitan District Council, Marston v Leeds City Council [2002] EWCA Civ 1137, [2003] HLR 154, [2002] All ER (D) 479 (Jul).

Where the court has made an order postponing the date for possession under the Housing Act 1985 s 85(2)(b) (see head (2) in the text), then if the defendant fails to comply with any of the terms of the order which relate to payment, the claimant, after following the procedure set out in Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 10.3, may apply for an order fixing the date upon which the defendant has to give up possession of the property; and unless the court further postpones the date for possession, the defendant will be required to give up possession on that date: paras 10.1, 10.2. At least 14 days and not more than three months before applying for such an order, the claimant must give written notice to the defendant which must: (1) state that the claimant intends to apply for an order fixing the date upon which the defendant is to give up possession of the property; (2) record the current arrears and state how the defendant has failed to comply with the order postponing the date for possession by reference to a statement of the rent account enclosed with the notice; (3) request that the defendant reply to the claimant within seven days, agreeing or disputing the stated arrears; and (4) inform the defendant of his right to apply to the court: (a) for a further postponement of the date for possession; or (b) to stay or suspend enforcement: paras 10.3, 10.4. In his reply to the notice, the defendant must: (i) where he disputes the stated arrears, provide details of payments or credits made; (ii) where he agrees the stated arrears, explain why payments have not been made: para 10.5. An application for an order under para 10.2 must be made by filing an application notice in accordance with CPR Pt 23 (see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 304 et seq) which must state whether or not there is any outstanding claim by the defendant for housing benefit: Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 10.6. The claimant must file the following documents with the application notice: (A) a copy of the notice referred to in PARA 10.3; (B) a copy of the defendant's reply, if any, to the notice and any relevant subsequent correspondence between the claimant and the defendant; (C) a statement of the rent account showing either the arrears that have accrued since the first failure to pay in accordance with the order referred to in PARA 10.2 or the arrears that have accrued during the period of two years immediately preceding the date of the application notice, where the first such failure to pay occurs more than two years before that date: para 10.7. CPR 23.2.3-CPR 23.2.5 (dealing with applications without a hearing), CPR 23.7 (service of a copy of an application notice), and CPR 23.10 (right to set aside or vary an order made without service of the application notice) do not apply to such an application: Practice Direction--Possession Claims PD 55 para 10.8. On being filed, the application will be referred to the district judge who will normally determine the application without a hearing by fixing the date for possession as the next working day but, if he considers that a hearing is necessary, will fix a date for the application to be heard and direct service of the application notice and supporting evidence on the defendant: para 10.9. The court does not have jurisdiction to review a decision that it was reasonable to make an order for possession: para 10.10.

The tenant is not entitled to notice of an application for a warrant of possession and the warrant may be executed without the tenant's knowledge: Leicester City Council v Aldwinckle (1991) 24 HLR 40, CA, followed in Hammersmith and Fulham London Borough Council v Hill (1994) 92 LGR 665, 27 HLR 368, CA and applied in Jephson Homes Housing Association v Moisejevs [2001] 2 All ER 901, [2000] EGCS 123, CA (a possession warrant obtained and executed without fault on anyone's part could not properly be set aside as oppressive merely because of the court's sympathy towards the tenant's plight and its realisation that he would have been well advised to make an application under the Housing Act 1985 s 85(2)). The procedure adopted under the Housing Act 1985 leading to the court issuing a warrant of possession and arrangements for execution following non-compliance by the tenant with a suspended order for possession has been held not to breach the tenant's right to a fair trial under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (Rome, 4 November 1950; TS 71 (1953) (Cmd 8969)), art 6(1), now set out in the Human Rights Act 1998 s 1(3), Sch 1 Pt I art 6 or the right to respect for private and family life under the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (1950) art 8 now set out in the Human Rights Act 1998 Sch 1 Pt I art 8: see Southwark London Borough Council v St Brice [2001] EWCA Civ 1138, [2002] 1 WLR 1537, [2002] LGR 117. There is no free-standing duty on a court or landlord to positively inform a tenant of any right to apply to the court to set aside a warrant of possession prior to execution providing nothing misleading is communicated: Southwark London Borough Council v Pommels [2001] All ER (D) 336 (Mar). Cf Lambeth London Borough Council v Hughes [2000] All ER (D) 622, CA (local housing authority ought not to have sent out a letter suggesting that a tenant had no remedy except by payment of the whole rent arrears, since a tenant had the possibility of applying to the court for a suspension without having to pay all the arrears; the fact that a housing officer had advised the tenant to obtain legal advice did not save the execution of the warrant from being oppressive). There is no good reason why an authority should not send out an eviction notice in plenty of time so as to allow a person who is going to be evicted adequate time to apply to suspend the warrant: Lambeth London Borough Council v Hughes supra. As to warrants of possession see further CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 12 (2009) PARAS 1247, 1292.

Where the power to postpone a possession order is exercised, liberty to apply to the court is implicit, without the need to start new proceedings, and the court has jurisdiction to make a new order, even if the old order has not expired or if the new order will provide for possession to be given up forthwith: see Manchester City Council v Finn [2002] EWCA Civ 1998, [2003] HLR 596, [2002] All ER (D) 299 (Dec).

The legislation does not confine the court, in exercising the discretion given to it under the Housing Act 1985 s 85(2), to consideration of the grounds for seeking possession initially relied on by a landlord in giving a tenant notice of his intention to seek possession, nor is the court restricted by the grounds actually relied on by the landlord in his claim for possession; however, that does not mean that a landlord will always be allowed to rely on other matters in opposing an application for a stay or suspension of a warrant for possession, because it is clear that there may be circumstances in which it will be wrong to allow him to do so: see Sheffield City Council v Hopkins [2001] EWCA Civ 1023, [2002] 1 P & CR D7, [2001] All ER (D) 196 (Jun).

7 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

8 Housing Act 1985 s 85(3). An agreement between a local authority and a secure tenant who is in arrears to the effect that a possession order (whether suspended on conditions or immediate and unconditional) obtained by reason of the arrears will not be executed provided the tenant observes the conditions of the agreement does not operate to create a new secure tenancy requiring the local authority to obtain a further possession order in the event of the tenant not observing the conditions; s 85(2),(3)(a) demonstrate that the original tenancy terminated by a possession order can be revived at any time until the original order is executed: see Burrows v Brent London Borough Council [1996] 4 All ER 577, [1996] 1 WLR 1448, HL, applied in Brent London Borough Council v Knightley [1997] 3 FCR 7, [1997] 2 FLR 1, CA, and followed in Lambeth London Borough Council v Rogers [2000] LGR 191, 32 HLR 361, CA.

9 Housing Act 1985 s 85(4). If, however, the tenant is in breach of the conditions, the tenancy terminates as from the moment of the breach: see Thompson v Elmbridge Borough Council [1987] 1 WLR 1425, 86 LGR 245, CA (cited in PARA 1350 note 8 ante). A former tenant remaining in occupation with the agreement of the landlord is a tolerated trespasser unless the facts are such as to give rise to the inference that a new tenancy has been created: see eg Swindon Borough Council v Aston [2002] EWCA Civ 1850, [2003] 2 P & CR 309, [2002] All ER (D) 325 (Dec) (arrears of rent finally paid off; held that on the facts of that case a new tenancy had been created); cf Marshall v Bradford Metropolitan District Council [2001] EWCA Civ 594, [2002] HLR 428, [2001] All ER (D) 211 (Apr) (no revival of secure tenancy once arrears of rent paid off). See also Hackney London Borough Council v Porter (1996) 29 HLR 401, CA. A tolerated trespasser still retains the exclusive occupation and possession of the property and has a sufficient interest in the premises to sustain a claim in trespass or nuisance both against a third party and against the council: see Pemberton v Southwark London Borough Council [2000] 3 All ER 924, [2000] 1 WLR 1672, CA. The Law Commission has recommended the abolition of the 'troublesome' concept of tolerated trespass: see Renting Homes: The Final Report (Law Com No 297) (2006) PARA 4.55.

1356 Extended discretion of the court in certain proceedings for possession

TEXT AND NOTES 8-15--Housing Act 1985 s 85 further amended to prevent the creation in future of 'tolerated trespassers': Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 299, Sch 11 para 3, Sch 16 (partly in force: SI 2009/1261). For transitional provisions see Sch 11 para 14 (partly in force: SI 2009/1261). The Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 Sch 11 Pt 2 provides that where before the commencement of the Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 299 a tenant has already become a tolerated trespasser, a new tenancy will arise. The Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 Sch 11 Pt 2 applies with modifications to successor landlord cases (see Sch 11 para 24(2)): Housing (Replacement of Terminated Tenancies) (Successor Landlords) (England) Order 2009, SI 2009/1262; Housing (Replacement of Terminated Tenancies) (Successor Landlords) (Wales) Order 2009, SI 2009/1262.

NOTE 9--On the true construction of the 1985 Act s 85, it is open to the court to include a proleptic discharge provision in a suspended order for possession; the wording of s 85 does not preclude it from effectively committing itself in advance to discharging a suspended order, provided that certain conditions are complied with and neither party seeks in the meantime to vary the terms of the discharge provision: Knowsley Housing Trust v White; Honeygan-Green v Islington LBC; Porter v Shepherds Bush Housing Association [2008] UKHL 70, [2009] 2 All ER 829, overruling Swindon and Marshall, both cited. ## B. GROUNDS FOR POSSESSION

(A) WHERE POSSESSION ORDER REASONABLE

1357. Ground 1: non-payment of rent or breach of other obligation.

The court may make an order for possession<sup>1</sup>, if it considers it reasonable to do so, where rent lawfully due from the tenant<sup>2</sup> has not been paid or an obligation of the tenancy<sup>3</sup> has been broken or not performed<sup>4</sup>.

Where the proceedings are based solely on the ground of non-payment of rent, then if the tenant unreasonably fails to comply with the terms of the relevant pre-action protocol<sup>5</sup> the court may take such failure into account when considering whether it is reasonable to make a possession order and the landlord may be liable to sanctions if it unreasonably fails to comply with the terms of the protocol<sup>6</sup>.

INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/ (vii) Security of Tenure; Recovery of Possession/B. GROUNDS FOR POSSESSION/(A) Where Possession Order Reasonable/1358. Ground 2: nuisance or annoyance or immoral or illegal use.

1358. Ground 2: nuisance or annoyance or immoral or illegal use.

The court may make an order for possession<sup>1</sup>, if it considers it reasonable to do so, where the tenant<sup>2</sup> or a person residing in or visiting the dwelling house<sup>3</sup>:

- 2970 (1) has been guilty of conduct causing or likely to cause a nuisance or annoyance to a person residing, visiting or otherwise engaging in a lawful activity in the locality; or
- 2971 (2) has been convicted of:
- 179 20. (a) using the dwelling house or allowing it to be used for immoral or illegal purposes; or
- 21. (b) an indictable offence committed in, or in the locality of, the dwelling house<sup>4</sup>.
- 180

If the court is considering<sup>5</sup> whether it is reasonable to make an order for possession on this ground, the court must consider, in particular:

- 2972 (i) the effect that the nuisance or annoyance has had on persons other than the person against whom the order is sought;
- 2973 (ii) any continuing effect the nuisance or annoyance is likely to have on such persons;
- 2974 (iii) the effect that the nuisance or annoyance would be likely to have on such persons if the conduct is repeated<sup>6</sup>.

A possession order may be granted on this ground notwithstanding that the tenant has no personal knowledge of the nuisance caused by persons residing in or visiting the property in question or that there has been no personal fault on the part of the tenant for it; but this does not create strict or absolute liability on the part of the tenant. When deciding whether an order should be made, the extent of the personal knowledge or blame on the part of the tenant is a relevant consideration but the court has also to balance the interests of the tenant and his family with those of the neighbours, because it would be intolerable if the neighbours were deprived of all relief due to an ineffectual tenant who was unable to control the actions of those residing in or visiting the property<sup>7</sup>.

In appropriate cases where the tenant's behaviour may be attributable to some form of mental impairment, the court must take the provisions of the Disability Discrimination Act 1995<sup>8</sup> into account when deciding whether or not to make a possession order on this ground<sup>9</sup>. The Court of Appeal has stated that sending a warning letter to a tenant about his conduct does not subject him to a detriment within the meaning of the 1995 Act; however at that stage the local housing authority would be wise to consider whether it will be able to justify bringing possession proceedings against him because of the effect of his behaviour on the health or safety of one or more of his neighbours<sup>10</sup>.

NOTES--Certain functions under provisions mentioned in this paragraph are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

NOTE 6--Unless there is cogent evidence providing a real hope that the person against whom possession is sought has mended his ways, an outright order for possession should be granted: Sandwell MBC v Hensley [2007] EWCA Civ 1425, [2008] HLR 358, [2008] All ER (D) 34 (Jan). Ground 2A; domestic violence.

1359. Ground 2A; domestic violence.

The court may make an order for possession<sup>1</sup>, if it considers it reasonable to do so, where the dwelling house<sup>2</sup> was occupied, whether alone or with others, by a married couple, a couple who are civil partners of each other, a couple living together as husband and wife or a couple living together as if they were civil partners and:

- 2975 (1) one or both of the partners is a tenant<sup>3</sup> of the dwelling house;
- 2976 (2) one partner has left because of violence or threats of violence by the other towards that partner, or towards a member of the family<sup>4</sup> of that partner who was residing with that partner immediately before the partner left<sup>5</sup>; and
- 2977 (3) the court is satisfied that the partner who has left is unlikely to return<sup>6</sup>.

There are additional notice requirements where possession is sought on this ground<sup>7</sup>.

It has been held that the existence of this statutory mechanism to obtain possession on the grounds of domestic violence by a tenant does not of itself render other methods of achieving the same result unlawful; where notice to quit can be given, there is no justification for requiring a different mechanism to be used, particularly as the statutory route is likely to be lengthy and expensive<sup>8</sup>.

1360. Ground 3: deterioration in condition of premises.

The court may make an order for possession<sup>1</sup>, if it considers it reasonable to do so, where the condition of the dwelling house<sup>2</sup> or of any of the common parts<sup>3</sup> has deteriorated owing to acts of waste by, or the neglect or default of, the tenant<sup>4</sup> or a person residing in the dwelling house and, in the case of an act of waste by, or the neglect or default of, a person lodging with the tenant or a subtenant of his, the tenant has not taken such steps as he ought reasonably to have taken for the removal of the lodger or subtenant<sup>5</sup>.

Cf the Housing Act 1988 s 7(2), Sch 2 Pt II, Ground 17 (as added); and PARA 1127 ante. There is no comparable provision in the Rent Act 1977; but see Killick v Roberts [1991] 4 All ER 289, [1991] 1 WLR 1146, CA (cited in PARA 820 note 10 ante). As to the court's extended discretion in such proceedings see PARA 1356 ante. Notwithstanding the risk that, if a tenant is evicted on this ground, he may be declared intentionally homeless, the question of reasonableness is primarily for the trial judge and the Court of Appeal should be slow to differ from a judge who thinks it of prime importance that deceitful applications should be discouraged: see Rushcliffe Borough Council v Watson (1991) 24 HLR 124, CA. When a defendant has deliberately lied to obtain public housing, the court will only consider the effect of the homelessness legislation in exceptional circumstances; however, factors which are relevant include the nature and degree of any untrue statements, the circumstances in which they were made and whether they were made deliberately or recklessly. The court may also consider the situation in which a defendant finds himself or herself, but ought to bear in mind the importance of honesty in such matters: Shrewsbury and Atcham Borough Council v Evans (1997) 30 HLR 123, CA; and see Lewisham London Borough Council v Adeyemi [1999] EGCS 74, CA.

'Instigate' in this context means more than to tolerate, but to bring about, to urge or to incite: see Merton London Borough Council v Richards [2005] HLR 722, [2005] All ER (D) 152 (May), CA.

1368 Ground 10A: redevelopment schemes

TEXT AND NOTE 6--Reference to Housing Corporation treated as reference to the Regulator of Social Housing: Transfer of Housing Corporation Functions (Modifications and Transitional Provisions) Order 2008, SI 2008/2839.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(2) SECURE TENANCIES/ (vii) Security of Tenure; Recovery of Possession/B. GROUNDS FOR POSSESSION/(B) Where Suitable Alternative Accommodation Available/1369. Approval of redevelopment schemes.

1369. Approval of redevelopment schemes.

The Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>8</sup> may, on the application of the landlord, approve a variation of a scheme previously approved by him or by it and may in particular approve a variation adding land to the area subject to the scheme<sup>9</sup>.

Where a landlord proposes to apply to the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister<sup>10</sup> for the approval of a scheme or variation, it must serve a notice in writing on any secure tenant<sup>11</sup> of a dwelling house affected by the proposal stating:

- 2987 (1) the main feature of the proposed scheme or, as the case may be, the scheme as proposed to be varied;
- 2988 (2) that the landlord proposes so to apply for approval of the scheme or variation; and
- 2989 (3) the effect of such approval<sup>12</sup> in relation to proceedings for possession of the dwelling house, and informing the tenant that he may, within such period as the landlord may allow, which must be at least 28 days from service of the notice, make representations to the landlord about the proposal<sup>13</sup>. The landlord may not so apply until it has considered any representations made to it within that period<sup>14</sup>.

In considering whether to give his or its approval to a scheme or variation, the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>15</sup> must take into account, in particular:

- 2990 (a) the effect of the scheme on the extent and character of housing accommodation in the neighbourhood;

- 2991 (b) over what period of time it is proposed that the disposal and redevelopment will take place in accordance with the scheme; and and he or the Assembly or minister must take into account any representations made to him or to it and, so far as they are brought to his or its notice, any representations made to the landlord<sup>16</sup>. The landlord must give to the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister such information as to the representations made to it, and other relevant matters, as the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister may require<sup>17</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>18</sup> may not approve a scheme or variation so as to include in the area subject to the scheme:

- 2993 (i) part only of one or more dwelling houses; or 2994 (ii) one or more dwelling houses not themselves affected by the works involved in redevelopment but which are proposed to be disposed of along with other land which is so affected, unless he or it is satisfied that the inclusion is justified in the circumstances<sup>19</sup>.

Approval may be given subject to conditions and may be expressed to expire after a specified period<sup>20</sup>, and where approval is given subject to conditions, the landlord may serve a notice of proceedings for possession<sup>21</sup> specifying Ground 10A<sup>22</sup> notwithstanding that the conditions are not yet fulfilled, but the court may not make an order for possession on that ground unless satisfied that they are or will be fulfilled<sup>23</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>24</sup> may, on the application of the landlord or otherwise, vary an approval so given so as to:

- 2995 (A) add, remove or vary conditions to which the approval is subject; or 2996 (B) extend or restrict the period after which the approval is to expire<sup>25</sup>.

1 Where the landlord is a social landlord registered in the register maintained by the Housing Corporation under the Housing Act 1996 s 1 (as amended), the Housing Corporation and not the Secretary of State has the functions conferred by the Housing Act 1985 s 84(2)(b), Sch 2 Pt V (as added and amended): Sch 2 Pt V para 6 (Sch 2 Pt V added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 9(2); the Housing Act 1985 Sch 2 Pt V para 6 amended by the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 140, Sch 16 para 21(3)). ## (3) DEMOTED TENANCIES

(i) Tenancies which are Demoted Tenancies

1376. Demoted tenancies; in general.

- 3011 (1) the landlord<sup>4</sup> is either a local housing authority<sup>5</sup> or a housing action trust<sup>6</sup>;
- 3012 (2) the tenant condition<sup>7</sup> is satisfied<sup>8</sup>;
- 3013 (3) the tenancy is created<sup>9</sup> by virtue of a demotion order<sup>10</sup>.

- 3014 (a) either head (1) or (2) above ceases to be satisfied<sup>14</sup>;

- 3015 (b) the demotion order is quashed<sup>15</sup>;
- 3016 (c) the tenant dies and no one is entitled to succeed to the tenancy<sup>16</sup>.

If at any time before the end of the demotion period the landlord serves a notice of proceedings for possession of the dwelling house<sup>17</sup>, the tenancy continues as a demoted tenancy until the end of the demotion period or, if later, until any of the following occurs:

- 3017 (i) the notice of proceedings is withdrawn by the landlord<sup>18</sup>;
- 3018 (ii) the proceedings are determined in favour of the tenant<sup>19</sup>;
- 3019 (iii) the period of six months beginning with the date on which the notice is served ends and no proceedings for possession have been brought<sup>20</sup>.

A tenancy does not come to an end merely because it ceases to be a demoted tenancy<sup>21</sup>.

Certain functions under provisions mentioned in these paragraphs are 'relevant functions' for the purposes of the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions Act 2008 s 4, Sch 3, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 733.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(3) DEMOTED TENANCIES/(ii) Rights of Succession and Assignment/1378. Succession to demoted tenancy.

(ii) Rights of Succession and Assignment

1378. Succession to demoted tenancy.

If the tenant<sup>1</sup> under a demoted tenancy<sup>2</sup> dies, and the tenant was a successor<sup>3</sup>, the tenancy ceases to be a demoted tenancy but does not become a secure tenancy<sup>4</sup>. In any other case where the tenant under a demoted tenancy dies, a person is qualified to succeed the tenant if:

- 3022 (1) he occupies the dwelling house<sup>5</sup> as his only or principal home<sup>6</sup> at the time of the tenant's death;
- 3023 (2) he is a member of the tenant's family<sup>7</sup>; and
- 3024 (3) he has resided with the tenant throughout the period of 12 months ending with the tenant's death<sup>8</sup>.

If only one person is qualified to succeed under heads (1) to (3) above the tenancy vests in him<sup>9</sup>. If, however, there is more than one such person, the tenancy vests in the person preferred in accordance with the following rules:

- 3025 (a) the tenant's spouse or civil partner or, if the tenant has neither spouse nor civil partner, a person living together with the tenant as a couple in an enduring family relationship<sup>10</sup> is to be preferred to another member of the tenant's family<sup>11</sup>;
- 3026 (b) if there are two or more other members of the tenant's family the person preferred may be agreed between them or, if there is no such agreement, selected by the landlord<sup>12</sup>.

If the demoted tenant dies and no person is qualified to succeed to the tenancy as mentioned in heads (1) to (3) above, the tenancy ceases to be a demoted tenancy if either of the following provisions applies:

- 3027 (i) the tenancy is vested or otherwise disposed of in the course of administration of the tenant's estate, unless the vesting or other disposal is in pursuance of a property adjustment order made in connection with matrimonial proceedings<sup>13</sup>, a property adjustment order after an overseas divorce, etc<sup>14</sup>, an order for financial relief against a parent<sup>15</sup> or a property adjustment order<sup>16</sup> in connection with civil partnership proceedings or after overseas dissolution of a civil partnership<sup>17</sup>; or 3028 (ii) it is known that when the tenancy is vested or otherwise disposed of in the course of the administration of the tenant's estate it will not be in pursuance of an order mentioned in head (i) above<sup>18</sup>.

A tenancy which so ceases to be a demoted tenancy cannot subsequently become a secure tenancy<sup>19</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1286 note 5 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'demoted tenancy' see PARA 1376 ante.

3 A person is a successor to a secure tenancy which is terminated by a demotion order (see PARA 1351 ante) if any of the following provisions applies to him (Housing Act 1996 s 143J(1, (2)) (ss 143H-143J, 143P added by the Anti-social Behaviour Act 2003 s 14(5), Sch 1 para 1):

- 41 (1) the tenancy vested in him (a) by virtue of the Housing Act 1985 s 89 (as amended) (succession to periodic secure tenancy on death of tenant: see PARA 1321 ante) or the Housing Act 1996 s 133 (as amended) (succession to introductory tenancy: see PARA 1291 ante); (b) under the will or intestacy of the preceding tenant (s 143J(3) (as so added));
- 42 (2) the tenancy arose by virtue of the Housing Act 1985 s 86 (periodic tenancy arising on termination of fixed term: see PARA 1321 ante) and the original fixed term was granted (a) to another person; or (b) to him jointly with another person (Housing Act 1996 s 143J(4) (as so added));

If a local housing authority<sup>1</sup> or a housing action trust<sup>2</sup> is the landlord<sup>3</sup> of a demoted tenancy<sup>4</sup>, it must from time to time publish information about the demoted tenancy in such form as it thinks best suited to explain in simple terms and so far as it considers appropriate the effect of:

- 3030 (2) the statutory provisions relating to demoted tenancies<sup>6</sup>; and
- 3031 (3) the landlord's repairing obligations<sup>7</sup>.

The landlord must ensure that any such information is, so far as is reasonably practicable, kept up to date<sup>8</sup>. Further, the landlord must supply the tenant<sup>9</sup> with:

(iv) Proceedings for Possession

1382. In general.

The landlord<sup>1</sup> may only bring a demoted tenancy<sup>2</sup> to an end by obtaining an order of the court<sup>3</sup> for possession of the dwelling house<sup>4</sup>. The court must make an order for possession unless it thinks that the procedure for bringing proceedings for possession<sup>5</sup> has not been followed<sup>6</sup>. If the court makes such an order, the tenancy comes to an end on the date on which the tenant is to give up possession in pursuance of the order<sup>7</sup>.

Proceedings for possession of a dwelling house let under a demoted tenancy must not be brought unless the landlord has served on the tenant<sup>8</sup> a notice of proceedings<sup>9</sup>. The notice must:

- 3034 (1) state that the court will be asked to make an order for the possession of the dwelling house<sup>10</sup>;
- 3035 (2) set out the reasons for the landlord's decision to apply for the order<sup>11</sup>;
- 3036 (3) specify the date after which proceedings for the possession of the dwelling house may be begun<sup>12</sup>;
- 3037 (4) inform the tenant of his right to request a review of the landlord's decision and of the time within which the request must be made<sup>13</sup>.

The notice must also inform the tenant that if he needs help or advice about the notice, or about what to do about the notice, he must take the notice immediately to a citizens' advice bureau, a housing aid centre, a law centre or a solicitor<sup>14</sup>.

A copy of the notice to the tenant so served must be attached to the particulars of claim<sup>15</sup>.

If a person takes proceedings in the High Court which, by virtue of the Housing Act 1996 s 143N (as so added), he could have taken in the county court he is not entitled to recover any costs: s 143N(4) (as so added).

The date so specified must not be earlier than the date on which the tenancy could, apart from Pt V Ch 1A (ss 143A-143P) (as added and amended), be brought to an end by notice to quit given by the landlord on the same date as the notice of proceedings: s 143E(3) (as so added). PARAS 1386-2000)/22. INTRODUCTORY, SECURE AND DEMOTED TENANCIES/(3) DEMOTED TENANCIES/(iv) Proceedings for Possession/1383. Landlord's review of decision to seek possession.

1383. Landlord's review of decision to seek possession.

Before the end of the period of 14 days beginning with the date of service of a notice for possession<sup>1</sup> of a dwelling house<sup>2</sup> let under a demoted tenancy<sup>3</sup>, the tenant<sup>4</sup> may request the landlord<sup>5</sup> to review its decision to seek an order for possession<sup>6</sup>. If such a request is made, the landlord must review the decision<sup>7</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>8</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>9</sup> may by regulations<sup>10</sup> make provision as to the procedure to be followed in connection with such a review<sup>11</sup>. Those regulations may include provision:

- 3038 (1) requiring the decision on review to be made by a person of appropriate seniority who was not involved in the original decision<sup>12</sup>;
- 3039 (2) as to the circumstances in which the tenant is entitled to an oral hearing, and whether and by whom he may be represented at the hearing<sup>13</sup>.

The landlord under the demoted tenancy must give the tenant not less than five clear days' notice of the date of the review<sup>14</sup>. Where the tenant so requests<sup>15</sup>, the review is to be by way of an oral hearing<sup>16</sup> and if the tenant makes such a request the landlord must, when giving the tenant notice of the date of the review, also inform the tenant of the time and place at which the review will be heard<sup>17</sup>.

Whether or not the review is to be by way of an oral hearing:

- 3040 (a) the tenant may make written representations to the landlord in connection with the review;
- 3041 (b) such representations must be received by the landlord not less than two clear days before the date of the review; and
- 3042 (c) the landlord must consider any such representations which are received by that date<sup>18</sup>.

The review must be carried out by a person who was not involved in the decision; and where the review is of a decision made by an officer of the landlord and is to be carried out by another officer, the officer reviewing the decision must occupy a more senior position within the organisation of the landlord<sup>19</sup>.

Where the review is to be by way of an oral hearing, the tenant must have the right to be heard and to be accompanied or to be represented by another person, whether or not that person is professionally qualified<sup>20</sup>. The tenant or his representative may call persons to give evidence at the hearing and put questions to any person who gives evidence at the hearing<sup>21</sup>. The procedure in connection with a review by way of an oral hearing is otherwise<sup>22</sup> to be such as the person carrying out the review determines<sup>23</sup>. Where notice has been given to the tenant<sup>24</sup> and neither the tenant nor his representative appears at the hearing, the person carrying out the review may, having regard to all the circumstances, either proceed with the hearing or give such directions with a view to the conduct of the review as he considers appropriate<sup>25</sup>. The tenant may request the landlord to postpone a hearing of which notice has been given<sup>26</sup> and the landlord may grant or refuse the request<sup>27</sup>. If the hearing is postponed the landlord must give the tenant reasonable notice of the date, time and place of the postponed hearing<sup>28</sup>.

A hearing may be adjourned by the person carrying out the review at any time, either on that person's own initiative or at the request of the tenant, his representative or the landlord<sup>29</sup>.

Where more than one person is carrying out the review by way of an oral hearing, the hearing must be adjourned on each occasion on which any of those persons is absent, unless the tenant or his representative agrees otherwise<sup>30</sup>. The landlord must give the tenant reasonable notice of the date, time and place of the adjourned hearing<sup>31</sup> and, if the person carrying out the review at the adjourned hearing is not the same person as the person who was carrying out the review at the earlier hearing, the review must proceed by way of a complete rehearing of the case unless the tenant, or his representative, agrees otherwise<sup>32</sup>.

The landlord must notify the tenant of the decision on the review and of the reasons for the decision<sup>33</sup>. The review must be carried out and notice so given before the date specified in the notice of proceedings as the date after which proceedings for possession of the dwelling house may be begun<sup>34</sup>.

(4) COUNTY COURT JURISDICTION

1385. Jurisdiction of the county court.

A county court has jurisdiction to determine any question arising under the statutory provisions relating to secure tenancies<sup>1</sup> and to entertain proceedings brought thereunder and claims, for whatever amount, in connection with a secure tenancy<sup>2</sup>. That jurisdiction includes jurisdiction to entertain proceedings on the following questions:

- 3045 (1) whether a consent required on an assignment by way of exchange<sup>3</sup> was withheld otherwise than on one or more of the specified grounds<sup>4</sup>;
- 3046 (2) whether a landlord's consent to subletting part of a dwelling house<sup>5</sup> or to carrying out improvements<sup>6</sup> was withheld or unreasonably withheld; or
- 3047 (3) whether a written statement of certain terms of the tenancy<sup>7</sup> is accurate, notwithstanding that no other relief is sought than a declaration<sup>8</sup>.

A county court also has jurisdiction:

- 3048 (a) to determine questions arising under the statutory provisions relating to introductory tenancies<sup>9</sup> and to entertain proceedings brought thereunder and claims, for whatever amount, in connection with an introductory tenancy<sup>10</sup>;
- 3049 (b) to determine questions arising under the statutory provisions relating to demoted tenancies<sup>11</sup> and to entertain proceedings brought thereunder and claims, for whatever amount, in connection with a demoted tenancy<sup>12</sup>.

The statutory rights of appeal from a county court to the High Court or the Court of Appeal have already been discussed<sup>13</sup>. No appeal lies on a question of fact in proceedings in which either the claimant or defendant is claiming the possession of any premises if, by virtue of the statutory provisions which restrict the making or giving of orders for the recovery of possession of dwelling houses let on secure tenancies<sup>14</sup>, the court can only grant possession if it is reasonable to do so<sup>15</sup>.

23. ENLARGEMENT OF LONG TERMS

1386. In general.

Where a residue unexpired of not less than 200 years of a term which, as originally created, was for not less than 300 years, is subsisting in land<sup>1</sup>, whether being the whole land originally comprised in the term, or part only thereof:

3050 (1) without any trust or right of redemption affecting the term in favour of the freeholder, or other person entitled in reversion expectant on the term; and the term may be enlarged into a fee simple in the following manner, and subject to the following restrictions<sup>5</sup>.

3051 (2) without any rent, or with merely a peppercorn rent or other rent having no money value<sup>2</sup>, incident to the reversion, or having had a rent, not being merely a peppercorn rent or other rent having no money value, originally so incident, which subsequently has been released or has become barred by lapse of time<sup>3</sup>, or has in any other way ceased to be so payable<sup>4</sup>;

The right so to enlarge a term:

3052 (a) applies to and includes every such term whenever created, whether or not having the freehold as the immediate reversion thereon; but does not apply to any term liable to be determined by re-entry for condition broken or any term created by sub-demise out of a superior term, itself capable of being enlarged into fee simple<sup>6</sup>;

3053 (b) extends to mortgage terms, where the right of redemption is barred<sup>7</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'land' see PARA 17 note 1 ante.

2 A rent of three shillings (Re Smith and Stott (1883) 29 ChD 1009n) or apparently one shilling (Blaiberg v Keeves [1906] 2 Ch 175) was held to have been a rent having a money value; but not a rent of 'one silver penny, if lawfully demanded' (Re Chapman and Hobbs (1885) 29 ChD 1007, where importance was attached to the words 'if lawfully demanded'). For the meaning of 'rent' see PARA 551 note 3 ante.

3 The reference to rents being barred by lapse of time appears to be a mistake. So long as the term subsists, mere non-payment does not extinguish the rent; this can always be recovered with six years' arrears (Grant v Ellis (1841) 9 M & W 113; Archbold v Scully (1861) 9 HL Cas 360; and see LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARA 1062); but a release may be presumed from non-payment for a length of time (see Lefroy v Walsh (1851) 1 ICLR 311; Tennent v Neil (1870) IR 5 CL 418, Ex Ch; Blaiberg v Keeves [1906] 2 Ch 175).

4 For these purposes, a rent not exceeding the yearly sum of £1 which has not been collected or paid for a continuous period of 20 years or upwards is deemed to have ceased to be payable: Law of Property Act 1925 s 153(4) (amended by the Statute Law (Repeals) Act 2004). Where a rent incident to a reversion expectant on such a term is deemed to have ceased to be so payable, no claim for such rent or for any arrears therefor is capable of being enforced: Law of Property Act 1925 s 153(5).

5 Ibid s 153(1). Except where otherwise expressly provided s 153 (as amended) applies to leases created before, on or after 1 January 1926; and 'lease' includes an underlease or other tenancy: s 154.

6 Ibid s 153(2). See also note 5 supra.

7 Ibid s 153(3). See also note 5 supra. Where a mortgagee acquires a title under the Limitation Act 1980, he may enlarge his term into a fee simple under the Law of Property Act 1925 s 88(3): see LIMITATION PERIODS vol 68 (2008) PARA 1099; MORTGAGE vol 77 (2010) PARA 447. ### 1387. By whom power to enlarge may be exercised.

Each of the following persons, namely:

3055 (2) any person being in receipt of income<sup>5</sup> as trustee, in right of the term, or having the term vested in him as a trustee of land, whether subject to any incumbrance or not;

3056 (3) any person in whom, as personal representative<sup>6</sup> of any deceased person, the term is vested, whether subject to any incumbrance or not;

has power to enlarge a long term<sup>7</sup>.

1 'Incumbrance' includes a legal or equitable mortgage and a trust for securing money, and a lien, and a charge of a portion, annuity or other capital or annual sum: Law of Property Act 1925 s 205(1)(vii).

2 For the meaning of 'possession' see PARA 485 note 2 ante.

5 'Income' includes rents and profits: Law of Property Act 1925 s 205(1)(xix).

As to the terms capable of enlargement see PARA 1386 ante; as to the exercise of the power of enlargement see PARA 1388 post; and as to the application of the Law of Property Act 1925 s 153 (as amended) see PARA 1386 note 5 ante.

1388. Exercise of power of enlargement.

Any person having the right to enlarge a long term<sup>1</sup> has power, so far as regards the land<sup>2</sup> to which he is entitled, or in which he is interested in right of the term, in any such character, by deed to declare to the effect that, from and after the execution of the deed, the term shall be enlarged into a fee simple<sup>3</sup>. Thereupon<sup>4</sup> the term becomes and is enlarged accordingly; and the person in whom the term was previously vested acquires and has in the land a fee simple instead of the term<sup>5</sup>.

The estate in fee simple so acquired by enlargement:

3057 (1) is subject to all the same trusts, powers, executory limitations over, rights and equities, and to all the same covenants and provisions relating to user and enjoyment, and to all the same obligations of every kind, as the term would have been subject to if it had not been so enlarged<sup>6</sup>;

3058 (2) includes, whether the term was originally created without impeachment for waste or not, the fee simple in all mines and minerals<sup>7</sup> which at the time of the enlargement have not been severed in right or in fact, or have not been severed or reserved by an inclosure Act<sup>8</sup> or award<sup>9</sup>.

Where, however:

3059 (a) any land so held for the residue of a term has been settled in trust by reference to other land, being freehold land, so as to go along with that other land, or, in the case of settlements<sup>10</sup> coming into operation after 1 January 1926, so as to go along with that other land as far as the law permits<sup>11</sup>; and

3060 (b) at the time of enlargement, the ultimate beneficial interest in the term, whether subject to any subsisting particular estate or not, has not become absolutely and indefeasibly vested in any person, free from charges or powers of charging created by a settlement, the estate in fee simple so acquired is, without prejudice to any conveyance<sup>12</sup> for value previously made by a person having a contingent or defeasible interest in the term, liable to be, and is to be, conveyed by means of a subsidiary vesting instrument<sup>13</sup> and settled in like manner as the other land, being freehold land, and, until so conveyed and settled, devolves beneficially as if it had been so conveyed and settled<sup>14</sup>.

24. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES

(1) RIGHT TO ENFRANCHISEMENT OR EXTENSION

(i) In general

1389. Right to enfranchisement or extended lease.

Part I of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967<sup>1</sup> has effect to confer on a tenant of a leasehold house<sup>2</sup> a right to acquire on fair terms<sup>3</sup> the freehold or<sup>4</sup> an extended lease of the house and premises<sup>5</sup> where:

3061 (1) his tenancy is a long tenancy<sup>6</sup> at a low rent<sup>7</sup> and:

22. (a) if the tenancy was entered into before 1 April 1990 or on or after 1 April 1990 in pursuance of a contract made before that date, and the house and premises had a rateable value<sup>8</sup> at the date of commencement of the tenancy or else at any time before 1 April 1990, the rateable value of the house and premises was below the relevant limit on the appropriate day<sup>9</sup>; and

23. (b) if the tenancy does not fall within head (a) above, on the date the contract for the grant of the tenancy was made or, if there was no such contract, on the date that the tenancy was entered into, the amount calculated according to a formula based on the premium paid did not exceed £25,000<sup>10</sup>; and

3062 (2) at the relevant time, that is say at the time when he gives notice of his desire to have the freehold or to have an extended lease, as the case may be, he has been tenant of the house under a long tenancy at a low rent for the last two years<sup>11</sup>, and to confer the like right in the other cases<sup>12</sup> for which provision is made<sup>13</sup>.

The right to enfranchisement is extended to houses whose value or rent exceeds the applicable limit but the right to an extended lease remains governed by that limit<sup>14</sup>.

The right to enfranchisement has been held not to infringe the landlord's Convention rights to a fair hearing or to the peaceful enjoyment of his possessions<sup>15</sup>.

1    le the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended): see the text and notes 2-14 infra; and PARA 1390 et seq post.

3    See PARA 1439 et seq post.

4    For these purposes, the word 'or' is used conjunctively; and a tenant is entitled, provided that notice of his desire to have the freehold is given not later than the original term date of the tenancy, to claim the freehold and an extended lease: Mosley v Hickman (1986) 52 P & CR 248 at 250, CA, per Fox LJ.

5    For the meaning of 'premises' see PARA 1391 post.

6    For the meanings of 'tenancy' and 'long tenancy' see PARA 1398 post.

7    For these purposes, the references to a long tenancy at a low rent do not include a tenancy excluded from the operation of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended) by s 33A, Sch 4A (as added) (see PARA 1410 et seq post): s 1(1A) (added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 18, Sch 4 paras 3, 11). For the meaning of 'low rent' see PARA 1403 post. It should be noted that although the basic condition of the right to enfranchise remains that the tenancy must be one at a low rent, any tenancy that fails to meet the original low rent test introduced by the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 as originally enacted, or which fails to meet the alternative test introduced in 1993, is deemed to be a tenancy at a low rent unless it is an excluded tenancy: see PARAS 1397, 1402 post. The practical effect is that in the vast majority of cases the low rent test is no longer a qualifying condition.

8    As to the rateable value of a house see PARAS 1392-1396 post; as to the abolition of domestic rates see PARA 521 ante; and as to the certification of a rateable value in certain cases see PARA 523 ante.

9    See the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1(1)(a)(i) (as substituted and amended), s 1(5), (6) (as added); and PARAS 1392-1394 post. For the meaning of 'the appropriate day' see PARA 1392 note 4 post.

10   See ibid s 1(1)(a)(ii) (as substituted and amended); and PARA 1395 post.

1389 Right to enfranchisement or extended lease

TEXT AND NOTES 7-14--Leasehold Reform Act 1967 ss 1(1)(a), (b), (1A), 1A further amended, s 1(1)(aa) added, s 1AA repealed: Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 300, Sch 16 (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/2096). For transitional provisions and savings see SI 2009/2096 art 3.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/24. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(1) RIGHT TO ENFRANCHISEMENT OR EXTENSION/(i) In general/1390. Meaning of 'house'.

1390. Meaning of 'house'.

'House' includes<sup>1</sup> any building designed or adapted for living in<sup>2</sup> and reasonably so called, notwithstanding that the building is not structurally detached, or was or is not solely designed or adapted for living in, or is divided horizontally into flats or maisonettes; and:

3063 (1) where a building is divided horizontally, the flats or other units into which it is so divided are not separate 'houses', though the building as a whole may be; and 3064 (2) where a building is divided vertically, the building as a whole is not a 'house', though any of the units into which it is divided may be<sup>3</sup>.

References to a house<sup>4</sup> do not, however, apply to a house which is not structurally detached<sup>5</sup> and of which a material part lies above or below a part of the structure not comprised in the house<sup>6</sup>.

Whether a building may reasonably be called a 'house' is a question of law and, even if a building may also reasonably be called something else, it is a house if it is within the statutory definition; if it is designed or adapted for living in, it requires exceptional circumstances to justify a court in holding that it is not a 'house'<sup>7</sup>. Three things must be looked at to find what is the house:

3065 (a) the lease itself;

3066 (b) the portion occupied as a residence; and 3067 (c) the physical condition of the structure<sup>8</sup>.

The following have been held to be a 'house' for these purposes; a four-floor Victorian house of which the ground floor had been sublet as a licensed betting office<sup>9</sup>; a two-storey building with a shop on the ground floor and living accommodation on the first floor<sup>10</sup>; a building comprising, on the ground floor, a shop connected to the shop next door through a hole in the party wall and, in the upper part, residential rooms, the shop and upper part being served by separate entrances in different streets<sup>11</sup>; a house run by the tenant as a private guest house in conjunction with the house next door, the two being linked by an internal opening at first floor level<sup>12</sup>; a semi-detached house enjoying the use of the ground floor front room of the house next door linked by an opening in the party wall<sup>13</sup>; a house divided horizontally into two maisonettes, which came into the same leasehold ownership and between which the owner opened a connecting door<sup>14</sup>; and a building divided horizontally into two flats, with two front doors on the ground floor<sup>15</sup>.

1     le for the purposes of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended): see PARA 1389 ante, PARA 1391 et seq post.

2     The true test is whether the premises are so designed or adapted viewed as at the moment when notice of the desire to acquire the freehold or an extended lease under ibid Pt I (as amended) is given: see Mallett & Sons (Antiques) Ltd v Grosvenor West End Properties Ltd, Boss Holdings Ltd v Grosvenor West End Properties Ltd [2006] EWCA Civ 594, [2006] 1 WLR 2848, [2006] All ER (D) 301 (Mar) (in the first claimant's case, the property had been adapted for commercial, rather than residential, use; in the second claimant's case, the property was too dilapidated for residential use; held that the judge had been correct in deciding that neither property was a 'house' for the statutory purposes).

3     Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 2(1). As to what is included in the house and premises see PARA 1391 post.

4     le in ibid Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended).

5     For these purposes, 'structurally detached' means detached from any other structure: Parson v Viscount Gage (Trustee of Henry Smith's Charity) [1974] 1 All ER 1162 at 1164, [1974] 1 WLR 435 at 439, HL, per Lord Wilberforce.

6     Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 2(2). For these purposes, 'material part' refers to a material part of the house to be enfranchised, not to a material part of the building of which the house forms part or to a material part of the structure to which the house or the part of the house is attached; thus the materiality depends on the relationship between the part of the house in question and the house as a whole. A part of a 'house' does not become a 'material part' for the purposes of s 2(2) on account of its importance or significance or materiality to premises which form no part of the 'house'; nor will a part of a house become a 'material part' on account of some special use to which a particular occupant may put, or propose to put, the part: see Malekshad v Howard De Walden Estates Ltd [2002] UKHL 49, [2003] 1 AC 1013, [2003] 1 All ER 193, disapproving dictum of Stephenson LJ in Parsons v Trustees of Henry Smith's Charity [1973] 3 All ER 23 at 30, [1973] 1 WLR 845 at 854, CA, and Duke of Westminster v Birrane [1995] QB 262, [1995] 3 All ER 416, CA.

1390 Meaning of 'house'

NOTE 9--A large Victorian building originally built as a house and retaining the inward and outward appearance of a house, but of which offices comprised nearly 90 per cent of the floor space, was not a 'house': Prospect Estates Ltd v Grosvenor Estate Belgravia [2008] EWCA Civ 1281, [2009] 1 WLR 1313, [2008] All ER (D) 202 (Nov).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/24. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(1) RIGHT TO ENFRANCHISEMENT OR EXTENSION/(i) In general/1391. Meaning of 'premises'.

1391. Meaning of 'premises'.

Where, in relation to a house<sup>1</sup> let to a tenant, reference is made<sup>2</sup> to the house and premises, the reference to 'premises' is to be taken as referring to any garage, outhouse, garden, yard and appurtenances<sup>3</sup> which at the relevant time<sup>4</sup> are let to him with the house<sup>5</sup>.

In relation to the exercise by a tenant of any right to enfranchisement or extension<sup>6</sup> there are to be treated as included in the house and premises any other premises let with the house and premises but not at the relevant time subject to a tenancy vested in him, whether in consequence of an assignment of the term therein or otherwise, if:

- 3068 (1) the landlord at the relevant time has an interest in the other premises and, not later than two months after the relevant time, gives to the tenant written notice<sup>7</sup> objecting to the further severance of them from the house and premises; and
- 3069 (2) either the tenant agrees to their inclusion with the house and premises or the court is satisfied that it would be unreasonable to require the landlord to retain them without the house and premises<sup>8</sup>.

In relation to the exercise by a tenant of any right to enfranchisement or extension<sup>9</sup> there is to be treated as not included in the house and premises any part of them which lies above or below other premises, not consisting only of underlying mines or minerals, if:

- 3070 (a) the landlord at the relevant time has an interest in the other premises and, not later than two months after the relevant time, gives to the tenant written notice objecting to the further severance from them of that part of the house and premises; and
- 3071 (b) either the tenant agrees to the exclusion of that part of the house and premises or the court is satisfied that any hardship or inconvenience likely to result to the tenant from the exclusion, when account is taken of anything that can be done to mitigate its effects and of any undertaking of the landlord to take steps to mitigate them, is outweighed by the difficulties involved in the further severance from the other premises and any hardship or inconvenience likely to result from that severance to persons interested in those premises<sup>10</sup>.

The rights to enfranchisement and extension conferred on a tenant in relation to any house and premises do not, however, extend to underlying minerals comprised in the tenancy<sup>11</sup> if the landlord requires that the minerals be excepted, and if proper provision is made for the support of the house and premises as they have been enjoyed during the tenancy and in accordance with its terms<sup>12</sup>.

2 le in the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended): see PARAS 1389-1390 ante, PARA 1392 et seq post.

3 For these purposes, 'appurtenances' is not to be construed strictly according to its original meaning of incorporeal rights, but includes land within the curtilage of the house: Methuen-Campbell v Walters [1979] QB 525, [1979] 1 All ER 606, CA. In the absence of any statutory definition, 'curtilage' bears its restricted and established meaning connoting a small area forming part and parcel with the house or building which it contains or to which it is attached: Dyer v Dorset County Council [1989] QB 346, 86 LGR 686, CA.

4 For these purposes, 'relevant time' means, in relation to a person's claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended), the time when he gives notice in accordance with that Act of his desire to have it: s 37(1)(d).

6 le any right conferred by the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (as amended).

8 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 2(4) (amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 138(4), Sch 14). Where, by virtue of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 2(4) (as so amended), a tenant of a house acquiring the freehold or an extended lease is required to include premises of which the tenancy is not vested in him, Pt I (as amended) applies for the purpose as if in the case of those premises a tenancy on identical terms were vested in him and the holder of the actual tenancy were a subtenant: s 2(7). As to subtenants see PARA 1513 et seq post.

9 See note 6 supra.

10 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 2(5). As to the notice see note 7 supra; and as to the court having jurisdiction see PARA 1529 post.

Where, by virtue of s 2(5) or s 2(6) (see the text and notes 11-12 infra), a tenant of a house acquiring the freehold or an extended lease is required to exclude property of which the tenancy is vested in him, then, unless the landlord and tenant otherwise agree or the court for the protection of either of them from hardship or inconvenience otherwise orders, the grant to the tenant operates as a surrender of the tenancy in that property and the provision to be made by the grant must be determined as if the surrender had taken place before the relevant time: s 2(7).

12 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 2(6). See also note 10 supra.

(ii) Houses and Premises to which Right to Enfranchisement or Extension Applies

1392. Value limits.

The right to acquire the freehold of a leasehold house no longer depends upon the value of the house<sup>1</sup> and premises<sup>2</sup>.

The right to acquire an extended lease is, however, conferred upon the tenant of a leasehold house only if the combined value of the house and premises does not exceed the prescribed amount. If the tenancy was entered into before 1 April 1990 or on or after that date in pursuance of a contract made before that date, and the house and premises had a rateable value<sup>3</sup> at the date of commencement of the tenancy or else at any time before 1 April 1990, the prescribed amount is based on the rateable value on the appropriate day<sup>4</sup>. Otherwise the prescribed amount is ascertained by reference to a formula based on the premium paid for the tenancy<sup>5</sup>.

2 See the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1A(1) (as added); and PARA 1396 post; s 1AA(1) (as added); and PARA 1397 post. The practical effect of s 1A(1) (as added) is that since 1 November 1993 rateable value and other financial limits have been abolished as a qualifying condition to acquire the freehold by virtue of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967. For the meaning of 'premises' see PARA 1391 ante.

3 The Rent Act 1977 s 25(1), (2), (4) (see PARA 859 ante) applies to the ascertainment of the rateable value of a house and premises or any other property as it applies to the ascertainment of that of a dwelling house for the purposes of the Rent Act 1977: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 37(6) (amended by the Rent Act 1977 s 155(2), Sch 23 para 44). As to the abolition of domestic rates see PARA 521 ante; and as to the certification of a rateable value in certain cases see PARA 523 ante.

4 See the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1(1)(a)(i) (as substituted and amended), s 1(5), (6) (as added); and PARAS 1394-1395 post. The Housing Act 1974 s 118, Sch 8 (as amended) (see PARA 1393 post) has effect to enable a tenant to have a rateable value of the house and premises reduced for purposes of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1 (as amended) in consequence of tenant's improvements: s 1(4A) (added by the Housing Act 1980 s 141, Sch 21 para 2).

Alterations in rateable values which had retrospective effect for rating purposes to 1 April 1973 were intended to have like retrospective effect for the purposes of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967: Macfarquhar v Phillimore, Marks v Phillimore (1986) 53 P & CR 44, 18 HLR 397, CA.

For these purposes, 'the appropriate day', in relation to any house and premises, means 23 March 1965, or such later day as, by virtue of the Rent Act 1977 s 25(3) (see PARA 859 ante), would be the appropriate day for the purposes of that Act in relation to a dwelling house consisting of that house: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1(4) (amended by the Rent Act 1977 Sch 23 para 42). The appropriate day is to be determined by reference to the date when the house, as opposed to the house and premises, was first rated: Dixon v Allgood [1987] 3 All ER 1082, [1987] 1 WLR 1689, HL. Cf, however, Neville v Cowdray Trust Ltd [2006] EWCA Civ 709, [2006] 1 WLR 2097, [2006] All ER (D) 65 (May), cited in PARA 1404 note 7 post.

5 See the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1(1)(a)(ii) (as substituted and amended); and PARA 1395 post.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/24. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(1) RIGHT TO ENFRANCHISEMENT OR EXTENSION/(ii) Houses and Premises to which Right to Enfranchisement or Extension Applies/1393. Adjustment of rateable value.

1393. Adjustment of rateable value.

Where the tenant<sup>1</sup>, or any previous tenant, has made or contributed to the cost of an improvement on the premises<sup>2</sup> comprised in the tenancy<sup>3</sup>, and the improvement has been made by the execution of works amounting to structural alteration, extension or addition, then, if the tenant serves on the landlord<sup>4</sup> a notice in the prescribed form<sup>5</sup> requiring him to agree a reduction, their rateable value<sup>6</sup> must be reduced by such amount, if any, as may be agreed or determined in accordance with the following provisions<sup>7</sup>.

The amount of any such reduction may at any time be agreed in writing between the landlord and the tenant<sup>8</sup>.

Where, at the expiration of a period of six weeks from the service of the tenant's notice any of the following matters has not been agreed in writing between the landlord and the tenant, that is to say:

- 3072 (1) whether the improvement specified in the notice is an improvement made by the execution of works amounting to structural alteration, extension or addition;
- 3073 (2) what works were involved in it;
- 3074 (3) whether the tenant or a previous tenant under the tenancy has made it or contributed to its cost; and
- 3075 (4) what proportion his contribution, if any, bears to the whole cost, the county court may, on the application of the tenant, determine that matter<sup>9</sup>; and any such application must be made within six weeks from the expiration of that period or such longer time as the court may allow<sup>10</sup>.

Where, after the service of such a notice, it is agreed in writing between the landlord and the tenant or determined by the county court:

- 3076 (a) that the improvement specified in the notice is an improvement made by the execution of works amounting to structural alteration, extension or addition, and what works were involved in it; and
- 3077 (b) that the tenant or a previous tenant under the tenancy has made it or contributed to its cost and, in the latter case, what proportion his contribution bears to the whole cost, then, if at the expiration of a period of two weeks from the agreement or determination it has not been agreed in writing between the landlord and the tenant whether any or what reduction is to be made under these provisions, and the tenant, within four weeks from the expiration of that period, makes an application to the valuation officer for a certificate, that question must be determined<sup>11</sup> in accordance with the certificate unless the landlord and the tenant otherwise agree in writing<sup>12</sup>.

An application for such a certificate must be in the prescribed form<sup>13</sup> and must state the name and address of the landlord<sup>14</sup>; and, on any such application, the valuation officer must certify:

- 3078 (i) whether or not the improvement has affected the rateable value on 1 April 1973<sup>15</sup> of the hereditament of which the premises consist or, as the case may be, in which they are wholly or partly comprised; and
- 3079 (ii) if it has, the amount by which the rateable value would have been less if the improvement had not been made<sup>16</sup>.

The valuation officer must send a copy of the certificate to the landlord<sup>17</sup>.

1 There is no statutory definition of 'tenant' for these purposes; but it is apprehended that 'tenant' is to be construed in accordance with the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 5(1) (see PARA 1432 note 1 post).

2 There is no statutory definition of 'premises' for these purposes; but it is apprehended that 'premises' is to be construed in accordance with ibid s 2 (as amended) (see PARA 1391 ante).

1394. Tenancies entered into before 1 April 1990.

If the tenancy<sup>1</sup> is a long tenancy<sup>2</sup> at a low rent<sup>3</sup> and was entered into before 1 April 1990 or on or after 1 April 1990 in pursuance of a contract made before that date, and the house<sup>4</sup> and premises<sup>5</sup> had a rateable value<sup>6</sup> at the date of commencement of the tenancy or else at any time before 1 April 1990, the tenancy is one to which the right to acquire an extended lease<sup>7</sup> applies if the rateable value of the house and premises on the appropriate day<sup>8</sup> was not more than £200 or, if it is Greater London<sup>9</sup>, not more than £400<sup>10</sup>.

If, in relation to any house and premises:

- 3080 (1) the appropriate day for the above purposes falls before 1 April 1973; and
- 3081 (2) the rateable value of the house and premises on the appropriate day was more than £200 or, if it was then in Greater London, £400; and
- 3082 (3) the tenancy was created on or before 18 February 1966<sup>11</sup>, the above provisions<sup>12</sup> have effect in relation to the house and premises as if for the reference to the appropriate day there were substituted a reference to 1 April 1973 and as if for the sums of £200 and £400 there were substituted respectively the sums of £750 and £1,500<sup>13</sup>.

If, in relation to any house and premises, the appropriate day for the above purposes falls on or after 1 April 1973, the above provisions<sup>14</sup> have effect in relation to the house and premises:

- 3083 (a) in a case where the tenancy was created on or before 18 February 1966, as if for the sums of £200 and £400 there were substituted respectively the sums of £750 and £1,500; and
- 3084 (b) in a case where the tenancy was created after 18 February 1966, as if for those sums of £200 and £400 there were substituted respectively the sums of £500 and £1,000<sup>15</sup>.

1396. Houses where the value exceeds the applicable limit.

Whether the tenant<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> is entitled to enfranchise no longer depends upon the value limits of the house<sup>3</sup>; but, where the applicable financial limit is exceeded, the tenant is liable to pay a price increased by such amount as is necessary to compensate the landlord for loss or damage caused to the landlord as the owner of other property by reason of the tenant's enfranchising<sup>4</sup>.

3 Where the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1(1) (as amended) (see PARAS 1389, 1392, 1394-1395 ante) would apply in the case of the tenant of a house but for the fact that the applicable financial limit specified in s 1(1)(a) (i) or (ii) (as substituted and amended) or, as the case may be s 1(5) or (6) (as added) (see PARA 1394 ante) is exceeded, Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended) (see PARA 1389 et seq ante, PARA 1398 et seq post) has effect to confer on the tenant the same right to acquire the freehold of the house and premises as would be conferred by s 1(1) (as amended) if that limit were not exceeded: s 1A(1) (added by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 63). Where the statutory right to enfranchisement or extension<sup>1</sup> would apply in the case of the tenant<sup>2</sup> of a house<sup>3</sup> but for the fact that the tenancy<sup>4</sup> is not a tenancy at a low rent<sup>5</sup>, and the tenancy is not an excluded tenancy<sup>6</sup>, Part I of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967<sup>7</sup> has effect to confer on the tenant the same right to acquire the freehold of the house and premises<sup>8</sup> as would be conferred<sup>9</sup> if it were a tenancy at a low rent<sup>10</sup>. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(1) RIGHT TO ENFRANCHISEMENT OR EXTENSION/(iii) Tenancies under which Right to Enfranchisement or Extension Arises/1398. Meaning of 'tenancy' and 'long tenancy'.

(iii) Tenancies under which Right to Enfranchisement or Extension Arises

1398. Meaning of 'tenancy' and 'long tenancy'.

'Tenancy' means<sup>1</sup> a tenancy at law or in equity, but does not include a tenancy at will<sup>2</sup>, nor any interest created by way of security and liable to termination by the exercise of any right of redemption or otherwise, nor any interest created by way of trust under a settlement<sup>3</sup>.

'Long tenancy' means<sup>4</sup> a tenancy granted for a term of years certain exceeding 21 years, whether or not the tenancy is, or may become, terminable before the end of that term by notice given by or to the tenant or by re-entry, forfeiture or otherwise<sup>5</sup>, and includes both a tenancy under a lease terminable after a death or marriage or the formation of a civil partnership<sup>6</sup> and a tenancy for a term fixed by law under a grant with a covenant or obligation for perpetual renewal<sup>7</sup> unless it was created by sub-demise from one which is not a long tenancy<sup>8</sup>. A tenancy granted so as to become terminable by notice after a death or marriage or the formation of a civil partnership is not, however, to be treated as a long tenancy if:

- 3085 (1) the notice is capable of being given at any time after the death or marriage of, or the formation of a civil partnership by, the tenant;
- 3086 (2) the length of the notice is not more than three months<sup>9</sup>; and
- 3087 (3) the terms of the tenancy preclude both its assignment otherwise than by way of exchange<sup>10</sup> and the subletting of the whole of the premises comprised in it<sup>11</sup>.

References to a long tenancy include any period during which the tenancy is or was continued under Part I<sup>12</sup> or Part II<sup>13</sup> of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 or under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989<sup>14</sup> or under the Leasehold Property (Temporary Provisions) Act 1951<sup>15</sup>.

A tenancy created by the grant of a lease of a dwelling house which is a house<sup>16</sup> in pursuance of Part V of the Housing Act 1985<sup>17</sup> is treated<sup>18</sup> as being a long tenancy notwithstanding that it is granted for a term of 21 years or less<sup>19</sup>.

1    le for the purposes of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended): see PARA 1389 et seq ante, PARA 1400 et seq post.

2    As to tenancies at will see PARA 198 et seq ante.

3    Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 37(1)(f). 'Demise' is to be construed accordingly: s 37(1)(f).

4    See note 1 supra.

5 The length of the term of a lease is to be reckoned from the date of its execution and delivery, and not from any earlier date from which the term as defined in the habendum may be measured: Roberts v Church Comrs for England [1972] 1 QB 278, [1971] 3 All ER 703, CA, applying Shaw v Kay (1847) 1 Exch 412; Jervis v Tomkinson (1856) 1 H & N 195; Earl Cadogan v Guinness [1936] Ch 515, [1936] 2 All ER 29. The tenant must at some point of time be, or have been, in a position to say that, subject to options to determine, rights of re-entry etc, he is entitled to remain tenant for the next 21 years, whether at law or in equity: Roberts v Church Comrs for England supra. 'Terminable' is used in a sense that is both transitive and intransitive, so that a tenancy limited to terminate if it ceases to be vested in a member of a housing association is a tenancy for a term of years certain terminable 'otherwise', and is within the definition of 'long tenancy': Eton College v Bard [1983] Ch 321, [1983] 2 All ER 961, CA.

6 Ie a tenancy taking effect under the Law of Property Act 1925 s 149(6) (as amended): see PARA 240 ante. See, however, the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1B (as added and amended); and PARA 1401 post.

9 For the proviso set out in head (2) in the text to apply to a tenancy, it is sufficient if, under the terms of the lease, it is possible to determine the tenancy by less than three months' notice after the death or marriage etc of the tenant; it is not necessary for the lease to provide when the notice period must end. This proviso forms an integral part of the mechanism to distinguish leases which are genuinely intended to be determinable on a death or marriage etc from devices to avoid the consequences of the 1967 Act: see Skinns v Greenwood [2002] EWCA Civ 424, [2002] HLR 906, [2002] All ER (D) 434 (Mar).

The Leasehold Property (Temporary Provisions) Act 1951 was repealed by the Statute Law (Repeals) Act 1975. A tenancy so continuing may be surrendered by operation of law by the grant of a new tenancy; and the right to enfranchisement or extension will be lost unless the new tenancy falls within the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 3(2) (as amended) (see PARA 1400 post), and is at a low rent: Curtin v Greater London Council (1970) 69 LGR 281, CA.

1399. Certain business tenancies.

- 3088 (1) it is granted for a term of years certain exceeding 35 years, whether or not it is, or may become, terminable before the end of that term by notice given by or to the tenant or by re-entry, forfeiture or otherwise;
- 3089 (2) it is for a term fixed by law under a grant with a covenant or obligation for perpetual renewal, unless it is a tenancy by sub-demise from one which is not a tenancy which falls within any of head (1) above, this head or head (3) or head (4) below;
- 3090 (3) it is a tenancy under a lease terminable after a death or marriage or the formation of a civil partnership<sup>5</sup>; or
- 3091 (4) it is a tenancy which:
- 183
24. (a) is or has been granted for a term of years certain not exceeding 35 years, but with a covenant or obligation for renewal without payment of a premium, but not for perpetual renewal, and
25. (b) is or has been once or more renewed so as to bring to more than 35 years the total of the terms granted, including any interval between the end of a tenancy and the grant of a renewal<sup>6</sup>.
- 184

Where Part I of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967<sup>7</sup> applies as if there were a single tenancy of property comprised in two or more separate tenancies, then, if each of the separate tenancies falls within any of the above heads, the provisions set out above apply as if the single tenancy did so<sup>8</sup>.

1400. Tenancies granted by way of renewal; concurrent tenancies.

Where the tenant of any property<sup>1</sup> under a long tenancy<sup>2</sup> at a low rent<sup>3</sup>, on the coming to an end of that tenancy, becomes or has become tenant of the property or part of it under another tenancy, whether by express grant or by implication of law, then the later tenancy is deemed<sup>4</sup> to be a long tenancy irrespective of its terms<sup>5</sup>.

Where the tenant of any property under a long tenancy, on the coming to an end of that tenancy, becomes or has become tenant of the property or part of it under another long tenancy, then in relation to the property or that part of it the statutory provisions relating to enfranchisement and extension<sup>6</sup> apply as if there had been a single tenancy granted for a term beginning at the same time as the term under the earlier tenancy and expiring at the same time as the term under the later tenancy<sup>7</sup>.

Where a tenancy is or has been granted for a term of years certain not exceeding 21 years, but with a covenant or obligation for renewal without payment of a premium, but not for perpetual renewal<sup>8</sup>, and the tenancy is or has been once or more renewed so as to bring to more than 21 years the total of the terms granted, including any interval between the end of a tenancy and the grant of a renewal, the statutory provisions relating to enfranchisement and extension apply as if the term originally granted had been one exceeding 21 years<sup>9</sup>.

Where at any time there are separate tenancies, with the same landlord and the same tenant, of two or more parts of a house<sup>10</sup>, or of a house or part of it and land or other premises<sup>11</sup> occupied therewith, then in relation to the property comprised in such of those tenancies as are long tenancies the statutory provisions relating to enfranchisement and extension apply as they would if at that time there were a single tenancy of that property and the tenancy were a long tenancy<sup>12</sup>.

Section 3(6) has effect subject to the operation of s 3(2)-(5) (as amended) (see the text and notes 1-11 supra; and PARA 1398 ante) in relation to any of the separate tenancies: s 3(6) proviso. For the purposes of s 3(6), separate tenancies are deemed, in respect of enfranchisement and extension by subtenants, to be tenancies with the same landlord if the immediate landlord is the same: s 5(4), Sch 1 para 6(3). Where a tenancy<sup>1</sup> granted so as to become terminable by notice after a death, a marriage or the formation of a civil partnership is otherwise a long tenancy<sup>2</sup> but was granted before 18 April 1980 or in pursuance of a contract entered into before that date, the tenancy is<sup>3</sup> a long tenancy<sup>4</sup> only so far as the statutory provisions relating to the right to enfranchise<sup>5</sup> have effect for conferring on any person a right to acquire the freehold of a house<sup>6</sup> and premises<sup>7</sup>. Such a tenancy is not, therefore, a long tenancy for the purposes of the right to an extension of the lease<sup>8</sup>.

Where the statutory right to enfranchisement or extension<sup>8</sup> would apply in the case of the tenant<sup>9</sup> of a house but for the fact that the tenancy is not a tenancy at a low rent, and the tenancy is not an excluded tenancy<sup>10</sup>, the tenant has the same right to acquire the freehold of the house and premises as he would have if it were a tenancy at a low rent<sup>11</sup>.

1403. Meaning of 'low rent'.

A tenancy<sup>1</sup> of any property is<sup>2</sup> a tenancy at a low rent at any time when rent is not payable under the tenancy in respect of the property at a yearly rate:

- 3092 (1) if the tenancy was entered into before 1 April 1990 or on or after that date in pursuance of a contract made before that date, and the property had a rateable value<sup>3</sup> other than nil at the date of the commencement of the tenancy or else at any time before 1 April 1990, equal to or more than two-thirds of the rateable value of the property on the appropriate day<sup>4</sup> or, if later, the first day of the term;
- 3093 (2) if the tenancy does not fall within head (1) above, more than £1,000<sup>5</sup> if the property is in Greater London<sup>6</sup> and £250<sup>7</sup> if the property is elsewhere<sup>8</sup>.

For these purposes, 'rent' means rent reserved as such<sup>9</sup>; and there must be disregarded:

- 3094 (a) any part of the rent expressed to be payable in consideration of services to be provided, or of repairs, maintenance or insurance to be effected by the landlord<sup>10</sup>, or to be payable in respect of the cost thereof to the landlord or a superior landlord<sup>11</sup>;
- 3095 (b) any term of the tenancy providing for suspension or reduction of rent in the event of damage to property demised, or for any penal addition to the rent in the event of a contravention of, or non-compliance with, the terms of the tenancy or an agreement collateral thereto<sup>12</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tenancy' see PARA 1398 ante. As to the relevance of the low rent test see PARAS 1389, 1396, 1402 ante.

2 I.e. for the purposes of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended): see PARA 1389 et seq ante, PARA 1404 et seq post.

3 As to the ascertainment of rateable value see PARA 1392 note 3 ante; as to the abolition of domestic rates see PARA 521 ante; and as to the certification of a rateable value in certain cases see PARA 523 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'appropriate day' means 23 March 1965 or such later day as by virtue of the Rent Act 1977 s 25(3) (see PARA 859 ante) would be the appropriate day for the purpose of that Act in relation to a dwelling house consisting of the house in question if the reference in s 25(3)(a) to a rateable value were to a rateable value other than nil: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 4(1)(a) (amended by the Rent Act 1977 s 155, Sch 23 para 42; the Housing Act 1996 s 105(1)(c)). For the meaning of 'house' see PARA 1390 ante.

The appropriate day is to be determined by reference to the date when the house, as opposed to the house and premises, is first rated: Dixon v Allgood [1987] 3 All ER 1082, [1987] 1 WLR 1689, HL.

5 The Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1(7) (as added) (see PARA 1395 ante) applies to any amount referred to in s 4(1)(ii) (as added and amended) (see head (2) in the text) as it applies to the amount referred to in s 1(1) (a)(ii) (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 1395 ante): s 4(7) (added by the References to Rating (Housing) Regulations 1990, SI 1990/434, reg 2, Schedule para 8).

1404. Additional 'low rent test'.

A tenancy<sup>1</sup> of any property is subject to the alternative rent limits<sup>2</sup> if either no rent<sup>3</sup> was payable under it in respect of the property during the initial year<sup>4</sup> or the aggregate amount of rent so payable during that year did not exceed the following amount, namely:

3096 (1) where the tenancy was entered into before 1 April 1963, two-thirds of the letting value of the property<sup>5</sup>, on the same terms, on the date of the commencement of the tenancy;

3097 (2) where:

26. (a) the tenancy was entered into either on or after 1 April 1963 but before 1 April 1990 or on or after 1 April 1990 in pursuance of a contract made before that date; and

27. (b) the property had a rateable value<sup>6</sup> other than nil at the date of commencement of the tenancy or else at any time before April 1990,

3098 two-thirds of the rateable value of the property on the relevant date<sup>7</sup>; or

3099 (3) in any other case, £1,000<sup>8</sup> if the property is in Greater London<sup>9</sup> or £250<sup>10</sup> if it is elsewhere<sup>11</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tenancy' see PARA 1398 ante. As to the relevance of the low rent test see PARAS 1389, 1396, 1402 ante.

2 It falls within the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 4A (added by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 65) for the purposes of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1A(2) (as added) (see PARA 1402 ante).

3 For these purposes, ibid s 4(1)(b) (meaning of 'rent': see PARA 1403 ante) applies as it applies for the purposes of s 4(1) (as amended): s 4A(2)(c) (as added: see note 2 supra).

4 For these purposes, 'the initial year', in relation to any tenancy, means the period of one year beginning with the date of the commencement of the tenancy: ibid s 4A(2)(a) (as added: see note 2 supra).

5 For these purposes, the reference to the letting value of any property is to be construed in like manner as the reference in similar terms which appears in ibid s 4(1) proviso (see PARA 1405 post): s 4A(2) (as added: see note 2 supra).

6 As to the ascertainment of rateable value see PARA 1392 note 3 ante; as to the abolition of domestic rates see PARA 521 ante; and as to the certification of a rateable value in certain cases see PARA 523 ante.

7 For these purposes, 'the relevant date' means the date of the commencement of the tenancy or, if the property did not have a rateable value or had a rateable value of nil, on that date, the date on which it first had a rateable value other than nil: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 4A(2)(b) (substituted by the Housing Act 1996 s 105(2)(b)). Where at the date of commencement of the tenancy, the property consisted of two cottages which were later converted into one, it was held that the rateable value of the converted property was not nil at that date but was the aggregate of the rateable value of the two separate hereditaments; and that in establishing whether or not the tenant was entitled to purchase the freehold, the proportion which the annual rent bore to that aggregate value was to be considered, and not the proportion which it bore to the later, and higher, rateable value shown in the valuation list for the one converted dwelling, with the result that the tenant was not entitled to purchase the freehold of the single dwelling: Neville v Cowdray Trust Ltd [2006] EWCA Civ 709, [2006] 1 WLR 2097, [2006] All ER (D) 65 (May).

8 The Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1(7) (as added) (see PARA 1395 ante) applies to the amount so referred to as it applies to the amount referred to in s 1(1)(a)(ii) (as substituted and amended): s 4A(3) (as added: see note 2 supra).

10 See note 8 supra.

11 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 4A(1) (as added (see note 2 supra); amended by the Housing Act 1996 s 105(2)(a)). For these purposes the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 4(1)(c) (disregard of certain terms of the tenancy: see PARA 1392 ante at head (b) in the text) applies as it applies for the purposes of s 4(1) (as amended): s 4A(2)(c) (as added: see note 2 supra).

1405. Tenancies granted between end of August 1939 and beginning of April 1963.

A tenancy<sup>1</sup> granted between the end of August 1939 and the beginning of April 1963, otherwise than by way of building lease<sup>2</sup>, whether or not it is to be treated<sup>3</sup>, for other purposes as forming a single tenancy with a previous tenancy, is not regarded as a tenancy at a low rent<sup>4</sup> if at the commencement of the tenancy the rent payable under the tenancy exceeded two-thirds of the letting value of the property, on the same terms<sup>5</sup>.

Where, on a claim by the tenant of a house to exercise any right to enfranchisement or extension<sup>6</sup>, a question arises whether a tenancy so granted is or was at any time a tenancy at a low rent, it is presumed, until the contrary is shown, that the letting value was such<sup>7</sup> that the rent did not exceed two-thirds of it<sup>8</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tenancy' see PARA 1398 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'building lease' means a lease granted in pursuance or in consideration of an agreement for the erection or the substantial rebuilding or reconstruction of the whole or part of the house in question or a building comprising it: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 4(1)(d). #### 1406. House and premises as a whole to be taken into account.

1412. Certain leases granted by housing associations.

A lease<sup>1</sup> granted by a housing association<sup>2</sup> and which complies with the specified conditions<sup>3</sup> is excluded from the operation of the statutory provisions relating to the right to enfranchisement and extension<sup>4</sup>, whether or not the interest of the landlord<sup>5</sup> still belongs to such an association<sup>6</sup>.

The conditions so specified are that the lease:

- 3108 (1) was granted for a term of 99 years or more and is not, and cannot become, terminable except in pursuance of a provision for re-entry or forfeiture;
- 3109 (2) was granted at a premium, calculated by reference to the value of the house<sup>7</sup> or the cost of providing it, of not less than 25%, or such other percentage as may be prescribed<sup>8</sup>, of the figure by reference to which it was calculated;
- 3110 (3) provides for the tenant<sup>9</sup> to acquire additional shares in the house on terms specified in the lease and complying with any such requirements as may be prescribed<sup>10</sup>;
- 3111 (4) does not restrict the tenant's powers to mortgage or charge his interest in the house;

- 3113 (6) provides for the tenant to acquire the landlord's interest on terms specified in the lease and complying with such requirements as may be prescribed<sup>12</sup>; and
- 3114 (7) states the landlord's opinion that the lease is excluded<sup>13</sup> from the operation of the statutory provisions relating to the right to enfranchisement and extension<sup>14</sup>.

In any proceedings the court may, if of the opinion that it is just and equitable to do so, treat a lease as satisfying the conditions in heads (1) to (7) above notwithstanding that the condition specified in head (7) above is not satisfied<sup>15</sup>.

The statutory provisions relating to the right to enfranchisement and extension<sup>16</sup> do not apply in the case of certain tenancies or subtenancies<sup>17</sup> where the landlord<sup>18</sup> is a housing association and the freehold is owned by a body of persons or trust established for charitable purposes only<sup>19</sup>.

As to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

(v) Tenants Entitled to Exercise Right to Enfranchisement or Extension

1415. Occupation of the house by the tenant as his residence.

Where a flat forming part of a house<sup>1</sup> is let to a person who is a qualifying tenant of the flat for the purposes of the provisions of Part I of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993<sup>2</sup> conferring a collective right to enfranchisement<sup>3</sup> or an individual right to a new lease<sup>4</sup>, a tenant<sup>5</sup> of the house does not have any right to enfranchisement or the extension of his lease under Part I of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967<sup>6</sup> unless, at the relevant time<sup>7</sup>, he has been occupying the house, or any part of it, as his only or main residence, whether or not he has been using it for other purposes:

- 3126 (1) for the last two years; or
- 3127 (2) for periods amounting to two years in the last ten years<sup>8</sup>.

In certain circumstances business tenants may have a statutory right to enfranchisement or an extension of their leases under the 1967 Act<sup>9</sup>; but Part I of that Act does not have effect to confer any right on the tenant of a house under a business tenancy<sup>10</sup> unless, at the relevant time, the tenant has been occupying the house, or any part of it, as his only or main residence, whether or not he has been using it for other purposes:

- 3128 (a) for the last two years; or 3129 (b) for periods amounting to two years in the last ten years<sup>11</sup>.

No reference<sup>12</sup> to a person occupying property as his residence is to be taken to extend to any occupation of a company or other artificial person nor, where the tenant is a corporation sole, is the corporator, while in occupation, to be treated as occupying as tenant<sup>13</sup>.

There is now no general requirement, however, that the tenant must occupy the house as his residence in order to qualify for the rights under the 1967 Act<sup>14</sup>. It is thus open to a company to exercise those rights<sup>15</sup>.

8 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1(1ZB) (added by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 138(2)). On the proper construction of the expression 'where a flat forming part of a house is let to a person who is a qualifying tenant of the flat for the purposes of Chapter I or II of Part I of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993' in the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1(1ZB) (as so added), the tenant of the flat is someone other than the tenant of the house; and it is consistent with the logical purpose of s 1 (as amended) to construe s 1(1ZB) (as so added) as resolving which of two people should have the right to seek enfranchisement; thus it does not apply to a company (which could not fulfil the residence requirement: see the text and notes 12-13 infra) and does not prevent a company from obtaining enfranchisement: see Cadogan v Search Guarantees plc [2004] EWCA Civ 969, [2005] 1 All ER 280, [2004] 1 WLR 2768. The criteria appear to have been more strict than under the Rent Acts. A period of occupancy by the tenant under a tenancy which was not a long tenancy before he acquired the long tenancy itself was not to be taken into account: Harris v Plentex Ltd (1980) 40 P & CR 483. ### 1416. Rights of trustees.

A tenant<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> is to be treated<sup>3</sup> as having been a tenant of it at any earlier time if at that time:

- 3130 (1) the tenancy<sup>4</sup> was settled land<sup>5</sup> and he was sole tenant for life<sup>6</sup>; or
- 3131 (2) the tenancy was vested in trustees<sup>7</sup> and he, as a person beneficially interested, whether directly or derivatively, under the trusts was entitled or permitted to occupy the house by reason of that interest<sup>8</sup>.

Where a tenancy of a house is settled land<sup>9</sup>, a sole tenant for life<sup>10</sup> has the same rights to enfranchisement or extension<sup>11</sup> as if the tenancy of it belonged to him absolutely, but without prejudice to his position under the settlement as a trustee for all parties entitled under the settlement<sup>12</sup>.

5 I.e. for the purposes of the Settled Land Act 1925: see SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 680. Subject to certain exceptions, no settlement created on or after 1 January 1997 is a strict settlement under the Settled Land Act 1925 and no such settlement is deemed to be made on or after that date: see the Trusts of Land and Appointment of Trustees Act 1996 s 2; and REAL PROPERTY vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 65; SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 676.

8 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 6(1) (amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002, s 138(5)). Without prejudice to any powers exercisable under the Settled Land Act 1925 by tenants for life or statutory owners within the meaning of that Act (see SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 766), where a tenancy of a house is vested in trustees, then, unless the instrument regulating the trusts, being made after 27 October 1967, contains an explicit direction to the contrary, the powers of the trustees under that instrument include power, with the like consent or on the like direction, if any, as may be required for the exercise of their powers, or ordinary powers, of investment, to acquire and retain the freehold or an extended lease under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (as amended): s 6(4). See also note 5 supra.

The powers of a tenant for life under the Settled Land Act 1925 (see SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 775 et seq) include power to accept an extended lease under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (as amended); and an extended lease so granted to a tenant for life or a statutory owner is treated as a subsidiary vesting deed in accordance with the Settled Land Act 1925 s 53(2) (see SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 846): Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 6(2)(a), (b). See also note 5 supra.

The purposes authorised for the application of capital money by the Settled Land Act 1925 s 73 (as amended) (see SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 808) and the purposes authorised by s 71 (as amended) (see SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARAS 849-850) as purposes for which moneys may be raised by mortgage, include the payment of any expenses incurred by a tenant for life in or in connection with proceedings taken by him by virtue of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 6(2) (as amended) or s 6(3) (prospectively repealed): s 6(5) (amended by the Trusts of Land and Appointment of Trustees Act 1996 s 25(2), Sch 4; the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 180, Sch 14).

Where a tenancy of a house is vested in trustees, other than a sole tenant for life, and a person beneficially interested, whether directly or derivatively, under the trusts is entitled or permitted by reason of his interest to occupy the house, the trustees have the like rights to enfranchisement and extension in respect of his occupation as that person would have if he were the tenant occupying in right of the tenancy: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 6(3) (prospectively repealed by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 180, Sch 14, as from a day to be appointed under s 181(1); at the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed).

1417. Rights of personal representatives.

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> dies and, immediately before his death, he had under Part I of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967<sup>3</sup> the right to acquire the freehold or the right to an extended lease, the right is exercisable<sup>4</sup> by his personal representatives while the tenancy<sup>5</sup> is vested in them; and, accordingly, in such a case references in Part I of the Act to the tenant are, in so far as the context permits, to be to the personal representatives<sup>6</sup>. The personal representatives of a tenant may not, however, give notice of their desire to have the freehold or an extended lease by virtue of this provision later than two years after the grant of probate or letters of administration<sup>7</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(1) RIGHT TO ENFRANCHISEMENT OR EXTENSION/(v) Tenants Entitled to Exercise Right to Enfranchisement or Extension/1418. Rights of members of family succeeding to tenancy on death.

1418. Rights of members of family succeeding to tenancy on death.

Where the tenant<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> dies<sup>3</sup> and on his death a member of his family<sup>4</sup> resident in the house becomes tenant of it under the same tenancy<sup>5</sup>, then, for the purposes of any claim by that member of the family to acquire the freehold or an extended lease<sup>6</sup>, he is treated as having been the tenant during any period when he was resident in the house, and it was his only or main place of residence<sup>7</sup>. For these purposes:

- 3132 (1) a member of a tenant's family on whom the tenancy devolves on the tenant's death by virtue of a testamentary disposition or the law of intestate succession is treated, on the tenancy vesting in him, as having become tenant on the death<sup>8</sup>; and
- 3133 (2) a member of a tenant's family who, on the tenant's death, acquires the tenancy by the appropriation of it in or towards satisfaction of any legacy, share in residue, debt or other share in or claim against the tenant's estate, or by the purchase of it on a sale made by the tenant's personal representatives in the administration of the estate, is treated as a person on whom the tenancy devolved by direct bequest<sup>9</sup>; and
- 3134 (3) a person's interest in a tenancy as personal representative of a deceased tenant must be disregarded<sup>10</sup>.

Where a tenancy of a house is settled land<sup>11</sup> and on the death of a tenant for life<sup>12</sup> a member of his family resident in the house becomes entitled to the tenancy in accordance with the settlement or by any appropriation by or purchase from the personal representatives in respect of the settled land, these provisions apply as if the tenancy had belonged to the tenant for life absolutely and the trusts of the settlement taking effect after his death had been trusts of his will<sup>13</sup>. Where in any other case<sup>14</sup> a tenancy of a house is held on trust and:

- 3135 (a) a person beneficially interested, whether directly or derivatively, under the trust is entitled or permitted by reason of his interest to occupy the house; and
- 3136 (b) on his death a member of his family resident in the house becomes tenant of the house in accordance with the terms of the trust or by any appropriation by or purchase from the trustees, these provisions apply as if the deceased person had been tenant of it and as if after his death the trustees had held and dealt with the tenancy as his executors, the remaining trusts being trusts of his will<sup>15</sup>.

In head (2) supra any reference to a person's son or daughter includes a reference to any stepson or stepdaughter, any illegitimate son or daughter of that person; and 'son-in-law' and 'daughter-in-law' are to be construed accordingly: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 7(7) (amended by the Children Act 1975 s 108(1)(b), Sch 4 Pt I).

In the Intestates' Estates Act 1952 s 5, Sch 2 (as amended) (see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS vol 17(2) (Reissue) PARA 593), Sch 2 para 1(2) (see EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS vol 17(2) (Reissue) PARA 593 note 2) does not apply to a tenancy if (a) the surviving spouse or civil partner would in consequence of an appropriation in accordance with Sch 2 para 1 (as amended) become entitled, by virtue of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 7 (as amended), to acquire the freehold or an extended lease under Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended) (see PARA 1389 et seq ante, PARA 1424 et seq post) either immediately on the appropriation or before the tenancy can determine or be determined as mentioned in the Intestates' Estates Act 1952 Sch 2 para 1(2); or (b) the deceased spouse or civil partner, being entitled to acquire the freehold or an extended lease under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended), had given notice of his or her desire to have it, and the benefit of that notice is appropriated with the tenancy: s 7(8) (amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 81, Sch 8 para 6(1), (3)).

(vii) Agreements Excluding or Modifying Tenant's Rights

1424. Invalidity of agreements excluding or modifying rights.

Any agreement relating to a tenancy<sup>1</sup>, whether contained in the instrument creating the tenancy or not and whether made before the creation of the tenancy or not, is void<sup>2</sup> in so far as it purports to exclude or modify any right to acquire the freehold or an extended lease or right to compensation<sup>3</sup>, or provides for the termination or surrender of the tenancy in the event of a tenant<sup>4</sup> acquiring or claiming any such right or for the imposition of any penalty or disability on the tenant in that event<sup>5</sup>.

The above provisions do not, however, preclude a tenant from surrendering his tenancy; nor do they:

- 3139 (1) invalidate any agreement for a tenant to acquire an interest superior to his tenancy or an extended lease on terms different from those provided for<sup>6</sup>; or
- 3140 (2) where a tenant has given notice of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease, invalidate any agreement between the landlord<sup>7</sup> and the tenant that that notice shall cease to be binding or any provision of such an agreement excluding or restricting for a period not exceeding 12 months the right to give further notice of either kind with respect to the house<sup>8</sup> or any part of it; or
- 3141 (3) where a tenant's right to compensation<sup>9</sup> has accrued, invalidate any agreement as to the amount of the compensation<sup>10</sup>.

5 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 23(1). In Jones v Wentworth Securities Ltd [1980] AC 74, [1979] 1 All ER 286, HL, it was held that a term in a superior lease granted in reversion to a long tenancy which had the effect of substantially increasing the rent payable to the freeholder in the event of the superior tenant granting a new subtenancy, thereby (intentionally) increasing the price payable by the subtenant for the freehold on enfranchisement, did not infringe the provisions of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 23(1). The device employed in that case, however, has been rendered ineffective by the Leasehold Reform Act 1979 s 1: see PARA 1441 note 10 post. In Rennie and Rennie v Proma Ltd & Byng (1989) 22 HLR 129, [1990] 1 EGLR 119, CA, it was held that an attempt to frustrate the right to enfranchise by vesting the house and premises in a single trustee who could not give a good receipt for the purchase money and, therefore, could not give good title was void under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 23(1). The principle, that a landlord and tenant may not contract out of statutory rights given to a tenant for his protection, does not apply if, at a time when the landlord serves a defective notice under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 not referring to the tenant's possible rights under the 1967 Act, the tenant knows that he does not in fact have any rights under the 1967 Act and serves a counternotice assuming the validity of the landlord's notice: see Keepers and Governors of the Possessions Revenues and Goods of the Free Grammar School of John Lyon v Mayhew [1997] 1 EGLR 88, [1997] 17 EG 163, CA cited in PARA 716 note 3 ante.

1426. New tenancy on terms approved by the court.

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> is entitled<sup>3</sup> to acquire the freehold or an extended lease, or is entitled to the benefit of a previous tenant's notice of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease, there may with the approval of the court be granted to him in satisfaction of that right a new tenancy<sup>4</sup> on such terms as may be approved by the court; and a tenancy may be so granted<sup>5</sup> by the landlord<sup>6</sup> and is binding on persons entitled to any interest in or charge on the landlord's estate, notwithstanding that it would not otherwise be authorised as against any such persons and notwithstanding any restriction imposed by statute or otherwise on the landlord's powers of leasing<sup>7</sup>.

Where, however, the existing tenancy is granted on or after 1 January 1968, whether or not it is to be treated<sup>8</sup> for other purposes as forming a single tenancy with a previous tenancy, and, the grant being subsequent to the creation of a charge on the landlord's estate, the existing tenancy is not binding on the persons interested in the charge, a tenancy so granted is not by virtue of these provisions binding on those persons<sup>9</sup>.

Where a tenancy is so granted, the terms of the new tenancy may exclude any right to acquire<sup>10</sup> the freehold<sup>11</sup>.

Where an instrument extending a tenancy at a low rent<sup>12</sup>, or granting a further tenancy at a low rent in substitution for, or in continuance of, such a tenancy, contains a statement to the effect that<sup>13</sup> the tenancy is being or has previously been extended in satisfaction of the right to an extended lease<sup>14</sup>, the statement is conclusive in favour of any person not being a party to the instrument, unless the statement appears from the instrument to be untrue<sup>15</sup>. Any person who:

3144 (1) includes or causes to be included in an instrument a statement to that effect<sup>16</sup>, knowing the statement to be untrue; or

3145 (2) executes, or with intent to deceive makes use of, any instrument knowing that it contains such a statement and that the statement is untrue, is liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or a fine not exceeding the prescribed sum, or to both<sup>17</sup>.

Where a tenant of a house has a right<sup>1</sup> to acquire the freehold or, as the case may be, an extended lease, he must exercise that right by giving to the landlord written notice of his desire to have the freehold or, as the case may be, an extended lease<sup>2</sup>.

- 3146 (1) the address of the house, and sufficient particulars of the house and premises to identify the property to which the claim extends<sup>6</sup>;
- 3147 (2) either:
- 189
30. (a) such particulars of the tenancy<sup>7</sup> and, in the case of a tenancy entered into before 1 April 1990, or on or after 1 April 1990 in pursuance of a contract made before that date, and where the property had a rateable value<sup>8</sup> other than nil at the date of the commencement of the tenancy or else at any time before 1 April 1990<sup>9</sup>, such particulars of the rateable value of the house and premises as serve to identify the instrument creating the tenancy and show that the tenancy is and has at the material times been<sup>10</sup> a long tenancy<sup>11</sup> at a low rent<sup>12</sup> and that at the material time the rateable value was within the specified limits<sup>13</sup>; or
31. (b) where the tenant gives the notice by virtue of the provision conferring an additional right of enfranchisement only in the case of a house where the rent exceeds the applicable limit<sup>14</sup>, such particulars of the tenancy as serve to identify the instrument creating the tenancy and show that the tenancy is one in relation to which that provision has effect to confer a right to acquire the freehold of the house and premises<sup>15</sup>;
- 3148 (3) the date on which the tenant acquired the tenancy<sup>16</sup>;
- 3149 (4) in the case of a tenancy other than one entered into before 1 April 1990, or on or after 1 April 1990 in pursuance of a contract made before that date, and where the house and premises had a rateable value at the date of commencement of the tenancy or else at any time before 1 April 1990<sup>17</sup>, the premium payable as a condition of the grant of the tenancy<sup>18</sup>.

The notice is not invalidated by any inaccuracy in the particulars so required or any misdescription of the property to which the claim extends; and, where the claim extends to property not properly included in the house and premises, or does not extend to property that ought to be so included, the notice may, with the leave of the court and on such terms as the court may see fit to impose, be amended so as to exclude or include that property<sup>19</sup>.

A tenant may not claim in the alternative (Byrnlea Property Investments Ltd v Ramsay [1969] 2 QB 253, [1969] 2 All ER 311, CA); but failure to delete the inapplicable alternative in the prescribed form has been held not to vitiate the notice where the alternative which the tenant is claiming is clear on the face of the document (see Lewis v Harries (1971) 22 P & CR 905, CA). However, any omission of mandatory information may render a notice invalid: see Speedwell Estates Ltd v Dalziel [2001] EWCA Civ 1277, [2002] HLR 813, [2001] All ER (D) 454 (Jul).

The validity of the notice must be decided solely by reference to the document itself: Byrnlea Property Investments Ltd v Ramsay [1969] 2 QB 253, [1969] 2 All ER 311, CA. An unimportant omission of fact as to residence has been held to be an inaccuracy which did not invalidate the notice (Cresswell v Duke of Westminster [1985] 2 EGLR 151, CA) as has the omission of a reference to a former lease that was within the knowledge of the landlord (Earl Cadogan v Strauss [2004] EWCA Civ 211, [2004] 2 P & CR 295, [2004] All ER (D) 131 (Feb)); but omission of any reference to a cottage occupied during the relevant period was not a mere inaccuracy, and the notice was held invalid (Dymond v Arundel-Timms (1991) 23 HLR 397, [1991] 1 EGLR 109, CA). See also Speedwell Estates Ltd v Dalziel [2001] EWCA Civ 1277, [2002] HLR 813, [2001] All ER (D) 454 (Jul) cited in note 4 supra. The Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 3 para 6(3) distinguishes between 'any inaccuracy in the particulars' and 'any misdescription of the property', which are errors of a nature which will not invalidate a notice, and the exclusion or inclusion of property which ought, or ought not, to be included as part of the relevant house and premises, which are types of error which will invalidate a notice unless it is appropriately amended; and the court has a discretion as to whether or not to permit such amendment: see Howard de Walden Estates Ltd v Malekshad [2003] EWHC 3106 (Ch), [2004] 4 All ER 162, [2004] 1 WLR 862.

1429. Service of notices.

The general provisions of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 relating to service of notices<sup>1</sup> have effect for the purposes of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967<sup>2</sup>.

Where a person ('the claimant') gives notice as tenant<sup>3</sup> of a house<sup>4</sup> of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease<sup>5</sup>:

- 3150 (1) the notice is to be regarded as served on the landlord<sup>6</sup> if it is served on any of the persons having an interest in the house and premises<sup>7</sup> superior to the claimant's tenancy<sup>8</sup>;
- 3151 (2) copies of the notice must be served by the claimant on any other persons known or believed by him to have such an interest<sup>9</sup>;
- 3152 (3) the notice must state whether copies are being served in accordance with head (2) above on anyone other than the recipient and, if so, on whom<sup>10</sup>;
- 3153 (4) unless he is a person having no such interest, a recipient of the notice or a copy of it, including a person receiving a copy under this head, must forthwith serve a copy on any person who is known or believed by him to have such an interest and is not stated in the recipient's copy of the notice or known by him to have received a copy<sup>11</sup>;
- 3154 (5) a recipient of the notice or a copy of it must, in any further copies served by him in accordance with head (4) above, supplement the statement under head (3) above by adding any further persons on whom he is serving copies or who are known by him to have received one<sup>12</sup>.

Any recipient of any such notice or a copy of it:

- 3155 (a) if he serves further copies of it on other persons in accordance with head (4) above, must notify the claimant of the persons added by him to the statement under head (3) above; and
- 3156 (b) if he knows who is, or believes himself to be, the person designated as the reversioner<sup>13</sup>, must give written notice to the claimant stating who is thought by him to be the reversioner, and must serve copies of it on all persons known or believed by him to have an interest superior to the claimant's tenancy<sup>14</sup>.

Any person who fails without reasonable cause to comply with any of the above provisions<sup>15</sup>, or is guilty of any unreasonable delay in doing so, is liable for any loss thereby occasioned to the claimant or to any person having an interest superior to the claimant's tenancy<sup>16</sup>.

Where the interest of a landlord is subject to a charge and the person entitled to the benefit of the charge is in possession or a receiver appointed by him or by the court is in receipt of the rents and profits, a notice by a tenant of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease is duly given if served either on the landlord or on that person or any such receiver; but the landlord or that person, if not the recipient of the notice, must forthwith be sent the notice or a copy of it by the recipient<sup>17</sup>.

Where a tenant of a house gives notice of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease and the interest of the person to whom the notice is given, or of any person receiving a copy of it<sup>18</sup>, is subject to a charge<sup>19</sup> to secure the payment of money, the recipient of the notice or copy must forthwith inform the person entitled to the benefit of the charge, unless the notice was served on him or a receiver appointed by virtue of the charge, that the notice has been given and must give him such further information as may from time to time be reasonably required from the recipient by him<sup>20</sup>.

Where a tenant of a house having a right to acquire the freehold is prevented from giving notice of his desire to have the freehold because the person to be served with the notice cannot be found or his identity cannot be ascertained, the tenant may apply to the court for the house and premises to be vested in him<sup>21</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(2) EXERCISE OF RIGHT TO ENFRANCHISEMENT OR EXTENSION/(i) Tenant's Notice/1430. Cases where tenant's notice is ineffective.

1430. Cases where tenant's notice is ineffective.

A claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease<sup>1</sup> of any property is of no effect<sup>2</sup> if it is made after the tenant has given notice terminating the tenancy<sup>3</sup> of that property, not being a notice that has been superseded by the grant, express or implied, of a new tenancy, or if it is made during the subsistence of an agreement for a future tenancy to which the statutory provisions relating to security of tenure for business tenants<sup>4</sup> or for tenants of long residential tenancies<sup>5</sup> apply<sup>6</sup>.

The following provisions apply where a landlord's notice terminating the tenancy of any property has been given or served under the statutory provisions relating to business tenancies<sup>7</sup> or long residential tenancies<sup>8</sup>, whether or not that notice has effect to terminate the tenancy<sup>9</sup>. A claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease of the property is of no effect if made after the relevant time<sup>10</sup>; but this does not apply where the landlord gives his written consent to the claim being made after the relevant time<sup>11</sup>. Where a tenant, having given notice of a desire to have the freehold, gives after the relevant time a further notice<sup>12</sup> of his inability or unwillingness to acquire the house<sup>13</sup> and premises<sup>14</sup> at the price he must pay, he may with that further notice give a notice of his desire to have an extended lease, if he then has a right to such a lease<sup>15</sup>.

A tenant's claim ceases to have effect where, after it is made, the court in special circumstances gives leave to bring proceedings to enforce a right of re-entry or forfeiture terminating the tenancy<sup>16</sup>; and a claim may also be rendered ineffective in special circumstances if it is made at a time when such proceedings are pending<sup>17</sup>.

A tenant who, in proceedings to enforce a right of re-entry or forfeiture or a right to damages in respect of a failure to comply with any terms of the tenancy, applies for relief<sup>18</sup> is not thereby precluded from making a claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease; but, if he gives notice<sup>19</sup> under which he is relieved from any order for recovery of possession or for payment of damages, but the tenancy is cut short, any claim made by him to acquire the freehold or an extended lease of property comprised in the tenancy, with or without other property, is of no effect or, if already made, ceases to have effect<sup>20</sup>.

A notice of a person's desire to have the freehold or an extended lease of a house and premises:

- 3157 (1) is of no effect if at the relevant time<sup>21</sup> any person or body of persons who has or have been, or could be, authorised to acquire the whole or part of the house and premises compulsorily for any purpose has or have, with a view to its acquisition for that purpose, served notice to treat on the landlord<sup>22</sup> or on the tenant, or entered into a contract for the purchase of the interest of either of them, and the notice to treat or contract remains in force; and
- 3158 (2) ceases to have effect if, before the completion of the conveyance in pursuance of the tenant's notice, any such person or body of persons serves notice to treat;

but, where a tenant's notice ceases to have effect by reason of a notice to treat served on him or on the landlord, then on the occasion of the compulsory acquisition in question the compensation payable in respect of any interest in the house and premises, whether or not the one to which that notice to treat relates, must be determined on the basis of the value of the interest subject to and with the benefit of the rights and obligations arising from the tenant's notice and affecting that interest<sup>23</sup>.

A notice is of no effect where the landlord of any property is one of certain public authorities, and a Minister of the Crown certifies that the property will in ten years or less be required for relevant development<sup>24</sup>.

1 For these purposes, references to a claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease are to be taken as references to a notice of a person's desire to acquire it under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended) (see PARA 1389 et seq ante, PARA 1431 et seq post); and, except in so far as the contrary intention appears, as including a claim made by a tenant not entitled to acquire it and a claim made by a person who is not a tenant: s 22(1) (as amended), Sch 3 para 5(1)(a). For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1432 note 1 post.

2 For these purposes, references to a claim being effective are to be taken as references to the freehold or an extended lease being acquired in pursuance of the claim: ibid Sch 3 para 5(1)(b).

3 For the meaning of 'tenancy' see PARA 1398 ante. A tenant's notice terminating the tenancy of any property is of no effect if given during the currency of a claim made in respect of the tenancy to acquire the freehold or an extended lease of that property: see ibid Sch 3 para 1(2); and PARA 1434 post. In Sch 3 para 1(1) (as amended: see note 6 infra) and Sch 3 para 1(2), references to a notice terminating a tenancy include a tenant's request for a new tenancy under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 s 26 (as amended) (see PARA 718 ante) and a tenant's notice under s 27(1) (as amended) (see PARA 719 ante) that he does not desire the tenancy to be continued: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 3 para 1(3).

Where (1) a landlord's notice terminating the tenancy has been given under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 s 25 (as amended); and (2) the tenant applies to the court under s 24(1) (as amended) (see PARA 720 ante) for an order for the grant of a new tenancy before the end of the period of two months mentioned in the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 3 para 2(1B) (as so substituted), 'the relevant time' is the time when the application is made: Sch 3 para 2(1C) (as so substituted).

1431. Notice given after previous notice or after tenancy has been extended.

A tenant's<sup>1</sup> notice of his desire to have an extended lease<sup>2</sup> ceases to have effect if afterwards, being entitled to do so, he gives notice of his desire to have the freehold<sup>3</sup>.

Where a tenant has given written notice of his desire to have the freehold<sup>10</sup>, and has then given written notice that he is unable or unwilling to acquire the house and premises at the price he must pay<sup>11</sup>, any further notice of his desire to have the freehold with respect to that house or any part of it is void if given within the following 12 months<sup>12</sup>.

A notice may also be void, in certain circumstances, if in the case of a prior notice there has been a lack of good faith, misrepresentation or concealment<sup>13</sup>.

A tenant's notice of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease ceases to have effect if he assigns the tenancy without the benefit of the notice, or the tenancy of part of the house and premises becomes vested in any person without the tenancy of another part<sup>14</sup>.

(ii) Consequences of Tenant's Notice

1432. Accrual and devolution of rights and obligations.

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> has the right to acquire the freehold or an extended lease<sup>3</sup> and gives notice of his desire to have it, the rights and obligations of the landlord<sup>4</sup> and the tenant arising from the notice enure for the benefit of, and are enforceable against, them, their executors, administrators and assigns to the like extent, but no further, as rights and obligations arising under a contract for a sale or lease freely entered into between the landlord and tenant<sup>5</sup>.

A tenant's rights and obligations so arising are assignable<sup>6</sup> with, but not capable of subsisting apart from, the tenancy<sup>7</sup> of the entire house and premises<sup>8</sup>; and, if the tenancy is assigned without the benefit of the notice, or if the tenancy of one part of the house and premises is assigned to or vests in any person without the tenancy of another part, the notice accordingly ceases to have effect and the tenant is liable to make such compensation as may be just to the landlord in respect of the interference, if any, by the notice with the exercise by the landlord of his power to dispose of or deal with the house and premises or any neighbouring property<sup>9</sup>.

In the event of any default by the landlord or the tenant in carrying out the obligations arising from any such notice, the other of them has the like rights and remedies as in the case of a contract freely entered into<sup>10</sup>.

1 In relation to matters arising out of the tenant's notice, references in the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37 (as amended): see PARA 1389 et seq ante, PARA 1433 et seq post) to the tenant include, in so far as the context permits, his executors, administrators and assigns: s 5(1).

No lease is registrable under the Land Charges Act 1972 or deemed to be an estate contract within the meaning of that Act by reason of the rights conferred on the tenant by the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (as amended) to acquire the freehold or an extended lease of the property thereby demised; nor is any right of a tenant arising from a notice under the 1967 Act of his desire to have the freehold or to have an extended lease regarded for the purposes of the Land Registration Act 2002 as an interest falling within any of the paragraphs of Sch 1 or Sch 3; but any such notice is registrable under the Land Charges Act 1972 or may be the subject of a notice under the Land Registration Act 2002, as if it were an estate contract: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 5(5) (amended by the Land Registration Act 2002 s 133, Sch 11 para 8(1), (2)); Land Charges Act 1972 s 18(6). ### 1433. Discharge of pre-existing contractual obligations.

Where any notice of a tenant's<sup>1</sup> desire to have the freehold or an extended lease of a house<sup>2</sup> and premises<sup>3</sup> given by a tenant entitled to acquire the freehold or an extended lease has effect, then, without prejudice to the general law as to frustration of contracts<sup>4</sup>, the landlord<sup>5</sup> and all other persons are discharged from the further performance, so far as relates to the disposal in any manner of the landlord's interest in the house and premises or any part thereof, of any contract previously entered into and not providing for the eventuality of such a notice, including any contract made in pursuance of the order of any court<sup>6</sup>.

In the case of a notice of the tenant's desire to have an extended lease, the above provisions do not, however, apply to discharge a person from performance of a contract unless the contract was entered into on the basis, common to both parties, that vacant possession of the house and premises or part thereof would or might be obtainable on the termination of the existing tenancy<sup>7</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(2) EXERCISE OF RIGHT TO ENFRANCHISEMENT OR EXTENSION/(ii) Consequences of Tenant's Notice/1434. Effect of tenant's notice on other notices, acts and proceedings between the parties.

1434. Effect of tenant's notice on other notices, acts and proceedings between the parties.

A landlord's<sup>6</sup> notice terminating a tenancy of any property<sup>7</sup> is of no effect if given or served during the currency of a claim made in respect of the tenancy to acquire the freehold or an extended lease of that property, and ceases to have effect on the making of such a claim<sup>8</sup>. If, after the landlord has commenced proceedings under Part II of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954<sup>9</sup>, the tenant subsequently makes a claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease of the property<sup>10</sup> and the claim is effective<sup>11</sup>, no further steps are to be taken in the proceedings under Part II of the 1954 Act otherwise than for their dismissal and for the making of any consequential order<sup>12</sup>.

Where a tenant makes a claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease of any property, then during the currency of the claim no proceedings to enforce any right of re-entry or forfeiture terminating the tenancy may be brought in any court without the leave of that court and leave may not be granted unless the court is satisfied that the claim was not made in good faith<sup>13</sup>; but, where leave is granted, the claim ceases to have effect<sup>14</sup>.

Where a claim is made to acquire the freehold or an extended lease of property comprised in a tenancy, the tenancy is deemed for purposes of the claim to be a subsisting tenancy notwithstanding that the claim is made when proceedings are pending to enforce a right of re-entry or forfeiture terminating the tenancy and notwithstanding any order made afterwards in those proceedings; and, if the claim is effective<sup>15</sup>, the court in which the proceedings were brought may set aside or vary any such order to such extent and on such terms as appear to it to be appropriate<sup>16</sup>. If, however, it appears to that court that the claim is not made in good faith, or there has been unreasonable delay in making it, and that apart from the claim effect should be given to the right of re-entry or forfeiture, the court must order that the tenancy shall not be so treated as subsisting nor the claim as valid<sup>17</sup>.

Where a court other than a county court so grants leave<sup>18</sup> or makes an order<sup>19</sup> on the ground that a claim was not made in good faith, the court may make any such order as the county court is authorised<sup>20</sup> to make<sup>21</sup>.

2 For the meaning of references to a notice terminating a tenancy see PARA 1430 note 3 ante; and for the meaning of 'tenancy' see PARA 1398 ante.

3 For these purposes, references to the currency of a claim are to be taken as references to the period from the giving of a notice which has effect or would, if valid, have effect to the time when the notice is effective or ceases to have effect or, not being a valid notice, is set aside by the court, or is withdrawn, or would, if valid, cease to have effect; and those references include any period when the notice is suspended: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 22(1) (as amended), Sch 3 para 5(1)(c). The date when a notice ceases to have effect or is set aside or would, if valid, cease to have effect in consequence of an order of the court is taken to be the date when the order becomes final: Sch 3 para 5(2).

8 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 3 para 2(2) (amended by the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 s 194(1), Sch 11 para 13(2)(b)). Where any such landlord's notice ceases, by virtue of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 3 para 2(2) (as so amended), to have effect on the making of a claim, but the claim is not effective, then, if within one month after the period of currency of that claim, or any subsequent claim made under Sch 3 para 2(1) proviso (as originally enacted) or under Sch 3 para 2(1D), (1E) (as substituted) (see PARA 1430 ante), a further landlord's notice terminating the tenancy is given under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 s 4 or s 25 (as amended), or served under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 Sch 10 para 4(1), the earliest date which may be specified in that notice as the date of termination is (1) in the case of a notice given under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954, the date of termination specified in the previous notice or the expiration of three months from the giving of the new notice, whichever is the later; (2) in the case of a notice served under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 s 186, Sch 10 (as amended), the date of termination specified in the previous notice or the expiration of the period of four months beginning on the date of service of the new notice, whichever is the later: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 3 para 2(3) (amended by the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 Sch 11 para 13(2)(c)); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2).

Where, by virtue of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 3 para 2(3) (as so amended), a landlord's notice specifies as the date of termination of a tenancy a date earlier than six months after the giving of the notice, then if the notice proposes a statutory tenancy, the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 s 7(2) (as amended) (see PARA 1216 ante) applies in relation to the notice with the substitution, for references to the period of two months ending with the date of termination specified in the notice and the beginning of that period, of references to the period of three months beginning with the giving of the notice and the end of that period: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 3 para 2(4) (amended by the Regulatory Reform (Business Tenancies) (England and Wales) Order 2003, SI 2003/3096, art 28(2), Sch 6).

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> makes a claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease<sup>2</sup> of any property, then during the currency of the claim<sup>3</sup> and for three months thereafter the tenancy<sup>4</sup> in that property does not terminate either by effluxion of time or in pursuance of a notice to quit<sup>5</sup> given by the landlord<sup>6</sup> or by the termination of a superior tenancy; but, if the claim is not effective<sup>7</sup> and the tenancy would otherwise have so terminated before the end of those three months, the tenancy so terminates at the end of the three months<sup>8</sup>.

5 For these purposes, 'notice to quit' means a notice to terminate a tenancy, whether a periodical tenancy or a tenancy for a term of years certain, given in accordance with the provisions, whether express or implied, of that tenancy: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 37(1)(c).

8 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 22(1) (as amended), Sch 3 para 3(1). Schedule 3 para 3(1) is not, however, to be taken to prevent an earlier termination of the tenancy in any manner not there mentioned, nor to affect the power under the Law of Property Act 1925 s 146(4) (see PARA 627 ante) to grant a tenant relief against the termination of a superior tenancy, or any right of the tenant to relief under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 s 16(2) (see PARA 1233 ante) or under Sch 5 para 9 (see PARA 1234 ante): Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 3 para 3(2). ### (iii) Landlord's Notice in Reply

1436. Notice in reply.

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> gives the landlord<sup>3</sup> notice<sup>4</sup> of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease, the landlord must within two months give the tenant a notice in reply in the prescribed form<sup>5</sup> stating whether or not the landlord admits the tenant's right to have the freehold or an extended lease, subject to any question as to the correctness of the particulars given in the tenant's notice of the house and premises<sup>6</sup>; and, if the landlord does not admit the tenant's right, the notice must state the grounds on which it is not admitted<sup>7</sup>.

Where the landlord may object<sup>8</sup> to the inclusion of any part of the house and premises as described in the tenant's notice<sup>9</sup>, or may object to the exclusion of other property<sup>10</sup>, the notice of his objection must be given with or before his notice in reply, unless the right to give it later is reserved by the notice in reply<sup>11</sup>.

If, however, on the assumption, where it is not admitted, that the tenant has the right claimed, it is intended to apply to the court for possession of the house and premises<sup>12</sup>, the notice in reply must state that it is the intention to do so<sup>13</sup>.

Where a landlord's notice in reply admits the tenant's right to have the freehold or extended lease of a house and premises, the admission is binding upon the landlord, so far as it relates to the matters relevant to the existence of that right, unless the landlord shows that he was induced to make the admission by misrepresentation or the concealment of material facts; but the admission does not conclude any question whether the particulars of the house and premises in the tenant's notice are correct<sup>14</sup>.

Where a person gives notice of his desire<sup>1</sup> to have the freehold or to have an extended lease of a house<sup>2</sup> and premises<sup>3</sup> and the notice is either set aside by the court or withdrawn, or ceases to have effect, or would, if valid, cease to have effect, then, if it is made to appear to the court:

3160 (2) that the person giving the notice attempted in any material respect to support it by misrepresentation or the concealment of material facts, the court may on the application of the landlord<sup>4</sup> order that person to pay to the landlord such sum as appears sufficient as compensation for damage or loss sustained by the landlord as the result of the giving of the notice<sup>5</sup>.

In any case where the court has power, on the application of the landlord, so to order a person to make a payment to the landlord, the court, whether or not it makes such an order, may, on the application of the landlord, order that any further notice given<sup>6</sup> by that person of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease of the same house or any part of it, with or without other property, shall be void if given within the five years beginning with the date of the order<sup>7</sup>.

10 For these purposes, 'incumbrances' include rentcharges and, subject to the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 8(3), personal liabilities attaching in respect of the ownership of land or an interest in land though not charged on that land or interest: ss 8(2), 37(1)(b). Burdens originating in tenure, and burdens in respect of the upkeep or regulation for the benefit of any locality of any land, building, structure, works, ways or watercourse are not, however, treated as incumbrances for these purposes, but any conveyance executed to give effect to s 8 (as amended) must be made subject thereto except as otherwise provided by s 11 (as amended) (see PARAS 1460-1461 post): s 8(3). 'Tenant's incumbrances' includes any interest directly or indirectly derived out of the tenancy, and any incumbrance on the tenancy or any such interest, whether or not the same matter is an incumbrance also on any interest reversionary on the tenancy: ss 8(2), 37(1)(b).

A charge on the landlord's estate to secure the payment of money or the performance of any other obligation is not, however, to be treated as a tenant's incumbrance by reason only of the grant of the tenancy being subsequent to the creation of the charge and not authorised as against the persons interested in the charge: see s 12(8); and PARA 1462 post.

11 Ibid s 8(1). As to the effect of the provision that the grant is to be otherwise free of incumbrances see PARAS 1450-1451 post. A claim arising from the obligation to enfranchise is a claim on a specialty and not in contract, and the limitation period is, therefore, 12 years: Collin v Duke of Westminster [1985] QB 581, [1985] 1 All ER 463, CA.

In Re 51 Bennington Road, Aston (1993) Times, 21 July the tenants of premises for the residue of 'the term or several terms of 500 years' were held entitled to purchase the freehold under the provisions of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967, notwithstanding ignorance of the identity of the reversioner and the exact terms of the lease.

(ii) Procedure

1440. In general.

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> having a right<sup>2</sup> to acquire the freehold gives the landlord<sup>3</sup> notice<sup>4</sup> of his desire to have it, the procedure for giving effect to the notice and the rights and obligations of all parties in relation to the investigation of title and other matters arising in giving effect to the notice are<sup>5</sup> such as may be prescribed by regulations; and, subject to or in the absence of provision made by any such regulations as regards any matter, the parties' rights and obligations are, as nearly as may be, the same as in the case of a contract of sale freely negotiated between the parties<sup>6</sup>.

In relation to a claim to acquire the freehold, any such regulations may include provision:

- 3161 (1) for a sum on account of the price payable for the house and premises and landlord's costs to be deposited with the landlord or with some person as his agent or as stakeholder, and for the return or forfeiture in any prescribed circumstances of the whole or part of the sum deposited;
- 3162 (2) for enabling or requiring the tenant in any prescribed circumstances, instead of continuing to pay rent under the tenancy, to pay sums representing interest on the price payable or, at his option, either to pay such sums or to pay or deposit the price payable or the balance of it;
- 3163 (3) for any matters incidental to or arising out of the matters mentioned above; and in relation to any claim the regulations may provide for discharging the landlord or the tenant by reason of the other's default or delay from the obligations arising out of the claim<sup>7</sup>.

Where it is made to appear to the court that the landlord or the tenant has been guilty of any unreasonable delay or default in the performance of his obligations arising from a tenant's notice of his desire to have the freehold, then, without prejudice to any right to damages, the court may:

- 3164 (a) by order revoke or vary, and direct repayment of sums paid under, any provision made by a previous order as to payment of costs of proceedings in the court in relation to the matter, or, where costs have not been awarded, award costs; or
- 3165 (b) certify particulars of the delay or default to the Lands Tribunal with a view to enabling the tribunal to exercise a like discretion in relation to costs of proceedings before the tribunal<sup>8</sup>.

3 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1432 note 4 ante.

4 le in accordance with the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended).

5 le except as otherwise provided by the Leasehold Reform Act 1967.

6 Ibid s 22(2) (amended by the Transfer of Functions (Lord Chancellor and Secretary of State) Order 1974, SI 1974/1896, art 3(2)). Any such regulations must be made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister by statutory instrument which is subject, if made by the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 22(2) (as so amended). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante; and as to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

In exercise of the power so conferred, and prior to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State made the Leasehold Reform (Enfranchisement and Extension) Regulations 1967, SI 1967/1879, reg 2, Schedule Pt I (paras 1-13) (as amended) which came into force on 1 January 1968: reg 1(1). In any transactions undertaken to give effect to a tenant's notice of his desire to have a freehold the landlord and the tenant are, unless they otherwise agree, bound by the conditions laid down in Schedule Pt I (paras 1-13) (as amended) as if the conditions formed part of a contract between them: reg 2. The conditions so laid down relate to: the payment of a deposit (Schedule Pt I para 1); evidence of the tenant's right to enfranchise (Schedule Pt I paras 2, 2A (respectively amended and added in relation to England by SI 2003/1989 and in relation to Wales by SI 2004/699)); delivery of proof of the landlord's title (Leasehold Reform (Enfranchisement and Extension) Regulations 1967, SI 1967/1879, Schedule Pt I para 3); requisitions (Sch Pt I para 4); particulars of rights of way and restrictions (Schedule Pt I para 5); completion (Schedule Pt I para 6); apportionment of rent and outgoings (Schedule Pt I para 7); election for interest in lieu of rent (Schedule Pt I para 8); preparation of the conveyance (Schedule Pt I para 9); failure to comply with obligations (Schedule Pt I para 10); cancellation of land charges etc (Schedule Pt I para 11); notices (Schedule Pt I para 12); and extension of time limits (Schedule Pt I para 13). Where as a result of non-compliance with the conditions so laid down the landlord and the tenant are discharged from the performance of the obligations arising in giving effect to the tenant's notice, such obligations arising between the tenant and persons other than the landlord having an interest superior to the tenancy are likewise discharged: reg 4.

In the case of a claim to acquire the freehold, the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 22(2) (as so amended) is not to be taken in any case as applying forms prescribed under the Law of Property Act 1925 s 46 (see SALE OF LAND vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 76) for contracts entered into by correspondence; but, without prejudice to the generality of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 22(2) (as so amended), the Law of Property Act 1925 s 49 (as amended) (determination of questions between vendor and purchaser: see SALE OF LAND vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 220) applies: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 22(4).

A claim pursuant to the 1967 Act is based on the statutory obligation, and as such is a claim upon a specialty, not a claim in contract, with the result that, if any period of limitation applies, the period is 12 years pursuant to the Limitation Act 1980 s 8 (see LIMITATION PERIODS): Collin v Duke of Westminster [1985] QB 581, [1985] 1 All ER 463, CA.

7 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 22(3).

8 Ibid s 20(4). Where the court certifies particulars of delay or default to the Lands Tribunal under s 20(4)(b) (see head (b) in the text), the Lands Tribunal may make any order as to costs of proceedings before the Lands Tribunal which the court may make in relation to proceedings in the court: s 20(4A) (added by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 176, Sch 13 paras 1, 4).

- 3168 (a) on the assumption that the vendor was selling for an estate in fee simple, subject to the tenancy<sup>11</sup>, but on the assumption that no right was conferred upon the tenant<sup>12</sup> to acquire the freehold, and, if the tenancy has not been extended<sup>13</sup>, on the assumption that, subject to the landlord's overriding rights of redevelopment<sup>14</sup>, it was to be so extended<sup>15</sup>;
- 3169 (b) on the assumption that, subject to head (a) above, the vendor was selling subject, in respect of certain rentcharges<sup>16</sup>, to the same annual charge as the conveyance to the tenant is to be subject to, but that the purchaser would otherwise be effectively exonerated until the termination of the tenancy from any liability or charge in respect of tenant's incumbrances<sup>17</sup>; and
- 3170 (c) on the assumption that, subject to heads (a) and (b) above, the vendor was selling with and subject to the rights and burdens with and subject to which the conveyance to the tenant is to be made, and in particular with and subject to such permanent or extended rights and burdens as are to be created in order to give effect to the statutory provisions<sup>18</sup> relating to the rights to be conveyed to the tenant on enfranchisement<sup>19</sup>.

The price payable for the house and premises is subject to such deduction, if any, in respect of any defect in the title to be conveyed to the tenant as on a sale in the open market might be expected to be allowed between a willing seller and a willing buyer<sup>20</sup>. In relation to a house and premises in an area governed by a scheme of management<sup>21</sup>, in determining the price payable for the freehold the provisions of the scheme must be taken into account<sup>22</sup>.

In default of agreement the price payable for a house and premises must be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>23</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'house' see PARA 1390 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'premises' see PARA 1391 ante.

3 As to Greater London see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 29.

4 For the purpose of determining whether the rateable value of the house and premises is above £1,000 in Greater London, or £500 elsewhere, the rateable value must be adjusted to take into account any tenant's improvements in accordance with the Housing Act 1974 s 118, Sch 8 (as amended) (see PARA 1393 ante):

Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 9(1B) (added by the Housing Act 1974 s 118(4)). As to the abolition of domestic rates see PARA 521 ante; and as to the certification of a rateable value in certain cases see PARA 523 ante. A house held on a lease granted under the right to buy is, however, treated as coming within the higher range of rateable values whatever the circumstances (see PARA 1444 post) as is a house where the tenancy of the house and premises has been extended under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 14 (as amended) (see PARA 1469 et seq post) and the notice under s 8(1) (see PARA 1439 ante) was given (whether by the tenant or a sub-tenant) after the original term date of the tenancy (see s 8(1C) (as added and amended); and PARA 1445 post).

5     le where the house and premises had no rateable value on 31 March 1990 and R did not exceed £16,333 under the formula in the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 1(1)(a) (as substituted and amended) (see PARA 1395 ante). Section 1(7) (as added) (see PARA 1395 ante) applies to that amount as it applies to the amount referred to in s 1(1)(a)(ii) (as substituted and amended): s 9(1A)(ii) (substituted by the References to Rating (Housing) Regulations 1990, SI 1990/434, reg 2, Schedule para 9). As to the houses which are treated as coming within the higher range of rateable values whatever the circumstances see note 4 supra.

6     le under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 8 (as amended): see PARA 1439 ante, PARAS 1450-1451 post.

7     For the meaning of 'relevant time' see PARA 1391 note 4 ante.

8     For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1432 note 1 ante.

9     For these purposes, the reference to members of the tenant's family is to be construed in accordance with the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 7(7) (as amended) (see PARA 1418 note 4 ante): s 9(1) (amended by the Housing Act 1969 s 82). The effect of the reference to the tenant and members of his family not buying or seeking to buy is to rule out the marriage value as an element in the purchase price of houses in the lower range. As to marriage value see s 9(1D), (1E) (as added); and PARA 1442 post.

10    The generally recognised approach to the ascertainment of price is to adopt three stages: (1) to capitalise the rent payable for the house and premises under the existing tenancy for the period of the unexpired term of that tenancy; (2) to estimate the rent that would be payable at the expiration of the original term in accordance with ibid s 15(2) (see PARA 1479 post); and (3) to capitalise the latter rent as if in perpetuity, deferred for the period of the unexpired term of the existing tenancy, not seeking to quantify any different rent that might become payable after 25 years from the original term date and not quantifying separately the value in reversion at the expiration of 50 years from that date: Farr v Millersons Investments Ltd (1971) 22 P & CR 1055, Lands Tribunal.

For the purpose of arriving at a rent at stage (2), it is necessary to estimate the value of the site of the house and premises, which may, according to circumstances, be done either (a) by taking a proportion of the value of the whole premises as they stand; or (b) by reference to the prices of sites sold for development or redevelopment for comparable uses; or (c) by reference to what the property as a whole would be worth if a new building were substituted for the existing building, and then taking a proportion of that value, or alternatively subtracting the proportion of the present-day cost of putting up that building: Farr v Millersons Investments Ltd supra. The site value thus ascertained is then decapitalised to produce the stage (2) rent: Farr v Millersons Investments Ltd supra. Unless there is evidence or some reason to the contrary, the rate at which the site value is decapitalised to arrive at the rent for the purpose of stage (2) and the rate at which it is then recapitalised to produce the capital sum at stage (3) should be the same: Official Custodian for Charities v Goldridge (1973) 26 P & CR 191, CA.

Where the term of the existing tenancy has very many years to run, separate calculations for stages (2) and (3) may be inappropriate, and the price may be calculated by capitalising the right to receive the current ground rent in perpetuity: Jenkins v Bevan-Thomas (1972) 23 P & CR 258, Lands Tribunal; Barber v Trustees of Eltham United Charities (1972) 221 Estates Gazette 1343, Lands Tribunal; Janering v English Property Co Ltd and Nessdale Ltd (1977) 33 P & CR 523, Lands Tribunal. In such a case, the rate of return should be assessed by reference to the land market rather than the money market: Gallagher Estates Ltd v Walker (1973) 28 P & CR 113, CA.

Where comparable transactions under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 are to be used as a guide to value, allowance must be made for the tenant's anxiety to compromise with his landlord in those transactions: DeLaforce v Evans and Evans (1970) 22 P & CR 770, Lands Tribunal.

As to the effect upon the price payable of restrictive covenants to be included in the conveyance to be made to the tenant see Peck v Trustees of Hornsey Parochial Charities (1970) 22 P & CR 789, Lands Tribunal.

As against a tenant in possession claiming under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 8 (as amended) (see PARA 1439 ante), the price payable on a conveyance for giving effect to s 8 (as amended) cannot be made less favourable by reference to a transaction since 15 February 1979 involving the creation or transfer of an interest superior to, whether or not preceding, his own, or an alteration since that date of the terms on which such an interest is held: Leasehold Reform Act 1979 s 1(1). For these purposes, references to a tenant claiming are to his giving notice under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 8 (as amended) of his desire to have the freehold: Leasehold Reform Act 1979 s 1(2). Section 1(1) applies to any claim to enfranchise made on or after 4 April 1979 and also to a claim made before that date unless by then the price had been determined by agreement or otherwise: s 1(3).

11 For the meaning of 'tenancy' see PARA 1398 ante. The reference is to the existing tenancy: Mosley v Hickman (1986) 52 P & CR 248, 18 HLR 292, CA.

1442. Houses within the higher range of values; in general.

Where:

3171 (1) the rateable value of a house<sup>1</sup> and premises<sup>2</sup> was above £1,000 in Greater London<sup>3</sup> and £500 elsewhere on 31 March 1990<sup>4</sup>; or

3172 (2) the house and premises had no rateable value on that date and their valuation exceeded £16,333<sup>5</sup>,

the price payable for a house and premises on a conveyance<sup>6</sup> is the amount which at the relevant time<sup>7</sup> the house and premises, if sold in the open market by a willing seller, might be expected to realise on the following assumptions<sup>8</sup>:

3174 (b) on the assumption that at the end of the tenancy the tenant has a statutory right<sup>12</sup> to remain in possession of the house and premises;

- 3175 (c) on the assumption that the tenant has no liability to carry out any repairs, maintenance or redecorations under the terms of the tenancy or by statute<sup>13</sup>;
- 3176 (d) on the assumption that the price is to be diminished by the extent to which the value of the house and premises has been increased by any improvement carried out by the tenant or his predecessors in title at their own expense<sup>14</sup>;
- 3177 (e) on the assumption that, subject to head (a) above, the vendor was selling subject, in respect of certain rentcharges<sup>15</sup>, to the same annual charge as the conveyance to the tenant is to be subject to, but that the purchaser would otherwise be effectively exonerated until the termination of the tenancy from any liability or charge in respect of the tenant's incumbrances<sup>16</sup>; and
- 3178 (f) on the assumption that, subject to heads (a) and (b) above, the vendor was selling with and subject to the rights and burdens with and subject to which the conveyance to the tenant is to be made, and in particular with and subject to such permanent or extended rights and burdens as are to be created in order to give effect to the statutory provisions<sup>17</sup> relating to the rights to be conveyed to the tenant on enfranchisement<sup>18</sup>.

Where, in determining the price payable for a house and premises in accordance with these provisions, there falls to be taken into account any marriage value arising by virtue of the coalescence of the freehold and leasehold interests, the share of the marriage value to which the tenant is to be regarded as being entitled is one half of it<sup>19</sup>; but where at the relevant time the unexpired term of the tenant's tenancy exceeds 80 years, the marriage value is to be taken to be nil<sup>20</sup>.

The price payable for the house and premises is subject to such deduction, if any, in respect of any defect in the title to be conveyed to the tenant as on a sale in the open market might be expected to be allowed between a willing seller and a willing buyer<sup>21</sup>. In relation to a house and premises in an area governed by a scheme of management<sup>22</sup>, in determining the price payable for the freehold the provisions of the scheme must be taken into account<sup>23</sup>.

In default of agreement the price payable for a house and premises must be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>24</sup>.

1443. Price payable on enfranchisement of house whose value or rent exceeds the applicable limit, or where tenancy terminable after death, marriage etc.

The price payable for a house<sup>1</sup> and premises<sup>2</sup> where the right to acquire the freehold arises by virtue of any one or more of the following:

- 3179 (1) the house having a value or rent which exceeds the applicable limit<sup>3</sup>; or
- 3180 (2) the tenancy being terminable after a death, a marriage or the formation of a civil partnership<sup>4</sup>, must be determined<sup>5</sup> in accordance with the statutory provisions relating to houses within the higher range of rateable values<sup>6</sup>; but in any such case the statutory provisions relating to the compensation payable where the right to acquire the freehold so arises<sup>7</sup> have effect for determining whether any additional amount is payable by way of compensation<sup>8</sup>.

In certain cases falling within head (1) above<sup>9</sup>, however, the assumption that at the end of the tenancy the tenant has a statutory right to remain in possession of the house and premises<sup>10</sup> does not apply<sup>11</sup>.

Where, in the case of a tenancy or subtenancy<sup>1</sup> created by the grant of a lease in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>2</sup>, the tenant exercises his right to acquire the freehold under Part I of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967<sup>3</sup>, the price payable must be determined in accordance with the statutory provisions relating to houses within the higher range of rateable values<sup>4</sup>, notwithstanding that the specified circumstances<sup>5</sup> do not apply<sup>6</sup>. This does not, however, apply where the lease was granted in pursuance of the extended right to buy<sup>7</sup>.

1 The Housing Act 1985 s 175 (as amended) (see the text and notes 2-6 infra) applies: (1) to a tenancy created by the grant of a lease in pursuance of Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended) (see PARA 1795 et seq post) of a dwelling house which is a house; (2) where the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended) applies as if there had been a single tenancy granted for a term beginning at the same time as the term under a tenancy falling within head (1) supra and expiring at the same time as the term under a later tenancy, to that later tenancy also; (3) to any subtenancy directly or indirectly derived out of a tenancy falling within head (1) or head (2) supra; (4) to a tenancy granted in substitution for a tenancy or subtenancy falling within heads (1)-(3) supra in pursuance of Pt I (as amended): Housing Act 1985 s 175(2)-(5). Where, in a case in which the price payable for a house<sup>1</sup> and premises<sup>2</sup> is to be determined in accordance with the statutory provisions applying to houses within the higher range of rateable values<sup>3</sup>, the tenancy<sup>4</sup> has been extended under Part I of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967<sup>5</sup>, then:

- 3181 (1) if the relevant time<sup>6</sup> is on or before the original term date, the statutory assumptions<sup>7</sup> apply as if the tenancy is to terminate on the original term date; and 3182 (2) if the relevant time is after the original term date, certain of the statutory assumptions<sup>8</sup> apply as if the tenancy had terminated on the original term date and the assumption that the tenant has a statutory right to remain in the house and premises<sup>9</sup> is modified<sup>10</sup>.

The price payable for a house and premises where the tenancy of the house and premises has been extended<sup>11</sup> and the notice of the desire to have the freehold<sup>12</sup> was given, whether by the tenant or a subtenant, after the original term date of the tenancy, must be determined<sup>13</sup> in accordance with the statutory provisions relating to houses within the higher range of rateable values<sup>14</sup>; but in any such case the special statutory provisions relating to the compensation payable<sup>15</sup> have effect for determining whether any additional amount is payable by way of compensation<sup>16</sup>.

On ascertaining<sup>1</sup> the amount payable, or likely to be payable, as the price for a house<sup>2</sup> and premises<sup>3</sup>, but not more than one month after the amount payable has been determined by agreement or otherwise, the tenant<sup>4</sup> may give written notice to the landlord<sup>5</sup> that he is unable or unwilling to acquire the house and premises at the price he must pay<sup>6</sup>.

TEXT AND NOTE 9--Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 9A(1) further amended: Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 Sch 16 (in force in relation to England: SI 2009/2096). For transitional provisions and savings see SI 2009/2096 art 3.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(3) ENFRANCHISEMENT/(iv) Compensation payable by Tenant/1448. Compensation for postponement of termination in connection with ineffective claims.

1448. Compensation for postponement of termination in connection with ineffective claims.

Where, on or after 15 January 1999:

3187 (1) a tenant<sup>1</sup> of any property makes a claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease of it<sup>2</sup>; and

3188 (2) the claim is not made at least two years before the term date<sup>3</sup> of the tenancy in respect of which the claim is made ('the existing tenancy'),

the tenant is liable to pay compensation if the claim is not effective<sup>4</sup> and:

3189 (a) the making of the claim caused a notice served on the tenant specifying the date at which a long residential tenancy was to come to an end<sup>5</sup> to cease to have effect and the date on which the claim ceases to have effect<sup>6</sup> is later than four months before the termination date specified in the notice;

- 3190 (b) the making of the claim prevented the service of an effective notice specifying the date at which a long residential tenancy was to come to an end<sup>7</sup>, but did not cause a notice served under the relevant statutory provision<sup>8</sup> to cease to have effect, and the date on which the claim ceases to have effect is a date later than six months before the term date of the tenancy; or
- 3191 (c) the existing tenancy is continued by statute<sup>9</sup> by virtue of the claim<sup>10</sup>.

Such compensation becomes payable at the end of the appropriate period<sup>11</sup> and is the right of the person who is the tenant's immediate landlord at that time<sup>12</sup>. The amount which the tenant is liable to pay by way of compensation is equal to the difference between:

- 3192 (i) the rent for the appropriate period under the existing tenancy; and
- 3193 (ii) the rent which might reasonably be expected to be payable for that period were the property to which the existing tenancy relates let for a term equivalent to that period on the open market by a willing landlord on the following assumptions:
- 191
32. (A) that no premium is payable in connection with the letting;
33. (B) that the letting confers no security of tenure; and
34. (C) that, except as otherwise provided by these provisions, the letting is on the same terms as the existing tenancy<sup>13</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1432 note 1 ante.

2 For these purposes, references to a claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease are to be taken as references to a notice of a person's desire to acquire it under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended) (see PARA 1389 et seq ante, PARA 1449 et seq post) and as including a claim made by a tenant not entitled to acquire it: s 27A(7)(a) (s 27A added by the Housing Act 1996 s 116, Sch 11 para 1(1)).

3 For the meaning of 'term date' see PARA 1400 note 12 ante.

4 For these purposes, a claim to acquire the freehold or an extended lease is not effective if it ceases to have effect for any reason other than: (1) the acquisition in pursuance of the claim of the interest to which it relates; or (2) the lapsing of the claim under any provision of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 excluding the tenant's liability for costs: s 27A(5) (as added: see note 2 supra).

5 I.e a notice served under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 Sch 10 para 4(1): see PARA 1249 ante.

6 For these purposes, references to the date on which a claim ceases to have effect are to be taken, in relation to a notice which is not a valid notice, as references to the date on which the notice is set aside by the court or withdrawn or would, if valid, cease to have effect, that date being taken, where the notice is set aside, or would (if valid) cease to have effect, in consequence of a court order, to be the date when the order becomes final: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 27A(7)(b) (as added: see note 2 supra). For the purposes of Pt I (as amended) an order of a court is to be treated as becoming final (1) if not appealed against, on the expiration of the time for bringing an appeal; or (2) if appealed against and not set aside in consequence of the appeal, at the time when the appeal and any further appeal is disposed of by the determination of it and the expiration of the time for bringing a further appeal (if any) or by its being abandoned or otherwise ceasing to have effect: s 37(7).

11 For these purposes, the appropriate period is (1) in a case falling within s 27A(2)(a) (as added) (see head (a) in the text), the period beginning with the termination date specified in the notice mentioned therein and ending with the earliest date of termination which could have been specified in a notice under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 Sch 10 para 4(1) served immediately after the date on which the claim ceases to have effect, or, if the existing tenancy is terminated before then, with the date of its termination; (2) in a case falling within the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 27A(2)(b) (as added) (see head (b) in the text), the period beginning with the later of six months from the date on which the claim is made and the term date of the existing tenancy and ending six months after the date on which the claim ceases to have effect, or, if the existing tenancy is terminated before then, with the date of its termination; and (3) in a case falling within s 27A(2)(c) (as added) (see head (c) in the text), the period for which the existing tenancy is continued under Sch 3 para 3(1): s 27A(6) (as added: see note 2 supra).

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(3) ENFRANCHISEMENT/(iv) Compensation payable by Tenant/1449. Compensation for postponement of termination where change in immediate reversion.

1449. Compensation for postponement of termination where change in immediate reversion.

Where a tenant's<sup>1</sup> liability to pay compensation for postponement of the termination of a tenancy<sup>2</sup> relates to a period during which there has been a change in the interest immediately expectant on the determination of his tenancy<sup>3</sup>, such compensation<sup>4</sup> becomes payable at the end of the appropriate period<sup>5</sup> and there is a separate right to compensation in respect of each of the interests which, during that period, have been immediately expectant on the determination of the existing tenancy<sup>6</sup>. Such compensation is the right:

3194 (1) in the case of the interest which is immediately expectant on the determination of the existing tenancy at the end of the appropriate period, of the person in whom that interest is vested at that time; and

3195 (2) in the case of an interest which ceases during the appropriate period to be immediately expectant on the determination of the existing tenancy, of the person in whom the interest was vested immediately before it ceased to be so expectant<sup>7</sup>.

The amount which the tenant is liable to pay in respect of any interest is equal to the difference between:

3196 (a) the rent under the existing tenancy for the part of the appropriate period during which the interest was immediately expectant on the determination of that tenancy; and

3197 (b) the rent which might reasonably be expected to be payable for that part of that period were the property to which the existing tenancy relates let for a term equivalent to that part of that period on the open market by a willing landlord on the following assumptions:

35. (i) that no premium is payable in connection with the letting;

1455. Restrictive covenants.

As regards restrictive covenants, that is to say any covenant or agreement restrictive of the user of any land or premises<sup>1</sup>, a conveyance<sup>2</sup> must include:

- 3210 (1) such provisions, if any, as the landlord<sup>3</sup> may require to secure that the tenant<sup>4</sup> is bound by, or to indemnify the landlord against breaches of, restrictive covenants which affect the house<sup>5</sup> and premises otherwise than by virtue of the tenancy<sup>6</sup> or any agreement collateral thereto and are enforceable for the benefit of other property; and
- 3211 (2) such provisions, if any, as the landlord or the tenant may require to secure the continuance, with suitable adaptations, of restrictions arising by virtue of the tenancy or any agreement collateral thereto, being either:
- 195 38. (a) restrictions affecting the house and premises which are capable of benefiting other property and, if enforceable only by the landlord, are such as materially to enhance the value of the other property; or
39. (b) restrictions affecting other property which are such as materially to enhance the value of the house and premises;
- 196 3212 (3) such further provisions, if any, as the landlord may require to restrict the use of the house and premises in any way which will not interfere with the reasonable enjoyment of the house and premises as they have been enjoyed during the tenancy but will materially enhance the value of other property in which the landlord has an interest<sup>7</sup>.

Neither the landlord nor the tenant is entitled<sup>8</sup> to require the inclusion in a conveyance of any provision which is unreasonable in all the circumstances, in view:

- 3213 (i) of the date at which the tenancy commenced, and changes since that date which affect the suitability at the relevant time of the provisions of the tenancy; and
- 3214 (ii) where the tenancy is or was one of a number of tenancies of neighbouring houses, of the interests of those affected in respect of other houses<sup>9</sup>.

Where the landlord is so required to enter into a restrictive covenant, the person entering into the covenant as landlord is entitled to limit his personal liability to breaches of the covenant for which he is responsible<sup>10</sup>.

1 'User' is to be construed widely for these purposes and is capable of including building and development: Langevad v Chiswick Quay Freeholds Ltd (1998) 80 P & CR 26, [1999] 1 EGLR 61, CA. For the meaning of 'premises' see PARA 1391 ante.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(3) ENFRANCHISEMENT/(v) Conveyance/1456. Reservation of future right to develop.

1456. Reservation of future right to develop.

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> and premises<sup>3</sup> acquires the freehold<sup>4</sup>, the landlord<sup>5</sup> being:

- 3215 (1) a local authority<sup>6</sup>; or
- 3216 (2) the Commission for the New Towns or a development corporation<sup>7</sup>;
- 3217 (3) any university body<sup>8</sup>; or
- 3218 (4) a housing action trust<sup>9</sup>,

there must be included in the conveyance<sup>10</sup>, if so required by the landlord, such covenants on the part of the tenant restricting the carrying out of development or clearing of land as are necessary to reserve the land for possible development by the landlord<sup>11</sup>.

Where a covenant is entered into to give effect to the above provisions, it must be expressed to be so entered into<sup>12</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1432 note 1 ante.

6 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 29(1). For these purposes, 'local authority' means a local authority as defined in s 28(5)(a) (as amended) (see PARA 1487 note 2 post): s 29(5).

7 Ibid s 29(1)-(4) has effect in relation to the Commission for the New Towns (now part of English Partnerships: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1383 et seq) and to any development corporation within the meaning of the New Towns Act 1981 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1322 et seq) as if any reference therein or in the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 4 Pt I (paras 1-3) (as amended) to a local authority were a reference to that Commission or corporation: s 29(6)(a); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(a).

8 The Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 29(1)-(4) has effect in relation to any university body as defined in s 28(5)(c) (see PARA 1487 note 7 post) as if any reference therein or in Sch 4 Pt I (paras 1-3) (as amended) to a local authority were a reference to that university body; but a university body may not require a covenant to be entered into under s 29 (as amended) unless it has first obtained the consent of the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, of the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister: s 29(6)(b). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante; and as to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

Where the landlord is a university body, the possible development for which land may be reserved by a covenant entered into to give effect to s 29(1) or s 29(2) (see PARA 1477 post) includes development by a related university body, within the meaning of s 28(6)(b) (see PARA 1487 note 13 post): s 29(6B) (added by the Housing Act 1980 s 141, Sch 21 para 5).

9 The Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 29(1)-(4) has effect in relation to a housing action trust (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 319 et seq) as if any reference therein or in Sch 4 Pt I (paras 1-3) (as amended) to a local authority were a reference to the trust: s 29(6C) (added by the Housing Act 1988 s 140(1), Sch 17 para 16).

10 le under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 8 (as amended): see PARAS 1439, 1450-1451 ante.

11 Ibid s 29(1). Section 29 (as amended) applies, and applies only, where the authority entitled to require the covenant thereunder is the estate owner in respect of the fee simple and there is no tenancy carrying an expectation of possession of 30 years or more: s 5(4), Sch 1 para 6(2).

Where a tenant of a house and premises acquires the freehold, the landlord being a local authority, and afterwards the local authority or any other person acquires compulsorily any interest in the property, then, for the purpose of assessing compensation in accordance with the Land Compensation Act 1961 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND), no account is to be taken of any increase in the value of that interest which is attributable to the carrying out of development in contravention of a covenant entered into to give effect to the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 29(1) or (2), or to any prospect of carrying out any such development, and any compensation payable to a tenant under s 17 (see PARAS 1485-1486 post) must be assessed without regard to any increase in the value of his interest which would be disregarded under this provision on a compulsory purchase of that interest: s 29(4).

Schedule 4 Pt II (paras 4-5) (as amended) has effect to enable property to be reacquired compulsorily where it is subject to a covenant entered into to give effect to s 29(1) with the Commission for the New Towns or a university body: s 29(7) (amended by the Development of Rural Wales Act 1976 Sch 7 para 5(1), (3); the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 152, Sch 18 Pt IV). The Acquisition of Land Act 1981 (see generally COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND) applies to such a compulsory purchase: see the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 4 para 5(2) (substituted by the Acquisition of Land Act 1981 s 34, Sch 4 para 16(3)).

12 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 29(3). Schedule 4 Pt I (paras 1-3) (as amended) (see PARA 1458 post) has effect with respect to the operation and enforcement of any covenant so entered into: s 29(3).

1457 Reservation of right of pre-emption in new town etc

TEXT AND NOTE 12--Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 30(7) further amended: Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 Sch 8 para 8.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/24. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(3) ENFRANCHISEMENT/(v) Conveyance/1458. Enforcement of relevant covenants regarding reservation of future right to develop or right of pre-emption.

1458. Enforcement of relevant covenants regarding reservation of future right to develop or right of pre-emption.

A covenant entered into in accordance with the provisions relating to reservation of the future right to develop<sup>1</sup> or the right of pre-emption<sup>2</sup> ('a relevant covenant') is not enforceable by any means other than those provided by the provisions set out below<sup>3</sup>.

A relevant covenant affecting land other than registered land may be registered under the Land Charges Act 1925<sup>4</sup>, if it would not otherwise be so registrable as a restrictive covenant or as an estate contract, and is binding<sup>5</sup> upon every successor of the covenantor<sup>6</sup>, if it would not otherwise be binding upon every such successor<sup>7</sup>.

Where a relevant covenant affects registered land, the covenant may be the subject of a notice in the register of title kept under the Land Registration Act 2002<sup>8</sup>, if it would not otherwise be capable of being the subject of such a notice; and where a notice in respect of the covenant has been entered in that register, it is binding upon every successor of the covenantor, if it would not otherwise be binding upon every such successor<sup>9</sup>.

The statutory power of the Lands Tribunal to discharge or modify restrictive covenants affecting land<sup>10</sup> does not have effect in relation to any relevant covenant<sup>11</sup>; and the rule against perpetuities and any enactment relating to that rule does not apply to any right conferred by, or exercisable in relation to, a relevant covenant, if it would otherwise apply to any such right<sup>12</sup>.

Where it appears to a local authority<sup>13</sup> that a relevant covenant entered into on a disposition by that authority has been broken, the authority may serve written notice on any one or more of the following persons, that is to say:

- 3224 (1) any person for the time being entitled to the interest disposed of either in the whole or in part of the land comprised in the disposition ('the land under covenant'); and
- 3225 (2) any person entitled to an interest consisting of a tenancy<sup>14</sup>, whether of the whole or of part of the land under covenant, which has been created, directly or indirectly, out of the interest disposed of<sup>15</sup>.

A notice so served on any person must specify the covenant and the matters in respect of which it is alleged by the authority that the covenant has been broken and must state that, after the end of such period, not being less than six weeks from the date of service of the notice, as may be specified in the notice, the authority proposes to execute a vesting declaration<sup>16</sup> in respect of that person's interest in the land under covenant unless before the end of that period he serves a counter-notice<sup>17</sup> on the authority<sup>18</sup>.

Any person on whom a notice is served under heads (1) and (2) above may, before the end of the period specified in the notice<sup>19</sup>, serve on the authority a counter-notice in writing objecting to the notice on such one or more of the following grounds as may be specified in the counter-notice, that is to say:

- 3226 (a) that the relevant covenant specified in the notice served on him has not been broken as alleged in that notice;
- 3227 (b) that, if that covenant has been so broken, the breach does not relate to any part of the land under covenant in which the person serving the counter-notice has an interest;
- 3228 (c) that in the circumstances he ought to be relieved against the execution of a vesting declaration<sup>20</sup> in respect of his interest<sup>21</sup>.

Where a person has so served a counter-notice and that counter-notice has not been withdrawn, the authority must not execute a vesting declaration<sup>22</sup> in respect of his interest except with the leave of the court; and on any application for such leave:

- 3229 (i) where the grounds of objection specified in the counter-notice consist of or include that which is specified in head (a) or head (b) above, the court may not grant leave unless satisfied that the objection on that ground is not well-founded; and
- 3230 (ii) without prejudice to head (i) above, where the grounds of objection specified in the counter-notice consist of or include that which is specified in head (c) above, the court, if having regard to the conduct of the parties and to all the other circumstances it appears to the court to be just and equitable to do so, may refuse to grant leave, either unconditionally or on such terms as to costs, damages or otherwise as the court thinks fit<sup>23</sup>.

Where a local authority has served on any person a notice under the above provisions in respect of such an interest as is mentioned in head (1) or head (2) above, then the authority may<sup>24</sup> execute a vesting declaration in respect of that interest:

- 3231 (A) at any time within the six months following the end of the period specified in the notice<sup>25</sup>, if no counter-notice is served<sup>26</sup> before the end of that period; or
- 3232 (B) if such a counter-notice is so served but is withdrawn, at any time within the six months following the withdrawal of the counter-notice; or
- 3233 (C) if such a counter-notice is so served and is not withdrawn, at any time within the six months following the time when the order giving leave<sup>27</sup> becomes final<sup>28</sup>.

A vesting declaration under these provisions in respect of an interest in land must be in such form as may be prescribed<sup>29</sup>; and where such a vesting declaration is executed the interest to which it relates vests in the authority on such date as is specified in that behalf in the declaration<sup>30</sup>. Any reference in the Land Compensation Act 1961 to the compulsory acquisition of land, or of an interest in land, is to be construed as including a reference to the execution of a vesting declaration under these provisions in respect of an interest in land; and that Act applies in relation to the execution of such a declaration as if the authority, having been duly authorised to acquire that interest compulsorily in accordance with the Acquisition of Land Act 1981, had served notice to treat in respect of that interest on the date of execution of the declaration<sup>31</sup>. In assessing compensation in accordance with the Land Compensation Act 1961 in respect of an interest in land vested in a local authority by such a vesting declaration, nothing is to be included for damage sustained by reason that the land in which the interest subsists is severed from other land held therewith, or for disturbance or any other matter not directly based on the value of land or of an interest in land; and in a case where immediately before the execution of the declaration the interest is subject to a right of pre-emption<sup>32</sup> no account is to be taken of any diminution of the value of the interest which is attributable to that right<sup>33</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(3) ENFRANCHISEMENT/(vi) Rentcharges/1461. Discharge from rentcharge to extent necessary to secure that annual charges do not exceed annual rent.

1461. Discharge from rentcharge to extent necessary to secure that annual charges do not exceed annual rent.

Where for the purpose of complying with the above provisions the house and premises are to be discharged from a rent by redemption of it, with or without prior apportionment, and for any specified reason<sup>11</sup> difficulty arises in paying the redemption price, the tenant may, and if so required by the landlord must, before execution of the conveyance pay into court on account of the price for the house and premises an amount not exceeding the appropriate amount to secure redemption<sup>12</sup> of the rent; and, if the amount so paid by the tenant is less than that appropriate amount, the landlord must pay into court the balance<sup>13</sup>.

If a tenant of a house and premises wishes to pay money into court<sup>14</sup> he must file<sup>15</sup> in the office of the appropriate court<sup>16</sup> an application notice containing or accompanied by evidence stating:

- 3234 (1) the reasons for the payment into court;
- 3235 (2) the house and premises to which the payment relates;
- 3236 (3) the name and address of the landlord; and
- 3237 (4) so far as they are known to the tenant, the name and address of every person who is or may be interested in or entitled to the money<sup>17</sup>.

On the filing of the witness statement<sup>18</sup> the tenant must pay the money into court and the court will send notice of the payment to the landlord and every person whose name and address are given in the witness statement<sup>19</sup>. Any subsequent payment into court by the landlord<sup>20</sup> must be made to the credit of the same account as the payment into court by the tenant<sup>21</sup>.

Where payment is so made into court, the house and premises are, on execution of the conveyance, discharged from the rent; and any claim to the redemption money lies against the fund in court and not otherwise<sup>22</sup>.

10 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 11(2), (8) (amended by the Rentcharges Act 1977 s 17(1), Sch 1 para 4(2) (e)). For these purposes, the house and premises are treated as discharged from a rent to the extent to which (1) the rent is charged on or apportioned to other land so as to confer on the tenant in respect of the house and premises the remedies against the other land provided for by the Law of Property Act 1925 s 190(2) (see RENTCHARGES AND ANNUITIES vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 850); or (2) the landlord is otherwise entitled to be exonerated from or indemnified against liability for the rent in respect of the house and premises and the tenant will, in so far as the landlord's right is not a right against the tenant himself or his land, become entitled on the conveyance to the like exoneration or indemnity: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 11(3).

11 Ie any reason mentioned in ibid s 13(2): see PARA 1464 post.

12 For these purposes, 'the appropriate amount to secure redemption' of a rent is, subject to ibid s 11(7) (as amended), the amount of redemption money agreed to be paid or, in default of agreement, the amount specified as the redemption price in instructions for redemption under the Rentcharges Act 1977 s 9(4) (see RENTCHARGES AND ANNUITIES vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 901): Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 11(6) (amended by the Rentcharges Act 1977 Sch 1 para 4(2)(c)).

Where a rent affects other property as well as the house and premises, and the other property is not exonerated or indemnified by means of a charge on the house and premises, then (1) 'the appropriate amount to secure redemption' of the rent for these purposes, if no amount has been agreed or specified as mentioned in the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 11(6) (as so amended), is such sum as, on an application under the Rentcharges Act 1977 s 4 (see RENTCHARGES AND ANNUITIES vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARAS 844-845), for the apportionment of the rent, may, pending the apportionment, be approved by the apportioning authority as suitable provision, with a reasonable margin, for the redemption money of the part likely to be apportioned to the house and premises; and (2) the apportionment, when made, is deemed to have had effect from the date of the payment into court, and, if in respect of any property affected by the rent there has been any overpayment or underpayment, the amount must be made good by abatement of or addition to the next payment after the apportionment and, if necessary, later payments: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 11(7) (amended by the Rentcharges Act 1977 Sch 1 para 4(2)(d)).

(vii) Mortgages on Landlord's Estate

1462. Discharge of mortgages etc.

A conveyance of the freehold<sup>1</sup> is effective<sup>2</sup>, as regards any charge on the landlord's<sup>3</sup> estate, however created or arising, to secure the payment of money or the performance of any other obligation by the landlord or any other person, not being a charge subject to which the conveyance is required to be made or which would otherwise be overreached, to discharge the house<sup>4</sup> and premises<sup>5</sup> from the charge and from the operation of any order made by a court for the enforcement of the charge, and to extinguish any term of years created for the purposes of the charge; and it does so without the persons entitled to or interested in the charge or in any such order or term of years becoming parties to or executing the conveyance<sup>6</sup>.

Where the house and premises are so discharged from a charge, without the obligations secured by the charge being satisfied by the receipt of the whole or part of the price, the discharge of the house and premises does not prejudice any right or remedy for the enforcement of those obligations against other property comprised in the same or any other security, nor prejudice any personal liability as principal or otherwise of the landlord or any other person<sup>7</sup>.

5 For the meaning of 'premises' see PARA 1391 ante.

6 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 12(1). Section 12(1) is not to be taken to prevent a person from joining in the conveyance for the purpose of discharging the house and premises from any charge without payment or for a less payment than that to which he would otherwise be entitled and, if he does so, the persons to whom the price ought to be paid must be determined accordingly (s 12(7)); and nothing in s 12 applies in relation to any charge falling within s 11 (as amended) (see PARAS 1460-1461 ante) (s 12(9)).

A charge on the landlord's estate to secure the payment of money or the performance of any other obligation is not to be treated for the purposes of Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended) (see PARA 1389 et seq ante, PARA 1463 et seq post) as a tenant's incumbrance by reason only of the grant of the tenancy being subsequent to the creation of the charge and not authorised as against the persons interested in the charge; and s 12 applies as if the persons so interested at the time of the grant had duly concurred in the grant of the freehold for the purpose, but only for the purpose, of validating it despite the charge on the grantor's estate: s 12(8). For the meaning of 'tenant's incumbrance' see PARA 1439 note 10 ante.

Where, however, a tenancy is granted on or after 1 January 1968, whether or not it is, by virtue of s 3(3) (as amended) (see PARA 1400 ante), to be treated for other purposes as forming a single tenancy with a previous tenancy, and the tenancy has not by the time of the conveyance of the house and premises to the tenant become binding on the persons interested in the charge, the conveyance does not, by virtue of s 12, discharge the house and premises from the charge except so far as it is satisfied by the application or payment into court of the price payable for the house and premises: s 12(8) proviso. For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1432 note 1 ante. As to payment into court see PARA 1464 post.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(3) ENFRANCHISEMENT/(vii) Mortgages on Landlord's Estate/1463. Application of purchase money.

1463. Application of purchase money.

Where the conveyance<sup>1</sup> will be effective to discharge the house<sup>2</sup> and premises<sup>3</sup> from a charge<sup>4</sup> to secure the payment of money, it is the duty<sup>5</sup> of the tenant<sup>6</sup> to apply the price payable<sup>7</sup> for the house and premises, in the first instance, in or towards the redemption of any such charge and, if there are more than one, then according to their priorities; and, if any amount so payable to the person entitled to the benefit of a charge is not so paid, nor paid into court<sup>8</sup>, then, for the amount in question, the house and premises remain subject to the charge<sup>9</sup>.

The above provisions do not, however, apply to any debenture holders' charge<sup>10</sup>; but they do apply to a charge in favour of trustees for debenture holders which at the date of the conveyance to the tenant is, as regards the house and premises, a specific and not a floating charge<sup>11</sup>.

For the purpose of determining the amount so payable in respect of any charge<sup>12</sup>, a person entitled to the benefit of such a charge is not permitted to exercise any right to consolidate that charge with a separate charge on other property; and, if the landlord or the tenant is himself entitled to the benefit of such a charge, it ranks for payment as it would if another person were entitled to it, and the tenant is entitled to retain the appropriate amount in respect of any such charge of his<sup>13</sup>.

For the purpose of discharging the house and premises from such a charge, a person may be required to accept three months' or any longer notice of the intention to pay the whole or part of the principal secured by the charge, together with interest to the date of payment, notwithstanding that the terms of the security make other provision or no provision as to the time and manner of payment; but he is entitled, if he so requires, to receive such additional payment as is reasonable in the circumstances in respect of the costs of reinvestment or other incidental costs and expenses and in respect of any reduction in the rate of interest obtainable on reinvestment<sup>14</sup>.

10    For these purposes, 'debenture holders' charge' means any charge, whether a floating charge or not, in favour of the holders of a series of debentures issued by a company or other body of persons, or in favour of trustees for such debenture holders: ibid s 12(5). #### 1464. Payment into court in cases of difficulty.

Where a house<sup>1</sup> and premises<sup>2</sup> are on a conveyance to the tenant<sup>3</sup> to be discharged of any charge<sup>4</sup> and a person is or may be entitled<sup>5</sup> in respect of the charge to receive the whole or any part of the price payable for the house and premises, then, if:

3238 (1) for any reason difficulty arises in ascertaining how much is payable in respect of the charge; or the tenant may pay into court on account of the price for the house and premises the amount, if known, of the payment to be made in respect of the charge or, if that amount is not known, the whole of the price or such less amount as the tenant thinks right in order to provide for that payment<sup>7</sup>.

3239 (2) for any specified reason<sup>6</sup> difficulty arises in making a payment in respect of the charge,

Payment may be made into court in accordance with head (2) above where the difficulty arises for any of the following reasons:

- 3240 (a) because a person who is or may be entitled to receive payment cannot be found or ascertained;
- 3241 (b) because any such person refuses or fails to make out a title, or to accept payment and give a proper discharge, or to take any steps reasonably required by him to enable the sum payable to be ascertained and paid; or
- 3242 (c) because a tender of the sum payable cannot, by reason of complications in the title to it or the want of two or more trustees or for other reasons, be effected, or not without incurring or involving unreasonable cost or delay<sup>8</sup>.

The price payable for a house and premises<sup>9</sup> must be paid<sup>10</sup> by the tenant into court if, before execution of the conveyance, written notice is given to him:

- 3243 (i) that the landlord<sup>11</sup> or a person entitled to the benefit of a charge on the house and premises so requires for the purpose of protecting the rights of persons so entitled, or for reasons related to any application made or to be made under the statutory provisions relating to transitional relief in respect of mortgages<sup>12</sup>, or to the bankruptcy or winding up of the landlord; or
- 3244 (ii) that steps have been taken to enforce any charge on the landlord's interest in the house and premises by the bringing of proceedings in any court, or by the appointment of a receiver, or otherwise<sup>13</sup>.

For the purpose of computing the amount so payable into court, the price payable for the house and premises is to be treated as reduced by any amount to be paid out of it for the redemption of a rent<sup>14</sup> before the execution of the conveyance<sup>15</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(3) ENFRANCHISEMENT/(viii) Supplementary Provisions/1465. Enfranchisement where landlord cannot be found or his identity ascertained.

(viii) Supplementary Provisions

1465. Enfranchisement where landlord cannot be found or his identity ascertained.

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> having a right<sup>3</sup> to acquire the freehold is prevented from giving notice of his desire to have the freehold because the person to be served with the notice cannot be found, or his identity cannot be ascertained, then, on an application made by the tenant<sup>4</sup>, the court may make<sup>5</sup> such order as it thinks fit with a view to the house and premises<sup>6</sup> being vested in him, his executors, administrators or assigns for the like estate and on the like terms, so far as the circumstances permit, as if he had at the date of his application given notice of his desire to have the freehold<sup>7</sup>.

Before making any such order, the court may require the applicant to take such further steps by way of advertisement or otherwise as the court thinks proper for the purpose of tracing the landlord; and, if after an application is made to the court and before the house and premises are vested in pursuance of the application the landlord<sup>8</sup> is traced, no further proceedings may be taken with a view to the house and premises being so vested<sup>9</sup>. The rights and obligations of all parties must then be determined as if the applicant had, at the date of the application, duly given notice of his desire to have the freehold<sup>10</sup>, and the court may give such directions<sup>11</sup> as it thinks fit as to the steps to be taken for giving effect to those rights and obligations<sup>12</sup>.

Where a house and premises are to be vested in a person in pursuance of such an application, then, on his paying into court the appropriate sum<sup>13</sup>, there must be executed by such person as the court may designate a conveyance in a form approved by the court and containing such provisions as may be so approved for the purpose of giving effect so far as possible to the requirements relating to the rights to be conveyed to a tenant on enfranchisement<sup>14</sup>; and that conveyance is effective to vest in the person to whom the conveyance is made the property expressed to be conveyed, subject as and in the manner in which it is expressed to be conveyed<sup>15</sup>. A conveyance so executed is of full effect<sup>16</sup> notwithstanding any interest of the Crown in the property expressed to be conveyed<sup>17</sup>.

For the purpose of any conveyance to be so executed, any question as to the property to be conveyed and the rights with or subject to which it is to be conveyed is to be determined by the court; but it must be assumed, unless the contrary is shown, that the landlord has no interest in property other than the property to be conveyed and, for the purpose of excepting them from the conveyance, any underlying minerals<sup>18</sup>.

Where a house and premises are so vested in a person, the payment into court of the appropriate sum is to be taken to have satisfied any claims against the tenant, his executors, administrators or assigns in respect of the price payable for the acquisition of the freehold in the house and premises<sup>19</sup>.

Any such application may be withdrawn at any time before execution<sup>20</sup> of a conveyance<sup>21</sup>.

1466. Costs.

Where a person gives notice<sup>1</sup> of his desire to have the freehold of a house<sup>2</sup> and premises<sup>3</sup>, then, unless the notice lapses under any statutory provision excluding his liability<sup>4</sup>, there must be borne by him, so far as they are incurred in pursuance of the notice, the reasonable costs of or incidental to any of the following matters:

- 3245 (1) any investigation by the landlord<sup>5</sup> of that person's right to acquire the freehold;
- 3246 (2) any conveyance or assurance of the house and premises or any part thereof or of any outstanding estate or interest therein;
- 3247 (3) deducing, evidencing and verifying the title to the house and premises or any estate or interest therein;
- 3248 (4) making out and furnishing such abstracts and copies as the person giving the notice may require; and

1470. In general.

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> having a right<sup>2</sup> to acquire an extended lease gives the landlord<sup>3</sup> notice<sup>4</sup> of his desire to have it, the procedure for giving effect to the notice, and the rights and obligations of all parties in relation to the investigation of title and other matters arising in giving effect to the notice, are<sup>5</sup> such as may be prescribed by regulations; and, subject to or in the absence of provision made by any such regulations as regards any matter, the parties' rights and obligations are, as regards any matter, as nearly as may be the same as in the case of a contract of sale or leasing freely negotiated between the parties<sup>6</sup>.

In relation to any claim the regulations may provide for discharging the landlord or the tenant by reason of the other's default or delay from the obligations arising out of the claim<sup>7</sup>.

Where it is made to appear to the court that the landlord or the tenant has been guilty of any unreasonable delay or default in the performance of his obligations arising from a tenant's notice of his desire to have an extended lease, then, without prejudice to any right to damages, the court may:

- 3255 (1) by order revoke or vary, and direct repayment of sums paid under, any provision made by a previous order as to payment of the costs of proceedings in the court in relation to the matter, or, where costs have not been awarded, award costs; or 3256 (2) certify particulars of the delay or default to the Lands Tribunal with a view to enabling the tribunal to exercise a like discretion in relation to costs of proceedings before the tribunal<sup>8</sup>.

2 Ie under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended); see PARA 1389 et seq ante, PARA 1471 et seq post.

3 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1432 note 4 ante.

4 Ie in accordance with the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (as amended).

5 Ie except as otherwise provided by the Leasehold Reform Act 1967.

6 Ibid s 22(2) (amended by the Transfer of Functions (Lord Chancellor and Secretary of State) Order 1974, SI 1974/1896, art 3(2)). Any such regulations must be made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister, by statutory instrument which is subject, if made by the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 22(2) (as so amended). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante; and as to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

In exercise of the power so conferred, and prior to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State made the Leasehold Reform (Enfranchisement and Extension) Regulations 1967, SI 1967/1879, reg 3, Schedule Pt 2 (paras 1-8) (as amended) which came into force on 1 January 1968: reg 1(1). In any transactions undertaken to give effect to a tenant's notice of his desire to have an extended lease the landlord and the tenant are, unless they otherwise agree, bound by the conditions laid down in Schedule Pt 2 (paras 1-8) (as amended) as if the conditions formed part of a contract between them: reg 3. The conditions so laid down relate to: evidence of the tenant's right to have an extended lease (Schedule Pt 2 paras 1, 1A (respectively amended and added by SI 2003/1989 in relation to England and SI 2004/699 in relation to Wales); the terms of the new tenancy (Leasehold Reform (Enfranchisement and Extension) Regulations 1967, SI 1967/1879, Schedule Pt 2 para 2); preparation of the lease (Schedule Pt 2 para 3); completion (Schedule Pt 2 para 4); failure to comply with obligations (Schedule Pt 2 para 5); cancellation of land charges etc (Schedule Pt 2 para 6); notices (Schedule Pt 2 para 7); and extension of time limits (Schedule Pt 2 para 8). Where as a result of non-compliance with the conditions so laid down the landlord and the tenant are discharged from the performance of the obligations arising in giving effect to the tenant's notice, the obligations arising between the tenant and persons other than the landlord having an interest superior to the tenancy are likewise discharged: reg 4.

(iii) Terms of New Tenancy; Rent Payable

A. TERMS OF NEW TENANCY

1474. New tenancy on same terms as existing tenancy.

The new tenancy<sup>1</sup> must be<sup>2</sup> a tenancy on the same terms as the existing tenancy as those terms apply at the relevant time<sup>3</sup>, but with such modifications as may be required or appropriate to take account of:

- 3265 (1) the omission from the new tenancy of property comprised in the existing tenancy; or
- 3266 (2) alterations made to the property demised since the grant of the existing tenancy; or
- 3267 (3) in a case where the existing tenancy derives<sup>4</sup> from more than one separate tenancies, their combined effect and the differences, if any, in their terms<sup>5</sup>.

Provision must also be made<sup>6</sup> by the terms of the new tenancy or by an instrument collateral thereto for the continuance with any suitable adaptations of any agreement collateral to the existing tenancy<sup>7</sup>.

There must, however, be excluded<sup>8</sup> any term of the existing tenancy, or of any agreement collateral thereto, in so far as that term provides for or relates to the renewal of the tenancy, or confers any option to purchase or right of pre-emption in relation to the house<sup>9</sup> and premises<sup>10</sup>, or provides for the termination of the tenancy before the term date<sup>11</sup> otherwise than in the event of a breach of its terms; and there must be made in the terms of the new tenancy or any instrument collateral thereto such modifications as may be required or appropriate to take account of the exclusion of any such term<sup>12</sup>.

The above provisions<sup>13</sup> have effect subject to any agreement between the landlord<sup>14</sup> and the tenant<sup>15</sup> as to the terms of the new tenancy or any agreement collateral thereto; and either of them may require that for the purposes of the new tenancy there shall be excluded or modified any term of the existing tenancy or an agreement collateral thereto which it would be unreasonable in the circumstances to include unchanged in the new tenancy in view of the date at which the existing tenancy commenced and of changes since that date which affect the suitability at the relevant time of the provisions of that tenancy<sup>16</sup>.

1477. Reservation of future right to develop.

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> and premises<sup>3</sup> acquires an extended lease<sup>4</sup>, the landlord<sup>5</sup> being:

- 3268 (1) a local authority<sup>6</sup>; or
- 3269 (2) the Commission for the New Towns or a development corporation<sup>7</sup>; or
- 3270 (3) any university body<sup>8</sup>; or
- 3271 (4) a housing action trust<sup>9</sup>, such covenants on the part of the tenant restricting the carrying out of development or clearing of land as are necessary to reserve the land for possible development by the relevant landlord<sup>10</sup> must, if so required by the landlord, be included in the instrument extending the lease<sup>11</sup> and, if so included, then in the terms of any subsequent tenancy<sup>12</sup> at a low rent<sup>13</sup> which is to be treated<sup>14</sup>, with or without any intervening tenancies, as a single tenancy with that under the extended lease<sup>15</sup>.

Where a covenant is entered into to give effect to the above provisions, it must be expressed to be so entered into<sup>16</sup>. The operation and enforcement of covenants so entered into has already been discussed in the context of the right to enfranchisement<sup>17</sup>.

The above provisions apply<sup>18</sup>, with the necessary adaptations, where a new tenancy is granted in satisfaction of the right to an extended lease<sup>19</sup>.

6 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 29(2). For these purposes, 'local authority' means a local authority as defined in s 28(5)(a) (as amended) (see PARA 1487 note 2 post): s 29(5).

7 Ibid s 29(2)-(4) has effect in relation to the Commission for the New Towns (now part of English Partnerships: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1383 et seq) and to any development corporation within the meaning of the New Towns Act 1981 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1322 et seq) as if any reference therein or in the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 4 Pt I (paras 1-3) (as amended) to a local authority were a reference to that Commission or corporation: s 29(6)(a); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(a).

8 The Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 29(2)-(4) has effect in relation to any university body as defined in s 28(5)(c) (see PARA 1487 note 7 post) as if any reference therein or in Sch 4 Pt I (paras 1-3) (as amended) to a local authority were a reference to that university body; but a university body may not require a covenant to be entered into under s 29 (as amended) unless it has first obtained the consent of the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, of the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister: s 29(6)(b). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante; and as to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

Where the landlord is a university body, the possible development for which land may be reserved by a covenant entered into to give effect to s 29(2) includes development by a related university body, within the meaning of s 28(6)(b) (see PARA 1487 note 13 post): s 29(6B) (added by the Housing Act 1980 s 141, Sch 21 para 5).

14 Ie by virtue of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 3(3): see PARA 1400 ante.

15 Ibid s 29(2). Section 29 (as amended) applies, and applies only, where the authority entitled to require the covenant thereunder is the estate owner in respect of the fee simple and there is no tenancy carrying an expectation of possession of 30 years or more: s 5(4), Sch 1 para 6(2).

Where a tenant of a house and premises acquires an extended lease, the landlord being a local authority, and afterwards the local authority or any other person acquires compulsorily any interest in the property, then, for the purpose of assessing compensation in accordance with the Land Compensation Act 1961 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND), no account is to be taken of any increase in the value of that interest which is attributable to the carrying out of development in contravention of a covenant entered into to give effect to the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 29(1) or (2), or to any prospect of carrying out any such development, and any compensation payable to a tenant under s 17 (see PARAS 1485-1486 post) must be assessed without regard to any increase in the value of his interest which would be disregarded under this provision on a compulsory purchase of that interest: s 29(4).

B. RENT PAYABLE

1479. Rent payable under the new tenancy.

The new tenancy<sup>1</sup> to be granted<sup>2</sup> must provide that as from the original term date<sup>3</sup> the rent payable for the house<sup>4</sup> and premises<sup>5</sup> shall be a rent ascertained or to be ascertained as follows:

- 3277 (1) the rent must be a ground rent in the sense that it must represent the letting value of the site<sup>6</sup>, without including anything for the value of buildings on the site, for the uses to which the house and premises have been put since the commencement of the existing tenancy, other than uses which by the terms of the new tenancy are not permitted or are permitted only with the landlord's<sup>7</sup> consent;
- 3278 (2) the letting value for this purpose must be in the first instance the letting value at the date from which the rent based on it is to commence, but as from the expiration of 25 years from the original term date the letting value at the expiration of those 25 years must be substituted, if the landlord so requires, and a revised rent becomes payable accordingly;
- 3279 (3) the letting value at either of the times mentioned must be determined not earlier than 12 months before that time, the reasonable cost of obtaining a valuation for the purpose being borne by the tenant<sup>8</sup>; and there must be no revision of the rent as provided by head (2) above unless in the last of the 25 years there mentioned the landlord gives the tenant written notice claiming a revision<sup>9</sup>.

Where, during the continuance of the new tenancy, the landlord will be under any obligation for the provision of services, or for repairs, maintenance or insurance, the rent so payable must be in addition to any sums payable, whether as rent or otherwise, in consideration of those matters or in respect of the cost thereof to the landlord<sup>10</sup>. If the terms of the existing tenancy include no provision for the making of any such payments by the tenant, or provision only for the payment of a fixed amount, the terms of the new tenancy must make, as from the time when rent becomes so payable, such provision as may be just for the making by the tenant of payments related to the cost from time to time to the landlord, and for the tenant's liability to make those payments to be enforceable by distress, re-entry or otherwise in like manner as the liability for the rent<sup>10</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(4) EXTENSION OF LEASE/(iv) Effect of Extended Lease on Existing Mortgages/1481. Charges on landlord's estate.

(iv) Effect of Extended Lease on Existing Mortgages

1481. Charges on landlord's estate.

The obligation to grant an extended lease<sup>1</sup> has effect notwithstanding that the grant of the existing tenancy<sup>2</sup> was subsequent to the creation of a charge on the landlord's<sup>3</sup> estate and not authorised as against the persons interested in the charge; and a lease executed to give effect to that obligation is deemed to be authorised as against the persons interested in any charge on the landlord's estate, however created or arising, and is binding on them<sup>4</sup>.

Where, however, the existing tenancy is granted on or after 1 January 1968, whether or not it is to be treated<sup>5</sup> for other purposes as forming a single tenancy with a previous tenancy, and, the grant being subsequent to the creation of the charge on the landlord's estate, the existing tenancy is not binding on the persons interested in the charge, a lease executed to give effect to the obligation to grant an extended lease is not binding on those persons<sup>6</sup>.

A landlord granting an extended lease is bound to take such steps as may be necessary to secure that it is not liable<sup>7</sup> to be defeated by persons interested in a charge on his estate; but a landlord is not obliged, in order to grant an extended lease, to acquire a better title than he has or could require to be vested in him<sup>8</sup>.

Where a lease is executed to give effect to the obligation to grant an extended lease and any person having a charge on the landlord's estate is by reason thereof entitled to possession of the documents of title relating to that estate, the landlord must within one month after execution of the lease deliver to that person a counterpart of it duly executed by the tenant; and the instrument creating or evidencing the charge applies in the event of the landlord failing so to deliver a counterpart as if the obligation to do so were included in the terms of the charge as set out in that instrument<sup>9</sup>.

1482. Charges on existing tenancy.

Where under a lease executed to give effect to the obligation to grant an extended lease<sup>1</sup> the new tenancy<sup>2</sup> takes effect subject to a subsisting charge on the existing tenancy, and at the time of its execution the person having the charge is by reason thereof entitled to possession of the documents of title relating to the existing tenancy, he is similarly entitled to possession of the documents of title relating to the new tenancy; and the tenant<sup>3</sup> must within one month of the execution of the lease deliver it to him<sup>4</sup>. The instrument creating or evidencing the charge applies in the event of the tenant failing so to deliver the lease as if the obligation to do so were included in the terms of the charge as set out in that instrument<sup>5</sup>.

(v) Exclusion of Further Rights after Extension

1483. Exclusion of further rights.

Where a tenancy<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> and premises<sup>3</sup> has been extended<sup>4</sup>, then, as regards any property comprised in the extended tenancy:

- 3280 (1) there is no further right to an extension<sup>5</sup> of the tenancy<sup>6</sup>; and 3281 (2) neither the specified statutory provision relating to the protection of residential tenants on termination of long tenancies at low rents<sup>7</sup> nor the statutory provisions relating to business tenancies<sup>8</sup> apply to the tenancy<sup>9</sup>; and 3282 (3) after the extended term date<sup>10</sup> neither the specified statutory provision relating to the protection of residential tenants on termination of long tenancies at low rents<sup>11</sup> nor the statutory provisions relating to business tenancies<sup>12</sup> apply to any subtenancy directly or indirectly derived out of the tenancy, nor is a person entitled by virtue of any subtenancy to retain<sup>13</sup> possession<sup>14</sup>.

Where, however, a tenancy of a house and premises has been extended and any part, other than the house, of the property then comprised in that tenancy is afterwards, while so comprised, held with another house not so comprised, head (1) above does not apply to exclude any right of a tenant of the other house to acquire an extended lease of that part as being at the relevant time<sup>15</sup> comprised in his house and premises, unless the landlord<sup>16</sup> duly objects<sup>17</sup>.

Where a tenancy has been extended, no long tenancy<sup>18</sup> created immediately or derivatively by way of sub-demise under the tenancy confers on the subtenant, as against the tenant's landlord, any right to acquire an extended lease<sup>19</sup>.

A person granting a subtenancy to which head (3) above will apply, or negotiating with a view to the grant of such a subtenancy by him or by a person for whom he is acting as agent, must inform the other party that the subtenancy is to be derived out of a tenancy which has been extended, or one treated<sup>20</sup> as so extended, unless either he knows that the other party is aware of it or he himself is unaware of it<sup>21</sup>.

The Rent Act 1977 does not apply to a tenancy which has been extended; but, if on 3 October 1980 a rent was registered<sup>22</sup> for a dwelling house which is the subject of an extended tenancy, the tenant is not obliged to pay more than the registered rent under the extended tenancy until the next rental period<sup>23</sup> after the landlord has served on him a notice in writing that the registered rent no longer applies<sup>24</sup>.

Schedule 10 to the Local Government and Housing Act 1989<sup>25</sup> applies to every tenancy extended under Part I of the Leasehold Reform Act 1967<sup>26</sup>, whether or not it is for the purposes of that Schedule a long tenancy at a low rent<sup>27</sup> as respects which the qualifying condition<sup>28</sup> is fulfilled<sup>29</sup>.

The Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 16(1)(a) (repealed) provided that the right to acquire the freehold by virtue of the tenancy was not exercisable unless notice of the tenant's desire to do so was given not later than the original term date; but the repeal of that provision by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 143(1)(a) has effect whether the tenancy in question was extended before, or is extended after, the coming into force of s 143(1)(a) (ie 26 July 2002 in England and 1 January 2003 in Wales): see s 143(3). #### 1485. Application for possession for redevelopment after extension of the tenancy.

If, on such an application, the court is satisfied that the landlord has established that ground, the court must<sup>9</sup> by order declare that the landlord is entitled, as against the tenant<sup>10</sup>, to obtain possession of the house and premises and the tenant is entitled to be paid compensation by the landlord for the loss of the house and premises<sup>11</sup>.

Where a landlord makes such an application, then:

3285 (1) if the tenant afterwards gives notice of his desire to have the freehold of the house and premises<sup>12</sup>, that notice is of no effect if it is not given before the date of the order fixing the date for the termination of the tenancy<sup>13</sup>, or if the tenant's notice of his desire to have an extended lease was given within 12 months before the making of the landlord's application; and

3286 (2) if a notice given by the tenant, before or after the making of the landlord's application, of his desire to have the freehold has effect, no order or further order may be made on the landlord's application except as regards costs, but without prejudice to the making of a further application by the landlord if the tenant's notice lapses without effect being given to it<sup>14</sup>.

13 For these purposes, 'relevant development', in relation to any body to which the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 28 (as amended) applies, means development for purposes, other than investment purposes, of that body, but in relation to a local authority includes any development to be undertaken, whether or not by that authority, in order to secure (1) the development or redevelopment of an area defined by a development plan under the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(1) (Reissue) PARA 91 et seq) as an area of comprehensive development; or (2) the treatment as a whole, by development, redevelopment or improvement, or partly by one and partly by another method, of any area in which the property is situated: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 28(6) (amended by the Planning (Consequential Provisions) Act 1990 ss 4, 5, Sch 2 para 17(1), Sch 3); the Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 s 118(2), Sch 7 para 3).

(ii) Residential Rights

1488. Application for possession for the purpose of residence.

Where the tenancy<sup>1</sup> of a house<sup>2</sup> and premises<sup>3</sup> has not been extended<sup>4</sup> but the tenant<sup>5</sup> has a right to acquire the freehold or an extended lease and has given notice of his desire to have it, the landlord<sup>6</sup> may, at any time before effect is given to the notice, apply to the court<sup>7</sup> for an order that he may resume possession of the property on the ground that it or part of it is or will be reasonably required by him for occupation<sup>8</sup> as the only or main residence of the landlord or of a person who is at the time of the application an adult member of the landlord's family<sup>9</sup>.

A landlord is not, however, entitled so to apply to the court if his interest in the house and premises, or an interest which has merged in that interest but would otherwise have had a duration extending at least five years longer than that of the tenancy, was purchased or created after 18 February 1966<sup>10</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tenancy' see PARA 1398 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'house' see PARA 1390 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'premises' see PARA 1391 ante.

4 Ie under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 14 (as amended): see PARA 1469 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1432 note 1 ante.

6 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1432 note 4 ante.

7 The claim must be made in accordance with CPR Pt 55 (possession claims: see PARA 656 et seq ante): Practice Direction--Landlord and Tenant Claims and Miscellaneous Provisions about Land PD 56 para 13.4.

8 The requirement for occupation by the landlord or a member of his family must be a requirement arising at the date when the contractual tenancy is limited to expire: Gurvidi v Mangat (1972) 116 Sol Jo 255, CA.

9 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 18(1). For these purposes, a person is an adult member of another's family if that person is (1) the other's spouse or civil partner; (2) a son or daughter or a son-in-law or daughter-in-law of the other, or of the other's spouse or civil partner, who has attained the age of 18; or (3) the father or mother of the other, or of the other's spouse or civil partner; and in head (2) supra any reference to a person's son or daughter includes a reference to any stepson or stepdaughter, and any illegitimate son or daughter of that person, and 'son-in-law' and 'daughter-in-law' are to be construed accordingly: s 18(3) (amended by the Children Act 1975 s 108(1)(b), Sch 4 Pt I; the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 81, Sch 8 para 7).

Where the landlord's interest is held on trust, the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 18(1) applies as if the reference to occupation as the residence of the landlord were a reference to the like occupation of a person having an interest under the trust, whether or not also a trustee, and the reference to a member of the landlord's family were a reference to the like member of such a person's family: s 18(3).

In such a claim the defendant must: (a) immediately after being served with the claim form, serve on every person in occupation of the property or part of it under an immediate or derivative subtenancy, a notice informing him of the claim and of his right under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 2 para 3(4) (see PARA 1494 post) to take part in the hearing of the claim with the permission of the court; and (b) within 14 days after being served with the claim form, file a defence stating the ground, if any, on which he intends to oppose the claim and giving particulars of every such subtenancy: Practice Direction--Landlord and Tenant Claims and Miscellaneous Provisions about Land PD 56 para 13.5.

10 Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 18(2). For these purposes, the duration of any interest in the house and premises, including the tenancy, is to be taken to be the period until it is due to expire or, if capable of earlier determination by notice given by a person as landlord, the date or earliest date which has been or could be specified in such a notice: s 18(2). See also PARA 1485 note 8 ante.

1489. Making of court order.

If, on an application made for the purpose of exercising overriding residential rights<sup>1</sup>, the court is satisfied that the landlord<sup>2</sup> has established the requisite ground<sup>3</sup> and is not disentitled to apply<sup>4</sup>, the court must declare by order that the landlord is entitled as against the tenant<sup>5</sup> to obtain possession of the house<sup>6</sup> and premises<sup>7</sup>, and the tenant is entitled to be paid compensation by the landlord for the loss of the house and premises<sup>8</sup>.

The court may not, however, so make an order if the court is satisfied that, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including the question whether other accommodation is available for the landlord or the tenant, greater hardship would be caused by making the order than refusing to make it<sup>9</sup>.

Where a landlord<sup>1</sup> makes an application to the court to exercise overriding residential rights<sup>2</sup>:

- 3303 (1) any notice previously given by the tenant<sup>3</sup> of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease<sup>4</sup> of the house<sup>5</sup> and premises<sup>6</sup> is suspended until the time when an order allowing the application<sup>7</sup> or an order dismissing the application becomes final<sup>8</sup> or the application is withdrawn; and
- 3304 (2) on an order allowing such an application becoming final, the tenant's notice ceases to have effect, but the tenant is not required to make any payment to the landlord in respect of costs incurred<sup>9</sup> by reason of the notice; and a notice of the tenant's desire to have the freehold is of no effect if given after the making of the application and before the time referred to in head (1) above or after an order allowing the application has become final<sup>10</sup>.

(iii) Determination of Tenancy; Payment of Compensation on Exercise of Overriding Rights

1491. Determination of tenancy and date of payment of compensation.

Where an order for possession<sup>1</sup> is made, the tenancy<sup>2</sup> determines; and the compensation payable to the tenant<sup>3</sup> by virtue of the order becomes payable on such date as may, when the amount of that compensation is known, be fixed by order of the court made on the application either of the landlord<sup>4</sup> or of the tenant<sup>5</sup>.

Such an order of the court may not fix a date earlier than the original term date<sup>6</sup> of the tenancy, nor may it fix a date less than four months or more than 12 months after the date of the order unless the court sees special reason for doing so; and, where residential rights are exercised<sup>7</sup>, an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal to determine the amount of the compensation payable to the tenant may not be made more than 12 months before the original term date<sup>8</sup>. In fixing the date, the court must have regard to the conduct of the parties and, in a case under the statutory provisions relating to redevelopment<sup>9</sup>, to the extent to which the landlord has made reasonable preparations for proceeding with the redevelopment, including the obtaining of, or preparations relating to the obtaining of, any requisite permission or consent, whether from any authority whose permission or consent is required under any enactment or from the owner of an interest in any property<sup>10</sup>.

Where an order has been so made, the court making the order or another county court has jurisdiction to hear and determine any proceedings brought by virtue of the order to recover possession of the property or to recover the compensation, notwithstanding that by reason of the value of the property or the amount of the compensation the proceedings are not otherwise within the jurisdiction conferred on county courts<sup>11</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'order for possession' means an order under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 17(2) (see PARA 1485 ante) or s 18(4) (see PARA 1489 ante): ss 17(3), 18(5), Sch 2 para 1(1)(b).

1492. Amount of compensation.

The amount payable to a tenant<sup>1</sup>, by virtue of an order for possession<sup>2</sup>, by way of compensation for the loss of the house<sup>3</sup> and premises<sup>4</sup> is the amount which, if the statutory provisions relating to redevelopment<sup>5</sup> and residential rights<sup>6</sup> had not been passed, the house and premises, if sold in the open market by a willing seller, might at the date when the order for possession becomes final<sup>7</sup> be expected to realise, on the assumption that the vendor was selling the tenancy<sup>8</sup> and was selling subject to:

- 3305 (1) the rights of any person who will on the termination of the tenancy be entitled to retain possession as against the landlord<sup>9</sup>, but otherwise with vacant possession;
- 3306 (2) any subsisting incumbrances<sup>10</sup> which will not terminate with the tenancy and for which during the continuance of the tenancy the tenant is liable, without having a right to be indemnified by the landlord, but otherwise free of incumbrances; and
- 3307 (3) any restriction which would be required, in addition to any imposed by the terms of the tenancy, to limit the uses of the house and premises to those to which they have been put since the commencement of the tenancy and to preclude the erection of any new dwelling house or any other building not ancillary to the house as a dwelling house; but there must be left out of account any value attaching to the right<sup>11</sup> to acquire the freehold<sup>12</sup>.

The compensation payable in respect of a tenancy which has not been extended<sup>13</sup> must be computed as if the tenancy was to be so extended<sup>14</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(5) LANDLORDS WITH SPECIAL RIGHTS/(iii) Determination of Tenancy; Payment of Compensation on Exercise of Overriding Rights/1493. Payment and application of compensation.

1493. Payment and application of compensation.

The landlord<sup>1</sup> is not to be concerned with the application of the amount payable to the tenant<sup>2</sup> by way of compensation under an order for possession<sup>3</sup>; but, subject to any statutory requirements as to the payment of capital money arising under a settlement or trust of land and to any order for payment into court<sup>4</sup>, the written receipt of the tenant is a complete discharge for the amount payable<sup>5</sup>.

The landlord is entitled to deduct from the amount so payable to the tenant:

- 3308 (1) the amount of any sum payable by way of rent or recoverable as rent in respect of the house<sup>6</sup> and premises<sup>7</sup> up to the termination of the tenancy<sup>8</sup>; and
- 3309 (2) the amount of any other sums due and payable by the tenant to the landlord under or in respect of the tenancy or any agreement collateral thereto<sup>9</sup>.

Where the tenancy is subject to a trust of land and compensation is paid in respect of it<sup>10</sup>, the sum received must be dealt with as if it were proceeds of sale arising under the trust<sup>11</sup>.

Where a subtenancy terminating with the tenancy<sup>12</sup> is one to which Part II of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954<sup>13</sup> applies, the compensation payable to the tenant must be divided between him and the subtenant in such proportions as may be just, regard being had to their respective interests in the house and premises and to any loss arising from the termination of those interests and not incurred by imprudence<sup>14</sup>. Where the amount of the compensation payable to the tenant is agreed between him and the landlord without the consent of a subtenant so entitled to share in the compensation and is shown by the subtenant to be less than might reasonably have been obtained by the tenant, the subtenant is entitled to recover from the tenant such increased share as may be just<sup>15</sup>.

The court may by order direct that the whole or part of the compensation payable to the tenant shall be paid into court, if the court thinks it expedient to do so for the purposes of ensuring that the sum paid is available for meeting charges on the tenant's interest in the house and premises, or for the purpose of division, or for any other purpose<sup>16</sup>.

(iv) Effect of Proceedings on Subtenancies and Other Matters

1494. Determination of subtenancies.

On the termination of a tenancy<sup>1</sup> under an order for possession<sup>2</sup> any immediate or derivative subtenancy also immediately terminates; and the tenant<sup>3</sup> is bound to give up possession of the house<sup>4</sup> and premises<sup>5</sup> to the landlord<sup>6</sup> except in so far as he is precluded from doing so by the rights of other persons to retain possession under or by virtue of any enactment<sup>7</sup>.

Where a subtenancy of property comprised in the tenancy has been created after the date of the application for possession<sup>8</sup>, or any earlier date when, in a case where possession is being resumed for public purposes<sup>9</sup>, a copy of the Minister's certificate was served on the tenant, then no person is entitled<sup>10</sup> in respect of that subtenancy to retain possession of that property after the termination of the tenancy under the order for possession<sup>11</sup>.

In exercising its jurisdiction<sup>12</sup>, the court must assume that the landlord, having obtained an order for possession, will not be precluded from obtaining possession by the right of any person to retain possession by virtue of any statutory security of tenure<sup>13</sup> or otherwise<sup>14</sup>.

A person in occupation of the house and premises or part of them under a subtenancy liable so to terminate<sup>15</sup> may, with the leave of the court, appear and be heard on any application for possession or application<sup>16</sup> to fix the date for termination<sup>17</sup>.

1499. Matters to be considered.

The Minister<sup>1</sup>, in considering whether to grant a certificate authorising a scheme<sup>2</sup> for any area, and the High Court, in considering whether to approve a scheme<sup>3</sup>, had to have regard primarily to the benefit likely to result from the scheme to the area as a whole, including houses<sup>4</sup> likely to be acquired<sup>5</sup> from the landlord<sup>6</sup>, and the extent to which it was reasonable to impose, for the benefit of the area, obligations on tenants<sup>7</sup> so acquiring their freeholds; but regard might also be had to the past development and present character of the area and to architectural or historical considerations, to neighbouring areas and to the circumstances generally<sup>8</sup>.

1500. Grant of certificate by Minister.

A certificate for a management scheme might not be given nor a scheme approved<sup>1</sup> for any area except on the landlord's<sup>2</sup> application<sup>3</sup>.

Where, on a joint application made by two or more persons as landlords of neighbouring areas, it appeared to the Minister<sup>4</sup>:

- 3314 (1) that a certificate could be given as regards those areas, treated as a unit, if the interests of those persons were held by a single person; and
- 3315 (2) that the applicants were willing to be bound by any scheme to co-operate in the management of their property in those areas and in the administration of the scheme, the Minister might give a certificate for those areas as a whole<sup>5</sup>.

Where it appeared to the Minister:

- 3316 (a) that a certificate could be given for any area or areas on the application of the landlord or landlords; and
- 3317 (b) that any body of persons was so constituted as to be capable of representing the persons occupying or interested in property in the area or areas, other than the landlord or landlords, or such of them as were or might become entitled to acquire their landlord's interest<sup>6</sup>, and was otherwise suitable, then, on an application made by that body either alone or jointly with the landlord or landlords, a certificate might be granted accordingly<sup>7</sup>.

The Minister might not give a certificate unless he was satisfied that the applicant had, by advertisement or otherwise as might be required by the Minister, given adequate notice to persons interested, informing them of the application for a certificate and its purpose and inviting them to make representations to the Minister for or against the application within a time which appeared to the Minister to be reasonable; and, before giving a certificate, the Minister had to consider any representations so made within that time<sup>8</sup>. If from those representations it appeared to him that there was among the persons making them substantial opposition to the application, he had to afford to those opposing the application, and on the same occasion to the applicant and such, if any, as the Minister thought fit of those in favour of the application, an opportunity to appear before, and be heard by, a person appointed by the Minister for the purpose, and had to consider the report of that person<sup>8</sup>.

1501. Approval of scheme by the High Court.

If, having regard to the matters which the High Court was required to take into consideration<sup>1</sup>, to the provision which it was practicable to make by a scheme, and to any change of circumstances since the giving of the certificate, the court thought it proper to do so, it could by order:

- 3318 (1)   exclude from the scheme any part of the area certified<sup>2</sup>; or
- 3319 (2)   declare that no scheme could be approved for the area;

and, before submitting for approval a scheme for an area so certified, a person might, if he saw fit, apply to the High Court for general directions as to the matters proper to be included in the scheme and for a decision whether an order should be made under head (1) or head (2) above<sup>3</sup>.

On the submission of a scheme to the High Court, the court had<sup>4</sup> to approve the scheme, either as originally submitted, or with any modifications proposed or agreed to by the applicant for the scheme, if the scheme, with those modifications, if any, appeared to the court to be fair and practicable and not to give the landlord a degree of control out of proportion to that previously exercised by him or to that required for the purposes of the scheme. The High Court could not dismiss an application for the approval of a scheme unless the court made an order under head (2) above or in the court's opinion the applicant was unwilling to agree to a suitable scheme or was not proceeding in the matter with due dispatch<sup>5</sup>.

A scheme might be fair even though it was possible to improve upon it: Re Dulwich College Estate's Application supra; and see Eton College v Nassar [1991] 2 EGLR 271.

1502. Approved schemes.

An approved management scheme<sup>1</sup> may make different provision for different parts of the area and must include provision for terminating or varying all or any of the provisions of the scheme, or excluding part of the area, if a change of circumstances makes it appropriate, or for enabling it to be done by or with the approval of the High Court<sup>2</sup>. This reference to the High Court now has effect, however, as if it were a reference to a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>3</sup>.

Except as provided by the scheme, the operation of a scheme is not affected by any disposition or devolution of the landlord's<sup>4</sup> interest in the property within the area or part of that property; but the scheme:

- 3320 (1) must include provision for identifying the person who is for the purposes of the scheme to be treated as the landlord for the time being<sup>5</sup>; and
- 3321 (2) may include provision for transferring, or allowing the landlord for the time being to transfer, all or any of the powers and rights conferred by the scheme on the landlord for the time being to a local authority or other body, including a body constituted for the purpose<sup>6</sup>.

A scheme may provide<sup>7</sup> for all or any of the following matters:

- 3322 (a) regulating the redevelopment, use or appearance of property of which tenants<sup>8</sup> have acquired the landlord's interest<sup>9</sup>;
- 3323 (b) empowering the landlord for the time being to carry out work for the maintenance or repair of any such property or carry out work to remedy a failure in respect of any such property to comply with the scheme, or for making the operation of any provisions of the scheme conditional on his doing so or on the provision or maintenance by him of services, facilities or amenities of any description; and

3324 (c) imposing on persons from time to time occupying or interested in any such property obligations in respect of maintenance or repair<sup>10</sup> of the property or of property used or enjoyed by them in common with others, or in respect of cost incurred by the landlord for the time being on any matter referred to in this head or in head (b) above; and

3325 (d) the inspection from time to time of any such property on behalf of the landlord for the time being, and for the recovery by him of sums due to him under the scheme in respect of any such property by means of a charge on the property;

and, for the enforcement of any charge imposed under the scheme, the landlord for the time being has the same powers and remedies<sup>11</sup> as if he were a mortgagee by deed having powers of sale and leasing and of appointing a receiver<sup>12</sup>.

The permissible contents of a scheme are not limited to the particular matters specified above, but may include other matters falling within the scope of the general provisions relating to schemes<sup>13</sup>.

A scheme may extend to property in which the landlord's interest is disposed of otherwise than under the statutory provisions<sup>14</sup>, whether residential property or not, so as to make that property, or allow it to be made, subject to any such provision as is or might be made by the scheme for property in which tenants acquire the landlord's interest<sup>15</sup>.

3327 (2) in relation to a house<sup>5</sup> and premises<sup>6</sup> in an area governed by a scheme, the rights to be conveyed to a tenant on enfranchisement<sup>7</sup> have effect subject to the provisions of the scheme, and the price payable<sup>8</sup> must be adjusted accordingly<sup>9</sup>.

1504. Variation of existing schemes.

Where a management scheme<sup>1</sup> includes provision<sup>2</sup> for enabling the termination or variation of the scheme, or the exclusion of part of the area from the scheme, by or with the approval of the High Court, that provision has effect:

3328 (1) as if any reference to the High Court were a reference to a leasehold valuation tribunal; and 3329 (2) with such modifications, if any, as are necessary in consequence of head (1) above<sup>3</sup>.

Such a scheme may be varied by or with the approval of a leasehold valuation tribunal for the purpose of, or in connection with, extending the scheme to property in which the landlord's interest may<sup>4</sup> be acquired under the statutory provision conferring an additional right to enfranchisement only<sup>5</sup> in the case of houses where the rent exceeds the applicable limit<sup>6</sup>.

Where any such scheme has been so varied, the statutory provisions relating to management schemes<sup>7</sup> apply as if the variation had been effected under provisions included in the scheme<sup>8</sup>, and accordingly the scheme may be further varied under provisions so included<sup>9</sup>.

1505. Estate management schemes under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993.

The relevant provisions of Part I of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993<sup>1</sup> set out a procedure for the making and approval of an estate management scheme for an area occupied directly or indirectly under leases held from one landlord, apart from property occupied by him or his licensees or for the time being unoccupied and which is designed to secure that in the event of tenants acquiring the landlord's interest in a house or premises in specified circumstances<sup>2</sup>, the landlord will retain powers of management in respect of the house or premises and have rights against the house or premises in respect of the benefits arising from the exercise elsewhere of his powers of management<sup>3</sup>. The specified circumstances include circumstances where the landlord's interest in a house and premises is acquired by a tenant under the statutory provision conferring an additional right to enfranchisement only<sup>4</sup> in the case of houses where the rent exceeds the applicable limit<sup>5</sup>. Applications for the approval of such schemes were, however, to be made<sup>6</sup> within the period of two years beginning with 1 April 1997<sup>7</sup>.

Estate management schemes under the 1993 Act are discussed in detail in a later part of this title<sup>8</sup>.

1506. Charges under estate management schemes.

The following provisions apply where an estate management scheme<sup>1</sup> or a corresponding scheme in relation to areas occupied under leases from the Crown<sup>2</sup> includes provision imposing on persons occupying or interested in property an obligation to make payments ('estate charges')<sup>3</sup>.

A variable estate charge<sup>4</sup> is payable only to the extent that the amount of the charge is reasonable<sup>5</sup>.

Any person on whom an obligation to pay an estate charge is imposed by the scheme may apply to a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>6</sup> for an order varying the scheme in such manner as is specified in the application on the grounds that:

- 3330 (1) any estate charge specified in the scheme is unreasonable; or
- 3331 (2) any formula specified in the scheme in accordance with which any estate charge is calculated is unreasonable<sup>7</sup>.

If the grounds on which the application was made are established to the satisfaction of the tribunal, it may make an order varying the scheme in such manner as is specified in the order<sup>8</sup>. The variation specified in the order may be either the variation specified in the application or such other variation as the tribunal thinks fit<sup>9</sup>.

An application may be made to a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>10</sup> for a determination whether an estate charge is payable by a person and, if it is, as to:

- 3332 (a) the person by whom it is payable;
- 3333 (b) the person to whom it is payable;
- 3334 (c) the amount which is payable;
- 3335 (d) the date at or by which it is payable; and
- 3336 (e) the manner in which it is payable<sup>11</sup>; and this applies whether or not any payment has been made<sup>12</sup>. No such application may, however, be made in respect of a matter which:

- 3337 (i) has been agreed or admitted by the person concerned<sup>13</sup>;
- 3338 (ii) has been, or is to be, referred to arbitration pursuant to a post-dispute arbitration agreement<sup>14</sup> to which that person is a party;
- 3339 (iii) has been the subject of determination by a court; or
- 3340 (iv) has been the subject of determination by an arbitral tribunal<sup>15</sup> pursuant to a post-dispute arbitration agreement<sup>16</sup>.

An agreement other than a post-dispute arbitration agreement is void in so far as it purports to provide for a determination in a particular manner, or on particular evidence, of any question which may be the subject matter of such an application<sup>17</sup>.

(7) OTHER SPECIAL CLASSES OF LANDLORD

1507. Mortgagee in possession of landlord's interest.

Where a landlord's<sup>1</sup> interest is subject to a mortgage<sup>2</sup> and the mortgagee is in possession, all such proceedings arising out of a person's notice of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease<sup>3</sup> as would otherwise be taken by or in relation to the landlord, must<sup>4</sup>, as regards his interest, be conducted by and through the mortgagee as if he were the landlord; and any conveyance<sup>5</sup> or lease<sup>6</sup> to be executed, must, if it requires execution by the landlord, either be executed by the landlord by the direction of the mortgagee or be executed by the mortgagee in the name and on the behalf of the landlord<sup>7</sup>.

Where a landlord's interest is subject to a mortgage and the mortgagee is in possession, any application to resume possession of the property for the purposes of redevelopment<sup>8</sup> must<sup>9</sup> be made by the mortgagee as if he were the landlord<sup>10</sup>.

Any compensation paid by a mortgagee under the statutory provisions relating to the landlord's redevelopment rights<sup>11</sup>, whether possession is obtained with or without an application thereunder, is to be treated as if it were secured by the mortgage, with the like priority and with interest at the same rate as the mortgage money, but so that, without prejudice to the recovery of interest, the amount is not recoverable from the mortgagor personally<sup>12</sup>.

Where a mortgagee is<sup>13</sup> acting as landlord and any case arises in which compensation may be recovered by or awarded to a landlord<sup>14</sup>, compensation may be recovered by or awarded to the mortgagee accordingly, and is to be dealt with as if it were proceeds of sale of property subject to the mortgage<sup>15</sup>.

Where a landlord's interest is subject to a mortgage, and a receiver appointed by the mortgagee<sup>16</sup> or by the court<sup>17</sup> is in receipt of the rents and profits:

3341 (1) the landlord may not make any application for possession under his overriding redevelopment or residential rights<sup>18</sup> without the consent of the mortgagee; and 3342 (2) the mortgagee may by written notice given to the landlord require that the above provisions shall apply, either generally or so far as relates to the overriding redevelopment rights, as if he were a mortgagee in possession<sup>19</sup>.

Until that appointed day, the following provisions have effect. Where a landlord is incapable by reason of mental disorder<sup>9</sup> of managing and administering his property and affairs, his receiver<sup>10</sup> or, if no such receiver is acting for him, any person authorised in that behalf must, under an order of the authority having jurisdiction<sup>11</sup>, take his place as landlord for purposes of the statutory provisions relating to enfranchisement or extension of long tenancies<sup>12</sup>.

1509. Ecclesiastical landlords.

The following provisions have effect as regards the operation of the statutory provisions relating to enfranchisement or extension<sup>1</sup> on tenancies<sup>2</sup>, including subtenancies, of ecclesiastical property<sup>3</sup>.

In relation to an interest of an ecclesiastical landlord<sup>4</sup>, the consent of the Church Commissioners<sup>5</sup> is required to sanction:

- 3345 (1) the provisions to be contained in a conveyance to a tenant on enfranchisement<sup>6</sup>, or in a lease granting a new tenancy<sup>7</sup>, and the price or rent payable, except as regards matters determined by the court, a leasehold valuation tribunal or the Lands Tribunal;
- 3346 (2) any exercise of the ecclesiastical landlord's rights in connection with the statutory provisions relating to redevelopment<sup>8</sup>, except as aforesaid, and any agreement for the payment of compensation to a tenant in accordance therewith without an application to the court thereunder; and
- 3347 (3) any grant of a tenancy in satisfaction of the right to an extended lease<sup>9</sup>; and the Church Commissioners are entitled to appear and be heard in any proceedings to which an ecclesiastical landlord is a party or in which he is entitled to appear and be heard<sup>10</sup>.

Where the ecclesiastical property forms part of the endowment of a cathedral church, any sum received by the capitular body by way of the price payable for the property<sup>11</sup>, or by way of compensation<sup>12</sup>, is to be treated as part of that endowment<sup>13</sup>.

In the case of ecclesiastical property belonging to a diocesan board of finance:

- 3348 (a) no consent or concurrence other than that of the Church Commissioners<sup>14</sup> is required to a disposition under the statutory provisions relating to enfranchisement or extension of the interest of the diocesan board of finance, including a grant of a tenancy in satisfaction of the right to an extended lease<sup>15</sup>;
- 3349 (b) any sum receivable by the diocesan board of finance by way of price payable for the property<sup>16</sup> or of any compensation<sup>17</sup> must be paid to the Church Commissioners to be applied for the purposes for which the proceeds of a sale by agreement of the property would be applicable under any enactment or Measure authorising such a sale or disposing of the proceeds of such a sale, and any sum required for the payment of compensation may be paid by the Church Commissioners on behalf of the incumbent out of any moneys in their hands<sup>18</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(7) OTHER SPECIAL CLASSES OF LANDLORD/1511. Property transferred for public benefit etc.

1511. Property transferred for public benefit etc.

- 3350 (1) the tenancy<sup>4</sup> was created on or after 1 November 1993<sup>5</sup>; or
- 3351 (2) where the tenancy was created before that date, the tenant<sup>6</sup> would not be entitled to have the freehold if either or both of the statutory provisions relating to the enfranchisement of houses whose value or rent exceeds the applicable limit and tenancies terminable after a death, a marriage or the formation of a civil partnership<sup>7</sup> were not in force or if the statutory provision conferring an additional right to enfranchisement only in the case of houses where the rent exceeds the applicable limit<sup>8</sup> were not in force<sup>9</sup>.

For these purposes, the whole or any part of the house and premises is qualifying property if:

- 3352 (a) it has been designated under the Inheritance Tax Act 1984<sup>10</sup>, whether with or without any other property, and no chargeable event<sup>11</sup> has subsequently occurred with respect to it; or
- 3353 (b) an application to the Board<sup>12</sup> for it to be so designated is pending<sup>13</sup>; or
- 3354 (c) it is the property of a body not established or conducted for profit and a direction has been given<sup>14</sup> in relation to it, whether with or without any other property<sup>15</sup>.

A notice of a person's desire to have the freehold of a house and premises ceases to have effect if:

- 3355 (i) before completion of the conveyance in pursuance of the tenant's notice, the whole or any part of the house and premises becomes qualifying property; and
- 3356 (ii) the condition set out in head (1) above or, as the case may be, head (2) above is satisfied<sup>16</sup>.

Where it is claimed that either of the above exclusions<sup>17</sup> applies in relation to a tenant's notice, the person making the claim must, at the time of making it, furnish the tenant with evidence in support of it; and, if he fails to do so, he is liable for any costs which are reasonably incurred by the tenant in consequence of the failure<sup>18</sup>.

13 For these purposes, an application is pending as from the time when it is made to the Board until such time as it is either granted or refused by the Board or withdrawn by the applicant; and an application is not to be regarded as made unless and until the applicant has submitted to the Board all such information in support of the application as is required by the Board: ibid s 32A(3) (as added: see note 9 supra).

15 Ibid s 32A(2)(a)-(c) (as added: see note 9 supra). ### 1512. Crown land.

In the case of a tenancy from the Crown<sup>1</sup>, the statutory provisions relating to enfranchisement or extension<sup>2</sup> apply in favour of the tenant<sup>3</sup> as in the case of any other tenancy if there has ceased to be a Crown interest in the land<sup>4</sup>. As against a landlord<sup>5</sup> holding a tenancy from the Crown those provisions apply also if either:

3357 (1) his subtenant is seeking an extended lease and the landlord, or a superior landlord holding a tenancy from the Crown, has a sufficient interest to grant it and is entitled to do so without the concurrence of the appropriate authority; or

3358 (2) the appropriate authority notifies the landlord that as regards any Crown interest affected the authority will grant or concur in granting the freehold or extended lease<sup>6</sup>.

The restriction imposed<sup>7</sup> on the term for which a lease may be granted by the Crown Estate Commissioners does not apply where the lease is granted by way of extension of a long tenancy<sup>8</sup> at a low rent<sup>9</sup> and it appears to the Commissioners that, if the tenancy were not a tenancy from the Crown, there would be a statutory right<sup>10</sup> to an extended lease<sup>11</sup>.

Where, in the case of land belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Duchy of Lancaster or to the Duchy of Cornwall, it appears to the appropriate authority that a tenant under a long lease at a low rent would, if the tenancy were not a tenancy from the Crown, be entitled to an extended lease<sup>12</sup>, a lease corresponding to that to which the tenant would be so entitled may be granted to take effect wholly or partly out of the Crown interest by the same person and with the same formalities as in the case of any other lease of such land<sup>13</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'tenancy from the Crown' means a tenancy of land in which there is, or has during the subsistence of the tenancy been, a Crown interest superior to the tenancy; and 'Crown interest' and 'the appropriate authority' in relation to a Crown interest mean respectively: (1) an interest comprised in the Crown Estate, and the Crown Estate Commissioners; (2) an interest belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Duchy of Lancaster, and the Chancellor of the Duchy; (3) an interest belonging to the Duchy of Cornwall, and such person as the Duke of Cornwall or the possessor for the time being of the Duchy appoints; (4) any other interest belonging to a government department or held on behalf of Her Majesty for the purposes of a government department, and the Minister in charge of that department: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 33(2). The following provisions<sup>1</sup> have effect<sup>2</sup> where a person gives notices of his desire to have the freehold or an extended lease of a house<sup>3</sup> and premises<sup>4</sup>, and either he does so in respect of a subtenancy or there is a tenancy<sup>5</sup> reversionary on his tenancy; but any such notice given in respect of a tenancy granted by way of sub-demise out of a superior tenancy other than a long tenancy<sup>6</sup> at a low rent<sup>7</sup> is of no effect if the grant was made in breach of the terms of the superior tenancy and there has been no waiver of the breach by the superior landlord<sup>8</sup>.

Where a tenancy has been extended<sup>9</sup>, no long tenancy created immediately or derivatively by way of sub-demise under the tenancy confers upon the subtenant, as against the tenant's<sup>10</sup> landlord, any right to acquire the freehold or an extended lease<sup>11</sup>.

On enfranchisement a subtenant has the like right to have conveyed to him an estate in fee simple absolute subject to the tenancy and to tenant's incumbrances, but otherwise free of incumbrances<sup>12</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(8) EXERCISE OF RIGHTS TO ENFRANCHISEMENT OR EXTENSION BY SUBTENANTS/(i) In general/1516. Meaning of 'the reversioner'.

1516. Meaning of 'the reversioner'.

'The reversioner' is:

3361 (1) if any person has a tenancy<sup>1</sup> of the house<sup>2</sup> carrying an expectation of possession of 30 years or more, that person or, if there is more than one, that one of them to whose tenancy the other tenancies are superior;

3362 (2) if there is no such tenancy, the estate owner in respect of the fee simple of the house<sup>3</sup>.

For these purposes, the expectation of possession carried by a tenancy is the expectation which it carries at the relevant time<sup>4</sup> of possession after the tenancy in possession<sup>5</sup> on the basis that:

3363 (a) the tenancy in possession terminates at the relevant time if its term date<sup>6</sup> fell before then, or else terminates at its term date or, in the case of a tenancy which has been extended, its original term date<sup>7</sup>; and 3364 (b) a tenancy other than the tenancy in possession terminates at its term date<sup>8</sup>.

In a case, however, where before the relevant time the claimant's<sup>9</sup> immediate landlord had given notice to quit<sup>10</sup> terminating the tenancy in possession earlier than the term date, the date specified in the notice to quit must be substituted for the date in head (a) above<sup>11</sup>.

If it appears to the court, on an application made by any of the persons having an interest superior to the tenancy in possession:

3365 (i) that the respective interests of those persons, the absence or incapacity of the person designated<sup>12</sup> as the reversioner or other special circumstances require

- that one of the other landlords<sup>13</sup> should act as the reversioner instead of that person; or
- 3366 (ii) that the person designated is unwilling to act as the reversioner, and that one of the other landlords could appropriately replace him and is willing to do so; or
- 3367 (iii) that by reason of complications in the title the provisions identifying the reversioner<sup>14</sup> are inapplicable, the court may, on such terms and conditions as it thinks fit, appoint such person as it thinks fit to be the reversioner<sup>15</sup>.

On the application of any of the other landlords or of the claimant, the court may also remove the reversioner and appoint another person in his place, if it appears to the court proper to do so by reason of any delay or default, actual or apprehended, on the part of the reversioner<sup>16</sup>.

- 3369 (2) take or defend any legal proceedings<sup>7</sup> in respect of matters arising out of the claimant's<sup>8</sup> notice<sup>9</sup>.

In relation to all matters within the authority given to him<sup>10</sup> the reversioner's acts are binding<sup>11</sup> on the other landlords and on their interests in the house<sup>12</sup> and premises<sup>13</sup> or any other property; but in the event of dispute either the reversioner or any of the other landlords may apply to the court for directions as to the manner in which he should act on the matter in dispute<sup>14</sup>.

Any of the other landlords<sup>1</sup> is entitled<sup>2</sup>, if he so desires, to be separately represented in any legal proceedings in which his title to any property comes in question, or in any legal proceedings relating to the price payable<sup>3</sup> for the house<sup>4</sup> and premises<sup>5</sup>.

For the purpose of deducing, evidencing or verifying his title to any property, any of the other landlords, on giving written notice to the reversioner<sup>6</sup> and to the claimant<sup>7</sup>, may deal directly with the claimant if he objects to disclosing his title to the reversioner; and he must deal directly with the claimant if the claimant by written notice given to him and to the reversioner so requires<sup>8</sup>.

1522. Conveyance.

Where a conveyance is executed to give effect to the obligation to enfranchise<sup>1</sup>, the statutory provisions relating to the rights to be conveyed to the tenant on enfranchisement<sup>2</sup> have effect in relation to rights and restrictions arising by virtue of any tenancy<sup>3</sup> superior to the tenancy in possession<sup>4</sup>, or by virtue of an agreement collateral to such a tenancy, so far as they are directly or indirectly to the benefit of or enforceable against the claimant<sup>5</sup> during the tenancy in possession, as if they arose by virtue of that tenancy<sup>6</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR HOUSES/(8) EXERCISE OF RIGHTS TO ENFRANCHISEMENT OR EXTENSION BY SUBTENANTS/(ii) Enfranchisement/1523. Separate price payable.

1523. Separate price payable.

Where a conveyance is executed to give effect to the obligation to enfranchise<sup>1</sup>, a separate price is payable<sup>2</sup> for each of the interests superior to the tenancy in possession<sup>3</sup>; and the statutory provisions relating to the price<sup>4</sup> apply to the computation of that price with such modifications as are appropriate to relate it to a sale of the interest in question subject to any tenancies intermediate between that interest and the tenancy in possession, together with tenant's incumbrances<sup>5</sup> relative to those tenancies<sup>6</sup>.

The price payable for a minor superior tenancy<sup>7</sup> must, however, be calculated, except where it has been determined by agreement or otherwise before 3 October 1980, by applying the following formula:

where P equals the price payable, R equals the profit rent, Y equals the yield<sup>8</sup> and n equals the period, expressed in years<sup>9</sup>, which the minor superior tenancy would have to run if it were not extinguished by enfranchisement<sup>10</sup>.

Nothing in the statutory provisions relating to enfranchisement and extension by subtenants<sup>11</sup> is to be taken to entitle the claimant<sup>12</sup> to give notice<sup>13</sup> of his inability or unwillingness to acquire particular interests superior to the tenancy in possession; but any such notice extends to all those interests<sup>14</sup>.

7 For these purposes, 'a minor superior tenancy' means a superior tenancy having an expectation of possession of not more than one month and in respect of which the profit rent is not more than £5 per year: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 1 para 7A(2) (Sch 1 para 7A added by the Housing Act 1980 Sch 21 para 6).

'Profit rent' means an amount equal to that of the rent payable under the tenancy on which the minor superior tenancy is in immediate reversion, less that of the rent payable under the minor superior tenancy: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Sch 1 para 7A(3) (as so added). Where, however, the minor superior tenancy or that on which it is in immediate reversion comprises property other than the house and premises, the reference in Sch 1 para 7A(3) (as so added) to the rent payable under it means so much of that rent as is apportioned to the house and premises: Sch 1 para 7A(4) (as so added). For the meaning of 'house' see PARA 1390 ante; and for the meaning of 'premises' see PARA 1391 ante.

8 I.e. the yield, expressed as a decimal fraction, from 2.5% Consolidated Stock. In calculating the yield from 2.5% Consolidated Stock, the price of that stock is to be taken to be the middle market price at the close of business on the last trading day in the week before the tenant gives notice in accordance with the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 of his desire to have the freehold: Sch 1 para 7A(6) (as added: see note 7 supra).

1524. Rentcharges and mortgages on the landlord's estate.

Where a conveyance is executed to give effect to the obligation to enfranchise<sup>1</sup>:

3375 (1) so much of the statutory provisions relating to rentcharges<sup>2</sup> as relates to the application of the purchase price for redemption of rentcharges applies only to the price payable for the estate in fee simple<sup>3</sup>; and 3376 (2) so much of the statutory provisions relating to the discharge of mortgages on the landlord's estate<sup>4</sup> as relates to the application of the price payable in or towards redemption of charges applies separately to the price payable for each interest together with the relative charges<sup>5</sup>.

Where it is necessary<sup>6</sup> to make, otherwise than out of the price payable for the house<sup>7</sup> and premises<sup>8</sup>, any payment for the redemption of a rentcharge, the reversioner<sup>9</sup>, if he is not the landlord liable or primarily liable in respect of the rentcharge, is not required to make that payment otherwise than out of money made available for the purpose by that landlord, and it is the duty of that landlord to provide for the redemption; and similarly where<sup>10</sup> it is necessary to discharge the house and premises from a charge affecting the interest of any landlord<sup>11</sup>.

(iii) Extension

1525. Identity of grantor of new lease.

Where a lease is executed to give effect to the statutory provisions relating to extension of leases<sup>1</sup>, the new tenancy<sup>2</sup> must be granted<sup>3</sup> by the landlord having an interest sufficient in point of duration which is not superior to another such interest<sup>4</sup>.

The lease has effect<sup>5</sup> for the creation of the new tenancy, and for the operation of the rights and obligations conferred and imposed by it, as if there had been a surrender and regrant of any subsisting tenancy intermediate between the interest of the landlord granting the new tenancy and the tenancy in possession<sup>6</sup>; and the covenants and other provisions of the lease must be framed and take effect accordingly<sup>7</sup>.

If there is no one landlord having such an interest<sup>8</sup> in the whole of the house<sup>9</sup> and premises<sup>10</sup>, those having the appropriate interests in separate parts thereof must instead grant the tenancy; and, where it is necessary<sup>11</sup> for more than one landlord to join in granting the new tenancy, the lease has effect in accordance with the above provisions<sup>12</sup>, but as if the landlords in question had been jointly entitled to their interests and had become separately entitled by assignments taking effect immediately after the lease<sup>13</sup>.

1526. Identity of grantor; special cases.

Where a tenancy<sup>1</sup> in the house<sup>2</sup> and premises<sup>3</sup> superior to the tenancy in possession<sup>4</sup> is vested in the claimant<sup>5</sup> or a trustee for him, the lease<sup>6</sup> must include an actual surrender of the superior tenancy without a regrant<sup>7</sup>.

Where the effect of the lease would otherwise be, as regards any tenancy superior to the new tenancy:

- 3377 (1)   that the rent payable under that superior tenancy<sup>8</sup> would be equal to or more than the rent payable under the tenancy on which it would be in immediate reversion, regard being had to the operation of this provision in relation to any other tenancy; or
- 3378 (2)   that the difference between those rents would not be more than £4 a year, the person entitled to that superior tenancy may by written notice given to his immediate landlord and, if neither of them is the reversioner<sup>9</sup>, to the reversioner, require that the lease shall include an actual surrender by him of his tenancy without a regrant<sup>10</sup>.

Any person entitled to a tenancy superior to the new tenancy may by the like notice require that the lease shall confer on him the right to surrender his tenancy if, by reason of any revision of the rent payable under the claimant's new tenancy, together with any consequent surrender of tenancies intermediate between the superior tenancy and the new tenancy, the rent payable under the superior tenancy will not thereafter be less by more than £4 a year than the rent payable under the tenancy on which it will be in immediate reversion<sup>11</sup>.

8 For these purposes, references to the rent payable under a tenancy mean, in relation to a tenancy comprising property other than the house and premises, so much of that rent as is apportionable to the house and premises; and any surrender or provision for a surrender of such a tenancy in accordance with ibid Sch 1 para 11 must be limited to the house and premises: Sch 1 para 11(5).

The lease must give effect:

3379 (1) to the statutory provisions relating to the rent payable under the new tenancy<sup>1</sup> on the basis that the references there to the landlord include the landlord granting the new tenancy, the immediate landlord of whom the new tenancy will be held and any intermediate landlord; and

3380 (2) to the statutory provisions relating to service charges and other similar matters<sup>2</sup> on the basis that account is to be taken of obligations imposed on any of those landlords by virtue of the new tenancy or any superior tenancy;

and the statutory provision which, after extension, bars the entitlement to enfranchisement or extension of the owner of any long tenancy<sup>3</sup> created immediately or derivatively by way of sub-demise out of the new tenancy<sup>4</sup> applies on the basis that the reference there to the tenant's landlord includes the immediate landlord of whom the new tenancy will be held and all superior landlords, including any superior to the landlord granting the new tenancy<sup>5</sup>.

Any jurisdiction expressed to be conferred on the court by the statutory provisions relating to enfranchisement or extension<sup>1</sup> must be exercised<sup>2</sup> by the county court, unless the contrary intention appears<sup>3</sup>.

There must also be brought<sup>4</sup> in the county court any proceedings of the following descriptions:

Where, in connection with any acquisition by a tenant of the freehold or an extended lease, it is necessary to apportion between the house and premises, or part of them, and other property the rent payable under his tenancy or any superior or reversionary tenancy, the apportionment must be made<sup>16</sup> by the county court<sup>17</sup>.

The following matters must, in default of agreement, be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>1</sup>, namely:

- 3385 (1) the price payable<sup>2</sup> for a house<sup>3</sup> and premises<sup>4</sup>;
- 3386 (2) the amount of the rent to be payable<sup>5</sup>, whether originally or on a revision, for a house and premises;

- 3390 (6) the amount of any compensation payable<sup>9</sup> for the postponement of termination in the case of an ineffective claim<sup>10</sup>.

A leasehold valuation tribunal also has jurisdiction<sup>11</sup>, either by agreement or in a case where an application is made a tribunal under heads (1) to (6) above with reference to the same transaction:

- 3391 (a) to determine what provisions ought to be contained in a conveyance<sup>12</sup>, or in a lease<sup>13</sup> granting a new tenancy<sup>14</sup>; or
- 3392 (b) to apportion between the house and premises, or part of them, and other property the rent payable under any tenancy; or
- 3393 (c) to determine the amount of a subtenant's share<sup>15</sup> in compensation payable to a tenant for the loss of a house and premises on the ground of the landlord's redevelopment<sup>16</sup> or residential<sup>17</sup> rights<sup>18</sup>.

As well as the general particulars to be included with an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>19</sup>, the following documents and particulars must be included with an application under the above provisions:

- 3394 (i) a copy of any notice served in relation to the enfranchisement;
- 3395 (ii) the name and address of the freeholder and any intermediate landlord;
- 3396 (iii) the name and address of any person having a mortgage or other charge over an interest in the premises the subject of the application held by the freeholder or other landlord;

- 3397 (iv) where an application is made under heads (a) to (c) above, the name and address of the subtenant, and a copy of any agreement for the subtenancy; and 3398 (v) a copy of the lease<sup>20</sup>.

The tribunal may, however, dispense with or relax any of the requirements of heads (i) to (v) above if satisfied that the particulars and documents included with an application are sufficient to enable the application to be determined and that no prejudice will, or is likely to, be caused to any party to the application<sup>21</sup>.

1 For these purposes, a matter is to be treated as determined by (or on appeal from) a leasehold valuation tribunal (1) if the decision on the matter is not appealed against, at the end of the period for bringing an appeal; or (2) if that decision is appealed against, at the time when the appeal is disposed of: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 21(2A) (s 21(2A), (2B) added by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 176, Sch 13 paras 1, 5). An appeal is disposed of (a) if it is determined and the period for bringing any further appeal has ended; or (b) if it is abandoned or otherwise ceases to have effect: Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 21(2B) (as so added).

3 For the meaning of 'house' see PARA 1390 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'premises' see PARA 1391 ante. No application may be made to a leasehold valuation tribunal under head (1) in the text to determine the price for a house and premises unless either (1) the landlord has informed the tenant of the price he is asking; or (2) two months have elapsed without his doing so since the tenant gave notice of his desire to have the freehold under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 Pt I (ss 1-37) (as amended) (see PARA 1389 et seq ante): s 21(1B) (added the Housing Act 1980 s 142(3), Sch 22 Pt II para 8(2)). For the meanings of 'tenant' and 'landlord' see PARA 1432 notes 1, 4 ante.

Valuation is a question of fact; there is a right of appeal to the Lands Tribunal (see PARA 72 ante) but in the absence of any error of law there can be no further appeal to a senior court: see eg South v Trustees of the Phillimore Kensington Estate [2001] EWCA Civ 991, [2001] All ER (D) 166 (Jun).

Jurisdiction of leasehold valuation tribunals in relation to enfranchisement etc of Crown land.

1531. Jurisdiction of leasehold valuation tribunals in relation to enfranchisement etc of Crown land.

Where:

3399 (1) any tenant under a lease from the Crown<sup>1</sup> is proceeding with a view to acquiring the freehold or an extended lease of a house and premises in circumstances in which, but for the existence of any Crown interest in the land subject to the lease, he would be entitled to acquire the freehold or such an extended lease<sup>2</sup>; and

3400 (2) any question arises in connection with the acquisition of the freehold or an extended lease of the house and premises which is such that, if the tenant were so proceeding in pursuance of a claim<sup>3</sup>, a leasehold valuation tribunal would have jurisdiction to determine it in proceedings<sup>4</sup>; and

3401 (3) it is agreed between the appropriate authority and the tenant and all other persons, if any, whose interests would fall to be represented in proceedings so brought for the determination of that question by such a tribunal, that that question should be determined by such a tribunal, a leasehold valuation tribunal has jurisdiction to determine that question<sup>5</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'lease from the Crown' means a lease of land in which there is, or has during the subsistence of the lease been, a Crown interest superior to the lease; and 'Crown interest' and 'the appropriate authority' in relation to a Crown interest mean respectively (1) an interest comprised in the Crown Estate, and the Crown Estate Commissioners; (2) an interest belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Duchy of Lancaster, and the Chancellor of the Duchy; (3) an interest belonging to the Duchy of Cornwall, and such person as the Duke of Cornwall or the possessor for the time being of the Duchy appoints; (4) any other interest belonging to a government department or held on behalf of Her Majesty for the purposes of a government department, and the Minister in charge of that department: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 88(6).

The same documents and particulars must be submitted with the application to the tribunal as must be submitted with an application under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 21 (as amended) (see PARA 1530 ante): see the Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (England) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/2099, reg 3(2), Sch 1 para 1(i), Sch 2 para 1(1)-(4),

The tribunal may, however, dispense with or relax any of those requirements if satisfied that the particulars and documents included with an application are sufficient to enable the application to be determined and that no prejudice will, or is likely to, be caused to any party to the application: see PARA 1530 the text and note 21 ante.

25. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS

(1) TENANTS' STATUTORY RIGHTS; IN GENERAL

1532. Tenants' rights.

The Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 confers:

- 3402 (1) the right to collective enfranchisement in the case of tenants of flats<sup>1</sup>; and
- 3403 (2) the individual right of a tenant of a flat to acquire a new lease<sup>2</sup>.

The Housing Act 1996 made a number of amendments to the 1993 Act, for example in relation to the right to collective enfranchisement in cases where there are multiple freeholds<sup>3</sup>. Extensive amendments to the relevant provisions of the 1993 Act have been made by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002<sup>4</sup>, in particular by:

- 3404 (a) removing the former conditions that the qualifying tenancy was to be either on a low rent<sup>5</sup> or for a particularly long term<sup>6</sup>;
- 3405 (b) removing the former residence condition<sup>7</sup>; and
- 3406 (c) prospectively replacing the 'nominee purchaser' with the 'RTE company' as a means of conducting the proceedings for enfranchisement and acquiring the freehold<sup>8</sup>.

The amendments described in heads (a) and (b) above were brought into force with effect from 26 July 2002 in relation to England<sup>9</sup> and 1 January 2003 in relation to Wales<sup>10</sup>, subject to transitional provisions<sup>11</sup>. At the date at which this title states the law, however, the amendments described in head (c) above were not in force.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(1) TENANTS' STATUTORY RIGHTS; IN GENERAL/1533. Powers of trustees in relation to tenants' rights.

1533. Powers of trustees in relation to tenants' rights.

Where trustees are a qualifying tenant<sup>1</sup> of a flat<sup>2</sup> for the purposes of the statutory rights to collective enfranchisement or the individual right to a new lease<sup>3</sup>, their powers under the instrument regulating the trusts include power to participate in<sup>4</sup> the exercise of the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>5</sup> or, as the case may be, to exercise the right<sup>6</sup> to a new lease<sup>7</sup>. This does not, however apply where the instrument regulating the trusts:

- 3407 (1) is made on or after 1 October 1996<sup>8</sup>; and
- 3408 (2) contains an explicit direction to the contrary<sup>9</sup>.

The powers conferred by the above provision are to be exercisable with the like consent or on the like direction, if any, as may be required for the exercise of the trustees' powers, or ordinary powers, of investment<sup>10</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'qualifying tenant' see PARA 1557 post.

2 For these purposes, 'flat' means a separate set of premises (whether or not on the same floor) (1) which forms part of a building; and (2) which is constructed or adapted for use for the purposes of a dwelling; and (3) either the whole or a material part of which lies above or below some other part of the building; and 'dwelling' means any building or part of a building occupied or intended to be occupied as a separate dwelling: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 101(1). A storeroom on the sixth floor of a block of flats which was let to the tenant on a separate lease was held not to be part of his 'flat' on the second floor within the meaning of s 101(1) since there was no natural or physical relationship between the storeroom and the flat: see Cadogan v McGirk [1996] 4 All ER 643, [1996] 2 EGLR 75, CA. 4 Ie (1) to participate in; or, (2) as from a day to be appointed (see note 7 infra), to become a member (and participating member) of an RTE company for the purpose of, the exercise of the rights referred to in the text. As to RTE companies see PARA 1581 et seq post.

The following purposes, namely (1) those authorised for the application of capital money by the Settled Land Act 1925 s 73 (as amended) (see SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 808); and (2) the purposes authorised by s 71 (as amended) (see SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARAS 849-850), as purposes for which moneys may be raised by mortgage, include the payment of any expenses incurred by a tenant for life or statutory owners as the case may be, in or in connection with (a) participation in; or (b) as from a day to be appointed, becoming a member (or participating member) of an RTE company for the purpose of, the exercise of the right to collective enfranchisement under Pt I Ch I (as amended) or in connection with the exercise of the right to a new lease under Pt I Ch II (as amended): s 93A(4) (as added (see note 7 supra); amended by the Trusts of Land and Appointment of Trustees Act 1996 s 25(2), Sch 4; prospectively amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 Sch 8 paras 2, 33(1), (3), as from a day to be appointed (see note 7 supra)).

Subject to certain exceptions, no settlement created on or after 1 January 1997 is a strict settlement under the Settled Land Act 1925 and no such settlement is deemed to be made on or after that date: see the Trusts of Land and Appointment of Trustees Act 1996 s 2; and REAL PROPERTY vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 65; SETTLEMENTS vol 42 (Reissue) PARA 676.

UPDATE

1533 Powers of trustees in relation to tenants' rights

NOTE 2--Majorstake, cited, reversed: [2008] UKHL 10, [2008] 2 All ER 303.

1534. Crown land.

The statutory provisions relating to collective enfranchisement<sup>1</sup> and the right to a new lease<sup>2</sup> apply<sup>3</sup> to a lease from the Crown<sup>4</sup> if, and only if, there has ceased to be a Crown interest in the land subject to it<sup>5</sup>.

The statutory provisions relating to the right to a new lease<sup>6</sup>, however, apply as against a landlord<sup>7</sup> under a lease from the Crown if:

- 3409 (1) a subtenant is seeking a new lease under those provisions and the landlord, or a superior landlord under a lease from the Crown, is entitled to grant such a new lease without the concurrence of the appropriate authority; or
- 3410 (2) the appropriate authority notifies the landlord that, as regards any Crown interest affected, it will grant or concur in granting such a new lease<sup>8</sup>.

The general restriction<sup>9</sup> on the term for which a lease may be granted by the Crown Estate Commissioners does not apply where:

- 3411 (a) the lease is granted by way of renewal of a long lease<sup>10</sup>; and
- 3412 (b) it appears to the Crown Estate Commissioners that, but for the existence of any Crown interest, there would be a right<sup>11</sup> to acquire a new lease<sup>12</sup>.

Where, in the case of land belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Duchy of Lancaster or to the Duchy of Cornwall, it appears to the appropriate authority that a tenant under a long lease would, but for the existence of any Crown interest, be entitled to acquire a new lease<sup>13</sup>, then a lease corresponding to that to which the tenant would be so entitled may be granted to take effect wholly or partly out of the Crown interest by the same person and with the same formalities as in the case of any other lease of such land<sup>14</sup>.

The appropriate authority in relation to any area occupied under leases from the Crown may make an application for the approval<sup>15</sup> of a scheme for that area which is designed to secure that, in the event of tenants under those leases acquiring freehold interests<sup>16</sup> in the specified circumstances<sup>17</sup>, the authority will:

- 3413 (i) retain powers of management in respect of the premises in which any such freehold interests are acquired; and
- 3414 (ii) have rights against any such premises in respect of the benefits arising from the exercise elsewhere of the authority's powers of management<sup>18</sup>.

Where:

- 3415 (A) any tenants under leases from the Crown are proceeding with a view to acquiring the freehold of any premises in circumstances in which, but for the existence of any Crown interest, they would be entitled to acquire the freehold<sup>19</sup> or any tenant under a lease from the Crown is proceeding with a view to acquiring a new lease of his flat in circumstances in which, but for the existence of any Crown interest, he would be entitled to acquire such a lease<sup>20</sup>; and
- 3416 (B) any question arises in connection with the acquisition of the freehold of those premises or any such new lease which is such that, if the tenants or tenant were proceeding as mentioned in head (A) above in pursuance of a claim<sup>21</sup>, a leasehold valuation tribunal would have jurisdiction to determine it in proceedings<sup>22</sup>; and
- 3417 (c) it is agreed between the appropriate authority and the tenants or tenant and all other persons, if any, whose interests would fall to be represented in proceedings so brought for the determination of that question by a leasehold valuation tribunal, that that question should be determined by such a tribunal, a leasehold valuation tribunal has jurisdiction to determine that question<sup>23</sup>.

4    For these purposes, 'lease from the Crown' means a lease of land in which there is, or has during the subsistence of the lease been, a Crown interest superior to the lease; and 'Crown interest' and 'the appropriate authority' in relation to a Crown interest mean respectively (1) an interest comprised in the Crown Estate, and the Crown Estate Commissioners; (2) an interest belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Duchy of Lancaster, and the Chancellor of the Duchy; (3) an interest belonging to the Duchy of Cornwall, and such person as the Duke of Cornwall or the possessor for the time being of the Duchy appoints; (4) any other interest belonging to a government department or held on behalf of Her Majesty for the purposes of a government department, and the Minister in charge of that department: ibid s 94(11). ## (2) AGREEMENTS EXCLUDING OR MODIFYING TENANTS' RIGHTS

1538. Agreements invalidated by statute.

Any agreement relating to a lease<sup>1</sup>, whether contained in the instrument creating the lease or not and whether made before the creation of the lease or not, is void<sup>2</sup> in so far as it:

- 3420 (1) purports to exclude or modify:
 197

40. (a) any entitlement to participate in the making of a claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>3</sup> or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>4</sup>, any entitlement to be, or do any thing as, a member of an RTE company<sup>5</sup> for the purpose of the exercise of that right;

41. (b) any right to acquire a new lease<sup>6</sup>; or

42. (c) any right to compensation where a new lease is terminated on specified grounds<sup>7</sup>; or

Heads (1) to (3) above are not to be taken to preclude a tenant from surrendering his lease<sup>15</sup>. Nor do they invalidate any agreement for the acquisition on behalf of a tenant of an interest superior to his lease, or for the acquisition by a tenant of a new lease, on terms different from those provided<sup>16</sup> by the statutory provisions<sup>17</sup>.

Where a tenant has become a participating tenant<sup>18</sup> or has given a notice exercising his right to acquire a new lease<sup>19</sup>, heads (1) to (3) above do not invalidate any agreement that the notice given<sup>20</sup> shall cease to have effect or any provision of such an agreement excluding or restricting for a period not exceeding three years any such entitlement or right as is mentioned in head (1)(a) or head (1)(b) above<sup>21</sup>. Further, where a tenant's right to compensation<sup>22</sup> has accrued, heads (1) to (3) above do not invalidate any agreement as to the amount of the compensation<sup>23</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(2) AGREEMENTS EXCLUDING OR MODIFYING TENANTS' RIGHTS/1539. Court's powers to set aside or vary agreements and to exclude or modify tenant's statutory rights.

1539. Court's powers to set aside or vary agreements and to exclude or modify tenant's statutory rights.

Where a tenant<sup>1</sup> having the right to acquire a new lease<sup>2</sup>:

3423 (1) has entered into an agreement for the surrender of his lease without the prior approval of the court<sup>3</sup>; or

or where a tenant has been granted a new lease<sup>6</sup> and, on his landlord<sup>7</sup> claiming possession for the purposes of redevelopment, enters into an agreement without the prior approval of the court for the surrender of the lease, then on the application of the tenant a county court, or any court in which proceedings are brought on the agreement, may, if in its opinion the tenant is not adequately recompensed under the agreement for his statutory rights<sup>8</sup>, set aside or vary the agreement and give such other relief as appears to it to be just having regard to the situation and conduct of the parties<sup>9</sup>.

Where a tenant has the right to acquire a new lease<sup>10</sup>, there may with the approval of the court be granted to him in satisfaction of that right a new lease on such terms as may be approved by the court, which may include terms excluding or modifying:

to be, or do any thing as, a member of an RTE company<sup>13</sup> for the purpose of the exercise of that right; or 3426 (b) any right to acquire<sup>14</sup> a further lease<sup>15</sup>.

A lease may<sup>16</sup> be so granted, and is, if so granted, binding on persons entitled to any interest in or charge on the landlord's estate despite the fact that it would not otherwise be authorised against any such persons and despite any statutory or other restrictions on the landlord's powers of leasing<sup>17</sup>.

Where a lease is granted by virtue of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 93(4) (as originally enacted or as amended), then, except in so far as provision is made to the contrary by the terms of the lease, the following provisions apply in relation to the lease as they apply in relation to a lease granted under s 56 (see PARA 1703 post), namely (1) s 58(3), (5), (6) (see PARA 1721 post); (2) s 59(2)-(5) (see PARA 1723 post); and (3) s 61 (see PARA 1725 et seq post) and s 61(4), Sch 14 (as amended) (see PARA 1725 et seq post); and s 56(5)-(7) (see PARA 1703 post) applies in relation to the lease as it applies in relation to a lease granted under s 56: s 93(8). See also Sch 11 para 10(1), cited in PARA 1703 note 11 post.

16 Ie subject to the provisions specified in ibid s 93(6) and to s 93(7). Where the existing lease of the tenant is granted on or after 1 November 1993 and, the grant being subsequent to the creation of a charge on the landlord's estate, the existing lease is not binding on the persons interested in the charge, a lease granted by virtue of s 93(4) (as originally enacted or as amended) is not binding on those persons: s 93(7); Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 (Commencement and

- 3442 (2) the provisions of the Local Government and Housing Act 1989<sup>2</sup>,

Where<sup>9</sup> a tenancy created or arising as a tenancy from year to year or other periodical tenancy is to be treated as a long lease, the term date of that tenancy is to be taken<sup>10</sup> for the relevant purposes to be the date, if any, on which the tenancy is to terminate by virtue of a notice to quit given by the landlord<sup>11</sup> under the tenancy before the relevant date for those purposes, or else the earliest date on which it could as at that date, in accordance with its terms and apart from any enactment, be brought to an end by such a notice to quit<sup>12</sup>.

1545. Mortgagee in possession of landlord's interest.

Where:

- 3445 (1) the interest<sup>1</sup> of a Chapter I<sup>2</sup> or Chapter II landlord<sup>3</sup> is subject to a mortgage<sup>4</sup>;
and
- 3446 (2) the mortgagee is in possession, all such proceedings arising out of the relevant notice<sup>5</sup> as would otherwise be taken by or in relation to that landlord ('the mortgagor') must, as regards his interest, be conducted by and through the mortgagee as if he were that landlord<sup>6</sup>.

Where the above provisions apply to a Chapter I landlord, any application for the right to develop<sup>7</sup> that would otherwise be made by the mortgagor, whether alone or together with any other person or persons, must be made<sup>8</sup> by the mortgagee as if he were the mortgagor<sup>9</sup>.

Where:

- 3447 (a) the interest of a Chapter I landlord is subject to a mortgage; and
- 3448 (b) a receiver appointed by the mortgagee or by order of any court is in receipt of the rents and profits, the person referred to in head (a) above may not make any application for the right to develop without the consent of the mortgagee<sup>10</sup>.

Where:

- 3449 (i) the interest of a Chapter I or Chapter II landlord is subject to a mortgage;
and
- 3450 (ii) the mortgagee is in possession or a receiver appointed by the mortgagee or by order of any court is in receipt of the rents and profits, the relevant notice or a copy of it is regarded as duly given to that landlord if it is given to the mortgagee or to any such receiver; but whichever of the landlord, the mortgagee and any such receiver are not the recipient of the notice must be given a copy of it by the recipient<sup>11</sup>.

Where:

- 3451 (A) a Chapter I or Chapter II landlord is given the relevant notice or a copy of it;
and
- 3452 (B) his interest is subject to a mortgage to secure the payment of money, the landlord must<sup>12</sup> forthwith inform the mortgagee, unless the notice was given to him or a receiver appointed by virtue of the mortgage, that the notice has been given, and must give him such further information as may from time to time be reasonably required from the landlord by the mortgagee<sup>13</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'Chapter I landlord' means a person who is, in relation to a claim made under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Pt I Ch I (ss 1-38) (as amended) (see PARA 1552 et seq post), a relevant landlord within the meaning of Pt I Ch I (as amended) (see PARA 1559 post): s 9(4), Sch 2 para 1(1) (definition amended by the Housing Act 1996 s 107, Sch 10 para 16).

3 For these purposes, 'Chapter II landlord' means a person who is, in relation to a claim made under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Pt I Ch II (ss 39-62) (as amended) (see PARA 1671 et seq post), the landlord within the meaning of Pt I Ch II (as amended) or any of the other landlords, as defined by s 40(4) (see PARA 1672 note 11 post): s 40(5), Sch 2 para 1(1).

4 For these purposes, 'mortgage' includes a charge or lien; and related expressions are to be construed accordingly: ibid Sch 2 para 1(1).

5 For these purposes, 'the relevant notice' means (1) in relation to a Chapter I landlord, the notice given under ibid s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 1585 post); and (2) in relation to a Chapter II landlord, the notice given under s 42 (as amended) (see PARA 1677 post): Sch 2 para 1(1).

11 Ibid Sch 2 para 2(4). Schedule 2 para 2(4) has effect in relation to a debenture holders' charge as if any reference to the mortgage were a reference to the trustees for the debenture holders; but, where the relevant notice is given to a Chapter I or Chapter II landlord whose interest is subject to any such charge and there is no trustee for the debenture holders, the landlord must forthwith send it or a copy of it to any receiver appointed by virtue of the charge: Sch 2 para 2(5). For these purposes, 'debenture holders' charge' means a charge, whether a floating charge or not, in favour of the holders of a series of debentures issued by a company or other body of persons, or in favour of trustees for such debenture holders: Sch 2 para 1(1).

3464 (iii) any sum required for the payment of compensation<sup>25</sup> may be paid by the Church Commissioners on behalf of the diocesan board of finance out of any money held by them<sup>26</sup>.

1552. The right to collective enfranchisement.

The relevant provisions of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993<sup>1</sup> have effect for the purpose of conferring on qualifying tenants<sup>2</sup> of flats<sup>3</sup> contained in premises to which those provisions apply<sup>4</sup> on the relevant date<sup>5</sup> the right<sup>6</sup> ('the right to collective enfranchisement') to have the freehold of those premises acquired on their behalf by a person or persons appointed by them for the purpose and at a price determined<sup>7</sup> in accordance with those provisions<sup>8</sup>. As from a day to be appointed<sup>9</sup>, however, the relevant provisions of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993<sup>10</sup> have effect for the purpose of conferring the right ('the right to collective enfranchisement') to acquire the freehold of premises to which those provisions apply<sup>11</sup> on the relevant date:

- 3465 (1) at a price determined in accordance with those provisions; and
- 3466 (2) exercisable subject to and in accordance with those provisions by a company (an 'RTE company')<sup>12</sup> of which qualifying tenants of flats contained in the premises are members<sup>13</sup>.

Where the right to collective enfranchisement is exercised in relation to any such premises ('the relevant premises'):

- 3467 (a) the qualifying tenants by whom the right is exercised are entitled<sup>14</sup> to have acquired; or
- 3468 (b) as from a day to be appointed<sup>15</sup>, the RTE company by which the right to collective enfranchisement is exercised is entitled<sup>16</sup> to acquire, in like manner, the freehold of any property which is not comprised in the relevant premises but to which these provisions<sup>17</sup> apply<sup>18</sup>.

These provisions apply to any property if at the relevant date either:

- 3469 (i) it is appurtenant property<sup>19</sup> which is demised by the lease<sup>20</sup> held by a qualifying tenant of a flat<sup>21</sup> contained in the relevant premises; or
- 3470 (ii) it is property which any such tenant is entitled under the terms of the lease of his flat to use in common with the occupiers of other premises, whether those premises are contained in the relevant premises or not<sup>22</sup>.

The right of acquisition in respect of the freehold of any such property as is mentioned in head (ii) above is, however, taken to be satisfied with respect to that property if, on the acquisition of the relevant premises<sup>23</sup>, either:

- 3471 (A) there are granted by the person who owns the freehold of that property over that property or over any other property such permanent rights as will ensure that thereafter the occupier of the flat referred to in head (ii) above has as nearly as may be the same rights as those enjoyed in relation to that property on the relevant date by the qualifying tenant under the terms of his lease; or
- 3472 (B) there is acquired from the freeholder the freehold of any other property over which any such permanent rights may be granted<sup>24</sup>.

A claim by qualifying tenants, or by an RTE company<sup>25</sup>, to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement may be made in relation to any premises<sup>26</sup> despite the fact that those premises are less extensive than the entirety of the premises in relation to which those tenants are, or the RTE company is<sup>27</sup>, entitled to exercise that right<sup>28</sup>.

Any right or obligation<sup>29</sup> to acquire any interest in property does not extend to underlying minerals in which that interest subsists if the owner of the interest requires the minerals to be excepted and proper provision is made for the support of the property as it is enjoyed on the relevant date<sup>30</sup>.

- 5    For these purposes, 'the relevant date', in relation to any claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement, means the date on which notice of the claim is given under ibid s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 1585 post): ss 1(8), 38(1). As to the giving of notices see PARA 1541 ante.

- 19   For these purposes, 'appurtenant property', in relation to a flat, means any garage, outhouse, garden, yard and appurtenances belonging to, or usually enjoyed with, the flat: ibid s 1(7). ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(i) In general/1553. Acquisition of leasehold interests.

1553. Acquisition of leasehold interests.

Where the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>1</sup> is exercised in relation to any premises to which these provisions<sup>2</sup> apply ('the relevant premises'), then:

- 3473 (1) there must be acquired<sup>3</sup> on behalf of the qualifying tenants<sup>4</sup> by whom the right is exercised every interest<sup>5</sup> of the tenant under any lease<sup>6</sup> which is superior to the lease held by a qualifying tenant of a flat<sup>7</sup> contained in the relevant premises<sup>8</sup>; and
- 3474 (2) those tenants are entitled to have acquired on their behalf any interest of the tenant under any lease<sup>9</sup> under which the demised premises consist of or include:
- 199    43. (a) any common parts<sup>10</sup> of the relevant premises; or
- 200    44. (b) any specified property<sup>11</sup> which is to be acquired<sup>12</sup>,
- 3475    where the acquisition of that interest is reasonably necessary for the proper management or maintenance of those common parts or, as the case may be, that property, on behalf of the tenants by whom the right to collective enfranchisement is exercised<sup>13</sup>; and any interest so acquired on behalf of those tenants must be acquired in the specified<sup>14</sup> manner<sup>15</sup>.

As from a day to be appointed<sup>16</sup>, however, where the right to collective enfranchisement is exercised by an RTE company<sup>17</sup> in relation to any premises to which these provisions apply<sup>18</sup> ('the relevant premises'), then:

- 3476 (i) there must be acquired<sup>19</sup> by the RTE company every interest of the tenant under any lease which is superior to the lease held by a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the relevant premises<sup>20</sup>; and
- 3477 (ii) the RTE company is entitled to acquire any interest of the tenant under any lease not falling within head (i) above under which the demised premises consist of or include any common parts of the relevant premises or any specified property<sup>21</sup> which is to be acquired<sup>22</sup>, where the acquisition of that interest is reasonably necessary for the proper management or maintenance of those common parts or, as the case may be, that property<sup>23</sup>; and any interest which the RTE company so acquires must be acquired in the specified<sup>24</sup> manner<sup>25</sup>.

Where the demised premises under any lease<sup>26</sup> include any premises other than:

- 3478 (A) a flat contained in the relevant premises which is held by a qualifying tenant;
- 3479 (B) any common parts of those premises; or
- 3480 (C) any such property as is mentioned in head (2)(b) above, the obligation or, as the case may be, right<sup>27</sup> to acquire the interest of the tenant under the lease does not extend to his interest under the lease in any such other premises<sup>28</sup>.

Where the qualifying tenant of a flat is a public sector landlord<sup>29</sup> and the flat is let under a secure tenancy<sup>30</sup> or an introductory tenancy<sup>31</sup> then, if the specified condition<sup>32</sup> is satisfied and the lease of the qualifying tenant is directly derived out of a lease under which the tenant is a public sector landlord, the interest of that public sector landlord as tenant under that lease is not liable to be acquired<sup>33</sup> to the extent that it is an interest in the flat or in any appurtenant property<sup>34</sup>; and the interest of a public sector landlord as tenant under any lease out of which the qualifying tenant's lease is indirectly derived is not, to the like extent, liable to be so acquired, so long as the tenant under every lease intermediate between that lease and the qualifying tenant's lease is a public sector landlord<sup>35</sup>. The condition so specified is that either the qualifying tenant is the immediate landlord under the secure tenancy or, as the case may be, the introductory tenancy or he is the landlord under a lease which is superior to the secure tenancy or, as the case may be, the introductory tenancy and the tenant under that lease, and the tenant under every lease, if any, intermediate between it and the secure tenancy or the introductory tenancy is also a public sector landlord<sup>35</sup>.

1554. Premises to which the right to collective enfranchisement applies.

The statutory provisions relating to collective enfranchisement<sup>1</sup> apply<sup>2</sup> to any premises if:

- 3481 (1) they consist of a self-contained building or part of a building;
- 3482 (2) they contain two or more flats<sup>3</sup> held by qualifying tenants<sup>4</sup>; and
- 3483 (3) the total number of flats held by such tenants is not less than two-thirds of the total number of flats contained in the premises<sup>5</sup>.

For these purposes, a building is a self-contained building if it is structurally detached, and a part of a building is a self-contained part of a building if:

- 3484 (a) it constitutes a vertical division of the building and the structure of the building is such that that part could be redeveloped independently of the remainder of the building; and
- 3485 (b) the relevant services<sup>6</sup> provided for occupiers of that part either:
  - 201 45. (i) are provided independently of the relevant services provided for occupiers of the remainder of the building; or
  - 46. (ii) could be so provided without involving the carrying out of any works likely to result in a significant interruption in the provision of any such services for occupiers of the remainder of the building<sup>7</sup>.

3489 (4) if the freehold of the premises includes track<sup>10</sup> of an operational<sup>11</sup> railway<sup>12</sup>.

1556. Meaning of 'premises with a resident landlord'.

For the purposes of the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>1</sup> any premises to which that right applies<sup>2</sup> are premises with a resident landlord<sup>3</sup> at any time if:

- 3490 (1) the premises are not, and do not form part of, a purpose-built block of flats<sup>4</sup>;
- 3491 (2) the same person has owned the freehold of the premises since before the conversion of the premises into two or more flats or other units<sup>5</sup>; and
- 3492 (3) he, or an adult member of his family<sup>6</sup>, has occupied a flat or other unit contained in the premises as his only or principal home<sup>7</sup> throughout the period of 12 months ending with that time<sup>8</sup>.

Where the freehold of any premises is held on trust, the above provisions apply as if:

- 3493 (a) the requirement in head (2) above were that the same person has had an interest under the trust, whether or not also a trustee, since before the conversion of the premises; and
- 3494 (b) head (3) above referred to him or an adult member of his family<sup>9</sup>.

3 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante. As to special categories of landlord see PARA 1545 et seq ante.

4 For these purposes, 'purpose-built block of flats' means a building which as constructed contained two or more flats: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 10(6). For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1533 note 2 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'unit' see PARA 1555 note 9 ante.

6 For these purposes, a person is an adult member of another's family if that person is (1) the other's spouse or civil partner; or (2) a son or daughter or a son-in-law or daughter-in-law of the other, or of the other's spouse or civil partner, who has attained the age of 18; or (3) the father or mother of the other, or of the other's spouse or civil partner; and in head (2) supra any reference to a person's son or daughter includes a reference to any stepson or stepdaughter of that person, and 'son-in-law' and 'daughter-in-law' are to be construed accordingly: ibid s 10(5) (amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 81, Sch 8 para 48).

9 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 10(4) (as substituted: see note 8 supra). For these purposes, the interest relied upon has to be continuous; the interests cannot be mixed with each other to result in a continuous whole and the test in s 10(4) (as substituted) cannot supplement but only supplant the test in s 10(1) (as amended); thus there must be continuity on the part of the freeholder or, if the freehold is held on trust, on the part of the person having an interest under the trust: see Slamon v Planchon [2004] EWCA Civ 799, [2005] Ch 142, [2004] 4 All ER 407.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(ii) Qualifying Tenants/1557. Meaning of 'qualifying tenant'.

(ii) Qualifying Tenants

1557. Meaning of 'qualifying tenant'.

- 3495 (1) the lease is a business lease<sup>5</sup>; or
- 3496 (2) the immediate landlord<sup>6</sup> under the lease is a charitable housing trust<sup>7</sup> and the flat forms part of the housing accommodation provided by it in the pursuit of its charitable purposes<sup>8</sup>; or
- 3497 (3) the lease was granted by sub-demise out of a superior lease other than a long lease, the grant was made in breach of the terms of the superior lease, and there has been no waiver of the breach by the superior landlord<sup>9</sup>.

No flat may have more than one qualifying tenant at any one time<sup>10</sup>. Accordingly:

- 3498 (a) where a flat is for the time being let under two or more such leases<sup>11</sup>, any tenant under any of those leases which is superior to that held by any other such tenant is not<sup>12</sup> a qualifying tenant of the flat; and
- 3499 (b) where a flat is for the time being let to joint tenants under such a lease<sup>13</sup>, the joint tenants are regarded<sup>14</sup> as jointly constituting the qualifying tenant of the flat<sup>15</sup>.

Where:

- 3500 (i) a person would be regarded as being, or as being among those constituting, the qualifying tenant of a flat contained in any particular premises consisting of the whole or part of a building; but
- 3501 (ii) that person would also be regarded as being, or as being among those constituting, the qualifying tenant of each of two or more other flats contained in those premises, then, whether that person is tenant of the flats referred to in heads (i) and (ii) above under a single lease or otherwise, there is to be taken to be no qualifying tenant of any of those flats<sup>16</sup>.

Where two or more persons jointly constitute the qualifying tenant in relation to a lease of a flat, any reference to the qualifying tenant is, unless the context otherwise requires, a reference to both or all of the persons who jointly constitute the qualifying tenant<sup>17</sup>.

For the meaning of 'long lease' see PARA 1558 post. Before 26 July 2002 in relation to England and 1 January 2003 in relation to Wales, the long lease had also to be at a low rent unless it was for a particularly long term: see the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 ss 8, 8A (repealed). Before those dates in relation to England and Wales, a qualifying tenant had also to satisfy a residence condition, ie he must have occupied the flat as his only or principal home for the previous 12 months or for periods amounting to three years in the previous ten years, whether or not he had used the flat for other purposes: see s 6 (repealed). Thus a qualifying tenant had to be an individual and not a company; the repeal of s 6 has removed that restriction. For transitional provisions and savings see the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 (Commencement No 1, Savings and Transitional Provisions) (England) Order 2002, SI 2002/1912, arts 1(2), 2(b)(ii), Sch 1, Pt 1, Sch 2 paras 1, 4; the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 (Commencement No 1, Savings and Transitional Provisions) (Wales) Order 2002, SI 2002/3012, arts 1(2), 2(b)(ii), Sch 1, Pt 1, Sch 2 paras 1, 4.

5     For the meaning of 'business lease' see PARA 405 note 4 ante.

6     For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

7     For these purposes, 'charitable housing trust' means a housing trust within the meaning of the Housing Act 1985 (see s 6; and HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 12) which is a charity within the meaning of the Charities Act 1993 (see CHARITIES vol 8 (2010) PARA 1): Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 5(2).

8     The fact that the freehold owner of a block of flats is a charitable housing trust, and that some of the flats therein are let by it pursuant to its charitable objectives, does not disqualify other tenants under long leases from exercising their right to collective enfranchisement: see Brick Farm Management Ltd v Richmond Housing Partnership Ltd [2005] EWHC 1650 (QB), [2005] 1 WLR 3934, [2005] 3 EGLR 57 (flats let under assured tenancies, but not those held under long leases, in the block of flats in question constituted social housing accommodation provided by the housing trust).

that body or another subsidiary of that body's holding company: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 5(6).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/25. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(ii) Qualifying Tenants/1558. Meaning of 'long lease'.

1558. Meaning of 'long lease'.

'Long lease' means<sup>1</sup>:

- 3502 (1) a lease<sup>2</sup> granted for a term of years certain exceeding 21 years, whether or not it is, or may become, terminable before the end of that term by notice given by or to the tenant<sup>3</sup> or by re-entry, forfeiture or otherwise;
- 3503 (2) a lease for a term fixed by law under a grant with a covenant or obligation for perpetual renewal<sup>4</sup>, other than a lease by sub-demise from one which is not a long lease, or a lease terminable after a death or marriage or the formation of a civil partnership<sup>5</sup>;
- 3504 (3) a lease granted in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>6</sup> or in pursuance of the former right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>7</sup>;
- 3505 (4) a shared ownership lease<sup>8</sup>, where the tenant's total share<sup>9</sup> is 100%; or
- 3506 (5) a lease granted in pursuance of the right to acquire<sup>10</sup> by virtue of the extension of the right to buy to certain tenants of registered social landlords<sup>11</sup>.

A lease terminable by notice after a death, a marriage or the formation of a civil partnership is not, however, to be treated<sup>12</sup> as a long lease if:

- 3507 (a) the notice is capable of being given at any time after the death or marriage of the tenant;
- 3508 (b) the length of the notice is not more than three months; and
- 3509 (c) the terms of the lease preclude both its assignment otherwise than by way of exchange<sup>13</sup> and the subletting of the whole of the premises comprised in it<sup>14</sup>.

Where the tenant of any property under a long lease, on the coming to an end of that lease, becomes or has become tenant of the property or part of it under any subsequent tenancy, whether by express grant or by implication of law, that tenancy is deemed<sup>15</sup> to be a long lease irrespective of its terms<sup>16</sup>.

Where:

- 3510 (i) a lease is or has been granted for a term of years certain not exceeding 21 years, but with a covenant or obligation for renewal without payment of a premium, but not for perpetual renewal; and
- 3511 (ii) the lease is or has been renewed on one or more occasions so as to bring to more than 21 years the total of the terms granted, including any interval between the end of a lease and the grant of a renewal, the statutory provisions relating to the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>17</sup> apply as if the term originally granted had been one exceeding 21 years<sup>18</sup>.

References<sup>19</sup> to a long lease include:

- 3512 (A) any period during which the lease is or was continued under Part I of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954<sup>20</sup> or under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989<sup>21</sup>;
- 3513 (B) any period during which the lease was continued<sup>22</sup> under the Leasehold Property (Temporary Provisions) Act 1951<sup>23</sup>.

Where in the case of a flat<sup>24</sup> there are at any time two or more separate leases, with the same landlord<sup>25</sup> and the same tenant, and the property comprised in one of those leases consists of either the flat or part of it, in either case with or without appurtenant property<sup>26</sup>, and the property comprised in every other lease consists of either a part of the flat, with or without appurtenant property, or appurtenant property only, then, in relation to the property comprised in such of those leases as are long leases, the statutory provisions relating to the right to collective enfranchisement apply as they would if at that time there were a single lease of that property and that lease were a long lease<sup>27</sup>.

As to the abolition of the statutory right to a shared ownership lease under the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (as amended) see PARA 1795 post.

9    For these purposes, 'total share', in relation to the interest of a tenant under a shared ownership lease, means his initial share plus any additional share or shares in the demised premises which he has acquired: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 7(7).

It is the duty of each of the other relevant landlords<sup>1</sup>:

- 3536 (1) to give<sup>2</sup> the reversioner<sup>3</sup> all such information and assistance as he may reasonably require; and
- 3537 (2) after being given proper notice of the time and method of completion with the nominee purchaser<sup>4</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>5</sup>, with the RTE company<sup>6</sup>) to ensure that all deeds and other documents that ought on his part to be delivered to the nominee purchaser (or to the RTE company) on completion are available for the purpose<sup>7</sup>; and, if any of the other relevant landlords fails to comply with these provisions, that relevant landlord must indemnify the reversioner against any liability incurred by the reversioner in consequence of the failure<sup>8</sup>.

Each of the other relevant landlords must make such contribution as is just to the costs and expenses properly incurred by the reversioner<sup>9</sup> which are not recoverable or not recovered from the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>10</sup>, from the RTE company) or any other person<sup>11</sup>.

1567. Right of qualifying tenant to obtain information about superior interests etc.

A qualifying tenant<sup>1</sup> of a flat<sup>2</sup> may give to any immediate landlord<sup>3</sup> of his or to any person receiving rent on behalf of any immediate landlord of his a notice requiring the recipient to give the tenant, so far as known to the recipient, the name and address in England and Wales of every person who owns a freehold interest in the relevant premises<sup>4</sup> and the name and address of every other person who has a specified<sup>5</sup> interest<sup>6</sup>.

In relation to a qualifying tenant of a flat, these provisions apply to the following interests, namely:

- 3538 (1) the freehold of any property not contained in the relevant premises which is demised by the lease<sup>7</sup> held by the tenant or which the tenant is entitled under the terms of his lease to use in common with other persons; and
- 3539 (2) any leasehold interest in the relevant premises or in any such property which is superior to that of any immediate landlord of the tenant<sup>8</sup>.

Any qualifying tenant of a flat may give to any person who owns a freehold interest in the relevant premises a notice requiring him to give the tenant, so far as known to him, the name and address of every person, apart from the tenant, who is:

- 3540 (a) a tenant of the whole of the relevant premises; or
  - 3541 (b) a tenant or licensee of any separate set or sets of premises contained in the relevant premises; or
  - 3542 (c) a tenant or licensee of the whole or any part of any common parts<sup>9</sup> so contained or of any property not so contained:
- 205
- 49. (i) which is demised by the lease held by a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the relevant premises; or
  - 50. (ii) which any such qualifying tenant is entitled under the terms of his lease to use in common with other persons<sup>10</sup>.
- 206

Any such qualifying tenant may also give to any person who owns a freehold interest in the relevant premises, to any person who owns a freehold interest in any such property as is mentioned in head (c) above or to any person falling within head (a), head (b) or head (c) above a notice requiring him to give the tenant:

- 3543 (A) such information relating to his interest in the relevant premises or, as the case may be, in any such property; or
- 3544 (B) so far as known to him, such information relating to any interest derived, whether directly or indirectly, out of that interest, as is specified in the notice, where the information is reasonably required by the tenant in connection with the making of a claim (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>11</sup>, in connection with the making by an RTE company<sup>12</sup> of a claim) to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>13</sup> in relation to the whole or part of the relevant premises<sup>14</sup>.

1568. Effect of notice requiring information about superior interests etc.

Where a notice requiring information about superior interests etc<sup>1</sup> is given by a qualifying tenant<sup>2</sup>, the following rights are exercisable by him in relation to the recipient of the notice, namely:

3545 (1) a right, on giving reasonable notice, to be provided with a list of specified documents<sup>3</sup>;

- 3546 (2) a right to inspect, at any reasonable time and on giving reasonable notice, any of those specified documents; and
- 3547 (3) a right, on payment of a reasonable fee, to be provided with a copy of any documents which are contained in any list provided under head (1) above or have been inspected under head (2) above<sup>4</sup>.

These provisions apply to any document in the custody or under the control of the recipient of the notice requiring such information<sup>5</sup>:

- 3549 (b) which, on a proposed sale by a willing seller to a willing buyer of the recipient's interest in the relevant premises or, as the case may be, in any specified property<sup>8</sup>, the seller would be expected to make available to the buyer, whether at or before contract or completion<sup>9</sup>.

Any person who:

- 3550 (i) is required by a notice<sup>10</sup> to give any information to a qualifying tenant; or
- 3551 (ii) is required by a qualifying tenant<sup>11</sup> to supply any list of documents, to permit the inspection of any documents or to supply a copy of any documents, must comply with that requirement within the period of 28 days beginning with the date of the giving of the notice referred to in head (i) above or, as the case may be, with the date of the making of the requirement referred to in head (ii) above<sup>12</sup>.

- 3552 (A) disposes of any interest, whether legal or equitable, in the relevant premises or in any specified property<sup>14</sup> otherwise than by the creation of an interest by way of security for a loan; or
- 3553 (B) acquires any such interest, otherwise than by way of security for a loan, then, unless that disposal or acquisition has already been notified to the qualifying tenant<sup>15</sup>, he must notify the qualifying tenant of that disposal or acquisition within the period of 28 days beginning with the date when it occurred<sup>16</sup>.

(v) Conduct of Tenants' Proceedings for Collective Enfranchisement

A. INTRODUCTION

1570. Current and prospective means of conducting tenants' proceedings for collective enfranchisement.

At the date at which this title states the law, all proceedings arising out of the initial notice<sup>1</sup> are conducted by the nominee purchaser<sup>2</sup> on behalf of the participating tenants<sup>3</sup>; and statutory provision is made for the identification of those participating tenants<sup>4</sup> and for the appointment and replacement of the nominee purchaser<sup>5</sup>.

The Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002, however, makes prospective changes to the means of conducting the proceedings for collective enfranchisement. As from a day to be appointed under that Act<sup>6</sup>, there is to be an RTE company<sup>7</sup> in relation to the premises and that company will conduct the proceedings. Before making a claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement, the RTE company must issue a notice inviting qualifying tenants<sup>8</sup> who are not participating members<sup>9</sup> of the company to become such members<sup>10</sup>.

(A) PARTICIPATING TENANTS

1571. Participating tenants; in general.

At the date at which this title states the law, the following provisions have effect. In relation to any claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>1</sup>, the participating tenants are<sup>2</sup> the following persons, namely:

- 3562 (1) in relation to the relevant date<sup>3</sup>, the qualifying tenants<sup>4</sup> by whom the initial notice<sup>5</sup> is given; and
- 3563 (2) in relation to any time falling after that date, such of those qualifying tenants as for the time being remain qualifying tenants of flats<sup>6</sup> contained in the specified premises<sup>7</sup>.

These provisions are, however, prospectively repealed by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002<sup>8</sup>, as from a day to be appointed under that Act<sup>9</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the right to collective enfranchisement' see PARA 1552 ante.

2 Ie subject to the provisions of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 14 (see the text and notes 3-7 infra; and PARAS 1572-1575 post) and s 13(13), Sch 3 Pt I (paras 1-10) (as amended) (see PARA 1590 et seq post).

3 For the meaning of 'the relevant date' see PARA 1552 note 5 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'qualifying tenant' see PARA 1557 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'the initial notice' see PARA 1585 post.

6 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1533 note 2 ante.

7 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 14(1) (prospectively repealed: see the text and notes 8-9 infra). For these purposes, 'the participating tenants' is to be construed in accordance with s 14 (as so repealed): s 38(1) (definition prospectively repealed by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 180, Sch 14, as from a day to be appointed (see note 9 infra)).

Nothing in the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 14 (as so repealed) has effect for requiring or authorising anything to be done at any time after a binding contract is entered into in pursuance of the initial notice: s 14(11) (as so repealed). For these purposes, the reference to a binding contract being entered into in pursuance of the initial notice is to be read as including a reference to the making of a vesting order: ss 24(4), 25(6), Sch 5 para 5(1), (2)(a) (Sch 5 para 5(2)(a) as so repealed). As to vesting orders see PARA 1615 et seq post. For the meaning of 'the specified premises' see PARA 1586 note 5 post.

PARTICIPATING TENANTS AND THE NOMINEE PURCHASER/(A) Participating Tenants/1572. Assignee of lease.

1572. Assignee of lease.

At the date at which this title states the law, the following provisions have effect. Where the lease<sup>1</sup> by virtue of which a participating tenant<sup>2</sup> is a qualifying tenant<sup>3</sup> of his flat<sup>4</sup> is assigned to another person, the assignee<sup>5</sup> of the lease must, within the period of 14 days beginning with the date of the assignment, notify the nominee purchaser<sup>6</sup>:

3564 (1) of the assignment; and 3565 (2) as to whether or not the assignee is electing to participate in the proposed acquisition<sup>7</sup>.

Where, however, a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the specified premises<sup>8</sup>:

3566 (a) is not one of the persons by whom the initial notice was given; and 3567 (b) is not an assignee of the lease of a participating tenant<sup>9</sup>, he may elect<sup>10</sup> to participate in the proposed acquisition, but only with the agreement of all the persons who are for the time being participating tenants; and, if he does so elect, he must notify the nominee purchaser forthwith of his election<sup>11</sup>.

Where a person so notifies<sup>12</sup> the nominee purchaser of his election to participate in the proposed acquisition, he is regarded as a participating tenant<sup>13</sup> as from the date of the assignment or agreement<sup>14</sup> and so long as he remains a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the specified premises<sup>15</sup>.

(B) THE NOMINEE PURCHASER

1576. Appointment.

At the date at which this title states the law, the following provisions have effect. The nominee purchaser must conduct on behalf of the participating tenants<sup>1</sup> all proceedings arising out of the initial notice<sup>2</sup>, with a view to the eventual acquisition by him, on their behalf, of such freehold and other interests<sup>3</sup> as fall to be so acquired under a contract entered into in pursuance of that notice<sup>4</sup>.

In relation to any claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>5</sup> with respect to any premises, the nominee purchaser must be such person or persons as may for the time being be appointed for these purposes by the participating tenants; and in the first instance the nominee purchaser must be the person or persons specified<sup>6</sup> in the initial notice<sup>7</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the participating tenants' see PARAS 1571-1575 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'the initial notice' see PARA 1585 post.

3 For the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

4 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 15(1) (prospectively repealed: see the text and notes 8-9 infra). For these purposes, 'the nominee purchaser' is to be construed in accordance with s 15 (prospectively repealed): s 38(1) (definition as so repealed).

Nothing in s 15 (prospectively repealed) applies in relation to the termination of the appointment of the nominee purchaser, or of any of the persons constituting the nominee purchaser, at any time after a binding contract is entered into in pursuance of the initial notice; and in Pt I Ch I (ss 1-38) (as amended) references to the nominee purchaser, so far as referring to anything done by or in relation to the nominee purchaser at any time falling after such a contract is so entered into, are references to the person or persons constituting the nominee purchaser at the time when the contract is entered into or such other person as is for the time being the purchaser under the contract: s 15(12) (prospectively repealed: see the text and notes 8-9 infra). For these purposes, except in so far as s 15(12) (prospectively repealed) provides for the interpretation of references to the nominee purchaser, the reference to a binding contract being entered into in pursuance of the initial notice is to be read as including a reference to the making of a vesting order: ss 24(4), 25(6), Sch 5 para 5(1), (2)(b) (Sch 5 para 5(2)(b) prospectively repealed: see the text and notes 8-9 infra). As to vesting orders see PARA 1615 et seq post.

PARTICIPATING TENANTS AND THE NOMINEE PURCHASER/(B) The Nominee Purchaser/1577. Termination of appointment.

1577. Termination of appointment.

At the date at which this title states the law, the following provisions have effect. The appointment of any person as the nominee purchaser<sup>1</sup>, or as one of the persons constituting the nominee purchaser, may be terminated by the participating tenants<sup>2</sup> by the giving of a notice stating that that person's appointment is to terminate on the date on which the notice is given<sup>3</sup>. Any such notice must be given:

- 3577 (1) to the person whose appointment is being terminated; and 3578 (2) to the reversioner in respect of the specified premises<sup>4</sup>.

Any such notice must in addition either:

3579 (a) specify the name or names of the person or persons constituting the nominee purchaser as from the date of the giving of the notice, and an address in England and Wales at which notices may be given to that person or those persons<sup>5</sup>; or 3580 (b) state that the following particulars will be contained in a further notice given to the reversioner within the period of 28 days beginning with that date, namely:

57. (i) the name of the person or persons for the time being constituting the nominee purchaser;

58. (ii) if falling after that date, the date of appointment of that person or of each of those persons; and

59. (iii) an address in England and Wales at which notices may be given to that person or those persons; and the appointment of any person by way of replacement for the person whose appointment is being terminated is not valid unless his name is specified, or is one of those specified, under head (a) or head (b) above<sup>6</sup>.

Where the appointment of any person is so terminated, anything done by or in relation to the nominee purchaser before the date of termination of that person's appointment is to be treated, so far as necessary for the purpose of continuing its effect, as having been done by or in relation to the nominee purchaser as constituted on or after that date<sup>7</sup>.

Where the appointment of any person is so terminated, he is not liable<sup>8</sup> for any costs incurred in connection with the proposed acquisition<sup>9</sup> at any time after the date of termination of his appointment; but, if:

3581 (A) at any such time he is requested by the nominee purchaser for the time being to supply to the nominee purchaser, at an address in England and Wales specified in the request, all or any documents in his custody or under his control that relate to that acquisition; and he is liable for any costs which are incurred by the nominee purchaser, or for which the nominee purchaser is liable<sup>10</sup>, in consequence of the failure<sup>11</sup>.

Where two or more persons together constitute the nominee purchaser and the appointment of any, but not both or all, of them is so terminated without any person being appointed by way of immediate replacement, the person or persons remaining for the time being constitutes or constitute the nominee purchaser<sup>12</sup>.

Where a notice given under s 15(3) (as so repealed) contains such a statement as is mentioned in s 15(5)(b) (prospectively repealed) (see head (b) in the text) and as a result of the termination of the appointment in question there is no nominee purchaser for the time being, the running of any period which (1) is prescribed by or under Pt I (ss 1-103) (as amended) for the giving of any other notice or the making of any application; and (2) would otherwise expire during the period beginning with the date of the giving of the notice under s 15(3) (as so repealed) and ending with the date when the particulars specified in s 15(5)(b) (prospectively repealed) are notified to the reversioner, is suspended throughout the period mentioned in head (2) in the text: s 15(9) (as so repealed).

If, however, the circumstances are as mentioned in s 15(9)(a), (b) (as so repealed) (see heads (1)-(2) supra) but the particulars specified in s 15(5)(b) (prospectively repealed) are not notified to the reversioner within the period of 28 days specified therein, the initial notice is deemed to have been withdrawn at the end of that period: s 15(10) (as so repealed). A copy of any notice given under s 15(3) (as so repealed) or s 15(5)(b) (prospectively repealed) must be given by the participating tenants to every relevant landlord, other than the reversioner, to whom the initial notice or a copy of it was given in accordance with s 13 (as amended) (see PARAS 1585-1587 post) and s 13(13), Sch 3 Pt II (paras 11-14) (as amended) (see PARAS 1598-1600 post); and, where a notice under s 15(3) (as so repealed) terminates the appointment of a person who is one of two or more persons together constituting the nominee purchaser, a copy of the notice must also be so given to every other person included among those persons: s 15(11) (as so repealed). ## 1578. Retirement.

At the date at which this title states the law, the following provisions have effect. The appointment of any person as the nominee purchaser<sup>1</sup>, or as one of the persons constituting the nominee purchaser, may be terminated by that person by the giving of a notice stating that he is resigning his appointment with effect from 21 days after the date of the notice<sup>2</sup>.

Any such notice must be given:

- 3583 (1) to each of the participating tenants<sup>3</sup>; and
- 3584 (2) to the reversioner in respect of the specified premises<sup>4</sup>.

Where the participating tenants have received any such notice, they must, within the period of 56 days beginning with the date of the notice, give to the reversioner a notice informing him of the resignation and containing the following particulars, namely:

- 3585 (a) the name or names of the person or persons for the time being constituting the nominee purchaser;
- 3586 (b) if falling after that date, the date of appointment of that person or of each of those persons; and
- 3587 (c) an address in England and Wales at which notices may be given to that person or those persons<sup>5</sup>; and the appointment of any person by way of replacement for the person resigning his appointment is not valid unless his name is specified, or is one of those specified, under head (a) above<sup>6</sup>.

These provisions are, however, prospectively repealed by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002<sup>7</sup>, as from a day to be appointed under that Act<sup>8</sup>.

2 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 16(1) (prospectively repealed: see the text and notes 7-8 infra). As to the giving of notices see PARA 1541 ante.

Section 15(6)-(8) (prospectively repealed) (see PARA 1577 ante) has effect in connection with a person's resignation of his appointment in accordance with s 16 (prospectively repealed) as it has effect in connection with the termination of a person's appointment in accordance with s 15 (prospectively repealed) (see PARAS 1576-1577 ante): s 16(4) (as so repealed).

Nothing in s 16 (prospectively repealed) applies in relation to the resignation of the nominee purchaser, or any of the persons together constituting the nominee purchaser, at any time after a binding contract is entered into in pursuance of the initial notice: s 16(10) (as so repealed). For these purposes, the reference to a binding contract being entered into in pursuance of the initial notice is to be read as including a reference to the making of a vesting order: ss 24(4), 25(6), Sch 5 para 5(1), (2)(c) (Sch 5 para (2)(c) as so repealed). As to vesting orders see PARA 1615 et seq post; and for the meaning of 'the initial notice' see PARA 1585 post.

Where a notice under s 16(1) (as so repealed) is given by a person who is one of two or more persons together constituting the nominee purchaser, a copy of the notice must be given by him to every other person included among those persons; and a copy of any notice given under s 16(3) (prospectively repealed) (see the text and notes 5-6 infra) or s 16(5) (prospectively repealed) (see PARA 1579 post) must be given by the participating tenants to every relevant landlord, other than the reversioner, to whom the initial notice or a copy of it was given in accordance with s 13 (as amended) (see PARAS 1585-1587 post) and s 13(13), Sch 3 Pt II (paras 11-14) (as amended) (see PARAS 1598-1600 post): s 16(9) (as so repealed). ### 1582. Membership of RTE companies.

1587 Effect of initial notice

NOTE 3--A notice purportedly given under the 1993 Act s 13 that has failed to comply with the statutory requirements is an invalid notice having no statutory consequences so that the tenants are not barred from serving without delay a valid s 13 notice: Sinclair Gardens Investments (Kensington) Ltd v Poets Chase Freehold Co Ltd [2007] EWHC 1776 (Ch), [2007] 49 EG 104.

1588. Inaccuracies or misdescription in initial notice.

The initial notice<sup>1</sup> is not invalidated by any inaccuracy in any of the required particulars<sup>2</sup> or by any misdescription of any of the property to which the claim extends<sup>3</sup>.

Where the initial notice:

- 3629 (1) specifies any property or interest<sup>4</sup> which was not liable to acquisition<sup>5</sup>; or
- 3630 (2) fails to specify any property or interest which is so liable to acquisition, the notice may, with the leave of the court and on such terms as the court may think fit, be amended so as to exclude or include the property or interest in question<sup>6</sup>.

4 For the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

5 I.e. under or by virtue of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 1 (as amended) (see PARA 1552 ante) or s 2 (as amended) (see PARA 1553 ante).

6 Ibid Sch 3 para 15(2). Where the initial notice is so amended as to exclude any property or interest, references to the property or interests specified in the notice under any provision of s 13(3) (as amended) are to be construed accordingly; and, where it is so amended as to include any property or interest, the property or interest is to be treated as if it had been specified under the provision of s 13 (as amended) under which it would have fallen to be specified if its acquisition had been proposed at the relevant date: Sch 3 para 15(3). For the meaning of 'the relevant date' see PARA 1552 note 5 ante.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/25. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(vi) Initial Notice/A. IN GENERAL/1589. Effect on initial notice of tenant's or member's lack of qualification to participate.

1589. Effect on initial notice of tenant's or member's lack of qualification to participate.

At the date at which this title states the law, the following provisions have effect. Where at the relevant date<sup>1</sup> any of the persons by whom the initial notice<sup>2</sup> is given:

- 3631 (1) is not a qualifying tenant<sup>3</sup> of a flat<sup>4</sup> contained in the specified premises<sup>5</sup>; or
- 3632 (2) is such a qualifying tenant but is prohibited<sup>6</sup> from participating in the giving of the notice; or 3633 (3) if it is claimed in the notice that he satisfies the former residence condition<sup>7</sup>, does not satisfy that condition, the notice is not invalidated on that account, so long as the notice was in fact properly given by a sufficient number<sup>8</sup> of qualifying tenants of flats contained in the premises as at the relevant date and not less than one-half of the qualifying tenants by whom it was so given then satisfied the former residence condition (if applicable)<sup>9</sup>.

As from a day to be appointed<sup>10</sup>, however, the following provisions have effect in substitution for those set out above. Where any of the members of the RTE company<sup>11</sup> by which an initial notice is given was not the qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the premises at the relevant date even though his name was stated in the notice, the notice is not invalidated on that account, so long as a sufficient number of qualifying tenants of flats contained in the premises were members of the company at that date; and for this purpose a 'sufficient number' is a number, greater than one, which is not less than one-half of the total number of flats contained in the premises at that date<sup>12</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the relevant date' see PARA 1552 note 5 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'the initial notice' see PARA 1585 ante.

6 Ie by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 13(13), Sch 3 Pt I (paras 1-10) (as amended): see PARA 1590 et seq post.

7 As to the former residence condition see PARA 1557 note 4 ante.

8 For these purposes, a sufficient number is a number which (1) is not less than two-thirds of the total number of qualifying tenants of flats contained in the specified premises as at the relevant date; and (2) is not less than one-half of the total number of flats so contained: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 3 para 16(2) (as originally enacted).

9 See ibid Sch 3 para 16(1) (as originally enacted). The residence condition formerly contained in s 6 has been repealed, but Sch 3 para 16(1), (2) (as originally enacted) contains no corresponding amendments.

B. RESTRICTIONS ON PARTICIPATION BY INDIVIDUAL TENANTS; EFFECT OF CLAIMS

1590. Prior notice by tenant terminating lease.

At the date at which this title states the law, a qualifying tenant<sup>1</sup> of a flat<sup>2</sup> may not participate in the giving of a relevant notice of claim<sup>3</sup> if the notice is given:

- 3634 (1) after the tenant has given notice terminating the lease<sup>4</sup> of the flat, other than a notice that has been superseded by the grant, express or implied, of a new tenancy<sup>5</sup>; or
- 3635 (2) during the subsistence of an agreement for the grant to the tenant of a future tenancy of the flat, where the agreement is one to which the Local Government and Housing Act 1989<sup>6</sup> applies<sup>7</sup>.

As from a day to be appointed<sup>8</sup>, a qualifying tenant of a flat must be disregarded when considering whether the statutory requirement that the RTE company<sup>9</sup> has among its participating members<sup>10</sup> the required number of qualifying tenants<sup>11</sup> is satisfied in relation to a relevant notice of claim<sup>12</sup> if the notice is given as described in head (1) or head (2) above<sup>13</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'qualifying tenant' see PARA 1557 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1533 note 2 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'relevant notice of claim', in relation to any flat, means a notice under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 1585 ante) in the case of which the specified premises contain that flat, and references to participating in the giving of such a notice are references to being one of the persons by whom the notice is given (s 13(13), Sch 3 para 10(1)(a) (as originally enacted); and references to a notice under s 13 (as amended) include, in so far as the context permits, references to a notice purporting to be given under s 13 (as amended), whether by persons who are qualifying tenants or not (Sch 3 para 10(1)(b) (as originally enacted)). 12 For these purposes, 'relevant notice of claim', in relation to any flat, means a notice under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 1585 ante) in the case of which the specified premises contain that flat; and references to a notice under s 13 (as amended) include, in so far as the context permits, references to a notice purporting to be given under s 13 (as amended): Sch 3 para 10(1) (a), (b) (prospectively amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 180, Sch 14, as from a day to be appointed (see note 8 supra)).

3639 (b) in the case of a notice served under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989, the date of termination specified in the previous notice or the date of expiry of the period of four months beginning with the date of service of the new notice, whichever is the later<sup>20</sup>.

1597. Restrictions on, and effect of, certain elections by tenants.

At the date at which this title states the law, the following provisions have effect. Where a relevant notice of claim<sup>1</sup> is given, a qualifying tenant<sup>2</sup> of a flat<sup>3</sup> may not subsequently make an election to participate<sup>4</sup>:

- 3657 (1) if he was prohibited<sup>5</sup> from participating in the giving of the notice; or
- 3658 (2) at a time when he would be so prohibited from participating in the giving of a relevant notice of claim, if such a notice were to be given then<sup>6</sup>.

Where a relevant notice of claim is given, then, except with the leave of the court, a qualifying tenant of a flat may not subsequently make such an election at a time when any proceedings are pending to enforce a right of re-entry or forfeiture terminating his lease<sup>7</sup> of the flat<sup>8</sup>. Leave may only be so granted if the court is satisfied that the tenant does not wish to make such an election solely or mainly for the purpose of avoiding the consequences of the breach of the terms of his lease in respect of which proceedings are pending<sup>9</sup>.

If leave is so granted and the tenant makes such an election, the tenant's lease is deemed for the purposes of the claim to be a subsisting lease despite the existence of those proceedings and any order made afterwards in those proceedings; and, if the claim is effective<sup>10</sup>, the court in which those proceedings were brought may set aside or vary any such order to such extent and on such terms as appear to that court to be appropriate<sup>11</sup>.

The following provisions apply to a qualifying tenant of a flat who, following the giving of a relevant notice of claim, makes<sup>12</sup> an election to participate<sup>13</sup>. Where in the case of any such tenant:

- 3659 (a) a landlord's<sup>14</sup> notice terminating the tenant's lease of the flat has been given or served<sup>15</sup>, whether or not the notice has effect to terminate the lease; but
- 3660 (b) that notice was not given or served more than four months before the date when the tenant makes his election, the landlord's notice ceases to have effect on that date<sup>16</sup>.

The above provisions are, however, repealed by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002<sup>17</sup>, as from a day to be appointed under that Act<sup>18</sup>.

(vii) Procedure following Giving of Initial Notice

A. IN GENERAL

1601. Rights of access.

Once the initial notice<sup>1</sup> or a copy of it has been given<sup>2</sup> to the reversioner<sup>3</sup> or to any other relevant landlord<sup>4</sup>, that person and any person authorised to act on his behalf has, in the case of:

- 3670 (1) any part of the specified premises<sup>5</sup>; or
- 3671 (2) any part of any property specified in the initial notice<sup>6</sup>, in which he has a freehold or leasehold interest<sup>7</sup> which is included in the proposed acquisition by the nominee purchaser<sup>8</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>9</sup>, by the RTE company<sup>10</sup>), a right of access thereto for the purpose of enabling him (or it) to obtain a valuation of that interest in connection with the notice or, if it is reasonable, in connection with any other matter arising out of the claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>11</sup>.

Once the initial notice has been given<sup>12</sup>, the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>13</sup>, the RTE company) and any person authorised to act on his (or on its) behalf has a right of access to:

- 3672 (a) any part of the specified premises; or
- 3673 (b) any part of any property specified in the initial notice<sup>14</sup>, where such access is reasonably required by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company) in connection with any matter arising out of the notice<sup>15</sup>.

A right of access so conferred is exercisable at any reasonable time and on giving not less than ten days' notice to the occupier of any premises to which access is sought or, if those premises are unoccupied, to the person entitled to occupy them<sup>16</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the initial notice' see PARA 1585 ante.

2 Ie in accordance with the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 1585 ante) or s 13(13), Sch 3 Pt II (paras 11-14) (as amended) (see PARAS 1598-1600 ante).

3 For the meaning of 'the reversioner' see PARAS 1559-1563 ante.

9 Ie as from a day to be appointed under the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 181(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

10 For these purposes, any reference, however expressed, to the acquisition or proposed acquisition by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed (see note 9 supra) by the RTE company) is a reference to the acquisition or proposed acquisition by the nominee purchaser on behalf of the participating tenants (or, as from that day, by the RTE company) of such freehold and other interests as fall to be so acquired under a contract entered into in pursuance of the initial notice: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 38(2) (prospectively amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 124 Sch 8 paras 2, 27(1), (4)(b), as from a day to be appointed (see note 9 supra)). In the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 38(2) (as so amended), except in so far as it provides for the interpretation of references to the proposed acquisition by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed, by the RTE company), the reference to a contract entered into in pursuance of the initial notice is to be read as including a reference to a vesting order: ss 24(4), 25(6), Sch 5 para 5(5) (prospectively amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 Sch 8 paras 2, 39(1), (2), as from a day to be appointed (see note 9 supra)). Duty of nominee purchaser or RTE company to disclose existence of agreements affecting specified premises etc.

1602. Duty of nominee purchaser or RTE company to disclose existence of agreements affecting specified premises etc.

If at any time during the period beginning with the relevant date<sup>1</sup> and ending with the time when a binding contract is entered into in pursuance of the initial notice<sup>2</sup>, there subsists:

3674   (1)   between the nominee purchaser<sup>3</sup> and a person other than a participating tenant<sup>4</sup>; or any agreement, of whatever nature, providing for the disposal<sup>8</sup> of a relevant interest<sup>9</sup>, the existence of that agreement must be notified to the reversioner<sup>10</sup> by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company) as soon as possible after the agreement is made or, if in existence on the relevant date, as soon as possible after that date<sup>11</sup>. Similarly, if the nominee purchaser is a company, and at any time during the period mentioned above<sup>12</sup> any person other than a participating tenant holds any share in that company by virtue of which a relevant interest may be acquired, the existence of that shareholding must be notified to the reversioner by the nominee purchaser as soon as possible after the shareholding is established or, if in existence on the relevant date, as soon as possible after that date<sup>13</sup>. This latter obligation is, however, repealed by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002<sup>14</sup>, as from a day to be appointed under that Act<sup>15</sup>.

If the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be so appointed, the RTE company) is required so to give any notification but fails to do so before the price payable to the reversioner or any other relevant landlord<sup>16</sup> in respect of the acquisition of any interest of his by the nominee purchaser is determined<sup>17</sup>, and it may reasonably be assumed that, had the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) given the notification, it would have resulted:

- 3676 (a) in the case of a failure by the nominee purchaser, in the price so determined being increased by an amount referable to the existence of any agreement or shareholding such as is mentioned above; or
- 3677 (b) in the case of a failure by the RTE company, in the price so determined being increased by an amount referable to the existence of any agreement mentioned above, the nominee purchaser and the participating tenants (or the RTE company and the participating members) are jointly and severally liable to pay the amount to the reversioner or, as the case may be, to the other relevant landlord<sup>18</sup>.

1603. Effect of initial notice as respects subsequent transactions by freeholder etc.

Where the initial notice<sup>1</sup> has been registered<sup>2</sup>, then, so long as it continues in force:

- 3678 (1) any person who owns the freehold of the whole or any part of the specified premises<sup>3</sup> or the freehold of any property specified in the notice<sup>4</sup> must not:
- 223
72. (a) make any disposal<sup>5</sup> severing his interest<sup>6</sup> in those premises or in that property; or
73. (b) grant out of that interest any lease<sup>7</sup> under which, if it had been granted before the relevant date<sup>8</sup>, the interest of the tenant<sup>9</sup> would to any extent have been liable to acquisition on that date<sup>10</sup>; and
- 224
- 3679 (2) no other relevant landlord<sup>11</sup> may grant out of his interest in the specified premises or in any property so specified any such lease as is mentioned in head (1) (b) above; and any transaction is void to the extent that it purports to effect any such disposal or any such grant of a lease as is mentioned in head (1) or head (2) above<sup>12</sup>.

Where the initial notice has been so registered and at any time when it continues in force:

- 3680 (i) any person who owns the freehold of the whole or any part of the specified premises or the freehold of any property specified in the notice<sup>13</sup> disposes of his interest in those premises or that property,
- 3681 (ii) any other relevant landlord disposes of any interest of his specified in the notice<sup>14</sup>, all parties are<sup>15</sup> in the same position as if the person acquiring the interest under the disposal:

- 3682 (A) had become its owner before the initial notice was given, and was accordingly a relevant landlord in place of the person making the disposal; and
- 3683 (B) had been given any notice or copy of a notice given to that person<sup>16</sup>; and
- 3684 (C) had taken all steps which that person had taken<sup>17</sup>.

of any interest<sup>7</sup> in those premises or in any specified property<sup>8</sup> then, so long as the initial notice<sup>9</sup> continues in force, the operation of the contract is suspended so far as it relates to any such disposal<sup>10</sup>. Where:

- 3687 (a) the operation of a contract has been so suspended ('the suspended contract'); and
- 3688 (b) a binding contract is entered into in pursuance of the initial notice<sup>11</sup>, then, without prejudice to the general law as to the frustration of contracts, the person referred to in heads (1) or (2) above is, together with all other persons, discharged from the further performance of the suspended contract so far as it relates to any such disposal<sup>12</sup>.

Right of reversioner to require evidence of tenant's right to participate.

1605. Right of reversioner to require evidence of tenant's right to participate.

The reversioner<sup>1</sup> in respect of the specified premises<sup>2</sup> may, within the period of 21 days beginning with the relevant date<sup>3</sup>:

- 3689 (1) give the nominee purchaser<sup>4</sup> a notice requiring him, in the case of any person by whom the initial notice<sup>5</sup> was given, to deduce the title of that person to the lease<sup>6</sup> by virtue of which it is claimed that he is a qualifying tenant<sup>7</sup> of a flat<sup>8</sup> contained in the specified premises<sup>9</sup>; or
- 3690 (2) as from a day to be appointed<sup>10</sup>, give the RTE company<sup>11</sup> a notice requiring it, in the case of any qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the specified premises who was a participating member<sup>12</sup> of the company at the relevant time, to deduce the title of that qualifying tenant to the lease by virtue of which it is claimed that he is a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the specified premises<sup>13</sup>.

The nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>14</sup>, the RTE company) must comply with any such requirement within the period of 21 days beginning with the date of the giving of the notice<sup>15</sup>. Where:

- 3691 (a) the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>16</sup>, the RTE company) fails to comply with any such requirement<sup>17</sup> in the case of any person (or any qualifying tenant) within the specified period<sup>18</sup>; and
- 3692 (b) the initial notice would not have been given<sup>19</sup> if that person (or that qualifying tenant) and any other person (or qualifying tenant) in the case of whom a like failure by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company) has occurred had been neither included among the persons who gave the notice (or members of the RTE company) nor included among the qualifying tenants of the flats<sup>20</sup>, the initial notice is deemed to have been withdrawn at the end of that period<sup>21</sup>.

B. REVERSIONER'S COUNTER-NOTICE

1606. In general.

The reversioner<sup>1</sup> in respect of the specified premises<sup>2</sup> must give a counter-notice to the nominee purchaser<sup>3</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>4</sup>, to the RTE company<sup>5</sup>) by the date specified<sup>6</sup> in the initial notice<sup>7</sup>.

The counter-notice must comply with one of the following requirements, namely:

- 3693 (1) state that the reversioner admits that the participating tenants<sup>8</sup> were (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>9</sup>, the RTE company was) on the relevant date<sup>10</sup> entitled to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>11</sup> in relation to the specified premises;
- 3694 (2) state that, for such reasons as are specified in the counter-notice, the reversioner does not admit that the participating tenants were (or the RTE company was) so entitled;
- 3695 (3) contain such a statement as is mentioned in head (1) or head (2) above but state that an application for an order<sup>12</sup> is to be made by such appropriate landlord<sup>13</sup> as is specified in the counter-notice, on the grounds that he intends to redevelop the whole or a substantial part of the specified premises<sup>14</sup>.

If the counter-notice complies with the requirement set out in head (1) above, it must in addition:

- 3696 (a) state which, if any, of the proposals contained in the initial notice are accepted by the reversioner and which, if any, of those proposals are not so accepted and specify:
  - 225 74. (i) in relation to any proposal which is not so accepted, the reversioner's counter-proposal<sup>15</sup>; and
  - 75. (ii) any additional leaseback proposals<sup>16</sup> by the reversioner;
  - 226 3697 (b) if, in a case where any property specified in the initial notice<sup>17</sup> is property which a qualifying tenant is entitled under the terms of the lease of his flat to use in common with the occupiers of other premises, whether those premises are contained in the relevant premises or not<sup>18</sup>, any such counter-proposal relates to the grant of rights or the disposal<sup>19</sup> of any freehold interest<sup>20</sup>, specify:
    - 227 76. (i) the nature of those rights and the property over which it is proposed to grant them; or
    - 77. (ii) the property in respect of which it is proposed to dispose of any such interest,

3698 as the case may be;

3699 (c) state which interest, if any, the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>21</sup>, the RTE company) is to be required to acquire<sup>22</sup>;3700 (d) state which rights, if any, any relevant landlord<sup>23</sup> desires to retain:

229

78. (i) over any property in which he has any interest which is included in the proposed acquisition by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company); or

79. (ii) over any property in which he has any interest which the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) is to be required to acquire<sup>24</sup>,

3701 on the grounds that the rights are necessary for the proper management or maintenance of property in which he is to retain a freehold or leasehold interest; and 3702 (e) include a description of any provisions which the reversioner or any other relevant landlord considers should be included<sup>25</sup> in any conveyance<sup>26</sup> to the nominee purchaser (or to the RTE company)<sup>27</sup>.

A counter-notice so given must also contain, in addition to the particulars so required, a statement as to whether or not the specified premises are within the area of a scheme approved<sup>28</sup> as an estate management scheme<sup>29</sup>.

The nominee purchaser may be required to acquire on behalf of the participating tenants (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>30</sup>, the RTE company may be required to acquire) the interest in any property of any relevant landlord, if the property:

3703 (A) would for all practical purposes cease to be of use and benefit to him; or

3704 (B) would cease to be capable of being reasonably managed or maintained by him, in the event of his interest in the specified premises or, as the case may be, in any other property being acquired<sup>31</sup> by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company)<sup>32</sup>.

Every counter-notice must specify an address in England and Wales at which notices may be given<sup>33</sup> to the reversioner<sup>34</sup>.

- 14 Ibid s 21(2) (as amended: see note 7 supra).
- 15 A counter-notice under ibid s 21 (as amended) is not invalidated if the landlord proposes a purchase price which is unrealistically high, since the requirement applicable to an initial notice under s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 1585 ante), or a tenant's notice under s 42 (as amended) (see PARA 1677 post), that the price or premium must be a realistic figure, does not apply to the proposed purchase price in a counter-notice under s 21 (as amended), which requires a different construction: 9 Cornwall Crescent London Ltd v Kensington and Chelsea Royal London Borough [2005] EWCA Civ 324, [2005] 4 All ER 1207, [2005] HLR 642.
- 16 For these purposes, the reference to additional leaseback proposals is a reference to proposals which relate to the leasing back, in accordance with ibid s 36 (as amended) (see PARA 1656 post) and s 36(1), Sch 9 (as amended) (see PARA 1657 et seq post), of flats or other units contained in the specified premises and which are made either (1) in respect of flats in relation to which Sch 9 Pt II (paras 2-4) (as amended) (see PARAS 1657-1659 post) is applicable but which were not specified in the initial notice under s 13(3)(c)(ii) (see PARA 1586 ante at head (3)(b) in the text); or (2) in respect of flats or other units in relation to which Sch 9 Pt III (paras 5-7) (as amended) (see PARAS 1660-1662 post) is applicable: s 21(7). Where a counter-notice specifies any interest in pursuance of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 21(3) (c) (as originally enacted or as prospectively amended) (see head (c) in the text), the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed (see note 4 supra), the RTE company) or any person authorised to act on his (or its) behalf has, in the case of any part of the property in which that interest subsists, a right of access thereto for the purpose of enabling the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) to obtain, in connection with the proposed acquisition by him (or by it), a valuation of that interest; and s 17(3) (see PARA 1601 ante) applies in relation to the exercise of that right as it applies in relation to the exercise of the right of access conferred by s 17 (as amended) (see PARA 1601 ante): s 21(5) (as amended: see note 7 supra)).

1610. Proceedings relating to validity of initial notice.

Where:

3715 (2) the court<sup>9</sup> is satisfied, on an application made by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company), that the participating tenants were on the relevant date<sup>10</sup> entitled to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement in relation to the specified premises (or that the RTE company was so entitled), the court must by order make a declaration to that effect<sup>11</sup>.

Any application for such an order must be made not later than the end of the period of two months beginning with the date of the giving of the counter-notice to the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>12</sup>, to the RTE company)<sup>13</sup>.

If on any such application the court makes such an order, the court must make an order:

- 3716 (a) declaring that the reversioner's counter-notice is of no effect; and
- 3717 (b) requiring the reversioner to give a further counter-notice to the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>14</sup>, to the RTE company) by such date as is specified in the order<sup>15</sup>.

If an application by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>16</sup>, by the RTE company) for an order under heads (1) and (2) above is dismissed by the court, the initial notice<sup>17</sup> ceases to have effect at the time when the order dismissing the application becomes final<sup>18</sup>.

1611. Tenants' claim to be defeated where landlord intends to redevelop.

Where the reversioner<sup>1</sup> in respect of the specified premises<sup>2</sup> has given a counter-notice<sup>3</sup> which states that an application is to be made for an order on the grounds that he intends to redevelop the whole or a substantial part of those premises<sup>4</sup>, the court<sup>5</sup> may, on the application of any appropriate landlord<sup>6</sup>, by order declare that the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>7</sup> is not exercisable in relation to those premises by reason of that landlord's intention to redevelop the whole or a substantial part of the premises<sup>8</sup>.

The court may not make such an order unless it is satisfied:

- 3718 (1) that not less than two-thirds of all the long leases<sup>9</sup> on which flats<sup>10</sup> contained in the specified premises are held are due to terminate within the period of five years beginning with the relevant date<sup>11</sup>; and
- 3719 (2) that for the purposes of redevelopment the applicant intends, once the leases in question have so terminated, to demolish or reconstruct, or to carry out substantial works of construction on, the whole or a substantial part of the specified premises; and
- 3720 (3) that he could not reasonably do so without obtaining possession of the flats demised by those leases<sup>12</sup>.

Any application for such an order must be made within the period of two months beginning with the date of the giving of the counter-notice to the nominee purchaser<sup>13</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>14</sup>, to the RTE company)<sup>15</sup>.

Where such an order is made by the court, the initial notice<sup>16</sup> ceases to have effect on the order becoming final<sup>17</sup>.

Where an application for such an order is dismissed by the court, the court must make an order:

- 3721 (a) declaring that the reversioner's counter-notice is of no effect; and
- 3722 (b) requiring the reversioner to give a further counter-notice to the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>18</sup>, to the RTE company) by such date as is specified in the order<sup>19</sup>.

Where the reversioner has given such a counter-notice<sup>20</sup> but either:

- 3723 (i) no application for an order<sup>21</sup> is made within the specified period<sup>22</sup>; or
- 3724 (ii) such an application is so made but is subsequently withdrawn, the reversioner must give a further counter-notice to the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>23</sup>, to the RTE company) within the period of two months beginning with the appropriate date<sup>24</sup>.

Where, however, the counter-notice is one falling within the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 22(1)(a) (as amended) (see PARA 1610 ante), such an application may not be proceeded with until such time, if any, as an order under s 22(1) (as amended) (see PARA 1610 ante) becomes final: s 23(3). ### 1612. Applications where terms in dispute or failure to enter contract.

Where the reversioner<sup>1</sup> in respect of the specified premises<sup>2</sup> has given the nominee purchaser<sup>3</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>4</sup>, has given the RTE company<sup>5</sup>) a counter-notice<sup>6</sup> or further counter-notice<sup>7</sup> but any of the terms of acquisition<sup>8</sup> remain in dispute at the end of the period of two months beginning with the date on which the counter-notice or further counter-notice was so given, a leasehold valuation tribunal may, on the application of either the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) or the reversioner, determine the matters in dispute<sup>9</sup>.

Any such application must be made not later than the end of the period of six months beginning with the date on which the counter-notice or further counter-notice was given to the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>10</sup>, to the RTE company)<sup>11</sup>. As well as the general particulars to be included with an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>12</sup>, the following documents and particulars must be included with an application under the above provisions:

- 3725 (1) a copy of any notice served in relation to the enfranchisement;
- 3726 (2) the name and address of the freeholder and any intermediate landlord;
- and
- 3727 (3) the name and address of any person having a mortgage or other charge over an interest in the premises the subject of the application held by the freeholder or other landlord<sup>13</sup>.

The tribunal may, however, dispense with or relax any of the requirements of heads (1) to (3) above if satisfied that the particulars and documents included with an application are sufficient to enable the application to be determined and that no prejudice will, or is likely to, be caused to any party to the application<sup>14</sup>.

Where:

- 3728 (a) the reversioner has so given the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) a counter-notice or further counter-notice<sup>15</sup>; and
- 3729 (b) all of the terms of acquisition have been either agreed<sup>16</sup> between the parties<sup>17</sup> or so determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal, but a binding contract incorporating those terms has not been entered into by the end of the appropriate period<sup>18</sup>, the court<sup>19</sup> may, on the application of either the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>20</sup>, of the RTE company) or the reversioner, make such order<sup>21</sup> as it thinks fit<sup>22</sup>.

The court may make an order:

- 3730 (i) providing for the interests to be acquired by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>23</sup>, by the RTE company) to be vested in him (or in it) on the terms referred to in head (b) above;
- 3731 (ii) providing for those interests to be vested in him (or in it) on those terms but subject to such modifications as may have been determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal, on the application of either the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) or the reversioner, to be required by reason of any change in circumstances since the time when the terms were agreed or determined<sup>24</sup> and are specified in the order; or
- 3732 (iii) providing for the initial notice<sup>25</sup> to be deemed to have been withdrawn at the end of the appropriate period<sup>26</sup>.

Any application for such an order must be made not later than the end of the period of two months beginning immediately after the end of the appropriate period<sup>27</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(viii) Applications to Court or Leasehold Valuation Tribunal/A. IN GENERAL/1613. Applications where reversioner fails to give counter-notice or further counter-notice.

1613. Applications where reversioner fails to give counter-notice or further counter-notice.

Where the initial notice<sup>1</sup> has been given<sup>2</sup> but:

- 3733 (1) the reversioner<sup>3</sup> has failed to give the nominee purchaser<sup>4</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>5</sup>, has failed to give the RTE company<sup>6</sup>) a counter-notice<sup>7</sup>; or 3734 (2) if required to give the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) a further counter-notice<sup>8</sup>, the reversioner has failed to comply with that requirement, the court<sup>9</sup> may, on the application of the nominee purchaser (or of the RTE company), make an order determining the terms on which he (or it) is to acquire, in accordance with the proposals contained in the initial notice, such interests<sup>10</sup> and rights as are specified<sup>11</sup> in it<sup>12</sup>.

The terms so determined by the court must in certain circumstances<sup>13</sup> include terms which provide for the leasing back<sup>14</sup> of flats<sup>15</sup> or other units<sup>16</sup> contained in the specified premises<sup>17</sup>.

Any application for such an order must be made not later than the end of the period of six months beginning with the date by which the counter-notice or further counter-notice<sup>18</sup> was to be given to the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>19</sup>, to the RTE company)<sup>20</sup>.

The court may not, however, make any order on an application made by virtue of head (1) above unless it is satisfied:

- 3735 (a) that the participating tenants<sup>21</sup> were on the relevant date<sup>22</sup> entitled to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>23</sup> in relation to the specified premises (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>24</sup>, that the RTE company was so entitled); and 3736 (b) if applicable, that the statutory requirements<sup>25</sup> were complied with as respects the giving of copies of the initial notice<sup>26</sup>.

Where the terms of acquisition<sup>27</sup> have been so determined by an order of the court but a binding contract incorporating those terms has not been entered into by the end of the appropriate period<sup>28</sup>, the court may, on the application of either the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>29</sup>, of the RTE company) or the reversioner, make such order<sup>30</sup> as it thinks fit<sup>31</sup>.

The court may make an order:

- 3737 (i) providing for the interests to be acquired by the nominee purchaser to be vested<sup>32</sup> in him (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>33</sup>, for the interests acquired by the RTE company to be vested in it);
 3738 (ii) providing for those interests to be vested<sup>34</sup> in him (or in the RTE company) but subject to such modifications as:
 231
 80. (A) may have been determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal, on the application of either the nominee purchaser (or of the RTE company) or the reversioner, to be required by reason of any change in circumstances since the time when the terms were determined<sup>35</sup>; and
 81. (B) are specified in the order; or
 3739 (iii) providing for the initial notice to be deemed to have been withdrawn at the end of the appropriate period<sup>36</sup>.

Any application for such an order must be made not later than the end of the period of two months beginning immediately after the end of the appropriate period<sup>37</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(viii) Applications to Court or Leasehold Valuation Tribunal/A. IN GENERAL/1614. Applications where relevant landlord cannot be found.

1614. Applications where relevant landlord cannot be found.

The following provisions apply where:

- 3740 (1) at the date at which this title states the law, not less than two-thirds of the qualifying tenants<sup>1</sup> of flats<sup>2</sup> contained in any premises to which the right to collective enfranchisement applies<sup>3</sup> desire to make a claim to exercise that right in relation to those premises; or
- 3741 (2) as from a day to be appointed<sup>4</sup>, an RTE company<sup>5</sup> which has among its participating members<sup>6</sup> a number of qualifying tenants of flats contained in the premises as at the relevant date<sup>7</sup> which is not less than one-half of the total number of flats so contained<sup>8</sup> wishes to make a claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement, and the case falls within head (a) or head (b) below<sup>9</sup>. In a case where:

- 3742 (a) it is not proposed to acquire any interests other than the freehold of the premises or any other interests of the person who owns the freehold of the

- premises and the freehold of the whole of the premises is owned by one person<sup>10</sup> but that person cannot be found or his identity cannot be ascertained; or
- 3743 (b) either it is proposed to acquire interests of persons other than the person who owns the freehold of the whole of the premises to which the claim relates<sup>11</sup>, or there are multiple freeholds<sup>12</sup>, but each of the relevant landlords<sup>13</sup> is someone who cannot be found or whose identity cannot be ascertained, the court<sup>14</sup> may, on the application of the qualifying tenants in question (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>15</sup>, on the application of the RTE company), make a vesting order with respect to any interests of that person, whether in those premises or in any other property, which are liable to acquisition<sup>16</sup> on behalf of those tenants (or by the RTE company) or with respect to any interests of those landlords which are so liable to acquisition<sup>17</sup>, as the case may be<sup>18</sup>.

Where in a case where it is proposed to acquire interests of persons other than the person who owns the freehold of the whole of the premises to which the claim relates<sup>19</sup>, and either head (1) or head (2) above applies and head (b) above does not apply, but a notice of that claim or, as the case may be, a copy of such a notice cannot be given<sup>20</sup> to any person to whom it would otherwise be required to be so given because he cannot be found or his identity cannot be ascertained, the court may, on the application of the qualifying tenants in question (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>21</sup>, on the application of the RTE company), make an order dispensing with the need to give such a notice or, as the case may be, a copy of such a notice to that person<sup>22</sup>. If that person is the person who owns the freehold of the premises, then, on the application of those tenants (or of the RTE company), the court may, in connection with such an order, make an order appointing any other relevant landlord to be the reversioner<sup>23</sup> in respect of the premises in place of that person<sup>24</sup>.

Similarly, where in a case where there are multiple freeholds<sup>25</sup> and either head (1) or head (2) above applies and head (b) above does not apply, but a copy of a notice of the claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement cannot be given<sup>26</sup> to any person to whom it would otherwise be required to be so given because he cannot be found or his identity cannot be ascertained, the court may, on the application of the qualifying tenants in question (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>27</sup>, on the application of the RTE company), make an order dispensing with the need to give a copy of such a notice to that person<sup>28</sup>.

The court may not make an order on any application under the above provisions<sup>29</sup> unless it is satisfied:

- 3744 (i) that on the date of the making of the application the premises to which the application relates were premises to which the right to collective enfranchisement applies; and
- 3745 (ii) that on that date the applicants (or the RTE company) would not have been precluded<sup>30</sup> from giving a valid notice<sup>31</sup> with respect to those premises (and, as from a day to be appointed<sup>32</sup>, that the RTE company has given notice of the application to each person who is the qualifying tenant of a flat contained in those premises<sup>33</sup>).

Before making any such order, the court may require the applicants (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>34</sup>, the RTE company) to take such further steps by way of advertisement or otherwise as the court thinks proper for the purpose of tracing the person or persons in question; and, if, after an application is made for a vesting order<sup>35</sup> and before any interest is vested in pursuance of the application, the person or, as the case may be, any of the persons referred to in head (a) or head (b) above is traced, then no further proceedings may be taken with a view to any interest being so vested; but<sup>36</sup>:

- 3746 (A) the rights and obligations of all parties must be determined as if the applicants (or the RTE company) had, at the date of the application, duly given notice<sup>37</sup> of their (or its) claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement in relation to the premises to which the application relates; and 3747 (B) the court may give such directions<sup>38</sup> as it thinks fit as to the steps to be taken for giving effect to those rights and obligations<sup>39</sup>.

An application for a vesting order may be withdrawn at any time before execution of a conveyance<sup>40</sup> and, after it is withdrawn, head (A) above does not apply; but, where any step is taken, whether by the applicants (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>41</sup>, by the RTE company) or otherwise, for the purpose of giving effect to head (A) above in the case of any application, the application may not afterwards be withdrawn except with the consent of every person who is the owner of any interest the vesting of which is sought by the applicants (or by the RTE company) or by leave of the court; and the court may not give leave unless it appears to the court just to do so by reason of matters coming to the knowledge of the applicants (or of the RTE company) in consequence of the tracing of any such person<sup>42</sup>.

- 3748 (1) is in a form approved by a leasehold valuation tribunal; and

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(viii) Applications to Court or Leasehold Valuation Tribunal/B. VESTING ORDERS/1618. Orders where relevant landlord cannot be found.

1618. Orders where relevant landlord cannot be found.

A vesting order made where the freeholder or a relevant landlord cannot be found<sup>1</sup> is an order providing for the vesting of any specified interests<sup>2</sup>:

3752 (1) in such person or persons as may be appointed for the purpose by the applicants for the order (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>3</sup>, in the RTE company<sup>4</sup>); and

3753 (2) on such terms as may be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal to be appropriate with a view to the interests being vested in that person or those persons (or in the RTE company) in like manner, so far as the circumstances permit, as if the applicants had, at the date of their application (or the RTE company had, at the date of its application), given notice<sup>5</sup> of their (or its) claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>6</sup> in relation to the premises with respect to which the order is made<sup>7</sup>.

If a leasehold valuation tribunal so determines in the case of such a vesting order, the order has effect in relation to interests which are less extensive than those specified in the application on which the order was made<sup>8</sup>.

Where any interests are to be vested in any person or persons (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>9</sup>, in the RTE company) by virtue of such a vesting order, then, on his or their (or its) paying into court the appropriate sum in respect of each of those interests, there must be executed by such person as the court<sup>10</sup> may designate a conveyance<sup>11</sup> which:

- 3754 (a) is in a form approved by a leasehold valuation tribunal; and
- 3755 (b) contains such provisions as may be so approved for the purpose of giving effect so far as possible to the statutory requirements<sup>12</sup>; and that conveyance is effective to vest in the person or persons to whom the conveyance is made (or in the RTE company) the interests expressed to be conveyed, subject to and in accordance with the terms of the conveyance<sup>13</sup>. In connection with the determination by a leasehold valuation tribunal of any question as to the interests to be conveyed by any such conveyance, or as to the rights with or subject to which they are to be conveyed, it is to be assumed, unless the contrary is shown, that any person whose interests are to be conveyed ('the transferor') has no interest in property other than those interests and, for the purpose of excepting them from the conveyance, any minerals underlying the property in question<sup>14</sup>.

The appropriate sum which is to be so paid into court in respect of any interest is the aggregate of:

- 3756 (i) such amount as may be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal to be the price which would be payable<sup>15</sup> in respect of that interest if the interest were being acquired in pursuance of such a notice as is mentioned in head (2) above; and
- 3757 (ii) any amounts or estimated amounts determined by such a tribunal as being, at the time of execution of the conveyance, due to the transferor from any tenants of his of premises comprised in the premises in which that interest subsists, whether due under or in respect of their leases<sup>16</sup> or under or in respect of agreements collateral thereto<sup>17</sup>.

Where any interest is so vested in any person or persons (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>18</sup>, in the RTE company), the payment into court of the appropriate sum in respect of that interest is to be taken to have satisfied any claims against the applicants for the vesting order, their personal representatives or assigns (or against the RTE company) in respect of the price payable<sup>19</sup> for the acquisition of that interest<sup>20</sup>.

Where any interest is so vested in any person or persons (or, as from such a day, in the RTE company), s 32(5) (as amended) (see PARA 1623 note 6 post) applies in relation to his or their acquisition of that interest as it applies in relation to the acquisition of any interest by a nominee purchaser (or to its acquisition of that interest): s 27(7) (as so amended). As well as the general particulars to be included with an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal (see PARA 60 ante), the documents and particulars mentioned in PARA 1612 ante at heads (1)-(3) in the text must be included with an application under s 27 (as amended): see the Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (England) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/2099, reg 3(2), Sch 1 para 1(f); the Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/681, reg 3(2), Sch 1 para 1(f). On the filing of the witness statement the money must be paid into court and the court will send notice of the payment to the landlord and every person whose name and address are given in the witness statement: para 14.5(2). Any subsequent payment into court by the landlord must be made to the credit of the same account as the earlier payment into court: para 14.5(3). PARAS 1386-2000)/25. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(ix) Termination of Acquisition Procedures/1619. Withdrawal from acquisition by participating tenants or RTE company.

1619. Withdrawal from acquisition by participating tenants or RTE company.

At any time before a binding contract is entered into in pursuance of the initial notice<sup>1</sup>, the participating tenants<sup>2</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>3</sup>, the RTE company<sup>4</sup>) may withdraw that notice by the giving of a notice to that effect ('a notice of withdrawal')<sup>5</sup>.

At the date at which this title states the law, a notice of withdrawal must be given by the participating tenants:

- 3758 (1) to the nominee purchaser<sup>6</sup>;
- 3759 (2) to the reversioner<sup>7</sup> in respect of the specified premises<sup>8</sup>; and
- 3760 (3) to every other relevant landlord<sup>9</sup> who is known or believed by the participating tenants to have given to the nominee purchaser a notice of his intention to act independently<sup>10</sup>; and, if by virtue of head (3) above a notice of withdrawal falls to be given to any person falling within that head, it must state that he is a recipient of the notice<sup>11</sup>. On receiving a notice of withdrawal, the nominee purchaser must give a copy of it to every relevant landlord who has given to the nominee purchaser such a notice as is mentioned in head (3) above and is not stated in the notice of withdrawal to be a recipient of it<sup>12</sup>.

Where a notice of withdrawal is so given by the participating tenants:

- 3761 (a) those persons are; and
- 3762 (b) every other person who is not a participating tenant for the time being but has at any time been such a tenant is liable to the reversioner and to every other relevant landlord for all relevant costs<sup>13</sup> incurred by him in pursuance of the initial notice down to the time when the notice of withdrawal or a copy of it is given<sup>14</sup> to him<sup>15</sup>. A person falling within head (b) above is not, however, liable for any costs<sup>16</sup> if the lease<sup>17</sup> in respect of which he was a participating tenant has been assigned<sup>18</sup> to another person and that other person has become<sup>19</sup> a participating tenant<sup>20</sup>.

As from a day to be appointed<sup>21</sup>, however, a notice of withdrawal must be given by the RTE company:

- 3763 (i) to each person who is the qualifying tenant<sup>22</sup> of a flat<sup>23</sup> contained in the specified premises;
- 3764 (ii) to the reversioner in respect of the specified premises; and
- 3765 (iii) every other relevant landlord who has given to the RTE company a notice<sup>24</sup> of his intention to act independently<sup>25</sup>.

Where a notice of withdrawal is so given, then:

- 3766 (A) the RTE company; and
- 3767 (B) every person who is, or has at any time been, a participating member of the company, is liable<sup>26</sup> to the reversioner and to every other relevant landlord for all relevant costs<sup>27</sup> incurred by him in pursuance of the initial notice down to the time when the notice of withdrawal or a copy of it is given<sup>28</sup> to him<sup>29</sup>; but a person falling within head (B) above is not so liable for any costs if the lease in respect of which he was a qualifying tenant has been assigned<sup>30</sup> to another person and that other person has become a member of the RTE company<sup>31</sup>.

1 For these purposes, the reference to a binding contract being entered into in pursuance of the initial notice is to be read as including a reference to the making of a vesting order: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 ss 24(4), 25(6), Sch 6 para 5(1), (2)(e). ### 1620 Deemed withdrawal of initial notice

TEXT AND NOTES 33-36--Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 29(4A) amended: SI 2009/1941.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/25. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(ix) Termination of Acquisition Procedures/1621. Effect on initial notice or subsequent contract of institution of compulsory acquisition procedures.

1621. Effect on initial notice or subsequent contract of institution of compulsory acquisition procedures.

A notice exercising the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>1</sup> is of no effect if on the relevant date<sup>2</sup>:

3779 (2) the notice to treat or contract remains in force<sup>7</sup>.

A notice exercising the right to collective enfranchisement must not specify<sup>8</sup> any property or leasehold interest in property if on the relevant date:

3780 (a) any acquiring authority has, with a view to the acquisition of the whole or part of the property for any authorised purpose served notice to treat on the person who owns the freehold of, or any such leasehold interest in, the property or entered into a contract for the purchase of the interest of any such person in the property or part of it; and 3781 (b) the notice to treat or contract remains in force<sup>9</sup>.

A notice exercising the right to collective enfranchisement ceases to have effect if, before a binding contract is entered into in pursuance of the notice<sup>10</sup>, any acquiring authority serves, with a view to the acquisition of the whole or part of the specified premises for any authorised purpose, notice to treat as mentioned in head (1) above<sup>11</sup>.

Where any such authority so serves notice to treat at any time after a binding contract is entered into in pursuance of exercising the right to collective enfranchisement but before completion of the acquisition by the nominee purchaser<sup>12</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>13</sup>, before completion of the acquisition by the RTE company<sup>14</sup>), then, without prejudice to the general law as to the frustration of contracts<sup>15</sup>, the parties to the contract are discharged from the further performance of the contract<sup>16</sup>.

1     I.e. a notice given under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 13 (as amended): see PARA 1585 ante.

2     For the meaning of 'the relevant date' see PARA 1552 note 5 ante.

3     For these purposes, 'acquiring authority', in relation to the specified premises or any other property, means any person or body of persons who has been, or could be, authorised to acquire the whole or part of those premises or that property compulsorily for any purpose: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 30(7)(a). For the meaning of 'the specified premises' see PARA 1586 note 5 ante.

4     For these purposes, 'authorised purpose', in relation to any acquiring authority, means any such purpose as is mentioned in ibid s 30(7)(a) (see note 3 supra): s 30(7)(b).

5     For these purposes, 'relevant person', in relation to the specified premises, means (1) the person who owns the freehold of the premises or, where the freehold of the whole of the premises is not owned by the same person, any person who owns the freehold of part of them; or (2) any other person who owns any leasehold interest in the premises which is specified in the initial notice under ibid s 13(3)(c)(i) (see PARA 1586 ante at head (3)(a) in the text): s 30(2) (amended by the Housing Act 1996 s 107, Sch 10 para 10). For the meaning of 'the initial notice' see PARA 1585 ante.

6     For the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

7     Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 30(1). Where, at any time after a vesting order is made but before the interests falling to be vested in the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed (see note 13 infra), in the RTE company (see note 14 infra)) by virtue of the order have been so vested, any acquiring authority, within the meaning of s 30 (as amended), serves notice to treat as mentioned in s 30(1)(a), the vesting order ceases to have effect: ss 24(4), 25(6), Sch 5 para 5(3) (prospectively amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 124, Sch 8 paras 2, 39). Where the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 5 para 5(3) (as so amended) applies to any vesting order, then on the occasion of the compulsory acquisition in question the compensation payable in respect of any interest in the specified premises, whether or not the one to which the notice to treat relates, must be determined on the basis of the value of the interest subject to and with the benefit of the rights and obligations arising from the initial notice and affecting the interest: Sch 5 para 5(4). As to vesting orders see PARA 1615 et seq ante. For the meaning of 'the nominee purchaser' see PARAS 1576-1577 ante.

8     I.e. under ibid s 13(3)(a)(ii) or (c)(i): see PARA 1586 ante at head (1)(b) or head (3)(a) in the text.

9     Ibid s 30(3).

10    For these purposes, the reference to a binding contract being entered into in pursuance of the initial notice is to be read as including a reference to the making of a vesting order: ibid Sch 5 para 5(1), (2)(f).

11    Ibid s 30(4). Where s 30(4) or s 30(5) (as amended) (see the text and notes 12-16 infra) applies in relation to the initial notice or any contract entered into in pursuance of it, then on the occasion of the compulsory acquisition in question the compensation payable in respect of any interest in the specified premises, whether or not the one to which the relevant notice to treat relates, must be determined on the basis of the value of the interest (1) if s 30(4) applies, subject to and with the benefit of the rights and obligations arising from the initial notice and affecting that interest; or (2) if s 30(5) (as amended) applies, subject to and with the benefit of the rights and obligations arising from the contract and affecting that interest: s 30(6).

12    I.e. under ibid Pt I Ch I (ss 1-38) (as amended): see PARA 1552 et seq ante, PARA 1622 et seq post.

13    I.e. as from a day to be appointed under the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 181(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

14 As to RTE companies see PARAS 1581-1583 ante.

15 As to the doctrine of frustration see CONTRACT vol 9(1) (Reissue) PARA 888 et seq.

16 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 30(5) (prospectively amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 124, Sch 8 paras 2, 19, as from a day to be appointed (see note 13 supra)). See also note 11 supra.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(ix) Termination of Acquisition Procedures/1622. Effect on initial notice of designation for inheritance tax purposes and applications for designation.

1622. Effect on initial notice of designation for inheritance tax purposes and applications for designation.

A notice claiming to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>1</sup> is of no effect if on the relevant date<sup>2</sup> the whole or any part of the specified premises<sup>3</sup> or any property specified in the notice<sup>4</sup> is qualifying property<sup>5</sup>. For these purposes, the whole or any part of the specified premises, or any property specified as mentioned above<sup>6</sup>, is qualifying property if:

- 3782 (1) it has been designated under the Inheritance Tax Act 1984<sup>7</sup>, whether with or without any other property, and no chargeable event<sup>8</sup> has subsequently occurred with respect to it; or
- 3783 (2) an application to the Board<sup>9</sup> for it to be so designated is pending<sup>10</sup>; or
- 3784 (3) it is the property of a body not established or conducted for profit and a direction has been given<sup>11</sup> in relation to it, whether with or without any other property; or
- 3785 (4) an application to the Board for a direction to be so given in relation to it is pending<sup>12</sup>.

A notice claiming to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement ceases to have effect if, before a binding contract<sup>13</sup> is entered into in pursuance of the notice, the whole or any part of the specified premises or any property specified in the notice<sup>14</sup> becomes qualifying property<sup>15</sup>.

Where it is claimed that either of the above provisions<sup>16</sup> applies in relation to a notice claiming to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement, the person making the claim must, at the time of making it, furnish the nominee purchaser<sup>17</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>18</sup>, the RTE company<sup>19</sup>) with evidence in support of it; and, if he fails to do so, he is liable for any costs which are reasonably incurred by the nominee purchaser in consequence of the failure<sup>20</sup>.

Where such a notice ceases so to have effect<sup>21</sup>, the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>22</sup>, the RTE company), is not liable for any costs of enfranchisement<sup>23</sup>; and the person who applied or is applying for designation or a direction is liable:

- 3786 (a) at the date at which this title states the law, to the qualifying tenants<sup>24</sup> by whom the notice was given for all reasonable costs incurred by them in the preparation and giving of the notice and to the nominee purchaser for all reasonable costs incurred in pursuance of the notice by him or by any other person who has acted as the nominee purchaser<sup>25</sup>; or
- 3787 (b) as from a day to be appointed<sup>26</sup>, to the RTE company for all reasonable costs incurred in the preparation or giving of the notice or in pursuance of it<sup>27</sup>.

1624 Price payable for freehold of specified premises

NOTES--It is not permissible to include the 'hope value' in the valuation: Cadogan v Sportelli [2007] EWCA Civ 1042, [2008] 2 All ER 220.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/25. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(x) Determination of Price; Costs/A. PRICE PAYABLE/(B) Freehold of Specified Premises/1625. Value of freeholder's interest.

1625. Value of freeholder's interest.

The value of the freeholder's<sup>1</sup> interest<sup>2</sup> in the specified premises<sup>3</sup> is<sup>4</sup> the amount which at the relevant date<sup>5</sup> that interest might be expected to realise if sold on the open market by a willing seller, with no specified person<sup>6</sup> buying or seeking to buy, on the following assumptions:

- 3794 (1) on the assumption that the vendor is selling for an estate in fee simple:
- 233

82. (a) subject to any leases<sup>7</sup> subject to which the freeholder's interest in the premises is to be acquired by the nominee purchaser<sup>8</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>9</sup>, by the RTE company<sup>10</sup>); but
83. (b) subject also to any intermediate<sup>11</sup> or other leasehold interests in the premises which are to be acquired by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company);
- 234
- 3795 (2) on the assumption that the relevant statutory provisions<sup>12</sup> confer no right to acquire any interest in the specified premises or to acquire any new lease, except that this does not preclude the taking into account of a notice claiming to exercise the right to acquire a new lease<sup>13</sup> with respect to a flat contained in the specified premises where it is given by a person other than a participating tenant<sup>14</sup> (or a participating member of the RTE company<sup>15</sup>);
- 3796 (3) on the assumption that any increase in the value of any flat held by a participating tenant (or a participating member of the RTE company) which is attributable to an improvement carried out at his own expense by the tenant (or member) or by any predecessor in title is to be disregarded; and
- 3797 (4) on the assumption that, subject to heads (1) and (2) above, the vendor is selling with and subject to the rights and burdens with and subject to which the conveyance<sup>16</sup> to the nominee purchaser (or to the RTE company) of the freeholder's interest is to be made, and in particular with and subject to such permanent or extended rights and burdens as are to be created in order to give effect to the statutory provisions<sup>17</sup> relating to the conveyance to the nominee purchaser (or to the RTE company) on enfranchisement<sup>18</sup>.

In determining that amount there must be made such deduction, if any, in respect of any defect in title as on a sale of the interest on the open market might be expected to be allowed between a willing seller and a willing buyer<sup>19</sup>.

Where a lease of any flat or other unit<sup>20</sup> contained in the specified premises is to be granted<sup>21</sup> to the freeholder, the value of his interest in those premises at the relevant date so far as relating to that flat or other unit is to be taken to be the difference as at that date between:

- 3798 (i) the value of his freehold interest in it; and
- 3799 (ii) the value of his interest in it under that lease, assuming it to have been granted to him at that date; and each of those values must be determined, so far as is appropriate, in like manner as the value of the freeholder's interest in the whole of the specified premises is<sup>22</sup> determined<sup>23</sup>.

The value of the freeholder's interest in the specified premises may not be increased by reason of:

- 3800 (A) any transaction which is entered into on or after 20 July 1993, otherwise than in pursuance of a contract entered into before that date, and involves the creation or transfer of an interest superior to, whether or not preceding, any interest held by a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the specified premises; or
- 3801 (B) any alteration on or after that date of the terms on which any such superior interest is held<sup>24</sup>.

1 le the person owning the freehold of the whole of the premises: see PARA 1624 ante. As to the application of these provisions to a person owning part only of the premises see notes 6, 18, 23 infra; and PARA 1628 post.

2 For the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'the specified premises' see PARA 1586 note 5 ante.

4 le subject to the provisions of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 32(1), Sch 6 para 3 (as amended): see the text and notes 5-24 infra.

5 For the meaning of 'the relevant date' see PARA 1552 note 5 ante.

6 le no person falling within the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 6 para 3(1A) (as added and amended). A person falls within that provision if he is (1) the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed (see note 9 infra) the RTE company); or (2) a tenant of premises contained in the specified premises; or (3) an owner of an interest which the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) is to acquire in pursuance of s 1(2)(a) (as amended) (see PARA 1552 ante); or (4) an owner of an interest which the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) is to acquire in pursuance of s 2(1)(b) (as originally enacted or as substituted) (see PARA 1553 ante): Sch 6 para 3(1A) (added by the Housing Act 1996 s 109(1), (3); amended by s 107(4), Sch 10 para 18(4); prospectively amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 124, Sch 8 paras 2, 40(1), (2), as from a day to be appointed (see note 9 infra)).

In its application in accordance with (a) the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 6 para 5A(2)(a) (as added) (price payable for freehold of part of specified premises: see PARA 1628 post at head (1) in the text); (b) Sch 6 para 7(1) (price payable for intermediate freehold interests: see PARA 1629 post); or (c) Sch 6 para 11(2) (value of other interests: see PARA 1634 post), Sch 6 para 3(1A) (as so added and amended) has effect with the insertion, after Sch 6 para 3(1A)(a) (as added and amended) (see head (1) supra) of the words ' (aa) an owner of a freehold interest in the specified premises, or': Sch 6 para 5B(1), (3) (Sch 6 para 5B added by the Housing Act 1996 s 107, Sch 10 para 18(5)); Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 6 para 7(1A) (added by the Housing Act 1996 s 109(4)); Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 6 para 11(4) (added by the Housing Act 1996 s 109(5)).

10 As to RTE companies see PARAS 1581-1583 ante.

11 For these purposes, 'intermediate leasehold interest' means the interest of the tenant under a lease which is superior to the lease held by a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the specified premises, to the extent that (1) any such interest is to be acquired by the nominee purchaser by virtue of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 2(1)(a) (as originally enacted) (or, as from a day to be appointed (see note 9 supra), acquired by the RTE company under s 2(1)(a) (as substituted) (see PARA 1553 ante); and (2) it is an interest in the specified premises: Sch 6 para 1(1). As to the application of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 6 para 3 (as amended) see PARA 1624 note 10 ante.

The fact that Sch 6 para 3(1) (as so amended) requires assumptions to be made as to the matters specified in Sch 6 para 3(1)(a)-(d) (as amended) (see heads (1)-(4) in the text) does not preclude the making of assumptions as to other matters where those assumptions are appropriate for determining the amount which at the relevant date the freeholder's interest in the specified premises might be expected to realise if sold as mentioned in Sch 6 para 3(1) (as amended): Sch 6 para 3(2) (amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 126(1)).

In its application in accordance with the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 6 para 5A(2)(a) (as added) (price payable for freehold of part of specified premises: see PARA 1628 post at head (1) in the text), Sch 6 para 3(1)(a)(ii) (as amended) (see head (1)(b) in the text) has effect with the insertion at the end of the words 'so far as relating to the part of the premises in which the freeholder's interest subsists': Sch 6 para 5B(1), (2) (as added: see note 6 supra).

24 Ibid Sch 6 para 3(5). Schedule 6 para 3(5) does not have the effect of preventing an increase in value of the freeholder's interest in the specified premises in a case where the increase is attributable to any such leasehold interest with a negative value as is mentioned in Sch 6 para 14(2) (see PARA 1637 post): Sch 6 para 3(6). As to the effect of an estate management scheme on the price payable under Sch 6 (as amended) see PARA 1624 note 11 ante. For the purposes, however, of Sch 6 para 3 (as amended) as it applies in relation to any acquisition such as is mentioned in s 69(1)(b) (as substituted) (see PARA 1734 post), it is to be assumed that any scheme approved under s 73(1) and relating to the property in question had not been so approved: see s 73(10); and PARA 1739 note 7 post.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(x) Determination of Price; Costs/A. PRICE PAYABLE/(B) Freehold of Specified Premises/1626. Freeholder's share of marriage value.

1626. Freeholder's share of marriage value.

The marriage value is the amount referred to in head (1) or head (2) below<sup>1</sup>, and the freeholder's share of the marriage value is 50 per cent of that amount<sup>2</sup>.

The marriage value is<sup>3</sup>:

235

84. (a) which is attributable to the potential ability of the persons who are such participating tenants, once those interests have been so acquired, to have new leases<sup>9</sup> granted to them without payment of any premium and without restriction as to length of term; and

85. (b) which, if those interests were being sold to the nominee purchaser on the open market by willing sellers, the nominee purchaser would have to agree to share with the sellers in order to reach agreement as to price<sup>10</sup>;

3803 (2) as from a day to be appointed<sup>11</sup>, any increase in the aggregate value of the freehold and every intermediate leasehold interest in the specified premises, when regarded as being, in consequence of their being acquired by the RTE company<sup>12</sup>, interests under the control of persons who are participating members<sup>13</sup> of the RTE company immediately before a binding contract is entered into in pursuance of the initial notice, as compared with the aggregate value of those interests when held by the persons from whom they are to be so acquired, being an increase in value:

237

86. (a) which is attributable to the potential ability of those participating members, once those interests have been so acquired, to have new leases granted to them without payment of any premium and without restriction as to length of term; and

87. (b) which, if those interests were being sold to the RTE company on the open market by willing sellers, the RTE company would have to agree to share with the sellers in order to reach agreement as to price<sup>14</sup>.

Where, however, at the relevant date the unexpired term of the lease held by any of those participating tenants (or participating members) exceeds 80 years, any increase in the value of the freehold or any intermediate leasehold interest in the specified premises which is attributable to his potential ability to have a new lease granted to him as mentioned in heads (1)(a) and (2)(a) above is to be ignored<sup>15</sup>.

Accordingly, in so determining the value of an interest when acquired by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>16</sup>, by the RTE company):

3804 (i) the same assumptions must be made<sup>17</sup> as are to be made<sup>18</sup> in determining the value of the interest when held by the person from whom it is to be acquired by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company); and 3805 (ii) any merger or other circumstances affecting the interest on its acquisition by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company) must be disregarded<sup>19</sup>.

1626 Freeholder's share of marriage value

NOTES 2, 3--Where provision is made for marriage value to be taken into account in the valuation of a property subject to leasehold enfranchisement, the freeholder is not entitled to an additional amount in respect of 'hope value': Cadogan v Pitts [2008] UKHL 71, [2009] 3 All ER 365.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(x) Determination of Price; Costs/A. PRICE PAYABLE/(B) Freehold of Specified Premises/1627. Compensation for loss resulting from enfranchisement.

1627. Compensation for loss resulting from enfranchisement.

Where the freeholder<sup>1</sup> will suffer any loss or damage consisting of:

- 3806 (1) any diminution in value of any interest<sup>2</sup> of the freeholder in other property resulting from the acquisition of his interest in the specified premises<sup>3</sup>; and
- 3807 (2) any other loss or damage which results therefrom to the extent that it is referable to his ownership of any interest in other property, there is payable to him such amount as is reasonable to compensate him for that loss or damage<sup>4</sup>.

Where the freeholder will suffer such loss or damage, then, in determining the amount of compensation so payable to him, it is not material that:

- 3808 (a) the loss or damage could to any extent be avoided or reduced by the grant to him<sup>5</sup> of a lease<sup>6</sup>; and
- 3809 (b) he is not requiring the nominee purchaser<sup>7</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>8</sup>, is not requiring the RTE company<sup>9</sup>) to grant any such lease<sup>10</sup>.

Without prejudice to the generality of Sch 6 para 5(2)(b) (see head (2) in the text), the kinds of loss falling within Sch 6 para 5(2)(b) include loss of development value in relation to the specified premises to the extent that it is referable as mentioned in Sch 6 para 5(2)(b): Sch 6 para 5(3). For these purposes, 'development value', in relation to the specified premises, means any increase in the value of the freeholder's interest in the premises which is attributable to the possibility of demolishing, reconstructing, or carrying out substantial works of construction on, the whole or a substantial part of the premises: Sch 6 para 5(4).

It has been held that losses resulting from the fact that the freeholder can no longer earn commission on the tenants' insurance premiums may also be included under Sch 6 para 5 (as amended) (see Blackstone Investments Ltd v Middleton-Dell Management Co Ltd [1997] RVR 145, [1997] 1 EGLR 185, Lands Tribunal), but it is difficult to see how the value of insurance commissions forms part of the landlord's interest as freeholder. Value of intermediate leasehold interests.

1630. Value of intermediate leasehold interests.

The statutory provisions relating to the value of the freeholder's interest<sup>1</sup> apply<sup>2</sup> for determining the value of any intermediate leasehold interest<sup>3</sup> with such modifications<sup>4</sup> as are appropriate<sup>5</sup>.

The value of an intermediate leasehold interest which is the interest of the tenant under a minor intermediate lease<sup>6</sup> must, however, be calculated by applying the following formula:

$$P = \frac{R}{Y} - \frac{R}{Y(1+Y)^n}$$

where P equals the price payable; R equals the profit rent; Y equals the yield, expressed as a decimal fraction, from 2½% Consolidated Stock<sup>7</sup>; and n equals the period, expressed in years, taking any part of a year as a whole year, of the remainder of the term of the minor intermediate lease as at the relevant date<sup>8</sup>.

Where a minor intermediate lease is in immediate reversion on two or more leases:

3815 (1) the above formula must be applied in relation to each of those subleases<sup>9</sup>; and

3816 (2) the value of the interest of the tenant under the minor intermediate lease is accordingly the aggregate of the amounts calculated by so applying the formula<sup>10</sup>.

1    Ie the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 32(1), Sch 6 para 3 (as amended): see PARA 1625 ante.

2    Ie subject to ibid Sch 6 para 7(2): see the text and notes 6-8 infra.

3    Ie for the purposes of ibid Sch 6 para 6(1)(b)(i): see PARA 1629 ante. For the meaning of 'intermediate leasehold interest' see PARA 1625 note 11 ante; and for the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

4    Ie such modifications as are appropriate to relate ibid Sch 6 para 3 (as amended) to a sale of the interest in question subject, where applicable, to any leases intermediate between that interest and any lease held by a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the specified premises. For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante; for the meaning of 'qualifying tenant' see PARA 1557 ante; for the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1533 note 2 ante; and for the meaning of 'the specified premises' see PARA 1586 note 5 ante. In its application in accordance with Sch 6 para 7(1), Sch 6 para 3(1A) (as added and amended) has effect with the addition after Sch 6 para 3(1A)(a) (as added and amended) of: '(aa) an owner of a freehold interest in the specified premises, or': Sch 6 para 7(1A) (added by the Housing Act 1996 s 109(4)).

5 Ibid Sch 6 para 7(1). As to the application of Sch 6 para 7 (as amended) see PARA 1629 note 8 ante.

6 For these purposes, 'a minor intermediate lease' means a lease complying with the following requirements, namely: (1) it must have an expectation of possession of not more than one month; and (2) the profit rent in respect of the lease must be not more than £5 per year; and, in the case of a lease which is in immediate reversion on two or more leases, those requirements must be complied with in connection with each of the subleases: ibid Sch 6 para 7(3). 'Profit rent' means an amount equal to that of the rent payable under the lease on which the minor intermediate lease is in immediate reversion, less that of the rent payable under the minor intermediate lease: Sch 6 para 7(5). Where the minor intermediate lease or that on which it is in immediate reversion comprises property other than a flat held by a qualifying tenant, then in Sch 6 para 7(5) the reference to the rent payable under it means so much of that rent as is apportioned to any such flat: Sch 6 para 7(6).

The expectation of possession carried by a lease in relation to a lease ('the sublease') on which it is in immediate reversion is the expectation of possession which it carries at the relevant date after the sublease, on the basis that (a) subject to Sch 6 para 7(10), where the sublease is a lease held by a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the specified premises, it terminates at the relevant date if its term date fell before then, or else it terminates on its term date; and (b) in any other case, the sublease terminates on its term date: Sch 6 para 7(9) (Sch 6 para 7(7)-(9) amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 126(1); for transitional provisions and savings see the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 (Commencement No 5 and Saving and Transitional Provision) Order 2004, SI 2004/3056, arts 3(a), 4(1A) (art 4(1A) added by SI 2005/193); the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 (Commencement No 3 and Saving and Transitional Provision) (Wales) Order 2005, SI 2005/1353, arts 2(a), 3(2)). In a case where before the relevant date for the purposes of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Pt I Ch I (ss 1-38) (as amended) the landlord of any such qualifying tenant as is mentioned in Sch 6 para 7(9)(a) (see head (a) supra) had given notice to quit terminating the tenant's sublease on a date earlier than that date, the date specified in the notice to quit must be substituted for the date specified in that provision: Sch 6 para 7(10). For the meaning of 'the relevant date' see PARA 1552 note 5 ante; and for the meaning of 'the term date' see PARA 1544 note 5 ante.

7 In calculating the yield from 2½% Consolidated Stock, the price of that stock is to be taken to be the middle market price at the close of business on the last trading day in the week before the relevant date: ibid Sch 6 para 7(8) (as amended: see note 6 supra).

8 Ibid Sch 6 para 7(2), (7) (as amended: see note 6 supra).

9 Ie and ibid Sch 6 para 7(5), (6) also so applies.

Where the owner of the intermediate leasehold interest<sup>1</sup> will suffer any loss or damage to which this provision applies<sup>2</sup>, there is payable to him such amount as is reasonable to compensate him for that loss or damage<sup>3</sup>. This provision applies to:

- 3817 (1) any diminution in value of any interest of the owner of the intermediate leasehold interest in other property resulting from the acquisition of his interest in the specified premises<sup>4</sup>; and

and without prejudice to the generality of head (2) above, the kinds of loss falling within that head include loss of development value<sup>6</sup> in relation to the specified premises to the extent that it is referable as mentioned therein<sup>7</sup>.

1632. Owners of intermediate interests entitled to part of marriage value.

The following provisions apply where the freehold of the whole of the specified premises<sup>1</sup> is owned by the same person<sup>2</sup> and:

3819 (1) the price payable for the freehold of the specified premises includes an amount in respect of the freeholder's share of the marriage value<sup>3</sup>; and 3820 (2) the nominee purchaser<sup>4</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>5</sup>, the RTE company<sup>6</sup>) is to acquire any intermediate leasehold interests<sup>7</sup>.

The amount payable to the freeholder in respect of his share of the marriage value must be divided between the freeholder and the owners of the intermediate leasehold interests in proportion to the value of their respective interests<sup>8</sup> in the specified premises<sup>9</sup>. Where the owner of an intermediate leasehold interest is so entitled to any part of the amount payable to the freeholder in respect of the freeholder's share of the marriage value, the amount to which he is so entitled is payable to him by the freeholder<sup>10</sup>.

The following provisions apply where different persons own the freehold of different parts of the specified premises<sup>11</sup> and:

- 3821 (a) the price payable for the freehold of a part of the specified premises includes an amount in respect of the freeholder's share of the marriage value<sup>12</sup>; and 3822 (b) the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>13</sup>, the RTE company) is to acquire any intermediate leasehold interests which subsist in that part<sup>14</sup>.

The amount payable to the freeholder of the part in respect of his share of the marriage value must be divided between the freeholder and the owners of the intermediate leasehold interests which subsist in that part in proportion to the value of their respective interests<sup>15</sup> in the part<sup>16</sup>. Where, however, an intermediate leasehold interest subsists not only in the part of the specified premises in which the freeholder's interest subsists ('the relevant part') but also in another part of those premises:

- 3823 (i) the value of the intermediate leasehold interest as determined for the statutory purposes<sup>17</sup> must be apportioned between the relevant part and the other part of the specified premises in which it subsists; and 3824 (ii) the above provisions<sup>18</sup> have effect as if the reference to the value of the intermediate leasehold interest in the relevant part<sup>19</sup> were to the value of that interest as determined on an apportionment in accordance with head (i) above<sup>20</sup>.

Where the owner of an intermediate leasehold interest is so entitled<sup>21</sup> to any part of the amount payable to the freeholder in respect of the freeholder's share of the marriage value, the amount to which he is so entitled is payable to him by the freeholder<sup>22</sup>.

1635. Marriage value.

Where any freehold interest<sup>1</sup> is an interest in any property which is appurtenant property demised by the lease held by a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in the relevant premises<sup>2</sup>:

3830 (1) the statutory provisions relating to the marriage value<sup>3</sup> apply with such modifications as are appropriate for determining the marriage value in connection with the acquisition by the nominee purchaser<sup>4</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>5</sup>, by the RTE company<sup>6</sup>) of that interest; and 3831 (2) the statutory provisions relating to the freeholder's share in that value<sup>7</sup> apply with such modifications as are appropriate for determining the share of the marriage value to which the owner of that interest is entitled<sup>8</sup>.

Where:

3832 (a) the owner of any such freehold interest is entitled to any share of the marriage value in respect of any such property; and the amount payable to the owner of the freehold interest in respect of his share of the marriage value in respect of that property must be divided between the owner of that interest and the owners of the leasehold interests in proportion to the value of their respective interests<sup>10</sup> in that property<sup>11</sup>.

Where the owner of any such leasehold interest ('the intermediate landlord') is so entitled<sup>12</sup> to any part of the amount payable to the owner of any freehold interest in respect of his share of the marriage value in respect of any property, the amount to which the intermediate landlord is so entitled is payable to him by the owner of that freehold interest<sup>13</sup>.

1636. Compensation for loss on acquisition of interest.

Where the owner of any relevant interest<sup>1</sup> will suffer any loss or damage to which this provision applies<sup>2</sup>, there is payable to him such amount as is reasonable to compensate him for that loss or damage<sup>3</sup>. This provision applies to:

- 3834 (1) any diminution in value of any interest in other property belonging to the owner of a relevant interest, being diminution resulting from the acquisition of the property in which the relevant interest subsists; and
- 3835 (2) any other loss or damage which results therefrom to the extent that it is referable to his ownership of any interest in other property<sup>4</sup>;

and without prejudice to the generality of head (2) above, the kinds of loss falling within that head include loss of development value<sup>5</sup> in relation to the property in which the relevant interest subsists to the extent that it is referable to his ownership of any interest in other property<sup>6</sup>.

1    Ie any such freehold or leasehold interest as is mentioned in the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 32(1), Sch 6 para 10(1) or (2) (as amended): see PARA 1633 ante.

2    Ie any loss or damage to which heads (1)-(2) in the text apply.

(E) VALUATION ETC OF INTERESTS IN SPECIFIED PREMISES WITH NEGATIVE VALUES

1637. Valuation of freehold and intermediate leasehold interests.

Where the value of the freeholder's interest<sup>1</sup> in a specified premises<sup>2</sup>, as determined for the relevant purposes<sup>3</sup>, or the value of any intermediate leasehold interest<sup>4</sup>, as so determined, is a negative amount, the value of the interest for those purposes is nil<sup>5</sup>.

Where the above provisions apply to any intermediate leasehold interest whose value is a negative amount ('the negative interest'), then for the relevant purposes any interests in the specified premises superior to the negative interest and having a positive value<sup>6</sup> must be reduced in value:

- 3836 (1) beginning with the interest which is immediately superior to the negative interest and continuing, if necessary, with any such other superior interests in order of proximity to the negative interest;
- 3837 (2) until the aggregate amount of the reduction is equal to the negative amount in question; and
- 3838 (3) without reducing the value of any interest to less than nil<sup>7</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'the specified premises' see PARA 1586 note 5 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'the relevant purposes' (1) as respects a freeholder's interest in the specified premises, means the purposes of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 6 para 2(1)(a) (see PARA 1624 ante) or, as the case may be, Sch 6 para 5A(2)(a) (as added) (see PARA 1628 ante); and (2) as respects any intermediate leasehold interest (see note 4 infra), means the purposes of Sch 6 para 6(1)(b) (i) (see PARA 1629 ante): Sch 6 para 14(5) (Sch 6 para 14(1), (5) amended, and Sch 6 para 14(3A) added, by the Housing Act 1996 s 107(4), Sch 10 para 18(10)-(12)).

4 For the meaning of 'intermediate leasehold interest' see PARA 1625 note 11 ante.

5 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 6 para 14(1) (as amended: see note 3 supra).

6 For these purposes, an interest has a positive value if its value for the relevant purposes is otherwise a positive amount: ibid Sch 6 para 14(4).

7 Ibid Sch 6 para 14(2). In a case where Sch 6 para 14(1) (as amended) applies to two or more intermediate leasehold interests whose values are negative amounts, Sch 6 para 14(2) applies separately in relation to each of those interests (1) beginning with the interest which is inferior to every other of those interests and then in order of proximity to that interest; and (2) with any reduction in the value of any interest for the relevant purposes by virtue of any prior application of Sch 6 para 14(2) being taken into account: Sch 6 para 14(3).

Where Sch 6 para 14(2) applies: (a) for the purposes of Sch 6 para 5A(2)(a) (as added) (see PARA 1628 ante); and (b) in relation to an intermediate leasehold interest in relation to which there is more than one immediately superior interest, any reduction in value made under Sch 6 para 14(2) must be apportioned between the immediately superior interests: Sch 6 para 14(3A) (as added: see note 3 supra).

1638. Calculation of marriage value.

- 3840 (2) when acquired by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company), is a negative amount, the value of the interest when so held or acquired is<sup>6</sup> nil<sup>7</sup>.

Where the above provisions apply to any intermediate leasehold interest<sup>8</sup> whose value when so held or acquired is a negative amount, the statutory provisions relating to the valuation of 4   For these purposes, 'relevant inferior interest', in relation to any interest whose value is reduced as mentioned in ibid Sch 6 para 17(1) or (2) ('the superior interest') means (1) the negative interest on account of which any such reduction is made; or (2) any other interest intermediate between that negative interest and the superior interest; but Sch 6 para 17(1) applies in the first instance in relation to any amount of compensation payable to the owner of that negative interest, and then, for the purpose of offsetting, so far as possible, any reduction remaining to be offset in accordance with Sch 6 para 17(1) or (2), in relation to any amount of compensation payable to the owner of the interest immediately superior to that negative interest, and so on in order of proximity to it: Sch 6 para 17(3).

5   Ibid Sch 6 para 17(1). To the extent that an amount of compensation is payable to the owner of any interest by virtue of Sch 6 para 17 (as amended): (1) Sch 6 para 2(1)(c) (see PARA 1624 ante), Sch 6 para 5A(2) (c) (as added) (see PARA 1628 ante) or Sch 6 para 6(1)(b)(ii) (see PARA 1629 ante) has effect as if it were an amount of compensation payable to him, as owner of that interest, in accordance with Sch 6 para 5 (as amended) (see PARA 1627 ante) or Sch 6 para 8 (as substituted) (see PARA 1631 ante), as the case may be; and (2) the person who would otherwise have been entitled to it in accordance with Sch 6 para 8 (as substituted) is accordingly not so entitled: Sch 6 para 17(4) (amended by the Housing Act 1996 s 107(4), Sch 10 para 18(15)).

In a case where the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 6 para 14(2) applies separately in relation to two or more negative interests in accordance with Sch 6 para 14(3) (see PARA 1637 ante), Sch 6 para 17(1)-(4) (as amended) similarly applies separately in relation to the reductions made on account of each of those interests, and so applies (a) according to the order determined by Sch 6 para 14(3)(a); and (b) with there being taken into account any reduction in the amount of compensation payable to any person under Sch 6 para 8 (as substituted) which results from the prior application of Sch 6 para 17(1)-(4) (as amended): Sch 6 para 17(5). For the meaning of references to Sch 6 para 14(3) for these purposes see PARA 1638 note 12 ante.

Where any reduction in value under Sch 6 para 14(2) is apportioned in accordance with Sch 6 para 14(3A) (as added) (see PARA 1637 ante), any amount of compensation payable by virtue of Sch 6 para 17 (as amended) must be similarly apportioned: Sch 6 para 17(6) (added by the Housing Act 1996 s 107(4), Sch 10 para 18(16)).

(F) VALUATION ETC OF OTHER INTERESTS WITH NEGATIVE VALUES

1641. Valuation of freehold and leasehold interests.

Where the value of any freehold interest<sup>1</sup> or the value of any leasehold interest<sup>2</sup> is a negative amount, the value of that interest for the relevant purposes<sup>3</sup> is nil<sup>4</sup>.

Where, in the case of any property, the above provisions apply to any leasehold interest in the property whose value is a negative amount ('the negative interest'), then for the relevant purposes any interests in the property superior to the negative interest and having a positive value<sup>5</sup> must be reduced in value, if they are interests which are to be acquired by the nominee purchaser<sup>6</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>7</sup>, by the RTE company<sup>8</sup>):

- 3849 (1) beginning with the interest which is nearest to the negative interest and continuing, if necessary, with such other superior interests in order of proximity to the negative interest;
- 3850 (2) until the aggregate amount of the reduction is equal to the negative amount in question; and
- 3851 (3) without reducing the value of any interest to less than nil<sup>9</sup>.

1     Ie as determined in accordance with the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 32(1), Sch 6 para 11(1): see PARA 1634 ante. For the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

2     Ie as determined in accordance with ibid Sch 6 para 11(2): see PARA 1634 ante.

3     For these purposes, 'the relevant purposes' means (1) as respects any freehold interest, the purposes of ibid Sch 6 para 10(1)(a) (see PARA 1633 ante); and (2) as respects any leasehold interest, the purposes of Sch 6 para 10(2)(a) (see PARA 1633 ante): Sch 6 para 18(5).

4 Ibid Sch 6 para 18(1).

5 For these purposes, an interest has a positive value if, apart from ibid Sch 6 para 18(2) (as amended), its value for the relevant purposes is a positive amount: Sch 6 para 18(4).

6 For the meaning of 'the nominee purchaser' see PARAS 1576-1577 ante.

7 I.e. as from a day to be appointed under the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 181(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

In a case where the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 6 para 18(1) (see the text and notes 1-4 supra) applies to two or more leasehold interests in any property whose values are negative amounts, Sch 6 para 18(2) (as so amended) applies separately in relation to each of those interests (1) beginning with the interest which is inferior to every other of those interests and then in order of proximity to that interest; and (2) with any reduction in the value of any interest for the relevant purposes by virtue of any prior application of Sch 6 para 18(2) (as so amended) being taken into account: Sch 6 para 18(3). 3853 (2) when acquired by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company),

Where the value of any freehold interest or the value of any leasehold interest is a negative amount<sup>1</sup>, the value of the interest is<sup>2</sup> nil<sup>3</sup>. ## (xi) Completion of Acquisition

A. CONVEYANCE TO NOMINEE PURCHASER OR RTE COMPANY

1646. Contract and title.

In a transaction undertaken to give effect to an initial notice<sup>1</sup> the nominee purchaser<sup>2</sup>, the reversioner and any relevant landlord are, unless they otherwise agree, to be bound by the following provisions<sup>3</sup>.

Where the reversioner has given a counter-notice admitting the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>4</sup> or a further counter-notice, or, if no such counter-notice or further counter-notice is given, the nominee purchaser has applied to the court for an order determining the terms of the acquisition<sup>5</sup>, the nominee purchaser may<sup>6</sup> require the reversioner to deduce title to the interests proposed to be acquired<sup>7</sup> and to any interest in relation to which the reversioner has made proposals<sup>8</sup>, or to any less extensive interest which it has been agreed or determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal will be acquired, by giving him notice<sup>9</sup>. The reversioner must comply with any such requirement by giving the nominee purchaser:

- 3867 (1) in the case of an interest registered in the register of title kept at Her Majesty's Land Registry, all particulars and information which have to be given or may be required to be given on a sale of registered land; and
- 3868 (2) in the case of any other interest, an epitome of title, within the period of 28 days beginning with the date the notice is given<sup>10</sup>.

The nominee purchaser must<sup>11</sup> give to the reversioner a statement of any objections to or requisitions on the proof of title within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the proof is given, whether or not within the time required<sup>12</sup>. The reversioner must give to the nominee purchaser an answer to any statement of objections or requisitions within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the statement is given<sup>13</sup>; and the nominee purchaser must give to the reversioner a further statement of any objections to or comments on the answer within the period of seven days beginning with the date the answer is given<sup>14</sup>. Any objection or requisition not included in any statement given within the period referred to above is to be deemed waived, and any matter which could have been raised in a statement so given is to be deemed not to be<sup>15</sup> a defect in title<sup>16</sup>; and any objection not included in any further statement given within the period specified above is to be deemed waived and any matter which could have been raised in a further statement so given is to be deemed not to be<sup>17</sup> a defect in title<sup>18</sup>. If no further statement is given within the time specified above, the reversioner's answer is to be considered satisfactory<sup>19</sup>.

Where:

- 3869 (a) a relevant landlord has given notice<sup>20</sup> of his intention to deal directly with the nominee purchaser in connection with deducing, evidencing or verifying his title; or
- 3870 (b) the nominee purchaser has given notice to a relevant landlord requiring him to deal directly with him<sup>21</sup>, any notice, statement or further statement given under the above provisions requiring proof of that relevant landlord's title or raising requisitions, or making objections to or comments on that relevant landlord's title, must be given to him and not to the reversioner, and he will be under a duty to comply with any such notice or respond to any such statement instead of the reversioner<sup>22</sup>.

The reversioner must prepare the draft contract and give it to the nominee purchaser within the period of 21 days beginning with the date the terms of acquisition<sup>23</sup> are agreed or determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>24</sup>; and the nominee purchaser must give to the reversioner a statement of any proposals for amending the draft contract within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the draft contract is given<sup>25</sup>. If no statement is given by the nominee purchaser within the time so specified he is to be deemed to have approved the draft<sup>26</sup>. The reversioner must give to the nominee purchaser an answer, giving any objections to or comments on the proposals in the statement, within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the statement is given<sup>27</sup>; and if no answer is given by the reversioner within the time so specified, he is to be deemed to have agreed to the nominee purchaser's proposals for amendments to the draft contract<sup>28</sup>.

The reversioner may require the nominee purchaser to pay a deposit on exchange of contracts in pursuance of the initial notice<sup>29</sup>. The amount of the deposit required must be £500, or 10 per cent of the purchase price agreed or determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal to be payable for the interests to be acquired, whichever is the greater<sup>30</sup>. The nominee purchaser must pay the deposit so required to the reversioner's solicitor or licensed conveyancer as stakeholder<sup>31</sup>.

Where the initial notice has been registered as a land charge or a notice under the Land Registration Act 2002 has been registered in respect of it<sup>32</sup>, and either it is withdrawn, deemed to have been withdrawn or otherwise ceases to have effect, the nominee purchaser must at the request of the reversioner without delay take all steps necessary to procure cancellation of the registration<sup>33</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(5) COLLECTIVE ENFRANCHISEMENT/(xi) Completion of Acquisition/A. CONVEYANCE TO NOMINEE PURCHASER OR RTE COMPANY/1647. Conveyance to nominee purchaser or RTE company; in general.

1647. Conveyance to nominee purchaser or RTE company; in general.

Any conveyance<sup>1</sup> executed<sup>2</sup>, being a conveyance to the nominee purchaser<sup>3</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>4</sup>, to the RTE company<sup>5</sup>) of the freehold of the specified premises<sup>6</sup>, of a part of those premises or of any other property, must grant to the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) an estate in fee simple absolute in those premises, that part of those premises or that property, subject only to such incumbrances<sup>7</sup> as may have been agreed or determined<sup>8</sup> to be incumbrances subject to which that estate should be granted, having regard<sup>9</sup> to the following provisions<sup>10</sup>.

Any such conveyance must, where the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>11</sup>, the RTE company) is to acquire any leasehold interest in the specified premises, the part of the specified premises or, as the case may be, in the other property to which the conveyance relates, provide for the disposal<sup>12</sup> to the nominee purchaser (or to the RTE company) of any such interest<sup>13</sup>.

Any conveyance so executed has effect<sup>14</sup> to overreach any incumbrance capable of being overreached<sup>15</sup>:

3871 (1) as if, where the interest conveyed is settled land for the purposes of the Settled Land Act 1925<sup>16</sup>, the conveyance were made under the powers of that Act; and 3872 (2) as if the statutory requirements<sup>17</sup> as to payment of the capital money allowed any part of the purchase price paid or applied in discharge of existing mortgages<sup>18</sup> to be so paid or applied<sup>19</sup>.

A conveyance so executed may not be made subject to any incumbrance capable of being overreached by the conveyance, but must be made subject, where they are not capable of being overreached, to rentcharges redeemable under the Rentcharges Act 1977<sup>20</sup> and estate rentcharges and rentcharges imposed<sup>21</sup> under certain enactments<sup>22</sup>.

Except to the extent that any departure is agreed to by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>23</sup>, by the RTE company) and the person whose interest is to be conveyed, any conveyance so executed must conform<sup>24</sup> with the statutory requirements<sup>25</sup>; and any such conveyance must in addition include a statement that it is a conveyance executed for the purposes of the statutory provisions relating to collective enfranchisement<sup>26</sup>.

Burdens originating in tenure, and burdens in respect of the upkeep or regulation for the benefit of any locality of any land, building, structure, works, ways or watercourse are not, however, treated as incumbrances for these purposes; but any conveyance executed for the purposes of Pt I Ch I (as amended) must be made subject to any such burdens: s 34(5). As regards restrictive covenants<sup>1</sup>, the conveyance<sup>2</sup> must include:

- 3885 (1) such provisions, if any, as the freeholder<sup>3</sup> may require to secure that the nominee purchaser<sup>4</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>5</sup>, the RTE company<sup>6</sup>) is bound by, or to indemnify the freeholder against breaches of, restrictive covenants which:

- 3886 (2) such provisions, if any, as the freeholder or the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) may require to secure the continuance, with suitable adaptations, of restrictions arising by virtue of any such lease or collateral agreement as is mentioned in head (1)(a) above, being either:
- 247
96. (a) restrictions affecting the relevant premises which are capable of benefiting other property and, if enforceable only by the freeholder, are such as materially to enhance the value of the other property; or
97. (b) restrictions affecting other property which are such as materially to enhance the value of the relevant premises; and
- 248
- 3887 (3) such further restrictions as the freeholder may require to restrict the use of the relevant premises in a way which:
- 249
98. (a) will not interfere with the reasonable enjoyment of those premises as they have been enjoyed during the currency of the leases subject to which they are to be acquired; but
99. (b) will materially enhance the value of other property in which the freeholder has an interest at the relevant date<sup>11</sup>.

1652. Discharge of existing mortgages on transfer to nominee purchaser or RTE company.

Where any interest<sup>1</sup> is acquired<sup>2</sup> by the nominee purchaser<sup>3</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>4</sup>, by the RTE company<sup>5</sup>) the conveyance<sup>6</sup> by virtue of which it is so acquired is effective<sup>7</sup>, as regards any mortgage<sup>8</sup> to which these provisions apply:

3888 (1) to discharge the interest from the mortgage, and from the operation of any order made by a court for the enforcement of the mortgage; and

and does so without the persons entitled to or interested in the mortgage or in any such order or term of years becoming parties to or executing the conveyance<sup>9</sup>. These provisions apply<sup>10</sup> to any mortgage of the interest so acquired, however created or arising, which:

3890 (a) is a mortgage to secure the payment of money or the performance of any other obligation by the person from whom the interest is so acquired or any other person; and

but these provisions do not apply to any such mortgage if it has been agreed between the nominee purchaser and the reversioner<sup>12</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>13</sup>, between the RTE company and the reversioner) or, as the case may be, any other relevant landlord<sup>14</sup> that the interest in question should be acquired subject to the mortgage<sup>15</sup>.

8 For these purposes, 'mortgage' includes a charge or lien; but neither ibid s 35 (as amended) nor Sch 8 (as amended) applies to a rentcharge: s 35(4).

9 Ibid s 35(1) (s 35(1), (3) prospectively amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 124, Sch 8 paras 2, 24, as from a day to be appointed (see note 4 supra)). Where any interest is so discharged from a mortgage, without the obligations secured by the mortgage being satisfied by the receipt of the whole or part of the consideration payable, the discharge of that interest from the mortgage does not prejudice any right or remedy for the enforcement of those obligations against other property comprised in the same or any other security, nor prejudice any personal liability as principal or otherwise of the landlord or any other person: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 8 para 5(1). For these purposes, 'the consideration payable' means the consideration payable for the acquisition of the relevant interest; 'the landlord' means the person from whom the relevant interest is being acquired; and 'the relevant interest' means any such interest as is mentioned in Sch 8 para 2(1) (as amended) (see PARA 1653 post): Sch 8 para 1. ### 1653. Duty of nominee purchaser or RTE company to redeem mortgages.

Schedule 8 para 2(3) does not, however, have effect in relation to a charge in favour of trustees for debenture holders which, at the date of the conveyance by virtue of which the relevant interest is acquired by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed (see note 6 supra) by the RTE company), is (as regards that interest) a specific and not a floating charge: Sch 8 para 2(4) (as so amended). For the purpose of determining the amount payable in respect of any mortgage<sup>1</sup>, a person entitled to the benefit of such a mortgage is not permitted to exercise any right to consolidate that mortgage with a separate mortgage on other property<sup>2</sup>; and

3892 (1) at the date at which this title states the law, if the landlord<sup>3</sup> or any participating tenant<sup>4</sup> is himself entitled to the benefit of such a mortgage, it ranks for payment as it would if another person were entitled to it, and the nominee purchaser<sup>5</sup> is entitled to retain the appropriate amount in respect of any such mortgage of a participating tenant<sup>6</sup>; or

For the purpose of discharging any interest from such a mortgage, a person may be required to accept three months' or any longer notice of the intention to pay the whole or part of the principal secured by the mortgage, together with interest to the date of payment, notwithstanding that the terms of the security make other provision or no provision as to the time and manner of payment; but he is entitled, if he so requires, to receive such additional payment as is reasonable in the circumstances:

Where any interest<sup>1</sup> is to be discharged<sup>2</sup> from a mortgage<sup>3</sup> and a person is or may be entitled<sup>4</sup> in respect of the mortgage to receive the whole or part of the consideration payable<sup>5</sup>, then, if:

3896 (1) for any reason difficulty arises in ascertaining how much is payable in respect of the mortgage; or

3897 (2) for any other specified reason<sup>6</sup> difficulty arises in making a payment in respect of the mortgage, the nominee purchaser<sup>7</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>8</sup>, the RTE company<sup>9</sup>) may pay into court on account of the consideration payable the amount, if known, of the payment to be made in respect of the mortgage or, if that amount is not known, the whole of that consideration or such lesser amount as the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) thinks right in order to provide for that payment<sup>10</sup>.

Payment may be made into court in accordance with head (2) above where the difficulty arises for any of the following reasons, namely:

3898 (a) because a person who is or may be entitled to receive payment cannot be found or his identity cannot be ascertained;

3899 (b) because any such person refuses or fails to make out a title, or to accept payment and give a proper discharge, or to take any steps reasonably required of him to enable the sum payable to be ascertained and paid; or

3900 (c) because a tender of the sum payable cannot, by reason of complications in the title to it or the want of two or more trustees or for other reasons, be effected, or not without incurring or involving unreasonable cost or delay<sup>11</sup>.

The whole or part of the consideration payable must, however, be paid into court<sup>12</sup> by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>13</sup>, by the RTE company) if, before execution of the conveyance<sup>14</sup>, notice is given to him (or to it):

3901 (i) that the landlord<sup>15</sup>, or a person entitled to the benefit of a mortgage on the relevant interest<sup>16</sup>, requires him (or it) to do so for the purpose of protecting the rights of persons so entitled, or for reasons related to the bankruptcy or winding up of the landlord; or

3902 (ii) that steps have been taken to enforce any mortgage on the relevant interest by the bringing of proceedings in any court, or by the appointment of a receiver, or otherwise;

and, where payment into court is to be made by reason only of a notice under this provision, and the notice is given with reference to proceedings in a court specified in the notice other than a county court, payment must be made into the court so specified<sup>17</sup>.

In connection with the acquisition by him (or by it) of a freehold interest<sup>1</sup> in the specified premises<sup>2</sup>, the nominee purchaser<sup>3</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>4</sup>, the RTE company<sup>5</sup>) must grant to the person from whom the interest is acquired such leases<sup>6</sup> of flats<sup>7</sup> or other units<sup>8</sup> contained in those premises as are required by statute<sup>9</sup> to be so granted<sup>10</sup>.

Any such lease must be granted so as to take effect immediately after the acquisition by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>11</sup>, by the RTE company) of the freehold interest concerned<sup>12</sup>.

Where any flat or other unit demised under any such lease ('the relevant lease') is at the time of that acquisition subject to any existing lease, the relevant lease takes effect as a lease of the freehold reversion in respect of the flat or other unit<sup>13</sup>.

the nominee purchaser<sup>11</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>12</sup>, the RTE company<sup>13</sup>) must grant<sup>14</sup> to the freeholder a lease of the flat<sup>15</sup>.

1 For these purposes, 'the appropriate time', in relation to a flat or other unit contained in the specified premises, means the time when the freehold of the flat or other unit is acquired by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed (see note 11 infra), by the RTE company: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 36(1) (as amended), Sch 9 para 1(1) (definition substituted by the Housing Act 1996 s 107(4), Sch 10 para 20(1), (2)(a); prospectively amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 124, Sch 8 paras 2, 43, as from a day to be appointed (see note 12 infra)). 2 For the purposes of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 9 para 2 (as amended) only, any reference to a flat includes a reference to a unit, other than a flat, which is used as a dwelling: Sch 9 para 2(4). For the purposes of Sch 9 (as amended) (see the text and notes 3-15 infra; and PARA 1658 et seq post), any reference to a flat or other unit, in the context of the grant of a lease of it, includes any yard, garden, garage, outhouses and appurtenances belonging to or usually enjoyed with it and let with it immediately before the appropriate time: Sch 9 para 1(2). For the meaning of 'dwelling' see PARA 1533 note 2 ante; and for the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante. For the purposes of Pt I (ss 1-103) (as amended) (see PARA 1532 et seq ante, PARA 1658 et seq post), property is let with other property if the properties are let either under the same lease or under leases which, in accordance with s 7(6) (see PARA 1558 ante), are treated as a single lease: s 101(7).

3 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARA 1553 note 30 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'introductory tenancy' see PARA 1553 note 31 ante.

5 For these purposes, 'the freeholder', in relation to a flat or other unit contained in the specified premises, means the person who owns the freehold of the flat or other unit immediately before the appropriate time: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 9 para 1(1) (definition substituted by the Housing Act 1996 s 107(4), Sch 10 para 20(1), (2)(b)).

10 Ibid Sch 9 para 2(1)(b) (see head (b) in the text) has effect whether any such intermediate landlord, or the immediate landlord under the secure tenancy or the introductory tenancy, is or is not a qualifying tenant of the flat: Sch 9 para 2(2) (amended by the Housing Act 1996 (Consequential Amendments) Order 1997, SI 1997/74, art 2, Schedule para 9(d)(i), (ii)). ### 1668. Provision relating to secure and introductory tenants following leaseback.

The following provisions apply where a lease<sup>1</sup> is granted<sup>2</sup> to a public sector landlord<sup>3</sup>. Where:

3933 (2) that tenancy continues in force after the grant of that lease, the tenant<sup>9</sup> is deemed to have continued without interruption as tenant of the landlord under the secure tenancy or, as the case may be, under the introductory tenancy, despite the disposal<sup>10</sup> of the landlord's interest<sup>11</sup> which immediately preceded the grant of that lease<sup>12</sup>.

Where:

3934 (a) immediately before the appropriate time a person was a successor<sup>13</sup> in relation to a secure tenancy or an introductory tenancy of a flat contained in the demised premises; and

3935 (b) that person is, in connection with the grant of that lease, granted a new secure tenancy of that flat which is a tenancy for a term certain, that person is<sup>14</sup> also a successor in relation to the new tenancy<sup>15</sup>.

Where:

- 3936 (i) immediately before the appropriate time a person was the tenant under a secure tenancy or an introductory tenancy of a flat contained in the demised premises; and
- 3937 (ii) that person is, in connection with the grant of that lease, granted a new secure tenancy or introductory tenancy of that flat, then, for the purpose of determining whether either of the specified conditions<sup>16</sup> is satisfied, the new tenancy is not regarded as a new letting of the flat but is instead regarded as a continuation of the secure tenancy or introductory tenancy referred to in head (i) above<sup>17</sup>. Those conditions are:

- 3938 (A) the exception<sup>18</sup> to the right to buy in the case of letting in connection with employment; and
- 3939 (B) the exception<sup>19</sup> to the right to buy in the case of letting for occupation by a person of pensionable age etc<sup>20</sup>.

Compensation for postponement of termination in connection with ineffective claims.

(xiii) Landlord's Right to Compensation where Claim Ineffective

1669. Compensation for postponement of termination in connection with ineffective claims.

The following provisions apply where a claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>1</sup> in respect of any premises is made:

- 3940 (1) on or after 15 January 1999 by tenants<sup>2</sup> of flats<sup>3</sup> contained in the premises;
3941 (2) as from a day to be appointed<sup>4</sup>, by an RTE company<sup>5</sup>, and the claim is not effective<sup>6</sup>. A person who is a participating tenant<sup>7</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>8</sup>, a qualifying tenant<sup>9</sup> who is a participating member of the RTE company<sup>10</sup>) immediately before the claim ceases to have effect is liable to pay compensation if:

- 3942 (a) the claim was not made at least two years before the term date<sup>11</sup> of the lease<sup>12</sup> by virtue of which he is a qualifying tenant ('the existing lease'); and 3943 (b) any of the specified conditions<sup>13</sup> is met<sup>14</sup>.

The specified conditions are:

- 3944 (i) that the making of the claim<sup>15</sup> caused a notice of termination served by the landlord<sup>16</sup> in respect of the existing lease to cease to have effect and the date on which the claim ceases to have effect<sup>17</sup> is later than four months before the termination date specified in the notice;
3945 (ii) that the making of the claim prevented the service of an effective notice of termination<sup>18</sup> in respect of the existing lease, but did not cause a notice served<sup>19</sup> in respect of that lease to cease to have effect, and the date on which the claim ceases to have effect is a date later than six months before the term date of the existing lease; and 3946 (iii) that the existing lease has been continued<sup>20</sup> by virtue of the claim<sup>21</sup>.

Compensation under the above provisions becomes payable at the end of the appropriate period<sup>22</sup> and is the right of the person who is the tenant's immediate landlord<sup>23</sup> at that time<sup>24</sup>. The amount which a tenant is so liable to pay is equal to the difference between the rent for the appropriate period under the existing lease, and the rent which might reasonably be expected to be payable for that period were the property to which the existing lease relates let for a term equivalent to that period on the open market by a willing landlord on the following assumptions:

- 3947 (A) that no premium is payable in connection with the letting;
- 3948 (B) that the letting confers no security of tenure; and
- 3949 (C) that, except as otherwise provided by this provision, the letting is on the same terms as the existing lease<sup>25</sup>.

1 For these purposes, references to a claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement are to be taken as references to a notice given, or purporting to be given (whether by persons who are qualifying tenants or not), under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 1585 ante): s 37A(8)(a) (s 37A added by the Housing Act 1996 s 116, Sch 11 para 2(1); the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 37A(8)(a) prospectively amended, so as to repeal the words in parentheses, by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 180, Sch 14, as from a day to be appointed (see note 4 infra)).

2 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1533 note 2 ante.

4 Ie as from a day to be appointed under the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 181(1). At the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed.

5 As to RTE companies see PARAS 1581-1583 ante.

6 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 37A(1) (as added (see note 1 supra); s 37A(1), (2) prospectively amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002, s 124, Sch 8, PARAS 2, 26(1)-(3), as from a day to be appointed (see note 4 supra)). For these purposes, a claim to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement is not effective if it ceases to have effect for any reason other than (1) the application of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 23(4) (see PARA 1611 ante), s 30(4) (see PARA 1621 ante) or s 31(4) (see PARA 1622 ante); (2) the entry into a binding contract for the acquisition of the freehold and other interests falling to be acquired in pursuance of the claim; or (3) the making of an order under s 24(4)(a) or (b) (as amended) (see PARA 1612 ante) or s 25(6)(a) or (b) (as amended) (see PARA 1613 ante) which provides for the vesting of those interests: s 37A(8)(c) (as so added).

14 Ibid s 37A(2) (as added (see note 1 supra) and prospectively amended (see note 6 supra)).

15 In the case of a person who becomes a participating tenant by virtue of an election under ibid s 14(3) (prospectively repealed), the references in s 37A(3)(a) and (b) (as added) (see heads (i)-(ii) in the text) and s 37A(6)(b)(i) (as added) (see note 22 head (2)(a) infra) to the making of the claim are to be construed as references to the making of the election: s 37A(7) (as added (see note 1 supra); prospectively repealed by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 180, Sch 14, as from a day to be appointed (see note 4 supra)).

16 Ie under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 s 186, Sch 10 para 4(1): see PARA 1249 ante.

17 For these purposes, references to the date on which a claim ceases to have effect are, in the case of a claim made by a notice which is not a valid notice under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 13 (as amended) (see PARA 1585 ante), to be taken as references to the date on which the notice is set aside by the court or is withdrawn or would, if valid, cease to have effect or be deemed to have been withdrawn, that date being taken, where the notice is set aside, or would, if valid, cease to have effect, in consequence of a court order, to be the date when the order becomes final: s 37A(8)(b) (as added: see note 1 supra). ### 1670. Compensation where there has been change in the immediate reversion.

Where a tenant's<sup>1</sup> liability to pay compensation<sup>2</sup> relates to a period during which there has been a change in the interest<sup>3</sup> immediately expectant on the determination of his lease<sup>4</sup>, the provisions relating to payment of compensation for the postponement of termination<sup>5</sup> have effect with the following modifications<sup>6</sup>. Compensation<sup>7</sup> becomes payable at the end of the appropriate period<sup>8</sup> and there is a separate right to compensation in respect of each of the interests which, during that period, have been immediately expectant on the determination of the existing lease<sup>9</sup>. Such compensation:

3950 (1) in the case of the interest which is immediately expectant on the determination of the existing lease at the end of the appropriate period, is the right of the person in whom that interest is vested at that time; and the person in whom the interest was vested immediately before it ceased to be so expectant<sup>10</sup>.

The amount which the tenant is liable to pay<sup>11</sup> in respect of any interest is equal to the difference between:

- 3952 (a) the rent under the existing lease for the part of the appropriate period during which the interest was immediately expectant on the determination of that lease; and
- 3953 (b) the rent which might reasonably be expected to be payable for that part of that period were the property to which the existing lease relates let for a term equivalent to that part of that period on the open market by a willing landlord on the following assumptions:
- 255
104. (i) that no premium is payable in connection with the letting;
105. (ii) that the letting confers no security of tenure; and
106. (iii) that, except as otherwise provided by this provision, the letting is on the same terms as the existing lease<sup>12</sup>.

(6) INDIVIDUAL RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE

(i) In general

1671. Right of qualifying tenant of flat to acquire new lease.

The following provisions<sup>1</sup> have effect for the purpose of conferring on a tenant<sup>2</sup> of a flat<sup>3</sup>, in the specified circumstances<sup>4</sup>, the right, exercisable subject to and in accordance with the statutory provisions, to acquire a new lease<sup>5</sup> of the flat on payment<sup>6</sup> of a premium<sup>7</sup>. The specified circumstances are that on the relevant date<sup>8</sup> the tenant has for the last two years been a qualifying tenant<sup>9</sup> of the flat<sup>10</sup>. On the death of such a person, the right to acquire a new lease<sup>11</sup> is exercisable<sup>12</sup> by his personal representatives<sup>13</sup>.

The right so conferred on a tenant to acquire a new lease does not extend to underlying minerals comprised in his existing lease<sup>14</sup> if:

- 3954 (1) the landlord requires the minerals to be excepted; and
- 3955 (2) proper provision is made for the support of the premises demised by that existing lease as they are enjoyed on the relevant date<sup>15</sup>.

A person can be, or be among those constituting, the qualifying tenant of each of two or more flats at the same time for the statutory purposes, whether he is tenant of those flats under one lease or under two or more separate leases<sup>16</sup>.

1   Ie the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Pt I Ch II (ss 39-62) (as amended): see the text and notes 2-16 infra; and PARA 1672 et seq post.

2   For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

3   For these purposes, references to a flat, in relation to a claim by a tenant under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Pt I Ch II (as amended), include any garage, outhouse, garden, yard and appurtenances belonging to, or usually enjoyed with, the flat and let to the tenant with the flat on the relevant date or, in a case where an application is made under s 50(1) (see PARA 1697 post), on the date of the making of the application: s 62(2). Section 62(2) does not, however, apply (1) to any reference to a flat in s 47 (see PARA 1694 post) or s 55(1) (see PARA 1702 post); or (2) to any reference to a flat, not falling within head (1) supra, which occurs in the context of a reference to any premises containing the flat: s 62(3). An appurtenance for these purposes has to be within the curtilage of the block but need not be within the curtilage of the flat; nor is it essential that the appurtenance is capable of passing under an assignment of the flat without express mention: Cadogan v McGirk [1996] 4 All ER 643, [1996] 2 EGLR 75, CA (storeroom not within the general meaning of 'flat' (as to which see PARA 1533 note 2 ante) was an 'appurtenance' of the flat within the meaning of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 62(2)).

4   Ie the circumstances mentioned in ibid s 39(2) (as amended): see the text and notes 8-10 infra.

5   For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

6   Ie the payment of a premium determined in accordance with the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Pt I Ch II (as amended): see PARA 1705 et seq post.

7   Ibid s 39(1).

8   For these purposes, 'the relevant date', in relation to a claim by a tenant under ibid Pt I Ch II (as amended), means the date on which notice of the claim is given to the landlord under s 42 (as amended) (see PARA 1677 post): s 39(8). Unless the context otherwise requires, 'the relevant date' has the meaning given by s 39(8): s 62(1). See also PARA 1677 note 4 post. For the meaning of 'the landlord' see PARA 1672 post; and as to special categories of landlord see PARA 1545 et seq ante.

9   For these purposes, 'qualifying tenant' is to be construed in accordance with ibid s 39(3) (as amended): s 62(1). The following provisions, namely s 5 (as amended) (see PARA 1557 ante), with the omission of s 5(5), (6); and s 7 (as amended) (see PARA 1558 ante) apply for the purpose of determining whether a person is a qualifying tenant of a flat for the purposes of Pt I Ch II (as amended) as they apply for the purpose of determining whether a person is such a tenant for the purposes of Pt I Ch I (ss 1-38) (as amended) (see PARA 1552 et seq ante); and references to a qualifying tenant of a flat are to be construed by reference to those provisions: s 39(3) (amended by the Housing Act 1996 ss 106, 227, Sch 9 para 4(2), Sch 19 Pt V; the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 ss 131, 180, Sch 14; for transitional provisions and savings see the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 (Commencement No 1, Savings and Transitional Provisions) (England) Order 2002, SI 2002/1912, arts 1(2), 2(b), Sch 1 Pt 1, Sch 2 para 4; the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 (Commencement No 1, Savings and Transitional Provisions) (Wales) Order 2002, SI 2002/3012, arts 1(2), 2(b), Sch 1 Pt 1, Sch 2 para 4). Where two or more persons jointly constitute the qualifying tenant in relation to a lease of a flat, any reference to the qualifying tenant is, unless the context otherwise requires, a reference to both or all of the persons who jointly constitute the qualifying tenant: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 101(4).

10 Ibid s 39(2)(a) (amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 130(1), (2)).

11 Ie the right conferred by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Pt I Ch II (as amended).

12 Ie subject to and in accordance with ibid Pt I Ch II (as amended).

13 Ibid s 39(3A) (added by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 132(1)). Accordingly, in such a case references in the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Pt I Ch II to the tenant are, in so far as the context permits, to the personal representatives: s 39(3A) (as so added).

14 For these purposes, 'the existing lease', in relation to a claim by a tenant under ibid Pt I Ch II (as amended), means the lease in relation to which the claim is made: s 62(1).

(ii) The Landlord

1672. Meaning of 'the landlord'.

'The landlord', in relation to the lease<sup>1</sup> held by a qualifying tenant<sup>2</sup> of a flat<sup>3</sup>, means<sup>4</sup> the person who is the owner of that interest<sup>5</sup> in the flat which for the time being fulfils the following conditions, namely:

3956 (1) it is an interest in reversion expectant, whether immediately or not, on the termination of the tenant's lease<sup>6</sup>; and

and is not itself expectant, whether immediately or not, on an interest which fulfils those conditions<sup>8</sup>.

Where<sup>9</sup> the immediate landlord under the lease of a qualifying tenant of a flat is not the landlord in relation to that lease, the person who is<sup>10</sup> the landlord in relation to it must conduct on behalf of all the other landlords<sup>11</sup> all proceedings arising out of any notice given<sup>12</sup> by the tenant with respect to the flat, whether the proceedings are for resisting or giving effect to the claim in question<sup>13</sup>.

The statutory provisions relating to special categories of landlord<sup>14</sup> have effect for the purposes of the right to acquire a new lease<sup>15</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'qualifying tenant' see PARA 1671 note 9 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1671 note 3 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

6 For these purposes, 'the tenant' means any such tenant as is referred to in the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 40(2) (see the text and notes 9-13 infra); and 'the tenant's lease' means the lease by virtue of which he is a qualifying tenant: s 40(4)(a).

7 Ie in accordance with ibid Pt I Ch II (as amended).

8 Ibid s 40(1). 'The landlord', in relation to a claim by a tenant under Pt I Ch II (as amended), has the meaning given by s 40(1): s 62(1).

9 Ie in accordance with ibid s 40(1).

10 See note 4 supra.

11 For these purposes, 'other landlord' means any person, other than the tenant or a trustee for him, in whom there is vested a concurrent tenancy intermediate between the interest of the competent landlord and the tenant's lease (Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 40(4)(c)); and 'the competent landlord' means the person who, in relation to the tenant's lease, is the landlord, as defined by s 40(1), for the purposes of Pt I Ch II (as amended) (s 40(4)(b)).

12 Ie under ibid s 42 (as amended): see PARA 1677 post.

13 Ibid s 40(2). Section 40(2) has effect subject to the provisions of s 40(3), Sch 11 (see PARA 1673 et seq post): s 40(3).

The authority given to the competent landlord by s 40(2) does not extend to the bringing of proceedings under s 47(1) (see PARA 1694 post) on behalf of any of the other landlords, or preclude any of those landlords from bringing proceedings under that provision on his own behalf as if he were the competent landlord: Sch 11 para 9(1).

Any notice given<sup>1</sup> by the competent landlord<sup>2</sup> to the tenant<sup>3</sup>, any agreement<sup>4</sup> between that landlord and the tenant and any determination of the court or a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>5</sup> in proceedings between that landlord and the tenant, is binding<sup>6</sup> on the other landlords<sup>7</sup> and on their interests<sup>8</sup> in the property demised by the tenant's lease<sup>9</sup> or any other property; but in the event of dispute the competent landlord or any of the other landlords may apply to the court for directions as to the manner in which the competent landlord should act in the dispute<sup>10</sup>.

If any of the other landlords cannot be found, or his identity cannot be ascertained, the competent landlord must apply to the court for directions and the court may make such order as it thinks proper with a view to giving effect to the rights of the tenant and protecting the interests of other persons; but, subject to any such directions, the competent landlord must proceed as in other cases<sup>11</sup>.

The competent landlord, if he acts in good faith and with reasonable care and diligence, is not liable to any of the other landlords for any loss or damage caused by any act or omission in the exercise or intended exercise of the authority given<sup>12</sup> to him<sup>13</sup>.

(iii) Preliminary Inquiries by Qualifying Tenant

1676. Right of qualifying tenant to obtain information about superior interests etc.

A qualifying tenant<sup>1</sup> of a flat<sup>2</sup> may give to his immediate landlord<sup>3</sup> or to any person receiving rent on behalf of his immediate landlord, a notice requiring the recipient to state whether the immediate landlord is the owner of the freehold interest<sup>4</sup> in the flat and, if not, to give the tenant the specified information<sup>5</sup>, so far as known to the recipient<sup>6</sup>.

The information so specified is:

- 3962 (1) the name and address in England and Wales of the person who owns the freehold interest in the flat;
- 3963 (2) the duration of the leasehold interest in the flat of the tenant's immediate landlord and the extent of the premises in which it subsists; and
- 3964 (3) the name and address of every person who has a leasehold interest in the flat which is superior to that of the tenant's immediate landlord, the duration of any such interest and the extent of the premises in which it subsists<sup>7</sup>.

If the immediate landlord of any such qualifying tenant is not the owner of the freehold interest in the flat, the tenant may also:

- 3965 (a) give to the person who is the owner of that interest a notice requiring him to give the tenant such information as is mentioned in head (3) above, so far as known to that person;

3966 (b) give to any person falling within head (3) above a notice requiring him to give the tenant particulars of the duration of his leasehold interest in the flat and the extent of the premises in which it subsists and, so far as known to him, such information as is mentioned in head (1) above and, as regards any other person falling within head (3) above, such information as is mentioned therein<sup>8</sup>.

Any notice so given by a qualifying tenant must also<sup>9</sup> require the recipient to state:

3967 (i) whether he has received in respect of any premises containing the tenant's flat a notice claiming to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>10</sup> or a copy of such a notice; and, if so

3968 (ii) the date on which that notice was given and:

107. (A) at the date at which this title states the law, the name and address of the nominee purchaser appointed<sup>11</sup> in relation to that claim<sup>12</sup>; or

108. (B) as from a day to be appointed<sup>13</sup>, the name and registered office of the RTE company by which it was given<sup>14</sup>.

Any person who is required to give any information by virtue of such a notice must give that information to the qualifying tenant within the period of 28 days beginning with the date of the giving of the notice<sup>15</sup>.

(iv) The Tenant's Notice

A. IN GENERAL

1677. Notice by qualifying tenant of claim to exercise right.

A claim by a qualifying tenant<sup>1</sup> of a flat<sup>2</sup> to exercise the right to acquire a new lease<sup>3</sup> of the flat is made by the giving of notice of the claim under the following provisions<sup>4</sup>.

A notice so given by a tenant ('the tenant's notice') must be given to the landlord<sup>5</sup> and to any third party<sup>6</sup> to the tenant's lease<sup>7</sup>.

The tenant's notice must:

3969 (1) state the full name of the tenant and the address of the flat in respect of which he claims<sup>8</sup> a new lease<sup>9</sup>;

3970 (2) contain the following particulars, namely:

109. (a) sufficient particulars of that flat to identify the property to which the claim extends;

110. (b) such particulars of the tenant's lease as are sufficient to identify it, including the date on which the lease was entered into, the term for which it was granted and the date of the commencement of the term<sup>10</sup>;

3971 (3) specify the premium which the tenant proposes to pay in respect of the grant of a new lease<sup>11</sup> and, where any other amount will be payable by him<sup>12</sup>, the amount which he proposes to pay<sup>13</sup>;

3972 (4) specify the terms which the tenant proposes should be contained in any such lease<sup>14</sup>;

3973 (5) state the name of the person, if any, appointed by the tenant to act for him in connection with his claim, and an address in England and Wales at which notices may be given<sup>15</sup> to any such person<sup>16</sup>; and 3974 (6) specify the date<sup>17</sup> by which the landlord must respond to the notice by giving<sup>18</sup> a counter-notice<sup>19</sup>.

Such a notice may not be given by the personal representatives of a tenant later than two years after the grant of probate or letters of administration<sup>20</sup>.

Where a notice has been so given with respect to any flat, no subsequent notice may be given with respect to the flat so long as the earlier notice continues in force<sup>21</sup>.

Where a notice has been so given with respect to a flat and:

- 3975 (i) that notice has been withdrawn, or is deemed to have been withdrawn<sup>22</sup>; or
- 3976 (ii) in response to that notice, an order has been applied for and obtained under the statutory provisions relating to redevelopment<sup>23</sup>, no subsequent notice may be given with respect to the flat within the period of 12 months beginning with the date of the withdrawal or deemed withdrawal of the earlier notice or with the time when the order<sup>24</sup> becomes final<sup>25</sup>, as the case may be<sup>26</sup>.

Where a notice is so given, the notice continues in force<sup>27</sup> as from the relevant date<sup>28</sup>:

- 3977 (A) until a new lease is granted in pursuance of the notice;
- 3978 (B) if the notice is withdrawn, or is deemed to have been withdrawn<sup>29</sup>, until the date of the withdrawal or deemed withdrawal; or
- 3979 (C) until such other time as the notice ceases<sup>30</sup> to have effect<sup>31</sup>.

2 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1671 note 3 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

4 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 42(1). As to the giving of notices see PARA 1541 ante. A personal signature is required: see St Ermins Property Co v Tingay [2002] EWHC 1673 (Ch), [2002] 3 EGLR 53 (notice signed by tenant's son under a power of attorney was invalid).

The Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 42(9), Sch 12 (see PARA 1682 et seq post), which contains restrictions on terminating a tenant's lease where he has given notice under s 42 (as amended) and makes other provision in connection with the giving of notices under s 42 (as amended), has effect: s 42(9).

The tenant's notice under s 42 (as amended) is regarded as given to the competent landlord for the purposes of s 42(2)(a) if it is given to any of the other landlords instead; and references in Pt I Ch II (ss 39-62) (as amended) to the relevant date are to be construed accordingly: s 40(3), Sch 11 para 1. For the meaning of 'the competent landlord' and 'other landlord' see PARA 1672 note 11 ante.

In a transaction undertaken to give effect to a tenant's notice the landlord and the tenant are bound, unless they agree otherwise, by the Leasehold Reform (Collective Enfranchisement and Lease Renewal) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2407, reg 3, Sch 2 (as amended): reg 3. See PARAS 1691, 1704 post.

Where the benefit and obligation of a tenant's notice is assigned to a subsequent purchaser after the deposit has been paid to the landlord, the purchaser is under an obligation, if he obtains the benefit of the new lease in due course, to pay the whole of the premium to the landlord, regardless of the deposit that has been put up, and the amount of the deposit is recoverable by the vendor: see Money v Westholme Investments Ltd [2003] All ER (D) 317 (Feb), (2003) 147 Sol Jo LB 357, CA.

5 For the meaning of 'the landlord' see PARA 1672 ante. As to special categories of landlord see PARA 1545 et seq ante.

6 For these purposes, 'third party', in relation to a lease, means any person who is a party to the lease apart from the tenant under the lease and his immediate landlord: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 62(1).

7 Ibid ss 42(2), 62(1). The notice must be served on the landlord and the third party at the same time: Keepers and Governors of the Possessions Revenues and Goods of the Free Grammar School of John Lyon v Secchi (1999) 32 HLR 820, [1999] All ER (D) 1087, CA.

A recipient of the tenant's notice<sup>1</sup> or of a copy of it, including a person receiving a copy under these provisions:

- 3980 (1) must forthwith give a copy to any person who is known or believed by him to be the competent landlord<sup>2</sup> or one of the other landlords<sup>3</sup> and is not stated in the recipient's copy of the notice, or known by him, to have received a copy; and

The above provisions do not, however, apply where the recipient is neither the competent landlord nor one of the other landlords<sup>6</sup>.

Where a person gives any copies of the tenant's notice in accordance with head (1) above, he must:

- 3982 (a) supplement the statement to be included in his notice<sup>7</sup> by adding any further persons to whom he is giving copies or who are known by him to have received one; and

1682. Prior notice by tenant terminating lease.

A notice given<sup>1</sup> by a qualifying tenant<sup>2</sup> of a flat<sup>3</sup> is of no effect if it is given:

3990 (1) after the tenant has given notice terminating the lease<sup>4</sup> of the flat, other than a notice that has been superseded by the grant, express or implied, of a new tenancy; or

3991 (2) during the subsistence of an agreement for the grant to the tenant of a future tenancy of the flat, where the agreement is one to which the Local Government and Housing Act 1989<sup>5</sup> applies<sup>6</sup>.

1 le under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 42 (as amended): see PARA 1677 ante. For these purposes, references to a notice under s 42 (as amended) include, in so far as the context permits, references to a notice purporting to be given under s 42 (as amended), whether by a qualifying tenant or not; and references to the tenant by whom a notice is given are to be construed accordingly: s 42(9), Sch 12 para 8(1)(a).

1683. Prior notice by landlord terminating lease.

A notice given<sup>1</sup> by a qualifying tenant<sup>2</sup> of a flat<sup>3</sup> is of no effect<sup>4</sup> if it is given more than two months after a landlord's<sup>5</sup> notice terminating the tenant's lease<sup>6</sup> of the flat has been given under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954<sup>7</sup> or served under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989<sup>8</sup>, whether or not the notice has effect to terminate the lease<sup>9</sup>.

Where in the case of a qualifying tenant of a flat who gives such a notice:

- 3992 (1) any such landlord's notice is so given or served; but 3993 (2) that notice was not given or served more than two months before the date on which the tenant's notice is given to the landlord, the landlord's notice ceases to have effect on that date<sup>10</sup>.

If any such landlord's notice ceases so to have effect, but the claim made by the tenant by the giving of his notice is not effective<sup>11</sup>, then, in the case of any landlord's notice terminating the tenant's lease of the flat which is given under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954<sup>12</sup> or served under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989<sup>13</sup> and is so given or served within one month after the expiry of the period of currency of that claim<sup>14</sup>, the earliest date which may be specified in the notice as the date of termination is:

- 3994 (a) in the case of a notice given under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954, the date of termination specified in the previous notice or the date of expiry of the period of three months beginning with the date of the giving of the new notice, whichever is the later; or 3995 (b) in the case of a notice served under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989, the date of termination specified in the previous notice or the date of expiry of the period of four months beginning with the date of service of the new notice, whichever is the later<sup>15</sup>.

1684. Orders for possession and pending proceedings for forfeiture etc.

A notice given<sup>1</sup> by a qualifying tenant<sup>2</sup> of a flat<sup>3</sup> is of no effect if, at the time when it is given, he is obliged to give up possession of his flat in pursuance of an order of a court or will be so obliged at a date specified in such an order<sup>4</sup>.

Except with the leave of the court, a qualifying tenant of a flat may not give such a notice at a time when any proceedings are pending to enforce a right of re-entry or forfeiture terminating his lease of the flat<sup>5</sup>. Leave may only be so granted if the court is satisfied that the tenant does not wish to give such a notice solely or mainly for the purpose of avoiding the consequences of the breach of the terms of his lease in respect of which proceedings are pending<sup>6</sup>. If:

3996 (1) leave is so granted; and 3997 (2) the tenant by such a notice makes a claim to acquire a new lease of his flat, the tenant's lease is deemed for the purposes of the claim to be a subsisting lease despite the existence of those proceedings and any order made afterwards in those proceedings; and, if the claim is effective<sup>7</sup>, the court in which those proceedings were brought may set aside or vary any such order to such extent and on such terms as appear to that court to be appropriate<sup>8</sup>.

RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE/(iv) The Tenant's Notice/B. EFFECT OF TENANT'S NOTICE/1689. Assignability.

1689. Assignability.

Where a notice has been given<sup>1</sup> claiming to exercise the right to acquire a new lease with respect to any flat<sup>2</sup>, the rights and obligations of the landlord<sup>3</sup> and the tenant<sup>4</sup> arising from the notice enure for the benefit of and are enforceable against them, their personal representatives and assigns to the like extent, but no further, as rights and obligations arising under a contract for leasing freely entered into between the landlord and the tenant<sup>5</sup>.

The rights and obligations of the tenant are<sup>6</sup>, however, assignable with, but are not capable of subsisting apart from, the lease<sup>7</sup> of the entire flat; and, if the tenant's lease is assigned without the benefit of the notice, the notice is accordingly deemed to have been withdrawn by the tenant as at the date of the assignment<sup>8</sup>.

In the event of any default by the landlord or the tenant in carrying out the obligations arising from the tenant's notice, the other of them has the like rights and remedies as in the case of a contract freely entered into<sup>9</sup>.

In a case to which s 40(2) (see PARA 1672 ante) applies, the rights and obligations of the landlord arising out of the tenant's notice are, so far as their interests are affected, rights and obligations respectively of the competent landlord and of each of the other landlords, and references to the landlord apply accordingly: s 43(5). For these purposes, 'competent landlord' and 'other landlord' have the meaning given by s 40(4) (see PARA 1672 note 11 ante); and s 43(5) has effect without prejudice to the operation of s 40(2) or Sch 11 (see PARA 1672 et seq ante): s 43(6). Once the tenant's notice<sup>1</sup> or a copy of it has been given<sup>2</sup> to the landlord<sup>3</sup> or to any other landlord<sup>4</sup>, that landlord and any person authorised to act on his behalf has a right of access to the flat<sup>5</sup> to which the notice relates for the purposes of enabling that landlord to obtain, in connection with the notice, a valuation of his interest<sup>6</sup> in the flat<sup>7</sup>.

That right is exercisable at any reasonable time and on giving not less than three days' notice to the tenant<sup>8</sup>.

1691. Deposit and tenant's title.

In a transaction undertaken to give effect to a tenant's notice, the landlord and the tenant are, unless they otherwise agree, bound by the following provisions<sup>1</sup>.

The landlord<sup>2</sup> may give to the tenant<sup>3</sup> a notice requiring him to pay a deposit on account of the premium payable for the lease at any time when the tenant's notice continues<sup>4</sup> in force<sup>5</sup>. The amount of the deposit must be £250, or 10 per cent of the amount proposed in the tenant's notice as payable on the grant of the lease<sup>6</sup>, whichever is the greater<sup>7</sup>. The tenant must pay the deposit so required to the landlord's solicitor or licensed conveyancer as stakeholder within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the notice is given<sup>8</sup>.

The tenant may<sup>9</sup> give to the landlord a notice requiring him to procure the return of the deposit to the tenant at any time after the tenant's notice is withdrawn, deemed to have been withdrawn or otherwise ceases to have effect<sup>10</sup>; and the landlord must comply with any such requirement within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the notice is given<sup>11</sup>. The landlord is, however, entitled to have deducted from the deposit any amount due to him from the tenant<sup>12</sup> in respect of his costs<sup>13</sup>.

The landlord may require the tenant to deduce his title to his tenancy, by giving him notice within the period of 21 days beginning with the relevant date<sup>14</sup>; and the tenant must comply with any such requirement within the period of 21 days beginning with the date the notice is given<sup>15</sup>.

1692. Landlord's counter-notice.

4005 (1) state that the landlord admits that the tenant had on the relevant date<sup>5</sup> the right to acquire a new lease<sup>6</sup> of his flat<sup>7</sup>;

4006 (2) state that, for such reasons as are specified in the counter-notice, the landlord does not admit that the tenant had such a right on that date;

- 4007 (3) contain such a statement as is mentioned in head (1) or head (2) above but state that the landlord intends to make an application for an order<sup>8</sup> on the grounds that he intends to redevelop any premises in which the flat is contained<sup>9</sup>.

If the counter-notice complies with the requirement set out in head (1) above, it must in addition:

- 4008 (a) state which, if any, of the proposals contained in the tenant's notice are accepted by the landlord and which, if any, of those proposals are not so accepted; and 4009 (b) specify, in relation to each proposal which is not accepted, the landlord's counter-proposal<sup>10</sup>.

The counter-notice must specify an address in England and Wales at which notices may be given<sup>11</sup> to the landlord<sup>12</sup>.

Where the counter-notice admits the tenant's right to acquire a new lease of his flat, the admission is binding on the landlord as to the specified matters<sup>13</sup>, unless the landlord shows that he was induced to make the admission by misrepresentation or the concealment of material facts; but the admission does not conclude any question whether the particulars of the flat stated in the tenant's notice<sup>14</sup> are correct<sup>15</sup>.

It has been held that the tenant may waive the statutory requirement that a counter-notice be served by the competent landlord<sup>16</sup>.

In s 45(2)(c) (see head (3) in the text) any reference to the competent landlord includes a reference to any of the other landlords or to any two or more of the following, namely the competent landlord and the other landlords, acting together; and in s 47(1), (2) references to the landlord are to be construed accordingly; but, if any of the other landlords intends to make such an application as is mentioned in s 45(2)(c), whether alone or together with any other person or persons, his name must be stated in the counter-notice: Sch 11 para 9(2).

In order to comply with s 45(2)(a), (3), a landlord's counter-notice must state (1) that the landlord admits that the tenant had on the relevant date the right to acquire a new lease of his flat, and (2) which (if any) of the proposals contained in the tenant's notice have been accepted by the landlord: see Burman v Mount Cook Land Ltd [2001] EWCA Civ 1712, [2002] Ch 256, [2002] 1 All ER 144 (where the counter-notice was held to be invalid).

(vi) Applications to Court or Leasehold Valuation Tribunal

1693. Proceedings relating to validity of tenant's notice.

Where:

- 4010 (1) the landlord<sup>1</sup> has given<sup>2</sup> the tenant<sup>3</sup> a counter-notice which<sup>4</sup> contains a statement that, for such reasons as are specified in the counter-notice, the landlord does not admit that the tenant had a right to acquire a new lease of his flat<sup>5</sup>; and
- 4011 (2) the court<sup>6</sup> is satisfied, on an application made by the landlord, that on the relevant date<sup>7</sup> the tenant had no right<sup>8</sup> to acquire a new lease of his flat, the court must by order make a declaration to that effect<sup>9</sup>.

Any application for such an order must be made not later than the end of the period of two months beginning with the date of the giving of the counter-notice to the tenant; and, if, in a case falling within head (1) above, either:

- 4012 (a) no application for such an order is made by the landlord within that period;
or 4013 (b) such an application is so made but is subsequently withdrawn, the statutory provisions relating to the landlord's failure to give a counter-notice or a further counter-notice<sup>10</sup> apply as if the landlord had not given the counter-notice<sup>11</sup>.

If on any such application the court makes such a declaration, the tenant's notice ceases to have effect on the order becoming final<sup>12</sup>.

If, however, any such application is dismissed by the court, the court must make<sup>13</sup> an order:

- 4014 (i) declaring that the landlord's counter-notice is of no effect; and 4015 (ii) requiring the landlord to give a further counter-notice to the tenant by such date as is specified in the order<sup>14</sup>.

13 Ie subject to ibid s 46(5): see note 14 infra.

14 Ibid s 46(4). Section 45(3) (see PARA 1692 ante) applies to any further counter-notice required to be given by the landlord under s 46(4) as if it were a counter-notice under s 45 (as amended) complying with the requirement set out in s 45(2)(a) (see PARA 1692 ante at head (1) in the text): s 46(6). Section 46(4) does not, however, apply if (1) the counter-notice complies with the requirement set out in s 45(2)(c); and (2) either an application for an order under s 47(1) (see PARA 1694 post) is pending or the period specified in s 47(3) (see PARA 1694 post) as the period for the making of such an application has not expired: s 46(5).

1694. Application to defeat tenant's claim where landlord intends to redevelop.

Where the landlord<sup>1</sup> has given<sup>2</sup> the tenant<sup>3</sup> a counter-notice which contains the requisite statement but states that the landlord intends to make an application to the court for an order on the grounds that he intends to redevelop any premises in which the flat is contained<sup>4</sup>, the court<sup>5</sup> may, on the application of the landlord, by order declare that the right to acquire a new lease<sup>6</sup> shall not be exercisable by the tenant by reason of the landlord's intention to redevelop any premises in which the tenant's flat<sup>7</sup> is contained; and, on such an order becoming final<sup>8</sup>, the tenant's notice ceases to have effect<sup>9</sup>.

Any application for such an order must be made within the period of two months beginning with the date of the giving of the counter-notice to the tenant; but, where the counter-notice contains the specified statement<sup>10</sup>, such an application may not be proceeded with until such time, if any, as any order dismissing an application as to the validity of the tenant's claim<sup>11</sup> becomes final<sup>12</sup>.

The court may not make an order under the above provisions<sup>13</sup> unless it is satisfied:

- 4016 (1) that the tenant's lease of his flat is due to terminate within the period of five years beginning with the relevant date<sup>14</sup>; and
- 4017 (2) that for the purposes of redevelopment the landlord intends, once the lease has so terminated, to demolish or reconstruct, or to carry out substantial works of construction on, the whole or a substantial part of any premises in which the flat is contained; and
- 4018 (3) that he could not reasonably do so without obtaining possession of the flat<sup>15</sup>.

Where an application for such an order is dismissed by the court, the court must make an order:

- 4019 (a) declaring that the landlord's counter-notice is of no effect; and
- 4020 (b) requiring the landlord to give a further counter-notice to the tenant by such date as is specified in the order<sup>16</sup>.

Where the landlord has given such a counter-notice<sup>17</sup> but either:

- 4021 (i) no application for an order<sup>18</sup> is made within the specified period<sup>19</sup>; or
- 4022 (ii) such an application is so made but is subsequently withdrawn, the landlord must give<sup>20</sup> a further counter-notice to the tenant within the period of two months beginning with the appropriate date<sup>21</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(6) INDIVIDUAL RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE/ (vi) Applications to Court or Leasehold Valuation Tribunal/1695. Applications where terms in dispute or failure to enter into new lease.

1695. Applications where terms in dispute or failure to enter into new lease.

Where the landlord<sup>1</sup> has given the tenant<sup>2</sup>:

- 4023 (1) a counter-notice<sup>3</sup> which states that the landlord admits that the tenant had on the relevant date the right to acquire a new lease of his flat<sup>4</sup>; or
- 4024 (2) a further counter-notice<sup>5</sup>, but any of the terms of acquisition<sup>6</sup> remain in dispute at the end of the period of two months beginning with the date when the counter-notice or further counter-notice was so given, a leasehold valuation tribunal may, on the application of either the tenant or the landlord, determine the matters in dispute<sup>7</sup>.

Any such application must be made not later than the end of the period of six months beginning with the date on which the counter-notice or further counter-notice was given to the tenant<sup>8</sup>. As well as the general particulars to be included with an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>9</sup>, the following documents and particulars must be included with an application under the above provisions:

- 4025 (a) a copy of any notice served in relation to the enfranchisement;
- 4026 (b) the name and address of the freeholder and any intermediate landlord;
- 4027 (c) the name and address of any person having a mortgage or other charge over an interest in the premises the subject of the application held by the freeholder or other landlord; and
- 4028 (d) a copy of the lease<sup>10</sup>.

The tribunal may, however, dispense with or relax any of the requirements of heads (a) to (d) above if satisfied that the particulars and documents included with an application are sufficient to enable the application to be determined and that no prejudice will, or is likely to, be caused to any party to the application<sup>11</sup>.

Where:

- 4029 (i) the landlord has given the tenant such a counter-notice or further counter-notice as is mentioned in head (1) or head (2) above; and
- 4030 (ii) all the terms of acquisition have been either agreed between those persons or determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal, but a new lease has not been entered into in pursuance of the tenant's notice by the end of the appropriate period<sup>12</sup>, the court<sup>13</sup> may, on the application of either the tenant or the landlord, make such order as it thinks fit with respect to the performance or discharge of any obligations arising out of that notice<sup>14</sup>.

Any application for such an order must be made not later than the end of the period of two months beginning immediately after the end of the appropriate period<sup>15</sup>; and any such order may provide for the tenant's notice to be deemed to have been withdrawn at the end of the appropriate period<sup>16</sup>.

6 For these purposes, 'the terms of acquisition', in relation to a claim by a tenant under ibid Pt I Ch II (ss 39-62) (as amended) (see PARA 1671 et seq ante, PARA 1696 et seq post), means the terms on which the tenant is to acquire a new lease of his flat, whether they relate to the terms to be contained in the lease or to the premium or any other amount payable by virtue of s 56(1), Sch 13 (as amended) (see PARA 1705 et seq post) in connection with the grant of the lease, or otherwise: ss 48(7), 62(1). 4032 (2) if required<sup>6</sup> to give a further counter-notice to the tenant, the landlord has failed to comply with that requirement, the court<sup>7</sup> may, on the application of the tenant, make an order determining, in accordance with the proposals contained in the tenant's notice, the terms of acquisition<sup>8</sup>.

Any application for such an order must be made not later than the end of the period of six months beginning with the date by which the counter-notice or further counter-notice was required to be given<sup>9</sup>.

The court may not make such an order on an application made by virtue of head (1) above unless it is satisfied:

- 4033 (a) that on the relevant date<sup>10</sup> the tenant had the right to acquire a new lease<sup>11</sup> of his flat<sup>12</sup>; and
- 4034 (b) if applicable, that the statutory requirements relating to procedure on the tenant's notice<sup>13</sup> were complied with as respects the giving of copies of the tenant's notice<sup>14</sup>.

Where:

- 4035 (i) the terms of acquisition have been determined by an order of the court; but
- 4036 (ii) a new lease has not been entered into in pursuance of the tenant's notice by the end of the appropriate period<sup>15</sup>, the court may, on the application of either the tenant or the landlord, make such order as it thinks fit with respect to the performance or discharge of any obligations arising out of that notice<sup>16</sup>.

Where:

- 4037 (1) a qualifying tenant<sup>1</sup> of a flat<sup>2</sup> desires to make a claim to exercise the right to acquire a new lease<sup>3</sup> of his flat; but
- 4038 (2) the landlord<sup>4</sup> cannot be found or his identity cannot be ascertained, the court<sup>5</sup> may, on the application of the tenant, make a vesting order<sup>6</sup>.

Where:

- 4039 (a) a qualifying tenant of a flat desires to make such a claim; and
- 4040 (b) head (2) above does not apply; but
- 4041 (c) a copy of a notice of that claim cannot be given<sup>7</sup> to any person to whom it would otherwise be required to be so given because that person cannot be found or his identity cannot be ascertained, the court may, on the application of the tenant, make an order dispensing with the need to give a copy of such a notice to that person<sup>8</sup>.

The court may not make an order on any such application unless it is satisfied:

- 4042 (i) that on the date of the making of the application the tenant had the right to acquire a new lease of his flat; and
- 4043 (ii) that on that date he would not have been precluded<sup>9</sup> from giving<sup>10</sup> a valid notice with respect to his flat<sup>11</sup>.

Before making any such order, the court may require the tenant to take such further steps by way of advertisement or otherwise as the court thinks proper for the purpose of tracing the person in question; and, if, after an application is made for a vesting order and before any lease is executed in pursuance of the application, the landlord is traced, no further proceedings may be taken with a view to a lease being so executed, but<sup>12</sup>:

4044 (A) the rights and obligations of all parties must be determined as if the tenant had, at the date of the application, duly given notice<sup>13</sup> of his claim to exercise the right to acquire a new lease of his flat; and 4045 (B) the court may give such directions as it thinks fit as to the steps to be taken for giving effect to those rights and obligations, including directions modifying or dispensing with<sup>14</sup> any of the statutory requirements<sup>15</sup>.

An application for a vesting order may be withdrawn at any time before execution of a lease<sup>16</sup> and, after it is withdrawn, head (A) above does not apply; but, where any step is taken, whether by the landlord or the tenant, for the purpose of giving effect to head (A) above in the case of any application, the application may not afterwards be withdrawn except with the consent of the landlord or by leave of the court; and the court may not give leave unless it appears to the court just to do so by reason of matters coming to the knowledge of the tenant in consequence of the tracing of the landlord<sup>17</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(6) INDIVIDUAL RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE/ (vi) Applications to Court or Leasehold Valuation Tribunal/1698. Vesting orders.

1698. Vesting orders.

A vesting order<sup>1</sup> is an order providing for the surrender of the tenant's<sup>2</sup> lease<sup>3</sup> of his flat<sup>4</sup> and for the granting to him of a new lease of it on such terms as may be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal to be appropriate with a view to the lease being granted to him in like manner, so far as the circumstances permit, as if he had, at the date of his application, given notice<sup>5</sup> of his claim to exercise the right to acquire a new lease of his flat<sup>6</sup>. If a leasehold tribunal so determines in the case of such a vesting order, the order has effect in relation to property which is less extensive than that specified in the application on which the order was made<sup>7</sup>.

In connection with the determination by a leasehold valuation tribunal of any question as to the property to be demised by any such lease, or as to the rights with or subject to which it is to be demised, it is to be assumed, unless the contrary is shown, that the landlord<sup>8</sup> has no interest<sup>9</sup> in property other than the property to be demised and, for the purpose of excepting them from the lease, any minerals underlying that property<sup>10</sup>.

Where any lease is to be granted to a tenant by virtue of such a vesting order, then, on his paying into court the appropriate sum, there must be executed by such person as the court<sup>11</sup> may designate a lease which:

- 4046 (1) is in a form approved by a leasehold valuation tribunal; and
- 4047 (2) contains such provisions as may be so approved for the purpose of giving effect so far as possible to the statutory requirements<sup>12</sup>; and that lease is effective to vest in the person to whom it is granted the property expressed to be demised by it, subject to and in accordance with the terms of the lease<sup>13</sup>.

The appropriate sum to be so paid into court is the aggregate of:

- 4048 (a) such amount as may be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal to be the premium which is payable<sup>14</sup> in respect of the grant of the new lease;
- 4049 (b) such other amount or amounts, if any, as may be determined by such a tribunal to be payable<sup>15</sup> in connection with the grant of that lease; and
- 4050 (c) any amounts or estimated amounts determined by such a tribunal as being, at the time of execution of that lease, due to the landlord from the tenant, whether due under or in respect of the tenant's lease of his flat or under or in respect of any agreement collateral thereto<sup>16</sup>.

Where any lease is so granted to a person, the payment into court of the appropriate sum is to be taken to have satisfied any claims against the tenant, his personal representatives or assigns in respect of the premium and any other amounts payable as mentioned in heads (a) and (b) above<sup>17</sup>.

1699. Withdrawal by tenant from acquisition of new lease.

At any time before a new lease<sup>1</sup> is entered into in pursuance of the tenant's notice<sup>2</sup>, the tenant may withdraw that notice by the giving of a notice to that effect ('a notice of withdrawal')<sup>3</sup>.

A notice of withdrawal must be given:

- 4051 (1) to the landlord<sup>4</sup>;
- 4052 (2) to every other landlord<sup>5</sup>; and
- 4053 (3) to any third party<sup>6</sup> to the tenant's lease<sup>7</sup>.

Where a notice of withdrawal is so given by the tenant to any person, the tenant's liability<sup>8</sup> for costs incurred by that person is a liability for costs incurred by him down to the time when the notice is given to him<sup>9</sup>.

Where:

4054 (1) the landlord has given the tenant a counter-notice or further counter-notice and any of the terms of acquisition remain in dispute<sup>1</sup> but no application to a leasehold valuation tribunal is made<sup>2</sup> within the specified period<sup>3</sup>; or

4055 (2) the landlord has given the tenant a counter-notice or further counter-notice and all the terms of acquisition have either been agreed between those persons or determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal but a new lease has not been entered into<sup>4</sup> and no application to the court for an order is made<sup>5</sup> within the specified period<sup>6</sup>, the tenant's notice<sup>7</sup> is deemed to have been withdrawn at the end of the period referred to in head (1) or head (2) above, as the case may be<sup>8</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(6) INDIVIDUAL RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE/(vii) Termination or Suspension of Acquisition Procedures/1701. Suspension of tenant's notice during claim for collective enfranchisement.

1701. Suspension of tenant's notice during claim for collective enfranchisement.

The operation of the tenant's notice<sup>1</sup> is suspended:

- 4056 (1) if, at the time when that notice is given:
 261
 111. (a) a notice has been given claiming to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>2</sup> with respect to any premises containing the tenant's flat<sup>3</sup>; and
 112. (b) the relevant claim<sup>4</sup> is still current<sup>5</sup>,
 262
 4057 during the currency of that claim; and, so long as it is so suspended, no further notice may be given<sup>6</sup>, and no application may be made<sup>7</sup>, with a view to resisting or giving effect to the tenant's claim<sup>8</sup>;
 4058 (2) during the currency of the relevant claim<sup>9</sup>:
 113. (a) if, at any time when the tenant's notice continues in force, a notice claiming to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement is given with respect to any premises containing the tenant's flat; and
 114. (b) as from the date which is the relevant date<sup>10</sup> in relation to that notice;
 264
 4059 and, so long as it is suspended, no further notice may be given<sup>11</sup>, and no application may be made or proceeded with<sup>12</sup>, with a view to resisting or giving effect to the tenant's claim<sup>13</sup>.

Where the operation of the tenant's notice is suspended:

- 4060 (i) by virtue of either head (1) or head (2) above, the landlord<sup>14</sup> must give the tenant a notice informing him of its suspension within the specified time<sup>15</sup>; and any such notice must in addition inform the tenant of the date on which the notice claiming to exercise the right to collective enfranchisement was given and:
 265
 115. (A) at the date at which this title states the law, of the name and address of the nominee purchaser for the time being appointed<sup>16</sup> in relation to<sup>17</sup> the relevant claim<sup>18</sup>; or
 116. (B) as from a day to be appointed<sup>19</sup>, of the name and registered office of the RTE company by which it was given<sup>20</sup>;

4062 (iii) by virtue of head (2) above, and its suspension began in the specified circumstances<sup>26</sup>, and as a result of the relevant claim<sup>27</sup> ceasing to be current, the operation of the tenant's notice subsequently ceases to be so suspended and the tenant's notice thereupon continues in force<sup>28</sup>, any relevant period<sup>29</sup> is deemed to have begun on the date when that claim ceases to be current<sup>30</sup>;

4063 (iv) by virtue of head (2) above, and its suspension began otherwise than in the specified circumstances<sup>31</sup>, and as a result of the relevant claim<sup>32</sup> ceasing to be current, the operation of the tenant's notice subsequently ceases to be so suspended and the tenant's notice thereupon continues in force<sup>33</sup>, any relevant period<sup>34</sup> is deemed to have begun on the date on which the tenant is given a notice<sup>35</sup> by the landlord or, if earlier, the date on which the tenant gives the landlord a notice informing him of the circumstances by virtue of which the operation of the tenant's notice has ceased to be suspended<sup>36</sup>.

Section 54(8) does not, however, require the landlord to give any such notice if he has received a notice from the tenant under s 54(7): s 54(9).

26    The circumstances so specified are that the suspension of the operation of the tenant's notice began (1) before the date specified in the tenant's notice in pursuance of ibid s 42(3)(f) and before the landlord had given the tenant a counter-notice under s 45 (as amended) (see PARA 1692 ante); or (2) after the landlord had given the tenant a counter-notice under s 45 (as amended) complying with the requirement set out in s 45(2)(b) or (c) but before any application had been made for an order under s 46(1) (see PARA 1693 ante) or s 47(1) (see PARA 1694 ante) and before the period for making any such application had expired; or (3) after an order had been made under s 46(4) (see PARA 1693 ante) or s 47(4) (see PARA 1694 ante) but before the landlord had given the tenant a further counter-notice in accordance with the order and before the period for giving any such counter-notice had expired: s 54(6).

1702. Effect on tenant's notice of institution of compulsory acquisition procedures.

A notice given by a tenant<sup>1</sup> exercising the right to acquire a new lease of his flat<sup>2</sup> is of no effect if on the relevant date<sup>3</sup>:

- 4064 (1) any person or body of persons who has been, or could be, authorised to acquire the whole or part of the tenant's flat<sup>4</sup> compulsorily for any purpose has, with a view to its acquisition for that purpose, served notice to treat on the landlord<sup>5</sup> or the tenant or entered into a contract for the purchase of the interest<sup>6</sup> of either of them in the flat or part of it; and
- 4065 (2) the notice to treat or contract remains in force<sup>7</sup>.

A notice so given by a tenant ceases to have effect if, before a new lease is entered into in pursuance of it, any such person or body of persons as is mentioned above<sup>8</sup> so serves notice to treat<sup>9</sup>.

A. IN GENERAL

1703. Obligation to grant new lease.

Where a qualifying tenant<sup>1</sup> of a flat<sup>2</sup> has a right<sup>3</sup> to acquire a new lease<sup>4</sup> of the flat and duly gives notice<sup>5</sup> of his claim, the landlord<sup>6</sup> is bound<sup>7</sup> to grant to the tenant, and the tenant is bound to accept:

- 4066 (1) in substitution for the existing lease<sup>8</sup>; and
- 4067 (2) on payment of the premium payable<sup>9</sup> in respect of the grant, a new lease of the flat at a peppercorn rent for a term expiring 90 years after the term date<sup>10</sup> of the existing lease<sup>11</sup>.

In addition to any such premium there are payable by the tenant in connection with the grant of any such new lease such amounts to the owners of any intermediate leasehold interests<sup>12</sup> as are payable<sup>13</sup> by virtue of the relevant statutory provisions<sup>14</sup>.

A tenant is not entitled to require the execution of any such new lease otherwise than on tendering to the landlord, in addition to the amount of any such premium and any other amounts payable<sup>15</sup>, the amount so far as ascertained:

- 4068 (a) of any sums payable by him by way of rent or recoverable from him as rent in respect of the flat up to the date of tender;
- 4069 (b) of any sums for which at that date the tenant is liable<sup>16</sup> in respect of costs incurred by any relevant person<sup>17</sup>; and
- 4070 (c) of any other sums due and payable by him to any such person under or in respect of the existing lease; and, if the amount of any such sums is not or may not be fully ascertained, on offering reasonable security for the payment of such amount as may afterwards be found to be payable in respect of them<sup>18</sup>.

No provision of any lease prohibiting, restricting or otherwise relating to a sub-demise by the tenant under the lease has effect with reference to the granting of any lease under the above provisions<sup>19</sup>.

Where a lease is executed under s 56 or s 93(4) (as amended) (see PARA 1538 ante) or in pursuance of an order made under Pt I Ch II (as amended), then, subject to Sch 11 para 10(3), that instrument has effect for the creation of the tenant's new lease of his flat, and for the operation of the rights and obligations conferred and imposed by it, as if there had been a surrender and regrant of any subsisting lease intermediate between the interest of the competent landlord and the existing lease; and the covenants and other provisions of that instrument must be framed and take effect accordingly: s 40(3), Sch 11 para 10(1). Where a lease of the tenant's flat superior to the existing lease is vested in the tenant or a trustee for him, the new lease must include an actual surrender of that superior lease without a regrant; and it must accordingly be disregarded for the purposes of Sch 11 para 10(1): Sch 11 para 10(3). ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(6) INDIVIDUAL RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE/(viii) Grant of New Lease/A. IN GENERAL/1704. Deducing title, preparation of lease and completion.

1704. Deducing title, preparation of lease and completion.

In a transaction undertaken to give effect to a tenant's notice, the landlord and the tenant are, unless they otherwise agree, bound by the following provisions<sup>1</sup>.

Where the landlord<sup>2</sup> has given a counter-notice<sup>3</sup> admitting the right to a new lease or a further counter-notice, or, if no such counter-notice or further counter-notice is given, the tenant<sup>4</sup> has applied to the court for an order determining the terms of acquisition<sup>5</sup>, the tenant may require the landlord to deduce title to his interest in the flat to which the tenant's notice relates by giving him notice<sup>6</sup>. The landlord must comply with any such requirement by giving the tenant:

- 4071 (1) in the case of an interest registered in the register of title kept at Her Majesty's Land Registry, all particulars and information which have to be given or may be required to be given on a sale of registered land;

4072 (2) in the case of any other interest, an epitome of title, within the period of 28 days beginning with the date the notice is given<sup>7</sup>; and in a case where the landlord is not the freeholder, and the title to the freehold or any leasehold reversion to the landlord's title, if any, is not registered at Her Majesty's Land Registry, the landlord must use his best endeavours to obtain an epitome of that title and must also give it to the tenant<sup>8</sup>.

The tenant must give to the landlord a statement of any objections to or requisitions on the proof of title within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the proof is given, whether or not within the time required<sup>9</sup>. The landlord must give to the tenant an answer to any statement of objections or requisitions within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the statement is given<sup>10</sup>; and the tenant must give to the landlord a further statement of any objections to or comments on the answer within the period of seven days beginning with the date the answer is given<sup>11</sup>. Any objection or requisition not included in any statement given within the period referred to above is deemed waived, and any matter which could have been raised in a statement so given is deemed not to be a defect in title<sup>12</sup> for the statutory purposes<sup>13</sup>. Any objection not included in any further statement given within the period specified above is also deemed waived and any matter which could have been raised in a further statement so given is deemed not to form<sup>14</sup> a defect in the title<sup>15</sup>. If no further statement is given within the time specified above, the landlord's answer is to be considered satisfactory<sup>16</sup>.

The landlord must prepare a draft lease and give it to the tenant within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the terms of acquisition<sup>17</sup> are agreed or determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>18</sup>. The tenant must give to the landlord a statement of any proposals for amending the draft lease within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the draft lease is given<sup>19</sup>; and if no statement is given by the tenant within the time so specified he is deemed to have approved the draft lease<sup>20</sup>. The landlord must give to the tenant an answer giving any objections to or comments on the proposals in the statement within the period of 14 days beginning with the date the statement is given<sup>21</sup>; and if no answer is given by the landlord within the time so specified, he is deemed to have approved the amendments to the draft lease proposed by the tenant<sup>22</sup>. The landlord must prepare the lease and as many counterparts as he may reasonably require and must give the counterpart or counterparts to the tenant for execution a reasonable time before the completion date<sup>23</sup>. The tenant must give the counterpart or counterparts of the lease, duly executed, to the landlord and the landlord must give the lease, duly executed, to the tenant, on the completion date or as soon as possible afterwards<sup>24</sup>.

After the draft lease is approved or deemed to have been approved, either the landlord or the tenant may give the other notice<sup>25</sup> requiring him to complete the grant of the lease on the first working day after the expiration of 21 days beginning with the date the notice is given<sup>26</sup>; but this does not apply if the date for completion would fall after the expiry of the appropriate period specified for the statutory purposes<sup>27</sup> and in that event the date for completion must be such day as the landlord and tenant agree in writing or the court orders<sup>28</sup> under the relevant statutory provisions<sup>29</sup>. The landlord must by notice inform any other landlord who has given notice that he is acting independently<sup>30</sup> of the date for completion as soon as possible after notice has been given, or the date for completion has been agreed or ordered by the court, in accordance with the above provisions<sup>31</sup>. Completion must take place at the office of the landlord's solicitor or licensed conveyancer<sup>32</sup>.

Where a tenant's notice has been registered<sup>33</sup> as a land charge or a notice has been registered in respect of it, and it is withdrawn, deemed to have been withdrawn or otherwise ceases to have effect, the tenant must at the request of the landlord without delay take all steps necessary to procure cancellation of the registration<sup>34</sup>.

1705. Premium payable by tenant.

The premium payable by the tenant<sup>1</sup> in respect of the grant of the new lease<sup>2</sup> is the aggregate of:

- 4073 (1) the diminution in value of the landlord's interest<sup>3</sup> in the tenant's flat<sup>4</sup>;
- 4074 (2) the landlord's share of the marriage value<sup>5</sup>; and
- 4075 (3) any amount of compensation payable<sup>6</sup> to the landlord<sup>7</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(6) INDIVIDUAL RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE/(viii) Grant of New Lease/B. PREMIUM ETC PAYABLE BY TENANT ON GRANT/1706. Diminution in value of landlord's interest.

1706. Diminution in value of landlord's interest.

The diminution in value of the landlord's<sup>1</sup> interest<sup>2</sup> is the difference between:

- 4076 (1) the value of the landlord's interest in the tenant's<sup>3</sup> flat<sup>4</sup> prior to the grant of the new lease<sup>5</sup>; and
- 4077 (2) the value of his interest in the flat once the new lease is granted<sup>6</sup>.

The value of any such interest of the landlord as is mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above is<sup>7</sup> the amount which at the relevant date<sup>8</sup> that interest might be expected to realise if sold on the open market by a willing seller, with neither the tenant nor any owner of an intermediate leasehold interest<sup>9</sup> buying or seeking to buy, on the following assumptions:

- 4078 (a) on the assumption that the vendor is selling for an estate in fee simple or, as the case may be, such other interest as is held by the landlord, subject to the relevant lease<sup>10</sup> and any intermediate leasehold interests;
- 4079 (b) on the assumption that no right is conferred<sup>11</sup> to acquire any interest in any premises containing the tenant's flat or to acquire any new lease;
- 4080 (c) on the assumption that any increase in the value of the flat which is attributable to an improvement carried out at his own expense by the tenant or by any predecessor in title is to be disregarded; and
- 4081 (d) on the assumption that, subject to head (b) above, the vendor is selling with and subject to the rights and burdens with and subject to which the relevant lease has effect or, as the case may be, is to be granted<sup>12</sup>.

In determining any such amount there must be made such deduction, if any, in respect of any defect in title as on a sale of that interest on the open market might be expected to be allowed between a willing seller and a willing buyer<sup>13</sup>.

The value of any such interest of the landlord as is mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above must not be increased by reason of:

- 4082 (i) any transaction which is entered into on or after 20 July 1993, otherwise than in pursuance of a contract entered into before that date and which involves the creation or transfer of an interest superior to, whether or not preceding, any interest held by the tenant; or
- 4083 (ii) any alteration on or after that date of the terms on which any such superior interest is held<sup>14</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the landlord' see PARA 1672 ante. As to special categories of landlord see PARA 1545 et seq ante.

2 For the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1671 note 3 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

6 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 56(1), Sch 13 para 3(1).

7 ie subject to the provisions of ibid Sch 13 para 3 (as amended).

8 For the meaning of 'the relevant date' see PARA 1671 note 8 ante.

9 For these purposes, 'intermediate leasehold interest' means the interest of any person falling within the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 40(4)(c) (see PARA 1672 note 11 ante), to the extent that it is an interest in the tenant's flat subsisting immediately before the grant of the new lease: Sch 13 para 1.

10 For these purposes, 'the relevant lease' means either the tenant's existing lease or the new lease, depending on whether the valuation is for the purposes of ibid Sch 13 para 3(1)(a) or (b): Sch 13 para 3(3). For the meaning of 'the existing lease' see PARA 1671 note 14 ante.

11 le by ibid Pt I Ch I (ss 1-38) (as amended) (see PARA 1552 et seq ante) and Pt I Ch II (ss 39-62) (as amended) (see PARA 1671 et seq ante, PARA 1707 et seq post).

12 Ibid Sch 13 para 3(2) (amended by the Housing Act 1996 s 110(2), (5); and by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 134). The fact that the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 13 para 3(2) (as so amended) requires assumptions to be made as to the matters specified in Sch 13 para 3(2)(a)-(d) (see heads (a)-(d) in the text) does not, however, preclude the making of assumptions as to other matters where those assumptions are appropriate for determining the amount which at the relevant date any such interest of the landlord as is mentioned in Sch 13 para 3(1)(a) or (b) might be expected to realise if sold as mentioned in Sch 13 para 3(2) (as so amended): Sch 13 para 3(4) (amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 134). For transitional provisions and savings see the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 (Commencement No 1, Savings and Transitional Provisions) (England) Order 2002, SI 2002/1912, arts 1(2), 2(b)(i), Sch 2 para 4; the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 (Commencement No 1, Savings and Transitional Provisions) (Wales) Order 2002, SI 2002/3012, arts 1(2), 2(b)(i), Sch 2 para 4.

117. (a) the value of the interest<sup>5</sup> of the tenant<sup>6</sup> under his existing lease<sup>7</sup>;

6     For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

7     For the meaning of 'the existing lease' see PARA 1671 note 14 ante. For these purposes, the value of the interest of the tenant under his existing lease is to be determined in accordance with the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 13 para 4A (as added): Sch 13 para 4(3)(a) (Sch 13 para 4(3)(a), (aa) substituted, and Sch 13 paras 4A, 4B added, by the Housing Act 1996 s 110(3)-(5)).

Subject to the provisions of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 14 para 4A (as added and amended), the value of the interest of the tenant under the existing lease is the amount which at the relevant date that interest might be expected to realise if sold on the open market by a willing seller (with neither the landlord nor any owner of an intermediate leasehold interest buying or seeking to buy) on the following assumptions: (1) on the assumption that the vendor is selling such interest as is held by the tenant subject to any interest inferior to the interest of the tenant; (2) on the assumption that Pt I Ch I (ss 1-38) (as amended) (see PARA 1552 et seq ante) and Pt I Ch II (ss 39-62) (as amended) (see PARA 1671 et seq ante, PARA 1708 et seq post) confer no right to acquire any interest in any premises containing the tenant's flat or to acquire any new lease; (3) on the assumption that any increase in the value of the flat which is attributable to an improvement carried out at his own expense by the tenant or by any predecessor in title is to be disregarded; and (4) on the assumption that (subject to head (2) supra) the vendor is selling with and subject to the rights and burdens with and subject to which any interest inferior to the existing lease of the tenant has effect: Sch 13 para 4A(1) (as so added: Sch 13 paras 4A(1), (2), 4B(1), (2) amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 134). The fact that the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 13 para 4A(1) (as so added and amended) requires assumptions to be made in relation to particular matters does not preclude the making of assumptions as to other matters where those assumptions are appropriate for determining the amount which at the relevant date the interest of the tenant under his existing lease might be expected to realise if sold as mentioned in that provision: Sch 13 para 4A(2) (as so added and amended). In determining any such amount there must be made such deduction (if any) in respect of any defect in title as on a sale of that interest on the open market might be expected to be allowed between a willing seller and a willing buyer: Sch 13 para 4A(3) (as so added). Subject to Sch 13 para 4A(5) (as added), the value of the interest of the tenant under his existing lease is not to be increased by reason of: (a) any transaction which is entered into after 19 January 1996 and involves the creation or transfer of an interest inferior to the tenant's existing lease; or (b) any alteration after that date of the terms on which any such inferior interest is held (Sch 13 para 4A(4) (as so added)); but this does not apply to any transaction which falls within head (a) supra if: (i) the transaction is entered into in pursuance of a contract entered into on or before the date there mentioned; and (ii) the amount of the premium payable by the tenant in respect of the grant of the new lease was determined on or before that date either by agreement or by a leasehold valuation tribunal under Pt I Ch II (as amended) (Sch 13 para 4A(5) (as so added)). For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante; for the meaning of 'the relevant date' see PARA 1671 note 8 ante; and for the meaning of 'intermediate leasehold interest' see PARA 1706 note 9 ante. For the meaning of 'sale on the open market' see Goldstein v Conley [1999] 1 EGLR 95, [1999] 03 EG 137, Lands Tribunal. See also note 8 infra.

8 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1671 note 3 ante.

9 For these purposes, the value of any such interest of the landlord as is mentioned in the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 13 para 4(2)(a) or (b) (see heads (1)-(2) in the text) is the amount determined for the purposes of Sch 13 para 3(1)(a) (see PARA 1706 ante) or Sch 13 para 3(1)(b) (see PARA 1706 ante), as the case may be: Sch 13 para 4(3)(b).

10 For these purposes, the value of any intermediate leasehold interest must be determined in accordance with ibid Sch 13 para 8 (as amended) (see PARA 1711 post), and must be so determined as at the relevant date: Sch 13 para 4(3)(c) (amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 134).

11 For these purposes, the value of the interest to be held by the tenant under the new lease must be determined in accordance with the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 13 para 4B (as added and amended): Sch 13 para 4(3) (as substituted: see note 7 supra). Subject to the provisions of Sch 13 para 4B (as added and amended) the value of the interest to be held by the tenant under the new lease is the amount which at the relevant date that interest (assuming it to have been granted to him at that date) might be expected to realise if sold on the open market by a willing seller (with the owner of any interest superior to the interest of the tenant not buying or seeking to buy) on the following assumptions: (1) on the assumption that the vendor is selling such interest as is to be held by the tenant under the new lease subject to the inferior interests to which the tenant's existing lease is subject at the relevant date; (2) on the assumption that Pt I Ch I (as amended) and Pt I Ch II (as amended) confer no right to acquire any interest in any premises containing the tenant's flat or to acquire any new lease; (3) on the assumption that there is to be disregarded any increase in the value of the flat which would fall to be disregarded under Sch 13 para 4A(1)(c) (as added) (see note 7 head (3) supra) in valuing in accordance with that provision the interest of the tenant under his existing lease; and (4) on the assumption that (subject to head (2) supra) the vendor is selling with and subject to the rights and burdens with and subject to which any interest inferior to the tenant's existing lease at the relevant date then has effect: Sch 13 para 4B(1) (as added and amended: see note 7 supra). The fact that Sch 13 para 4B(1) (as so added and amended) requires assumptions to be made in relation to particular matters does not preclude the making of assumptions as to other matters where those assumptions are appropriate for determining the amount which at the relevant date the interest to be held by the tenant under the new lease might be expected to realise if sold as mentioned in that provision: Sch 13 para 4B(2) (as so added and amended). In determining any such amount there must be made such deduction (if any) in respect of any defect in title as on a sale of that interest on the open market might be expected to be allowed between a willing seller and a willing buyer: Sch 13 para 4B(3) (as so added). Subject to Sch 13 para 4B(5) (as added), the value of the interest to be held by the tenant under the new lease is not to be decreased by reason of (a) any transaction which is entered into after 19 January 1996 and involves the creation or transfer of an interest inferior to the tenant's existing lease; or (b) any alteration after that date of the terms on which any such inferior interest is held (Sch 13 para 4B(4) (as so added)); but this does not apply to any transaction which falls within head (a) supra if (i) the transaction is entered into in pursuance of a contract entered into on or before the date mentioned in that provision; and (ii) the amount of the premium payable by the tenant in respect of the grant of the new lease was determined on or before that date either by agreement or by a leasehold valuation tribunal under Pt I Ch II (as amended) (Sch 13 para 4B(5) (as so added)).

For these purposes, 'development value', in relation to the tenant's flat, means any increase in the value of the landlord's interest in the flat which is attributable to the possibility of demolishing, reconstructing, or carrying out substantial works of construction affecting, the flat, whether together with any other premises or otherwise: Sch 13 para 5(4).

Diminution in value of intermediate interest.

1710. Diminution in value of intermediate interest.

The diminution in value of any intermediate leasehold interest<sup>1</sup> is the difference between:

- 4090 (1) the value of that interest prior to the grant of the new lease<sup>2</sup>; and
- 4091 (2) the value of that interest once the new lease is granted<sup>3</sup>.

- 1 For the meaning of 'intermediate leasehold interest' see PARA 1706 note 9 ante.
- 2 For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.
- 3 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 56(1), Sch 13 para 7(1). Each of those values must be determined, as at the relevant date, in accordance with Sch 13 para 8 (as amended) (see PARA 1711 post): Sch 13 para 7(2) (amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 134). For the meaning of 'the relevant date' see PARA 1671 note 8 ante.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/25. Value of intermediate interests.

1711. Value of intermediate interests.

The statutory provisions relating to the calculation of the diminution in value of the landlord's interest<sup>1</sup> apply<sup>2</sup> for determining the value of any intermediate leasehold interest<sup>3</sup> with such modifications<sup>4</sup> as are appropriate<sup>5</sup>.

The value of an intermediate leasehold interest which is the interest of the tenant under a minor intermediate lease<sup>6</sup> must, however, be calculated by applying the following formula:

$$P = £ \frac{R}{Y} - \frac{R}{Y(1+Y)^n}$$

where P equals the price payable; R equals the profit rent; Y equals the yield, expressed as a decimal fraction, from 2½% Consolidated Stock<sup>7</sup>; and n equals the period, expressed in years, taking any part of a year as a whole year, of the remainder of the term of the minor intermediate lease as at the relevant date<sup>8</sup>.

1    le the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 56(1), Sch 13 para 3(2)-(6) (as amended): see PARA 1706 ante.

2    le subject to ibid Sch 13 para 8(2): see the text and notes 6-8 infra.

3    For the meaning of 'intermediate leasehold interest' see PARA 1706 note 9 ante.

4    le such modifications as are appropriate to relate the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 13 para 3(2)-(6) (as amended) to a sale of the interest in question but subject to the tenant's lease for the time being and to any leases intermediate between the interest in question and that lease. For the meanings of 'tenant' and 'lease' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

5    Ibid Sch 13 para 8(1).

6    For these purposes, 'a minor intermediate lease' means a lease complying with the following requirements, namely (1) it must have an expectation of possession of not more than one month; and (2) the profit rent in respect of the lease must be not more than £5 per year: ibid Sch 13 para 8(3). 'Profit rent' means an amount equal to that of the rent payable under the lease on which the minor intermediate lease is in immediate reversion, less that of the rent payable under the minor intermediate lease: Sch 13 para 8(4). Where the minor intermediate lease or that on which it is in immediate reversion comprises property other than the tenant's flat, then in Sch 13 para 8(4) the reference to the rent payable under it means so much of that rent as is apportioned to that flat: Sch 13 para 8(5). For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1671 note 3 ante.

The expectation of possession carried by a lease is the expectation which it carries at the relevant date of possession after the tenant's lease, on the basis that (a) subject to Sch 13 para 8(9), the tenant's lease terminates at the relevant date if its term date fell before then, or else it terminates on its term date; and (b) any other lease terminates on its term date: Sch 13 para 8(8) (Sch 13 para 8(6)-(8) amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 134). In a case where before the relevant date for the purposes of Pt I Ch II (ss 39-62) (as amended) the immediate landlord of the tenant had given notice to quit terminating the tenant's lease on a date earlier than that date, the date specified in the notice to quit is to be substituted for the date specified in Sch 13 para 8(8)(a) (as amended): Sch 13 para 8(9). For the meaning of 'the relevant date' see PARA 1671 note 8 ante; and for the meaning of 'the term date' see PARA 1544 note 5 ante.

7    In calculating the yield from 2½% Consolidated Stock, the price of that stock is to be taken to be the middle market price at the close of business on the last trading day in the week before the relevant date: ibid Sch 13 para 8(7) (as amended: see note 6 supra).

8    Ibid Sch 13 para 8(2), (6) (as amended: see note 6 supra). See further Hague on Leasehold Enfranchisement (4th Edn, 2003) PARA 33-09 and the unreported cases there cited.

4093 (2) there are any intermediate leasehold interests<sup>4</sup>, the amount payable to the landlord<sup>5</sup> in respect of his share of the marriage value must be divided between the landlord and the owners of any such intermediate interests in proportion to the amounts by which the values of their respective interests in the flat<sup>6</sup> will be diminished<sup>7</sup> in consequence of the grant of the new lease<sup>8</sup>.

- 4094 (1) of the omission from the new lease of property included in the existing lease but not comprised in the flat<sup>7</sup>;

1715. Provision of services etc.

Where during the continuance of the new lease<sup>1</sup> the landlord<sup>2</sup> will be under any obligation for the provision of services, or for repairs, maintenance or insurance:

- 4097 (1) the new lease may require payments to be made by the tenant, whether as rent or otherwise, in consideration of those matters or in respect of the cost thereof to the landlord; and
- 4098 (2) if the terms of the existing lease<sup>3</sup> do not include any provision for the making of any such payments by the tenant or include provision only for the payment of a fixed amount, the terms of the new lease must make, as from the term date<sup>4</sup> of the existing lease, such provision as may be just for the making by the tenant of payments related to the cost from time to time to the landlord and for the tenant's liability to make those payments to be enforceable by distress, re-entry or otherwise in like manner as if it were a liability for payment of rent<sup>5</sup>.

Where a lease of the tenant's flat superior to the existing lease is vested in the tenant or a trustee for him, the new lease must include an actual surrender of that superior lease without a regrant; and it must accordingly be disregarded for the purposes of Sch 11 para 10(2): Sch 11 para 10(3). ### 1716. Covenants for title.

In granting the new lease<sup>1</sup> the landlord<sup>2</sup> is not bound to enter into any covenant for title beyond:

- 4099 (1) those implied from the grant; and
- 4100 (2) those implied under Part I of the Law of Property (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 1994<sup>3</sup> in a case where a disposition is expressed to be made with limited title guarantee<sup>4</sup>, but not including, in the case of an underlease, the covenant that there is no subsisting breach of a condition or tenant's obligation, and nothing which at that time would render the lease liable to forfeiture<sup>5</sup>; and in the absence of agreement to the contrary he is entitled to be indemnified by the tenant in respect of any costs incurred by him in complying with the covenant for further assurance implied<sup>6</sup> by virtue of that Act<sup>7</sup>.

A person entering into any covenant required of him as landlord, whether under the above provision or otherwise, is entitled to limit his personal liability to breaches of that covenant for which he is responsible<sup>8</sup>.

- 4102 (2) confers any option to purchase or right of pre-emption in relation to the flat<sup>4</sup> demised by the existing lease; or
- 4103 (3) provides for the termination of the existing lease before its term date<sup>5</sup> otherwise than in the event of a breach of its terms;

The statutory provisions relating to the matters to be included in the new lease<sup>1</sup> have effect subject to any agreement between the landlord<sup>2</sup> and tenant<sup>3</sup> as to the terms of the new lease or any agreement collateral thereto; and either of them may require that for the purposes of the new lease any term of the existing lease<sup>4</sup> shall be excluded or modified in so far as it is necessary to do so in order to remedy a defect in the existing lease or it would be unreasonable in the circumstances to include, or include without modification, the term in question in view of changes occurring since the date of commencement of the existing lease which affect the suitability on the relevant date<sup>5</sup> of the provisions of that lease<sup>6</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(6) INDIVIDUAL RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE/(viii) Grant of New Lease/D. TERMS OF NEW LEASE/1720. Third parties.

1720. Third parties.

Where any person is a third party<sup>1</sup> to the existing lease<sup>2</sup> or, not being the landlord<sup>3</sup> or tenant<sup>4</sup>, is a party to any agreement collateral thereto, then, subject to any agreement between him and the landlord and the tenant, he must be made a party to the new lease or, as the case may be, to an agreement collateral thereto, and must accordingly join in its execution; but nothing in this provision has effect so as to require the new lease or, as the case may be, any such collateral agreement to provide for him to discharge any function at any time after the term date<sup>5</sup> of the existing lease<sup>6</sup>.

Where:

- 4104 (1) any such person ('the third party') is to discharge any function down to the term date of the existing lease; but
- 4105 (2) it is necessary or expedient in connection with the proper enjoyment by the tenant of the property demised by the new lease for provision to be made for the continued discharge of that function after that date, the new lease or an agreement collateral thereto must make provision for that function to be discharged after that date, whether by the third party or by some other person<sup>7</sup>.

Interests subject to mortgages; in general.

E. INTERESTS SUBJECT TO MORTGAGES; PRIORITY OF INTERESTS

1721. Interests subject to mortgages; in general.

A qualifying tenant<sup>1</sup> is entitled<sup>2</sup> to be granted<sup>3</sup> a new lease<sup>4</sup> despite the fact that the grant of the existing lease<sup>5</sup> was subsequent to the creation of a mortgage<sup>6</sup> on the landlord's<sup>7</sup> interest<sup>8</sup> and not authorised as against the persons interested in the mortgage; and a lease so granted:

- 4106 (1) is deemed to be authorised as against the persons interested in any mortgage on the landlord's interest, however created or arising; and
- 4107 (2) is binding on those persons<sup>9</sup>.

A lease so granted is not so binding on the persons interested in any such mortgage if the existing lease is granted on or after 1 November 1993 and, being granted subsequent to the creation of the mortgage, would not otherwise be binding on the persons interested in the mortgage<sup>10</sup>.

Where a lease is so granted and any person having a mortgage on the landlord's interest is thereby entitled to possession of the documents of title relating to that interest, the landlord must, within one month of the execution of the lease, deliver to that person a counterpart of it duly executed by the tenant<sup>11</sup>.

Where the existing lease is, immediately before its surrender on the grant of such a lease, subject to any mortgage, the new lease takes effect subject to the mortgage in substitution for the existing lease; and the terms of the mortgage, as set out in the instrument creating or evidencing it, accordingly apply in relation to the new lease in like manner as they applied in relation to the existing lease<sup>12</sup>.

Where:

- 4108 (a) a lease so granted takes effect subject to any such subsisting mortgage on the existing lease; and
- 4109 (b) at the time of execution of the new lease the person having the mortgage is thereby entitled to possession of the documents of title relating to the existing lease, he is similarly entitled to possession of the documents of title relating to the new lease; and the tenant must deliver the new lease to him within one month of the date on which the lease is received from Her Majesty's Land Registry following its registration<sup>13</sup>.

Where:

- 4110 (i) the landlord fails so to deliver a counterpart of the new lease; or
- 4111 (ii) the tenant fails so to deliver the new lease, the instrument creating or evidencing the mortgage in question applies as if the obligation to deliver a counterpart or, as the case may be, deliver the lease were included in the terms of the mortgage as set out in that instrument<sup>14</sup>.

A landlord granting a new lease is bound to take such steps as may be necessary to secure that the lease is not liable<sup>15</sup> to be defeated by persons interested in a mortgage on his interest; but a landlord is not obliged, in order to grant a lease for the statutory purposes<sup>16</sup>, to acquire a better title than he has or could require to be vested in him<sup>17</sup>.

1722. Priority of interests on grant of new lease.

Where a lease<sup>1</sup> granted under the statutory obligation to grant a new lease<sup>2</sup> takes effect subject to two or more interests<sup>3</sup> to which the existing lease<sup>4</sup> was subject immediately before its surrender, the interests have the same priority in relation to one another on the grant of the new lease as they had immediately before the surrender of the existing lease<sup>5</sup>; but this is subject to agreement to the contrary<sup>6</sup>.

Where a person who is entitled on the grant of a lease<sup>7</sup> to rights of occupation<sup>8</sup> in relation to the flat<sup>9</sup> comprised in that lease was entitled immediately before the surrender of the existing lease to rights of occupation in relation to the flat comprised in that lease, the rights to which he is entitled on the grant of the new lease are to be treated as a continuation of the rights to which he was entitled immediately before the surrender of the existing lease<sup>10</sup>.

F. FURTHER RENEWAL OR ENFRANCHISEMENT

1723. Further renewal, but no security of tenure, after grant of new lease.

The right to acquire a new lease<sup>1</sup> may be exercised in relation to a lease of a flat<sup>2</sup> despite the fact that the lease is<sup>3</sup> itself a new lease<sup>4</sup>.

Where a new lease has been granted:

- 4112 (1) none of the statutory provisions relating to security of tenure for tenants applies to the lease;
- 4113 (2) after the term date<sup>5</sup> of the lease none of the following provisions, namely:
271
  - 123. (a) the statutory provisions relating to security of tenure on the ending of long residential tenancies<sup>6</sup>; or
  - 124. (b) Part II of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954<sup>7</sup>, 272
  - 4114 apply to any sublease directly or indirectly derived out of the lease; and
  - 4115 (3) after that date no person is entitled by virtue of any such sublease to retain possession under:
273
    - 125. (a) Part VII of the Rent Act 1977<sup>8</sup> or any enactment applying or extending that Part;
    - 126. (b) the Rent (Agriculture) Act 1976<sup>9</sup>; or
    - 127. (c) Part I<sup>10</sup> of the Housing Act 1988<sup>11</sup>.
274

Where a new lease has been granted, no long lease<sup>12</sup> created immediately or derivatively by way of sub-demise under the lease confers on the subtenant, as against the tenant's landlord, any right to acquire a new lease<sup>13</sup>.

Any person who:

- 4116 (i) grants a sublease to which heads (2) and (3) above will apply; or
- 4117 (ii) negotiates with a view to the grant of such a sublease by him or by a person for whom he is acting as agent, must inform the other party that the sublease is to be derived out of a new lease granted under the statutory right<sup>14</sup>, unless either he knows that the other party is aware of it or he himself is unaware of it<sup>15</sup>.

Where any lease contains a statement to the effect that it is a new lease granted under the statutory right, the statement is conclusive<sup>16</sup> in favour of any person who is not a party to the lease, unless the statement appears from the lease to be untrue<sup>17</sup>.

Where a lease of the tenant's flat superior to the existing lease is vested in the tenant or a trustee for him, the new lease must include an actual surrender of that superior lease without a regrant; and it must accordingly be disregarded for the purposes of Sch 11 para 10(2): Sch 11 para 10(3). ## (ix) Costs in Connection with New Lease

1724. Costs incurred in connection with new lease to be paid by tenant.

Where a notice is given by a qualifying tenant exercising his right to acquire a new lease of his flat<sup>1</sup>, the tenant by whom it is given is liable, to the extent that they have been incurred by any relevant person<sup>2</sup> in pursuance of the notice, for the reasonable costs of and incidental to any of the following matters, namely:

- 4118 (1) any investigation reasonably undertaken of the tenant's right to a new lease;
- 4119 (2) any valuation of the tenant's flat obtained for the purpose of fixing the premium or any other amount payable<sup>3</sup> in connection with the grant of a new lease under the statutory right<sup>4</sup>;
- 4120 (3) the grant of a new lease under that right;

but the above provisions do not apply to any costs if on a sale made voluntarily a stipulation that they were to be borne by the purchaser would be void<sup>5</sup>.

Any costs incurred by a relevant person in respect of professional services rendered by any person are only to be regarded as reasonable if and to the extent that costs in respect of such services might reasonably be expected to have been incurred by him if the circumstances had been such that he was personally liable for all such costs<sup>6</sup>.

Where<sup>7</sup> the tenant's notice ceases to have effect, or is deemed to have been withdrawn<sup>8</sup>, at any time, the tenant's liability for costs incurred by any person is a liability for costs incurred by him down to that time<sup>9</sup>; but a tenant is not so liable for any costs if the tenant's notice ceases<sup>10</sup> to have effect<sup>11</sup>.

The tenant is not so liable for any costs which a party to any proceedings<sup>12</sup> before a leasehold valuation tribunal incurs in connection with the proceedings<sup>13</sup>.

(x) Landlord's Right to Terminate New Lease

1725. In general.

Where a lease<sup>1</sup> of a flat<sup>2</sup> ('the new lease') has been granted<sup>3</sup> but the court is satisfied, on an application made by the landlord<sup>4</sup>:

4121 (1) that for the purposes of redevelopment the landlord intends to demolish or reconstruct, or to carry out substantial works of construction on, the whole or a substantial part of any premises in which the flat is contained; and

4122 (2) that he could not reasonably do so without obtaining possession of the flat, the court must by order declare that the landlord is entitled as against the tenant to obtain possession of the flat and the tenant is entitled to be paid compensation by the landlord for the loss of the flat<sup>5</sup>.

An application for such an order may be made:

4123 (a) at any time during the period of 12 months ending with the term date<sup>6</sup> of the lease in relation to which the right to acquire a new lease was exercised; and 4124 (b) at any time during the period of five years ending with the term date of the new lease<sup>7</sup>.

Where an order is so made, the new lease determines, and compensation becomes payable, in accordance with the statutory provisions<sup>8</sup> relating to determination and compensation<sup>9</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1671 note 3 ante. For these purposes, except in the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 61(1)(a) or (b) (see heads (1)-(2) in the text), any reference to the flat held by the tenant under the new lease includes any premises let with the flat under that lease: s 61(5). For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante; and for the meaning of references to property let with other property see PARA 1657 note 2 ante.

3 Ie under ibid s 56: see PARA 1703 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'the landlord' see PARA 1672 ante.

5 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 61(1). As to the requisite intention on the part of the landlord in the context of the similarly-worded provision in the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 s 30(1) (f) see PARA 742 ante; and as to what constitutes demolition etc in that context see PARA 743 ante.

6 For the meaning of 'the term date' see PARA 1544 note 5 ante.

7 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 61(2). Where the new lease is not the first lease to be granted under s 56 in respect of a flat, s 61(2) applies as if s 61(2)(b) (see head (b) in the text) included a reference to the term date of any previous lease granted under s 56 in respect of the flat; but s 61(2)(a) (see head (a) in the text) is to be taken to be referring to the term date of the lease in relation to which the right to acquire a new lease was first exercised: s 61(3).

8 Ibid s 61(4), Sch 14 (as amended): see PARA 1726 et seq post. Schedule 14 (as amended) has effect where a tenant of a flat is entitled to be paid compensation under s 61 or would be so entitled on the landlord obtaining an order for possession or where an application for such an order is dismissed or withdrawn: Sch 14 para 1(1). For these purposes, 'order for possession' means an order made under s 61; and 'application for possession' means a landlord's application under s 61: Sch 14 para 1(2).

9 Ibid s 61(4). The provisions of Sch 14 have effect as regards the measure of compensation payable by virtue of any such order and the effects of any such order where there are subleases, and as regards other matters relating to orders and applications under s 61: s 61(4).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/25. ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(6) INDIVIDUAL RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE/(x) Landlord's Right to Terminate New Lease/1726. Date when compensation payable.

1726. Date when compensation payable.

Where an order for possession<sup>1</sup> is made:

4125 (1) the new lease<sup>2</sup> determines; and 4126 (2) the compensation payable to the tenant<sup>3</sup> by virtue of the order becomes payable, on such date as may, when the amount of compensation has been determined either by agreement between the landlord<sup>4</sup> and the tenant or by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>5</sup>, be fixed by order of the court made on the application of either the landlord or the tenant<sup>6</sup>.

Where, however, the application for possession<sup>7</sup> was made during the period of 12 months ending with the term date of the lease in relation to which the right to acquire a new lease was exercised<sup>8</sup>, an order of the court may not fix a date earlier than:

4127 (a) the term date<sup>9</sup> of the lease in relation to which the right to acquire a new lease was exercised; or 4128 (b) in a case where the new lease was not the first such lease to be granted<sup>10</sup>, the term date of the lease in relation to which the right to acquire a new lease was first exercised<sup>11</sup>.

In fixing the date the court must have regard to the conduct of the parties and to the extent to which the landlord has made reasonable preparations for proceeding with the redevelopment, including the obtaining of, or preparations relating to the obtaining of, any requisite permission or consent, whether from any authority whose permission or consent is required under any enactment or from the owner of an interest<sup>12</sup> in any property<sup>13</sup>.

The court may by order direct that the whole or part of the compensation payable to the tenant shall be paid into court, if the court thinks it expedient to do so for the purpose of ensuring that the sum paid is available for meeting any mortgage<sup>14</sup> on the tenant's interest in the flat<sup>15</sup> in question, or for the purpose of division, or for any other purpose<sup>16</sup>.

Where an order has been so made by a county court, that court or another county court has jurisdiction to hear and determine any proceedings brought by virtue of the order to recover possession of the property or to recover the compensation<sup>17</sup>.

- 1 For the meaning of 'order for possession' see PARA 1725 note 8 ante.
- 2 For these purposes, 'the new lease' has the same meaning as in the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 61 (see PARA 1725 ante): s 61(4), Sch 14 para 1(2).

- 5 As well as the general particulars to be included with an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal (see PARA 60 ante), the documents and particulars mentioned in PARA 1695 ante at heads (a)-(d) in the text must be included with an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal under the above provisions: see the Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (England) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/2099, reg 3(2), Sch 1 para 1(I); the Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/681, reg 3(2), Sch 1 para 1(I). The tribunal may, however, dispense with or relax any of those requirements if satisfied that the particulars and documents included with an application are sufficient to enable the application to be determined and that no prejudice will, or is likely to, be caused to any party to the application: see PARA 1695 the text and note 11 ante.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(6) INDIVIDUAL RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE/(x) Landlord's Right to Terminate New Lease/1727. Subleases.

1727. Subleases.

On the termination of a lease<sup>1</sup> under an order for possession<sup>2</sup> there terminates also any immediate or derivative sublease; and the tenant<sup>3</sup> is bound to give up possession of the flat<sup>4</sup> in question to the landlord<sup>5</sup> except in so far as he is precluded from doing so by the rights of other persons to retain possession under or by virtue of any enactment<sup>6</sup>.

Where a sublease of property comprised in the lease has been created after the date of the application for possession<sup>7</sup>, no person is entitled in respect of that sublease under any specified provisions relating to retaining possession on the termination of a superior tenancy<sup>8</sup> to retain possession of that property after the termination of the lease under the order for possession<sup>9</sup>.

In exercising its jurisdiction the court must assume that the landlord, having obtained an order for possession, will not be precluded from obtaining possession by the right of any person to retain possession by virtue of specified statutory provisions relating to security of tenure<sup>10</sup> or otherwise<sup>11</sup>.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(6) INDIVIDUAL RIGHT OF TENANT TO ACQUIRE NEW LEASE/(x) Landlord's Right to Terminate New Lease/1728. Amount of compensation.

1728. Amount of compensation.

The amount payable to a tenant<sup>1</sup>, by virtue of an order for possession<sup>2</sup>, by way of compensation for loss of his flat<sup>3</sup> is the amount which at the valuation date<sup>4</sup> the new lease, if sold on the open market by a willing seller, might be expected to realise on the following assumptions:

- 4129 (1) on the assumption that no right is conferred<sup>5</sup> to acquire any interest<sup>6</sup> in any premises containing the tenant's flat or to acquire any new lease;
- 4130 (2) on the assumption that the vendor is selling:
- 275
128. (a) subject to the rights of any person who will on the termination of the lease be entitled to retain possession as against the landlord<sup>7</sup>, but otherwise with vacant possession; and
129. (b) subject to any restriction that would be required, in addition to any imposed by the terms of the lease, to limit the uses of the flat to those to which it has been put since the commencement of the lease and to preclude the erection of any new dwelling<sup>8</sup> or any other building not ancillary to the flat<sup>9</sup> as a dwelling; and
- 276
- 4131 (3) on the assumption that, subject to heads (1) and (2) above, the vendor is selling with and subject to the rights and burdens with and subject to which the flat will be held by the landlord on the termination of the lease<sup>10</sup>.

In determining any such amount there must be made such deduction, if any, in respect of any defect in title as on a sale of that interest on the open market might be expected to be allowed between a willing seller and a willing buyer<sup>11</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'order for possession' see PARA 1725 note 8 ante.

3 For the meaning of references to a flat held by a tenant under the new lease see PARA 1726 note 15 ante; and for the meaning of 'the new lease' see PARA 1726 note 2 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'the valuation date' means the date when the amount of the compensation payable to the tenant is determined as mentioned in the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 61(4), Sch 14 para 2(1) (see PARA 1726 ante); Sch 14 para 5(4).

5 le by ibid Pt Ch I (ss 1-38) (as amended) (see PARA 1552 et seq ante) or Pt I Ch II (ss 39-62) (as amended) (see PARA 1671 et seq ante, PARA 1729 et seq post).

6 For the meaning of 'interest' see PARA 408 note 16 ante.

7 For the meaning of 'the landlord' see PARA 1672 ante. As to special categories of landlord see PARA 1545 et seq ante.

8 For the meaning of 'dwelling' see PARA 1533 note 2 ante.

9 For the meaning of 'flat' for these purposes see PARA 1533 note 2 ante.

10 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 14 para 5(1). As to the circumstances in which Sch 14 (as amended) applies see PARA 1725 note 8 ante.

The fact that Sch 14 para 5(1) requires assumptions to be made as to the matters specified in Sch 14 para 5(1) (a)-(c) (see heads (1)-(3) in the text) does not preclude the making of assumptions as to other matters where those assumptions are appropriate for determining the amount which at the valuation date the new lease might be expected to realise if sold as mentioned in Sch 14 para 5(1): Sch 14 para 5(2).

The Landlord and Tenant Act 1927 Pt I (ss 1-17) (as amended) (see PARA 789 et seq ante) does not apply on the termination of the new lease or any sublease in accordance with the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 14 (as amended); and a request for a new tenancy under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 s 26 (as amended) (see PARA 718 ante) in respect of the new lease or any sublease is of no effect if made after the application for possession, or ceases to have effect on the making of that application: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 14 para 6(1). For the meaning of 'application for possession' see PARA 1725 note 8 ante.

Where a sublease terminating with the new lease in accordance with Sch 14 para 3 (see PARA 1727 ante) is one to which the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 Pt II (ss 23-46) (as amended) (see PARA 701 et seq ante) applies, the compensation payable to the tenant must be divided between him and the subtenant in such proportions as may be just, regard being had to their respective interests in the flat in question and to any loss arising from the termination of those interests and not incurred by imprudence: Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 14 para 6(2). Where the amount of the compensation payable to the tenant is agreed between him and the landlord without the consent of a subtenant entitled under Sch 14 para 6(2) to a share in the compensation, and is shown by the subtenant to be less than might reasonably have been obtained by the tenant, the subtenant is entitled under Sch 14 para 6(2) to recover from the tenant such increased share as may be just: Sch 14 para 6(3).

1729. Application of compensation; deductions.

The landlord<sup>1</sup> is not to be concerned with the application of the amount payable to the tenant<sup>2</sup> by way of compensation under an order for possession<sup>3</sup>; but, subject to any statutory requirements as to payment of capital money arising under a settlement<sup>4</sup> or a trust of land and to any order<sup>5</sup> for payment into court, the written receipt of the tenant is a complete discharge for the amount payable<sup>6</sup>.

The landlord is entitled to deduct from the amount so payable to the tenant:

- 4132 (1) the amount of any sum recoverable as rent in respect of the flat<sup>7</sup> up to the termination of the new lease; and
- 4133 (2) the amount of any other sums due and payable by the tenant to the landlord under or in respect of the lease or any agreement collateral thereto<sup>8</sup>.

Where a landlord<sup>1</sup> makes an application for possession<sup>2</sup>, and it is made to appear to the court<sup>3</sup> that in relation to matters arising out of that application, including the giving up of possession of the flat<sup>4</sup> or the payment of compensation, the landlord or the tenant has been guilty of any unreasonable delay or default, the court may:

- 4135 (2) where costs have not been awarded, award costs<sup>5</sup>.

Where an application for possession is dismissed or withdrawn, and it is made to appear to the court:

- 4136 (a) that the application was not made in good faith; or
- 4137 (b) that the landlord had attempted in any material respect to support by misrepresentation or the concealment of material facts a request to the tenant to deliver up possession without an application for possession, the court may order that no further application for possession of the flat made by the landlord shall be entertained if it is made within the period of five years beginning with the date of the order<sup>6</sup>.

the sum received must be dealt with as if it were an amount payable by way of consideration on a sale effected under that Act<sup>7</sup>.

Where:

- 4142 (i) the tenant under the new lease is a capitular body<sup>8</sup> and the lease comprises property which forms part of the endowment of a cathedral church; and the sum received must be treated as part of that endowment<sup>9</sup>.

Where:

- 4144 (A) the tenant under the new lease is a diocesan board of finance<sup>10</sup> and the lease comprises diocesan glebe land<sup>11</sup>; and 4145 (B) compensation is paid as mentioned in head (2) above, the sum received must be paid to the Church Commissioners<sup>12</sup> to be applied for purposes for which the proceeds of any disposition of property by agreement would be applicable under any enactment or Measure authorising such a disposition or disposing of the proceeds of such a disposition<sup>13</sup>.

(xi) Landlord's Right to Compensation where Claim Ineffective

1732. Compensation for postponement of termination in connection with ineffective claims.

The following provisions apply where, on or after 15 January 1999:

- 4146 (1) a tenant<sup>1</sup> of a flat<sup>2</sup> makes a claim to acquire a new lease<sup>3</sup> of the flat; and
- 4147 (2) the claim is not made at least two years before the term date<sup>4</sup> of the lease in respect of which the claim is made ('the existing lease')<sup>5</sup>.

The tenant is liable to pay compensation if the claim is not effective<sup>6</sup> and:

- 4148 (a) the making of the claim caused a notice of termination served by the landlord<sup>7</sup> in respect of the existing lease to cease to have effect and the date on which the claim ceases to have effect<sup>8</sup> is later than four months before the termination date specified in the notice;
- 4149 (b) the making of the claim prevented the service of an effective notice of termination<sup>9</sup> but did not cause a notice served<sup>10</sup> to cease to have effect and the date on which the claim ceases to have effect is a date later than six months before the term date of the existing lease; or
- 4150 (c) the existing lease is continued<sup>11</sup> by virtue of the claim<sup>12</sup>.

Compensation under the above provisions become payable at the end of the appropriate period<sup>13</sup> and is the right of the person who is the tenant's immediate landlord<sup>14</sup> at that time<sup>15</sup>. The amount which the tenant is so liable to pay is equal to the difference between:

- 4151 (i) the rent for the appropriate period under the existing lease; and
- 4152 (ii) the rent which might reasonably be expected to be payable for that period were the property to which the existing lease relates let for a term equivalent to that period on the open market by a willing landlord on the following assumptions:

277

- 130. (A) that no premium is payable in connection with the letting;

131. (B) that the letting confers no security of tenure; and
 132. (C) that, except as otherwise provided by this provision, the letting is on the same terms as the existing lease<sup>16</sup>.

2 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1671 note 3 ante.

3 For these purposes, references to a claim to acquire a new lease are to be taken as references to a notice given, or purporting to be given (whether by a qualifying tenant or not), under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 42 (as amended) (see PARA 1677 ante): s 61A(7)(a) (s 61A added by the Housing Act 1996 s 116, Sch 11 para 3(1)). 5 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 61A(1) (as added: see note 3 supra).

6 For these purposes, a claim to a new lease is not effective if it ceases to have effect for any reason other than: (1) the application of s 47(1) (see PARA 1694 ante) or s 55(2) (see PARA 1702 ante); or (2) the acquisition of the new lease in pursuance of the claim: ibid s 61A(6) (as added: see note 3 supra).

13 For the purposes of ibid s 61A(3), (4) (as added), the appropriate period is: (1) in a case falling within s 61A(2)(a) (as added) (see head (a) in the text), the period (a) beginning with the termination date specified in the notice mentioned in that provision; and (b) ending with the earliest date of termination which could have been specified in a notice under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 Sch 10 para 4(1) served immediately after the date on which the claim ceases to have effect, or, if the existing lease is terminated before then, with the date on which it is terminated; (2) in a case falling within s 61A(2)(b) (as added) (see head (2) in the text), the period: (a) beginning with the later of six months from the date on which the claim is made and the term date of the existing lease; and (b) ending six months after the date on which the claim ceases to have effect, or, if the existing lease is terminated before then, with the date of its termination; and (3) in a case falling within s 61A(2)(c) (as added) (see head (c) in the text), the period for which the existing lease is continued under Sch 12 para 5(1): s 61A(5) (as added: see note 3 supra).

1733. Compensation where there has been a change in the immediate reversion.

Where a tenant's<sup>1</sup> liability to pay compensation<sup>2</sup> relates to a period during which there has been a change in the interest<sup>3</sup> immediately expectant on the determination of his lease<sup>4</sup>, the provisions relating to payment of compensation for the postponement of termination<sup>5</sup> have effect with the following modifications<sup>6</sup>. Compensation<sup>7</sup> becomes payable at the end of the appropriate period<sup>8</sup> and there is a separate right to compensation in respect of each of the interests which, during that period, have been immediately expectant on the determination of the existing lease<sup>9</sup>. Such compensation:

- 4153 (1) in the case of the interest which is immediately expectant on the determination of the existing lease at the end of the appropriate period, is the right of the person in whom that interest is vested at that time; and
- 4154 (2) in the case of an interest which ceases during the appropriate period to be immediately expectant on the determination of the existing lease, is the right of the person in whom the interest was vested immediately before it ceased to be so expectant<sup>10</sup>.

The amount which the tenant is liable to pay<sup>11</sup> in respect of any interest is equal to the difference between:

- 4155 (a) the rent under the existing lease for the part of the appropriate period during which the interest was immediately expectant on the determination of that lease; and
- 4156 (b) the rent which might reasonably be expected to be payable for that part of that period were the property to which the existing lease relates let for a term equivalent to that part of that period on the open market by a willing landlord on the following assumptions:

- 133. (i) that no premium is payable in connection with the letting;
- 134. (ii) that the letting confers no security of tenure; and

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(7) ESTATE MANAGEMENT SCHEMES IN CONNECTION WITH ENFRANCHISEMENT/1735. Contents of estate management scheme.

1735. Contents of estate management scheme.

An estate management scheme<sup>1</sup> may make different provision for different parts of the area of the scheme, and must include provision for terminating or varying all or any of the provisions of the scheme, or excluding part of the area, if a change of circumstances makes it appropriate, or for enabling it to be done by or with the approval of a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>2</sup>.

An estate management scheme may provide<sup>3</sup> for all or any of the following matters:

- 4161 (1) for regulating the redevelopment, use or appearance of property in which tenants have acquired the landlord's<sup>4</sup> interest<sup>5</sup>;
- 4162 (2) for empowering the landlord for the time being<sup>6</sup> to carry out works of maintenance, repair, renewal or replacement in relation to any such property or carry out work to remedy a failure in respect of any such property to comply with the scheme, or for making the operation of any provisions of the scheme conditional on his doing so or on the provision or maintenance by him of services, facilities or amenities of any description;
- 4163 (3) for imposing on persons from time to time occupying or interested in any such property obligations in respect of the carrying out of works of maintenance, repair, renewal or replacement in relation to the property or to property used or enjoyed by them in common with others, or in respect of costs incurred by the landlord for the time being on any matter referred to in this head or in head (2) above;
- 4164 (4) for the inspection from time to time of any such property on behalf of the landlord for the time being, and for the recovery by him of sums due to him under the scheme in respect of any such property by means of a charge on the property;

and for the enforcement of any charge imposed under the scheme the landlord for the time being has the same powers and remedies under the Law of Property Act 1925 and otherwise as if he were a mortgagee by deed having powers of sale and leasing and of appointing a receiver<sup>7</sup>.

Except as provided by the scheme, the operation of an estate management scheme is not affected by any disposition or devolution of the landlord's interest in the property within the area of the scheme or in parts of that property; but the scheme must include provision:

- 4165 (a) for identifying the person who is for the purposes of the scheme to be treated as the landlord for the time being; and also
- 4166 (b) for transferring, or allowing the landlord for the time being to transfer, all or any of the powers and rights conferred by the scheme on the landlord for the time being to a local authority or other body, including a body constituted for the purpose<sup>8</sup>.

An estate management scheme may:

- 4167 (i) provide<sup>9</sup> for the operation of any provision for transfer included in the scheme in accordance with head (b) above to be dependent on a determination of a leasehold valuation tribunal effecting or approving the transfer or on such other circumstances as the scheme may provide<sup>10</sup>;
- 4168 (ii) extend to property in which the landlord's interest is disposed of otherwise than in the specified circumstances<sup>11</sup>, whether residential property or not, so as to make that property, or allow it to be made, subject to any such provision as is or might be made by the scheme for property in which tenants acquire the landlord's interest as mentioned in either of those circumstances<sup>12</sup>.

MANAGEMENT SCHEMES IN CONNECTION WITH ENFRANCHISEMENT/1736. Approval by leasehold valuation tribunal of estate management scheme.

1736. Approval by leasehold valuation tribunal of estate management scheme.

A leasehold valuation tribunal may, on an application made by a landlord<sup>1</sup> for the approval of a scheme submitted by him to the tribunal, approve the scheme as an estate management scheme for such area<sup>2</sup> as is specified in the scheme; but, unless<sup>3</sup> the Secretary of State<sup>4</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>5</sup> gives his or its consent for an application to be made outside the statutory time limit<sup>6</sup>, any such application was to be made within the period of two years beginning with 1 April 1997<sup>7</sup>.

A leasehold valuation tribunal may not approve a scheme as an estate management scheme for any area unless it is satisfied that, in order to maintain adequate standards of appearance and amenity and regulate redevelopment within the area in the event of tenants acquiring the interest of the landlord in any property<sup>8</sup>, it is in the general interest that the landlord should retain such powers of management and have such rights<sup>9</sup> as are conferred by the scheme<sup>10</sup>.

In considering whether to approve a scheme as an estate management scheme for any area, a leasehold valuation tribunal must have regard primarily to:

- 4169 (1) the benefit likely to result from the scheme to the area as a whole, including houses or premises likely to be acquired from the landlord<sup>11</sup>; and
- 4170 (2) the extent to which it is reasonable to impose, for the benefit of the area, obligations on tenants<sup>12</sup> so acquiring the interest of their landlord; but the tribunal may also have regard to the past development and present character of the area and to architectural or historical considerations, to neighbouring areas and to the circumstances generally<sup>13</sup>.

A leasehold valuation tribunal must not consider any application for it to approve a scheme unless it is satisfied that the applicant has, by advertisement or otherwise, given adequate notice to persons interested<sup>14</sup>:

- 4171 (a) informing them of the application for approval of the scheme and the provision intended to be made by the scheme<sup>15</sup>; and
- 4172 (b) inviting them to make representations to the tribunal about the application within a time which appears to the tribunal to be reasonable<sup>16</sup>.

A leasehold valuation tribunal must<sup>17</sup>, after considering the application, approve the scheme in question either as originally submitted or with any relevant modifications<sup>18</sup> proposed or agreed to by the applicant, if the scheme (with those modifications, if any) appears to the tribunal to be fair and practicable and not to give the landlord a degree of control out of proportion to that previously exercised by him or to that required for the purposes of the scheme<sup>19</sup>.

If, having regard to the matters mentioned in heads (1) and (2) above and the provision which it is practicable to make by a scheme, the tribunal thinks it proper to do so, the tribunal may declare that no scheme can be approved for the area in question in pursuance of the application<sup>20</sup>.

A leasehold valuation tribunal may not dismiss an application for the approval of a scheme unless:

- 4173 (i) it makes such a declaration<sup>21</sup>; or 4174 (ii) in the opinion of the tribunal the applicant is unwilling to agree to a suitable scheme or is not proceeding in the matter with due dispatch<sup>22</sup>.

A scheme approved under the above provisions as an estate management scheme for an area is<sup>23</sup> a local land charge<sup>24</sup>.

The original time limit was two years beginning with 1 November 1993: see the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 70(1) (as originally enacted); the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 (Commencement and Transitional Provisions No 1) Order 1993, SI 1993/2134, arts 2, 5(a).

As well as the general particulars to be included with an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal (see PARA 60 ante), an application in relation to an estate management scheme must be accompanied: (1) by a copy of any estate management agreement or the proposed estate management scheme; (2) by a statement that the applicant is either a natural person, a representative body within the meaning of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 71(3) (see PARA 1737 post) or a relevant authority within the meaning of s 73(5) (see PARA 1739 post); (3) where an application is made under s 70 (as amended), by a copy of the notice given by the applicant under s 70(4) (see the text and notes 14-16 infra); (4) where (a) approval is sought for a scheme; (b) approval is sought to modify the area of an existing scheme; or (c) approval is sought to vary an existing scheme, by a description of the area of (i) the proposed scheme; (ii) the proposed modification; or (iii) the proposed variation, including identification of the area by a map or plan; and (5) where an application is made under s 70, a copy of any consent given by the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister under s 72(1): Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (England) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/2099, reg 3(4), Sch 1 para 3, Sch 2 para 3(1)-(5); Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/681, reg 3(4), Sch 1 para 3, Sch 2 para 3(1)-(5). The tribunal may, however, dispense with or relax any of the requirements of heads (1)-(5) supra if satisfied that the particulars and documents included with an application are sufficient to enable the application to be determined and that no prejudice will, or is likely to, be caused to any party to the application: Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (England) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/2099, reg 3(8); Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/681, reg 3(8).

12 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1535 note 3 ante.

13 Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 70(3).

14 For these purposes, 'persons interested' includes, in particular, in relation to any application for the approval of a scheme for any area ('the scheme area') within a conservation area (1) each local planning authority within whose area any part of the scheme area falls; and (2) if the whole of the scheme area is in England, the Historic Buildings and Monuments Commission for England (commonly known as 'English Heritage'): ibid s 70(5). For these purposes, and for the purposes of s 73 (see PARA 1739 post), 'conservation area' and 'local planning authority' have the same meaning as in the Planning (Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas) Act 1990 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARAS 1073, 1169); and in connection with the latter expression (a) the expression 'the planning Acts' in the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 is to be treated as including the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993; and (b) the Planning (Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas) Act 1990 s 81, Sch 4 paras 4, 5 (as amended) (further provisions as to the exercise of functions by different authorities: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1073) apply in relation to functions under or by virtue of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 70 (as amended) or s 73 as they apply in relation to functions under the Planning (Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas) Act 1990 s 69 (designation of conservation areas: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1169): Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 ss 70(14), 73(11).

Any person who makes representations under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 70(4)(b) about an application for the approval of a scheme may appeal from a decision of the tribunal in proceedings on the application: s 70(10A) (as so added).

Where such a scheme is registered in the appropriate local land charges register (1) the provisions of the scheme relating to property of any description, so far as they respectively affect the persons from time to time occupying or interested in that property, are enforceable by the landlord for the time being against them, as if each of them had covenanted with the landlord for the time being to be bound by the scheme; (2) in relation to any acquisition such as is mentioned in s 69(1)(a) (as amended), the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 s 10 (as amended) (rights to be conveyed on enfranchisement: see PARAS 1452-1455, 1459 ante) has effect subject to the provisions of the scheme and the price payable under s 9 (as amended) (see PARAS 1441-1442, 1446, 1466-1467 ante) must be adjusted so far as is appropriate, if at all; and (3) in relation to any acquisition such as is mentioned in the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 69(1)(b) (as amended), s 34 (as amended) (see PARA 1647 ante) and Sch 7 (as amended) (see PARA 1648 et seq ante) have effect subject to the provisions of the scheme, and any price payable under s 32(1), Sch 6 (as amended) (see PARA 1624 et seq ante) must be adjusted so far as is appropriate, if at all: s 70(12).

The Local Land Charges Act 1975 s 10 (as amended) (compensation for non-registration etc: see LAND CHARGES vol 26 (2004 Reissue) PARA 694) does not apply to schemes which, by virtue of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 70(11), are local land charges: s 70(13).

Where, on a joint application made by two or more persons as landlords<sup>1</sup> of neighbouring areas, it appears to a leasehold valuation tribunal:

- 4175 (1) that a scheme could be approved<sup>2</sup> as an estate management scheme<sup>3</sup> for those areas, treated as a unit, if the interests<sup>4</sup> of those persons were held by a single person; and
- 4176 (2) that the applicants are willing to be bound by the scheme to co-operate in the management of their property in those areas and in the administration of the scheme, the tribunal may<sup>5</sup> approve the scheme<sup>6</sup> as an estate management scheme for those areas as a whole<sup>7</sup>. Any such scheme must be made subject to conditions, enforceable in such manner as may be provided by the scheme, for securing that the landlords and their successors co-operate as mentioned in head (2) above<sup>8</sup>.

Where it appears to a leasehold valuation tribunal:

- 4177 (a) that a scheme could, on the application of any landlord or landlords, be approved<sup>9</sup> as an estate management scheme for any area or areas; and
- 4178 (b) that any body of persons is so constituted as to be capable of representing for the purposes of the scheme the persons occupying or interested in property in the area or areas, other than the landlord or landlords or his or their licensees, or such of them as are or may become entitled to acquire their landlord's interest<sup>10</sup>, and is otherwise suitable, an application for the approval of the scheme<sup>11</sup> may be made to the tribunal by the representative body alone or by the landlord or landlords alone or by both jointly and, by leave of the tribunal, may be proceeded with by the representative body or by the landlord or landlords despite the fact that the body or landlord or landlords in question did not make the application<sup>12</sup>.

Any such scheme may<sup>13</sup> with the consent of the landlord or landlords, or on such terms as to compensation or otherwise as appear to the tribunal to be just:

- 4179 (i) confer on the representative body any such rights or powers under the scheme as might be conferred on the landlord or landlords for the time being<sup>14</sup>; or
- 4180 (ii) enable the representative body to participate in the administration of the scheme or in the management by the landlord or landlords of his or their property in the area or areas<sup>15</sup>.

1738. Applications after expiry of two-year period.

An application for the approval of a scheme for an area<sup>1</sup> may be made after the expiry of the period of two years beginning with 1 April 1997<sup>2</sup> if the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>4</sup> has, not more than six months previously, consented to the making of such an application for that area or for an area within which that area falls<sup>5</sup>.

The Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister may so give consent to the making of an application ('the proposed application') only where he or it is satisfied:

- 4181 (1) that either or both of the specified conditions<sup>6</sup> apply; and
- 4182 (2) that adequate notice has been given to persons interested informing them of the request for consent and the purpose of the request<sup>7</sup>.

The conditions so specified are:

- 4183 (a) that the proposed application could not have been made before the period of two years beginning with 1 April 1997<sup>8</sup>; and
- 4184 (b) that:
  - 281 136. (i) any application for the approval of a scheme<sup>9</sup> for the area, or part of the area, to which the proposed application relates would probably have been dismissed<sup>10</sup> had it been made before the expiry of that period; but
  - 137. (ii) because of a change in any of the circumstances required to be considered<sup>11</sup> the proposed application would, if made following the giving of consent by the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister, probably be granted<sup>12</sup>.

A request for such consent must be in writing and must comply with such requirements, if any, as to the form of, or the particulars to be contained in, any such request as the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister may by regulations prescribe<sup>13</sup>; and the procedure for considering a request for such consent is such as may be prescribed by regulations made by him or by the Assembly or minister<sup>14</sup>.

1739. Applications by certain public bodies.

Where it appears to a leasehold valuation tribunal after the expiry of the period of two years beginning with 1 April 1997<sup>1</sup> that a scheme could, on the application of any landlord<sup>2</sup> or landlords within that period, have been approved<sup>3</sup> as an estate management scheme<sup>4</sup> for any area or areas within a conservation area<sup>5</sup>, an application for approval of the scheme may be made<sup>6</sup> to the tribunal by one or more bodies constituting the relevant authority for these purposes<sup>7</sup>.

Such an application may be made only if:

- 4185 (1) no scheme has been approved<sup>8</sup> for the whole or any part of the area or areas to which the application relates ('the scheme area'); and 4186 (2) any application which has been made<sup>9</sup> for the approval of a scheme for the whole or any part of the scheme area has been withdrawn or dismissed; and 4187 (3) no request for consent<sup>10</sup> which relates to the whole or any part of the scheme area is pending or has been granted within the last six months<sup>11</sup>.

Such an application must be made within the period of six months beginning:

- 4188 (a) with the date on which the period of two years beginning with 1 April 1997<sup>12</sup> expires; or 4189 (b) if any application has been made as mentioned in head (2) above, with the date or, as the case may be, the latest date on which any such application is withdrawn or dismissed, whichever is the later; but, if at any time during that period of six months a request of a kind mentioned in head (3) above is pending or granted, an application may be made within the period of:

- 4190 (i) six months beginning with the date on which the request is withdrawn or refused; or 4191 (ii) 12 months beginning with the date on which the request is granted, as the case may be<sup>13</sup>.

A scheme approved on such an application may confer on the applicant or applicants any such rights or powers under the scheme as might have been conferred on the landlord or landlords for the time being<sup>14</sup>.

Where a scheme is approved on an application by two or more bodies acting jointly, the scheme must, if the tribunal considers it appropriate, be made subject to conditions, enforceable in such manner as may be provided by the scheme, for securing that those bodies co-operate in the administration of the scheme<sup>15</sup>.

A scheme so approved is not enforceable by a local planning authority in relation to any property falling outside the authority's area; and, in the case of a scheme approved on a joint application by one or more local planning authorities and the Historic Buildings and Monuments Commission for England (commonly known as 'English Heritage'), the scheme may provide for any of its provisions to be enforceable in relation to property falling within the area of a local planning authority either by the authority alone, or by the Commission alone, or by the authority and the Commission acting jointly, as the scheme may provide<sup>16</sup>.

The Commission may, however, make, or join in the making of, an application under s 73(1) only if the whole of the scheme area is in England and it has consulted any local planning authority within whose area the whole or any part of the scheme area falls: s 73(6). As to the Commission (commonly known as 'English Heritage') see NATIONAL CULTURAL HERITAGE vol 77 (2010) PARA 803 et seq; TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1058.

ENFRANCHISEMENT ETC; PRIVATE SECTOR FLATS/(7) ESTATE MANAGEMENT SCHEMES IN CONNECTION WITH ENFRANCHISEMENT/1740. Effect of application for approval on claim to acquire freehold.

1740. Effect of application for approval on claim to acquire freehold.

The following provisions apply<sup>1</sup> where:

4192 (1) an application ('the scheme application') is made for the approval of a scheme as an estate management scheme<sup>2</sup> for any area<sup>3</sup> or a request ('the request for consent') is made for consent<sup>4</sup> in relation to any area; and

4193 (2) whether before or after the making of the application or request:

138. (a) the tenant of a house in that area gives notice of his desire to have the freehold<sup>5</sup>; or
139. (b) a notice is given<sup>6</sup> claiming the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>7</sup> in respect of any premises in the area; and
- 284 4194 (3) in the case of an application for the approval of a scheme as an estate management scheme, the scheme would extend to the house or premises if acquired in pursuance of the notice<sup>8</sup>.

Where the above provisions apply by virtue of head (2)(a) above:

- 4195 (i) no further steps need be taken towards the execution of a conveyance<sup>9</sup> beyond those which appear to the landlord<sup>10</sup> to be reasonable in the circumstances; and
- 4196 (ii) if the notice referred to in head (2)(a) above ('the tenant's notice') was given before the making of the scheme application or the request for consent, that notice may be withdrawn by a further notice given by the tenant<sup>11</sup> to the landlord<sup>12</sup>.

Where the above provisions apply by virtue of head (2)(b) above:

- 4197 (A) if the notice referred to therein ('the initial notice') was given before the making of the scheme application or the request for consent, the notice may be withdrawn by a further notice given by the nominee purchaser (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>13</sup>, by the RTE company) to the reversioner;
- 4198 (B) unless the initial notice is so withdrawn, the reversioner must, if he has not already given the nominee purchaser (or the RTE company) a counter-notice<sup>14</sup>, give him (or it) by the specified date<sup>15</sup> a counter-notice which complies with one of the statutory requirements<sup>16</sup>; and
- 4199 (C) no proceedings may be brought<sup>17</sup> in pursuance of the initial notice otherwise than in specified circumstances<sup>18</sup>, and, if the court makes an order<sup>19</sup> requiring the reversioner to give a further counter-notice to the nominee purchaser (or to the RTE company), the date by which it is to be given is such date as falls two months after the above provisions<sup>20</sup> cease to apply;

but no other counter-notice need be given<sup>21</sup> and no further steps need be taken<sup>22</sup> towards the final determination, whether by agreement or otherwise, of the terms of the proposed acquisition by the nominee purchaser (or by the RTE company) beyond those which appear to the reversioner to be reasonable in the circumstances<sup>23</sup>.

If the tenant's notice or the initial notice is so withdrawn<sup>24</sup>, the payment of any costs incurred in pursuance of that notice will not be<sup>25</sup> required<sup>26</sup>.

Where the scheme application is withdrawn or dismissed, the above provisions<sup>27</sup> do not apply at any time falling after the date of the withdrawal of the application or the date when the decision of the tribunal dismissing the application becomes final<sup>28</sup>, as the case may be; nor do those provisions apply at any time falling after the date on which a scheme is approved for the relevant area<sup>29</sup>, or for any part of it, in pursuance of the scheme application<sup>30</sup>.

Where the request for consent is withdrawn or refused, the above provisions<sup>31</sup> do not apply at any time falling after the date on which the request is withdrawn or refused, as the case may be; nor do those provisions apply at any time falling more than six months after the date on which it is granted, unless those provisions apply by virtue of an application made in reliance on the consent<sup>32</sup>.

(8) JURISDICTION

1742. Jurisdiction of county courts.

Any jurisdiction expressed to be conferred on the court<sup>1</sup> must be exercised by a county court<sup>2</sup>. There must also be brought in a county court any proceedings for determining any question arising under or by virtue of any relevant statutory provision<sup>3</sup> which is not a question so falling within its jurisdiction<sup>4</sup> or is not one falling<sup>5</sup> within the jurisdiction of a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>6</sup>. Where any proceedings are so brought in a county court, the court has jurisdiction to hear and determine any other proceedings joined with those proceedings, despite the fact that those other proceedings would otherwise be outside the court's jurisdiction<sup>7</sup>.

Where, however, there are brought in the High Court any proceedings which are otherwise proceedings within the jurisdiction of the High Court, the High Court has jurisdiction to hear and determine any proceedings joined with those proceedings which are<sup>8</sup> proceedings within the jurisdiction of a county court<sup>9</sup>.

1743. Jurisdiction of leasehold valuation tribunals.

Any question arising in relation to any of the specified matters<sup>1</sup> must, in default of agreement, be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>2</sup>.

The matters so specified are:

- 4200 (1) the terms of acquisition<sup>3</sup> relating to any interest<sup>4</sup> which is to be acquired<sup>5</sup> by a nominee purchaser<sup>6</sup> (or, as from a day to be appointed<sup>7</sup>, by an RTE company<sup>8</sup>) or any new lease<sup>9</sup> which is to be granted<sup>10</sup> to a tenant<sup>11</sup>, including in particular any matter which needs to be determined in respect of the purchase price payable by a nominee purchaser (or by an RTE company)<sup>12</sup> or the premium and other amounts payable by the tenant<sup>13</sup>;
- 4201 (2) the terms of any lease which is to be granted<sup>14</sup>;
- 4202 (3) the amount of any payment falling to be made to the reversioner by the nominee purchaser and the participating tenants (or by the RTE company)<sup>15</sup>;
- 4203 (4) the amount of any compensation payable where a claim to collective enfranchisement is ineffective<sup>16</sup>;
- 4204 (5) the amount of any compensation payable where a claim to acquire a new lease is ineffective<sup>17</sup>;
- 4205 (6) the amount of any costs payable by any person or persons by virtue of any statutory provision relating to the right to collective enfranchisement or the right to acquire a new lease<sup>18</sup>; and
- 4206 (7) the apportionment between two or more persons of any amount, whether of costs or otherwise, payable by virtue of any such provision<sup>19</sup>.

A leasehold valuation tribunal may, when determining the property in which any interest is to be acquired in pursuance of a notice exercising the right to collective enfranchisement<sup>20</sup> or the right to a new lease<sup>21</sup>, specify in its determination property which is less extensive than that specified in that notice<sup>22</sup>.

The Lands Tribunal is reluctant, on an appeal, to disturb a valuation arrived at by a leasehold valuation tribunal under the above provisions and will treat any new evidence before it with great care<sup>23</sup>.

2    Ibid s 91(1) (amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002 s 180, Sch 14). As well as the general particulars to be included with an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal (see PARA 60 ante), the documents and particulars mentioned in PARA 1695 ante at heads (a)-(d) in the text must be included with an application under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 91 (as amended): see the Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (England) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/2099, reg 3(2), Sch 1 para 1(j); the Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/681, reg 3(2), Sch 1 para 1(j). The tribunal may, however, dispense with or relax any of those requirements if satisfied that the particulars and documents included with an application are sufficient to enable the application to be determined and that no prejudice will, or is likely to, be caused to any party to the application: see PARA 1695 the text and note 11 ante.

3    For these purposes, 'the terms of acquisition' are to be construed in accordance with the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 24(8) (as amended) (see PARA 1612 note 8 ante) or s 48(7) (see PARA 1695 note 6 ante), as appropriate: s 91(11).

(1) COLLECTIVE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL

(i) In general

1744. Right of first refusal on disposals by landlord.

A landlord<sup>1</sup> may not make a relevant disposal<sup>2</sup> affecting any qualifying premises<sup>3</sup> unless:

- 4207 (1) he has previously served<sup>4</sup> a notice<sup>5</sup> with respect to the disposal on the qualifying tenants<sup>6</sup> of the flats<sup>7</sup> contained in those premises, being a notice by virtue of which rights of first refusal are conferred on those tenants; and
- 4208 (2) the disposal is made<sup>8</sup> in accordance with the statutory requirements<sup>9</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1747 post.

2 For the meaning of 'relevant disposal' see PARA 1750 post.

3 In any premises to which at the date of the disposal the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 Pt I (ss 1-20) (as amended) (see heads (1)-(2) in the text; and PARA 1746 et seq post) applies. As to those premises see PARA 1746 post.

4 In accordance with ibid s 5 (as substituted): see PARA 1752 post.

5 In under ibid s 5 (as substituted).

6 For the meaning of 'qualifying tenant' see PARA 1748 post. Any reference in ibid Pt I (ss 1-20) (as amended) to a tenant of a particular description is to be construed, in relation to any time when the interest under his tenancy has ceased to be vested in him, as a reference to the person who is for the time being the successor in title to that interest: s 20(3). For the meanings of 'tenant' and 'tenancy' see PARA 53 note 1 ante.

7 For these purposes, 'flat' means a separate set of premises, whether or not on the same floor, which (1) forms part of a building; and (2) is divided horizontally from some other part of that building; and (3) is constructed or adapted for use for the purposes of a dwelling: ibid s 60(1).

8 In made in accordance with the requirements of ibid ss 6-10 (as substituted): see PARA 1758 et seq post.

9 Ibid s 1(1). As to the enforcement by an injunction granted by the court of a restriction imposed by s 1(1) see PARA 1781 post; and as to the determination of questions arising under Pt I (as amended) by the county court see PARA 53 note 10 ante.

TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(1) COLLECTIVE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL/(i) In general/1745. Application of right of first refusal to contracts.

1745. Application of right of first refusal to contracts.

The statutory provisions conferring a collective right of first refusal<sup>1</sup> apply:

- 4209 (1) to a contract to create or transfer an estate or interest in land, whether conditional or unconditional and whether or not enforceable by specific performance, as they apply in relation to a disposal<sup>2</sup> consisting of the creation or transfer of such an estate or interest<sup>3</sup>; and as they so apply:

285

140. (a) references to a disposal of any description are to be construed as references to a contract to make such a disposal;

141. (b) references to making a disposal of any description are to be construed as references to entering into a contract to make such a disposal; and

142. (c) references to the transferee<sup>4</sup> under the disposal are to be construed as references to the other party to the contract and include a reference to any other person to whom an estate or interest is to be granted or transferred in pursuance of the contract<sup>5</sup>;

286

4210 (2) to an assignment of rights under such a contract as is mentioned in head (1) above as they apply in relation to a disposal consisting of the transfer of an estate or interest in land<sup>6</sup>; and as they so apply:

287

- 143. (a) references to a disposal of any description are to be construed as references to an assignment of rights under a contract to make such a disposal;
- 144. (b) references to making a disposal of any description are to be construed as references to making an assignment of rights under a contract to make such a disposal;
- 145. (c) references to the landlord<sup>7</sup> are to be construed as references to the assignor; and
- 146. (d) references to the transferee under the disposal are to be construed as references to the assignee of such rights<sup>8</sup>;

4211 (3) to a contract to make such an assignment as is mentioned in head (2) above as they apply, in accordance with head (1) above, to a contract to create or transfer an estate or interest in land<sup>9</sup>.

Nothing in the above provisions, however, affects the operation of the statutory provisions<sup>10</sup> relating to options or rights of pre-emption<sup>11</sup>.

1748 Meaning of 'qualifying tenant'

NOTE 8--In definition of 'associated company' reference to Companies Act 1985 s 736 now to Companies Act 2006 s 1159; Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 20(1) (definition amended by SI 2009/1941).

TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(1) COLLECTIVE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL/(i) In general/1749. The requisite majority of qualifying tenants.

1749. The requisite majority of qualifying tenants.

The requisite majority of qualifying tenants<sup>1</sup> of the constituent flats<sup>2</sup> means<sup>3</sup> qualifying tenants of constituent flats with more than 50% of the available votes<sup>4</sup>. The total number of available votes is to be determined as follows:

- 4226 (1) where an offer notice has been served<sup>5</sup>, that number is equal to the total number of constituent flats let to qualifying tenants on the date when the period specified in that notice as the period for accepting the offer expires<sup>6</sup>;
- 4227 (2) where a notice requiring information<sup>7</sup> is served<sup>8</sup> without an offer notice having been previously served<sup>9</sup>, that number is equal to the total number of constituent flats let to qualifying tenants on the date of service of the notice requiring information<sup>10</sup>;
- 4228 (3) where a notice is served under the statutory provisions allowing the qualifying tenants to take the benefit of the contract<sup>11</sup>, to compel a sale by the purchaser<sup>12</sup> or to compel the grant of a new tenancy by the superior landlord<sup>13</sup> without a notice having been previously served as described in head (1) or head (2) above, that number is equal to the total number of constituent flats let to qualifying tenants on the date of service of the relevant<sup>14</sup> notice<sup>15</sup>.

There is one available vote in respect of each of the flats so let on the date referred to in the relevant provision set out in heads (1) to (3) above, which must be attributed to the qualifying tenant to whom it is let<sup>16</sup>.

The persons constituting the requisite majority of qualifying tenants for one purpose may be different from the persons constituting such a majority for another purpose<sup>17</sup>.

1751. Notices.

Any notice required or authorised to be served under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 must be in writing and may be sent by post<sup>1</sup>.

Any notice purporting to be a notice served under any provision of Part I or Part III of that Act<sup>2</sup> by the requisite majority of any qualifying tenants<sup>3</sup> must specify the names of all of the persons by whom it is served and the addresses of the flats<sup>4</sup> of which they are qualifying tenants<sup>5</sup>. The Secretary of State<sup>6</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>7</sup> may by regulations<sup>8</sup> prescribe:

4245 (1) the form of any notices required or authorised to be served under or in pursuance of any such provision; and

4246 (2) the particulars which any such notices must contain, whether in addition to, or in substitution for, any particulars required by virtue of the provision in question<sup>9</sup>.

1 Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 54(1). Service of the notice required by a provision of Pt I (ss 1-20) (as amended) (see PARA 1744 et seq ante, PARA 1752 et seq post) is a formal step and is not effected by correspondence through a tenant's solicitor, or by office copy entries of the freehold title sent to a tenant by the Land Registry, since it was plainly the intention of Parliament that the tenants who were, together, to exercise the group right should be put in a position where they would know that the opportunity to exercise that right had arisen: see Savva v Galway-Cooper [2005] EWCA Civ 1068, [2005] 3 EGLR 40, [2005] All ER (D) 68 (Jul).

2 Ie under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 Pt I (as amended) (see PARA 1744 et seq ante, PARA 1752 et seq post) or Pt III (ss 25-34) (as amended) (compulsory acquisition by tenants of their landlord's interest: see PARA 1783 et seq post).

3 Ie as defined for the purposes of that provision: see PARA 1749 ante, PARA 1785 post.

4 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1744 note 7 ante.

5 Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 54(2). The requirement to state addresses is not, however, essential to the operation of the legislation and a failure in that respect does not necessarily invalidate a notice: see M25 Group Ltd v Tudor [2003] EWCA Civ 1760, [2004] 2 All ER 80, sub nom Tudor v M25 Group Ltd [2004] 1 WLR 2319. The requirements of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 54(2) were not, however, satisfied by service of a letter purporting to include a list of all the tenants of the building which was inaccurate in that it included some persons who were no longer tenants since the notice had to identify those on whose behalf it was given: see Elnaschie v Pitt Place (Epsom) Ltd (1998) 78 P & CR 44, 31 HLR 278, CA.

6 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante.

7 As to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

8 As to the making of regulations generally see the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 53(1); and PARA 352 note 9 ante.

9 Ibid s 54(3). Section 54(3)(b) (see head (2) in the text) is not to be construed as authorising the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister to make regulations under s 54(3) varying any of the periods specified in s 5A(4) or (5), 5B(5) or (6), 5C(4) or (5), 5D(4) or (5) or 5E(3) (all as substituted) (see PARA 1753 et seq post), which accordingly can only be varied by regulations under s 20(4) (see PARA 1752 post): s 54(4) (amended by the Housing Act 1996 s 92(1), Sch 6 Pt IV para 9).

A. LANDLORD'S OFFER NOTICE

1752. Landlord required to serve offer notice on tenants.

Where the landlord<sup>1</sup> proposes<sup>2</sup> to make a relevant disposal<sup>3</sup> affecting premises to which the collective right of first refusal applies<sup>4</sup>, he must serve a notice<sup>5</sup> (an 'offer notice') on the qualifying tenants<sup>6</sup> of the flats<sup>7</sup> contained in the premises (the 'constituent flats')<sup>8</sup>. An offer notice must comply with the requirements of whichever is applicable of the following:

- 4247 (1) the statutory requirements in the case of a contract to be completed by conveyance etc<sup>9</sup>;
- 4248 (2) the statutory requirements in the case of a sale at auction<sup>10</sup>;
- 4249 (3) the statutory requirements in the case of a grant of an option or right of pre-emption<sup>11</sup>;
- 4250 (4) the statutory requirements in the case of a conveyance not preceded by contract etc<sup>12</sup>; and in the case of a disposal for non-monetary consideration<sup>13</sup> the notice must also comply with the relevant additional<sup>14</sup> requirements<sup>15</sup>. Where a landlord proposes to effect a transaction involving the disposal of an estate or interest in more than one building, whether or not involving the same estate or interest, he must, for the purpose of complying with these provisions, sever the transaction so as to deal with each building separately<sup>16</sup>.

If, as a result of the offer notice being served on different tenants on different dates, the period specified in the notice as the period for accepting the offer would end on different dates, the notice has effect in relation to all the qualifying tenants on whom it is served as if it provided for that period to end with the latest of those dates<sup>17</sup>.

A landlord who has not served an offer notice on all of the qualifying tenants on whom it was required to be served is nevertheless to be treated as having complied with the above provisions:

- 4251 (a) if he has served an offer notice on not less than 90% of the qualifying tenants on whom such a notice was required to be served; or
- 4252 (b) where the qualifying tenants on whom it was required to be served number less than ten, if he has served such a notice on all but one of them<sup>18</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1747 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'proposes' denotes a state of mind between mere consideration of a possible course of action, on the one hand, and a fixed and irrevocable determination to pursue that course of action, on the other: see Mainwaring v Henry Smith's Charity Trustees [1998] QB 1, [1996] 2 All ER 220, CA (decided under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 5 as originally enacted).

The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister may by regulations make such modifications of any of the provisions of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 ss 5-18 (as amended) as he or it considers appropriate; and any such regulations may contain such incidental, supplemental or transitional provisions as he or the Assembly or minister considers appropriate in connection with the regulations (s 20(4)); and, for these purposes, 'modifications' includes additions, omissions and alterations (s 20(5)). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante; and as to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante. In exercise of this power, and prior to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State made the Tenants' Rights of First Refusal (Amendment) Regulations 1996, SI 1996/2371, which came into force on 3 October 1996 (reg 1) and which amend the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 18(3)(a) (see regs 2, 3; and PARA 1780 post).

The notice must:

B. ACCEPTANCE OF LANDLORD'S OFFER

1758. Acceptance of landlord's offer; in general.

Where a landlord<sup>1</sup> has served an offer notice<sup>2</sup>, he must not during:

- 4275 (1) the period specified in the notice as the period during which the offer may be accepted; or
- 4276 (2) such longer period as may be agreed between him and the requisite majority of the qualifying tenants<sup>3</sup> of the constituent flats<sup>4</sup>, dispose of the protected interest<sup>5</sup> except to a person or persons nominated by the tenants under the following provisions<sup>6</sup>.

Where an acceptance notice<sup>7</sup> is duly served<sup>8</sup> on him, he must not during the protected period<sup>9</sup> dispose of the protected interest except to a person duly nominated<sup>10</sup> for these purposes by the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats (a 'nominated person')<sup>11</sup>. A person nominated for these purposes by the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats may be replaced by another person so nominated if, and only if, he has for any reason ceased to be able to act as a nominated person<sup>12</sup>. Where two or more persons have been nominated and any of them ceases to act without being replaced, the remaining person or persons so nominated may continue to act<sup>13</sup>.

3 For the meaning of 'qualifying tenant' see PARA 1748 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats' see PARA 1749 ante.

5 'The protected interest' means the estate, interest or other subject-matter of an offer notice: Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 20(1) (definition substituted by the Housing Act 1996 ss 89(3), 92(1), Sch 6 Pt IV para 3).

6 Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 6(1) (s 6 substituted by the Housing Act 1996 s 92(1), Sch 6 Pt I).

7 An 'acceptance notice' means a notice served on the landlord by the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats informing him that the persons by whom it is served accept the offer contained in his notice: Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 6(3) (as substituted: see note 6 supra). For these purposes, any reference to the acceptance of an offer is a reference to its acceptance subject to contract: s 20(2)(b) (amended by the Housing Act 1996 ss 92(1), 227, Sch 6 Pt IV para 4, Sch 19 Pt III). A tenant cannot by contract deprive himself of his right to withdraw his acceptance of the landlords' offer, so an agreement not to withdraw made with other tenants is not irrevocable; likewise, the appointment by the tenants of one of their number as agent is also not irrevocable in this context: see Mainwaring v Henry Smith's Charity Trustees (No 2) (1996) 29 HLR 572, [1997] 1 EGLR 93, CA (decided under the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 6 as originally enacted). For the meaning of 'offer' see PARA 1757 note 10 ante.

8 An acceptance notice is 'duly served' if it is served within: (1) the period specified in the offer notice as the period within which the offer may be accepted; or (2) such longer period as may be agreed between the landlord and the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats: Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 6(3)(a), (b) (as substituted; see note 6 supra).

9 The 'protected period' is the period beginning with the date of service of the acceptance notice and ending with (1) the end of the period specified in the offer notice as the period for nominating a person under s 6 (as substituted); or (2) such later date as may be agreed between the landlord and the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of constituent flats: ibid s 6(4) (as substituted; see note 6 supra).

10 A person is 'duly nominated' for these purposes if he is nominated at the same time as the acceptance notice is served or at any time after that notice is served and before the end of: (1) the period specified in the offer notice as the period for nomination; or (2) such longer period as may be agreed between the landlord and the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats: ibid s 6(5) (as substituted; see note 6 supra).

Failure to accept landlord's offer or to make nomination.

1759. Failure to accept landlord's offer or to make nomination.

Where a landlord<sup>1</sup> has served an offer notice<sup>2</sup> on the qualifying tenants<sup>3</sup> of the constituent flats<sup>4</sup> and

- 4277 (1) no acceptance notice<sup>5</sup> is duly served<sup>6</sup> on the landlord; or
- 4278 (2) no person is nominated<sup>7</sup> during the protected period<sup>8</sup>, the landlord may, during the period of 12 months beginning with the end of that period, dispose of the protected interest<sup>9</sup> to such person as he thinks fit, but subject to the following restrictions<sup>10</sup>.

Where the offer notice was one to which the statutory requirements in the case of a sale at auction<sup>11</sup> applied, the restrictions are:

- 4279 (a) that the disposal<sup>12</sup> is made by means of a sale at a public auction; and
- 4280 (b) that the other terms correspond to those specified in the offer notice<sup>13</sup>.

In any other case the restrictions are:

- 4281 (i) that the deposit and consideration required are not less than those specified in the offer notice; and
- 4282 (ii) that the other terms correspond to those specified in the offer notice<sup>14</sup>.

The entitlement of a landlord, by virtue of the above provisions or any other corresponding provision<sup>15</sup>, to dispose of the protected interest during a specified period of 12 months extends only to a disposal of that interest, and accordingly the statutory requirements<sup>16</sup> must be satisfied with respect to any other disposal by him during that period of 12 months, unless the disposal is not a relevant disposal<sup>17</sup> affecting any premises to which at the time of the disposal the collective right of first refusal<sup>18</sup> applies<sup>19</sup>.

Within the period of one month beginning with the date of service of notice of nomination, the landlord either

- 4286 (b) is obliged to proceed in accordance with the statutory provisions<sup>14</sup> set out below<sup>15</sup>.

Nothing in these provisions, however, is to be taken as prejudicing the application of the statutory provisions relating to the collective right of first refusal<sup>16</sup> to any further offer notice served by the landlord on the qualifying tenants of the constituent flats<sup>17</sup>.

1761. General provisions relating to landlord's obligation.

The landlord must, within the period of one month beginning with the date of service of the notice of nomination, send to the nominated person<sup>6</sup> a form of contract for the acquisition of the protected interest<sup>7</sup> on the terms specified in the landlord's offer notice<sup>8</sup>. If he fails to do so, the provisions set out below<sup>9</sup> apply as if he had given notice of withdrawal<sup>10</sup> at the end of that period<sup>11</sup>. If, however, he complies with this requirement, the nominated person must, within the period of two months beginning with the date on which it is sent or such longer period beginning with that date as may be agreed between the landlord and that person, either:

4287 (1) serve notice on the landlord indicating an intention no longer to proceed with the acquisition of the protected interest; or 4288 (2) offer an exchange of contracts, that is to say, sign the contract and send it to the landlord, together with the requisite deposit<sup>12</sup>.

If the nominated person either serves notice in pursuance of head (1) above or fails to offer an exchange of contracts within the specified period<sup>13</sup>, the provisions set out below<sup>14</sup> apply as if he had given notice of withdrawal<sup>15</sup> at the same time as that notice or, as the case may be, at the end of that period<sup>16</sup>. If, however, the nominated person offers an exchange of contracts within the specified period but the landlord fails to complete the exchange within the period of seven days beginning with the day on which he received that person's contract, the provisions set out below<sup>17</sup> apply as if the landlord had given notice of withdrawal<sup>18</sup> at the end of that period<sup>19</sup>.

1762. Election in case of sale at auction.

The nominated person<sup>6</sup> may, by notice served on the landlord not less than 28 days before the date of the auction, elect that these provisions are to apply<sup>7</sup>.

If a contract for the disposal is entered into at the auction, the landlord must, within the period of seven days beginning with the date of the auction, send a copy of the contract to the nominated person<sup>8</sup>. If, within the period of 28 days beginning with the date on which such a copy is so sent, the nominated person:

- 4289 (1) serves notice on the landlord accepting the terms of the contract; and
- 4290 (2) fulfils any conditions falling to be fulfilled by the purchaser<sup>9</sup> on entering into the contract, the contract has effect as if the nominated person, and not the purchaser, had entered into the contract<sup>10</sup>. Unless otherwise agreed, any time limit in the contract as it so has effect starts to run again on the service of such a notice; and nothing in the contract as it has effect by virtue of such a notice requires the nominated person to complete the purchase before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the day on which he is deemed to have entered into the contract<sup>11</sup>.

If the nominated person:

- 4291 (a) does not serve notice of election<sup>12</sup> on the landlord by the time mentioned above<sup>13</sup>; or 4292 (b) does not satisfy the requirements of heads (1) and (2) above within the statutory period<sup>14</sup>, the relevant statutory provisions<sup>15</sup> apply as if he had given notice of withdrawal<sup>16</sup> at the end of that period<sup>17</sup>.

1763. Election in case of disposal for non-monetary consideration.

The following provisions apply where an acceptance notice<sup>1</sup> is duly served<sup>2</sup> on the landlord<sup>3</sup> indicating an intention to accept the offer<sup>4</sup> where the consideration required does not consist, or does not wholly consist, of money<sup>5</sup>.

The requisite majority of qualifying tenants<sup>6</sup> of the constituent flats<sup>7</sup> may, by notice served on the landlord within:

- 4293 (1) the period specified in the offer notice<sup>8</sup> for nominating a person or persons<sup>9</sup>; or
- 4294 (2) such longer period as may be agreed between the landlord and the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats, elect that the following provisions are to apply<sup>10</sup>. Where such an election is made and the landlord disposes of the protected interest<sup>11</sup> on terms corresponding to those specified in his offer notice in accordance with the statutory requirements<sup>12</sup>, the statutory provisions relating to the enforcement of the tenants' rights against the purchaser and subsequent purchasers<sup>13</sup> have effect as if no offer notice had been served and with other specified modifications<sup>14</sup>. For the purposes of those provisions as they so have effect, so much of the consideration for the original disposal<sup>15</sup> as did not consist of money is to be treated as such amount in money as was equivalent to its value in the hands of the landlord<sup>16</sup>; and the landlord or the nominated person<sup>17</sup> may apply to have that amount determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>18</sup>.

Covenant etc affecting landlord's power to dispose.

1765. Covenant etc affecting landlord's power to dispose.

Where the landlord<sup>1</sup> is obliged to proceed<sup>2</sup> but is precluded by a covenant, condition or other obligation from disposing of the protected interest<sup>3</sup> to the nominated person<sup>4</sup> unless the consent of some other person is obtained:

- 4295 (1) he must use his best endeavours to secure that the consent of that person to that disposal<sup>5</sup> is given; and

- 4296 (2) if it appears to him that that person is obliged not to withhold his consent unreasonably but has nevertheless so withheld it, he must institute proceedings for a declaration to that effect<sup>6</sup>.

These requirements cease to apply if a notice of withdrawal from the transaction is served by either party<sup>7</sup> or if notice is served<sup>8</sup> stating the landlord's offer has lapsed because the premises have ceased to be premises to which the right of first refusal applies<sup>9</sup>.

Where the landlord has discharged any duty imposed on him by heads (1) and (2) above but any such consent as is there mentioned has been withheld, and no such declaration as is there mentioned has been made, the landlord may serve a notice on the nominated person stating that to be the case; and when such a notice has been served, the landlord may, during the period of 12 months beginning with the date of service of the notice, dispose of the protected interest to such person as he thinks fit, but subject to the following restrictions<sup>10</sup>. Where the offer notice<sup>11</sup> was one to which the statutory requirements relating to a sale by auction<sup>12</sup> applied, the restrictions are:

- 4297 (a) that the disposal is made by means of a sale at a public auction; and 4298 (b) that the other terms correspond to those specified in the offer notice<sup>13</sup>.

In any other case the restrictions are:

- 4299 (i) that the deposit and consideration required are not less than those specified in the offer notice or, if higher, those agreed between the landlord and the nominated person, subject to contract; and 4300 (ii) that the other terms correspond to those specified in the offer notice<sup>14</sup>.

1766. Notice of withdrawal by nominated person.

Where the landlord<sup>1</sup> is obliged to proceed<sup>2</sup>, the nominated person<sup>3</sup> may serve notice on the landlord (a 'notice of withdrawal') indicating his intention no longer to proceed with the acquisition of the protected interest<sup>4</sup>.

If at any time the nominated person becomes aware that the number of the qualifying tenants<sup>5</sup> of the constituent flats<sup>6</sup> desiring to proceed with the acquisition of the protected interest is less than the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of those flats<sup>7</sup>, he must forthwith serve a notice of withdrawal<sup>8</sup>.

Where notice of withdrawal is given by the nominated person under the above provisions, the landlord may, during the period of 12 months beginning with the date of service of the notice, dispose of the protected interest to such person as he thinks fit, but subject to the following restrictions<sup>9</sup>. Where the offer notice<sup>10</sup> was one to which the statutory requirements relating to a sale by auction<sup>11</sup> applied, the restrictions are:

- 4301 (1) that the disposal<sup>12</sup> is made by means of a sale at a public auction; and
- 4302 (2) that the other terms correspond to those specified in the offer notice<sup>13</sup>.

In any other case the restrictions are:

- 4303 (a) that the deposit and consideration required are not less than those specified in the offer notice or, if higher, those agreed between the landlord and the nominated person, subject to contract; and
- 4304 (b) that the other terms correspond to those specified in the offer notice<sup>14</sup>.

If notice of withdrawal is served under the above provisions before the end of the first four weeks of the nomination period specified in the offer notice, the nominated person and the qualifying tenants who served the acceptance notice<sup>15</sup> are not liable for any costs incurred by the landlord in connection with the disposal<sup>16</sup>. If notice of withdrawal is so served after the end of those four weeks, the landlord may recover from the nominated person and the qualifying tenants who served the acceptance notice any costs reasonably incurred by him in connection with any disposal between the end of those four weeks and the time when the notice of withdrawal was served on him; and any such liability of the nominated person and those tenants is a joint and several liability<sup>17</sup>.

The above provisions do not apply after a binding contract for the disposal of the protected interest:

- 4305 (i) has been entered into by the landlord and the nominated person; or 4306 (ii) has otherwise come into existence between the landlord and the nominated person by virtue of any statutory provision<sup>18</sup> relating to the collective right of first refusal<sup>19</sup>.

Where the landlord<sup>1</sup> is obliged to proceed<sup>2</sup>, he may serve notice on the nominated person<sup>3</sup> (a 'notice of withdrawal') indicating his intention no longer to proceed with the disposal<sup>4</sup> of the protected interest<sup>5</sup>. Where a notice of withdrawal is given by the landlord, he is not entitled to dispose of the protected interest during the period of 12 months beginning with the date of service of the notice<sup>6</sup>.

If a notice of withdrawal is served before the end of the first four weeks of the nomination period specified in the offer notice<sup>7</sup>, the landlord is not liable for any costs incurred in connection with the disposal by the nominated person and the qualifying tenants<sup>8</sup> who served the acceptance notice<sup>9</sup>. If a notice of withdrawal is served after the end of those four weeks, the nominated person and the qualifying tenants who served the acceptance notice may recover from the landlord any costs reasonably incurred by them in connection with the disposal between the end of those four weeks and the time when the notice of withdrawal was served<sup>10</sup>.

1768. Lapse of landlord's offer.

If after a landlord<sup>1</sup> has served an offer notice<sup>2</sup> the premises concerned cease to be premises to which the collective right of first refusal applies<sup>3</sup>, the landlord may serve a notice on the qualifying tenants<sup>4</sup> of the constituent flats<sup>5</sup> stating:

- 4309 (1) that the premises have ceased to be premises to which that right applies;
and 4310 (2) that the offer notice, and anything done in pursuance of it, is to be treated as not having been served or done; and on the service of such a notice the statutory provisions relating to the right of first refusal<sup>6</sup> cease to have effect in relation to that disposal<sup>7</sup>. A landlord who has not served such a notice on all of the qualifying tenants of the constituent flats is nevertheless to be treated as having duly served such a notice:

- 4311 (a) if he has served such a notice on not less than 90% of those tenants; or 4312 (b) where those qualifying tenants number less than ten, if he has served such a notice on all but one of them<sup>8</sup>.

Where the landlord is entitled to serve such a notice but does not do so, the statutory provisions relating to the right of first refusal<sup>9</sup> continue to have effect in relation to the disposal in question as if the premises in question were still premises to which those provisions apply<sup>10</sup>.

The above provisions do not apply after a binding contract for the disposal of the protected interest<sup>11</sup>:

- 4313 (i) has been entered into by the landlord and the nominated person<sup>12</sup>; or 4314 (ii) has otherwise come into existence between the landlord and the nominated person by virtue of any relevant<sup>13</sup> statutory provision<sup>14</sup>.

Where a binding contract for the disposal of the protected interest has been entered into between the landlord and the nominated person but it has been lawfully rescinded by the landlord, the landlord may, during the period of 12 months beginning with the date of the rescission of the contract, dispose of that interest to such person, and on such terms, as he thinks fit<sup>15</sup>.

1769. Circumstances in which tenants' rights enforceable against purchaser.

The following provisions<sup>1</sup> apply where a landlord<sup>2</sup> has made a relevant disposal<sup>3</sup> affecting premises to which at the time of the disposal the collective right of first refusal<sup>4</sup> applied ('the original disposal'), and either:

- 4315 (1) no offer notice was served<sup>5</sup> by the landlord with respect to that disposal; or
- 4316 (2) the disposal was made in contravention of any relevant statutory provision<sup>6</sup>, and the premises are still premises to which the right of first refusal<sup>7</sup> applies<sup>8</sup>. In those circumstances the requisite majority of the qualifying tenants<sup>9</sup> of the flats<sup>10</sup> contained in the premises affected by the relevant disposal (the 'constituent flats')<sup>11</sup> have the following statutory rights:

- 4317 (a) the right to information as to the terms of the disposal etc<sup>12</sup>;
- 4318 (b) the right of the qualifying tenants to take the benefit of the contract<sup>13</sup>;
- 4319 (c) the right of the qualifying tenants to compel a sale etc by the purchaser<sup>14</sup>;
- and
- 4320 (d) the right<sup>15</sup> of the qualifying tenants to compel the grant of a new tenancy by the superior landlord<sup>16</sup>.

In the statutory provisions conferring the rights referred to in heads (a) to (d) above, the transferee<sup>17</sup> under the original disposal, or, in the case of the surrender of a tenancy, the superior landlord, is referred to as 'the purchaser'; but this is not to be read as restricting the operation of those provisions to disposals for consideration<sup>18</sup>.

UPDATE

1769 Circumstances in which tenants' rights enforceable against purchaser

NOTES--Where a landlord enters into a contract to surrender a headlease without first serving a notice on the qualifying tenants, those tenants have the ability to serve a notice on the freeholder requiring him to grant a new lease to their nominee on the same terms as the surrendered lease: Kensington Heights Commercial Co Ltd v Campden Hill Developments Ltd [2007] EWCA Civ 245, [2007] 2 All ER 751.

1770. Right to information as to terms of disposal etc.

The requisite majority of qualifying tenants<sup>1</sup> of the constituent flats<sup>2</sup> may serve a notice on the purchaser<sup>3</sup> requiring him:

- 4321 (1) to give particulars of the terms on which the original disposal<sup>4</sup> was made, including the deposit and consideration required, and the date on which it was made; and
- 4322 (2) where the disposal consisted of entering into a contract, to provide a copy of the contract<sup>5</sup>.

The notice must specify the name and address of the person to whom, on behalf of the tenants, the particulars are to be given, or the copy of the contract provided<sup>6</sup>.

Any such notice must be served before the end of the period of four months beginning with the date by which:

- 4323 (a) notices in pursuance of the statutory duty of the new landlord to inform tenants of their rights<sup>7</sup> and relating to the original disposal; or
  - 4324 (b) where that statutory duty does not apply, documents of any other description:
- 299
- 158. (i) indicating that the original disposal has taken place; and
  - 159. (ii) alerting the tenants to the existence of their rights of first refusal<sup>8</sup> and the time within which any such rights must be exercised, have been served on the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats<sup>9</sup>.
- 300

A person served with a notice under these provisions must comply with it within the period of one month beginning with the date on which it is served on him<sup>10</sup>.

TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(1) COLLECTIVE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL/(iii) Enforcement by Tenants of Rights against Purchaser or Subsequent Purchasers/1771. Right of qualifying tenants to take benefit of contract.

1771. Right of qualifying tenants to take benefit of contract.

Where the original disposal<sup>1</sup> consisted of entering into a contract, the requisite majority of qualifying tenants<sup>2</sup> of the constituent flats<sup>3</sup> may by notice to the landlord<sup>4</sup> elect that the contract is to have effect as if entered into not with the purchaser<sup>5</sup> but with a person or persons nominated for these purposes<sup>6</sup> by the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats<sup>7</sup>. Any such notice must be served before the end of the period of six months beginning:

- 4325 (1) if a notice was served on the purchaser in exercise of the statutory right to information as to the terms of the disposal etc<sup>8</sup>, with the date on which the purchaser complied with that notice;
- 4326 (2) in any other case, with the date by which documents of any description:
  - 301 160. (a) indicating that the original disposal took place; and
  - 161. (b) alerting the tenants to the existence of their rights of first refusal<sup>9</sup> and the time within which any such rights must be exercised,
  - 302 4327 have been served on the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats<sup>10</sup>.

The notice does not have effect as mentioned above unless the nominated person:

- 4328 (i) fulfils any requirements as to the deposit required on entering into the contract; and
- 4329 (ii) fulfils any other conditions required to be fulfilled by the purchaser on entering into the contract<sup>11</sup>.

Unless otherwise agreed, any time limit in the contract as it has effect by virtue of a notice under these provisions starts to run again on the service of that notice; and nothing in the contract as it has effect by virtue of such a notice is to require the nominated person to complete the purchase before the end of the period of 28 days beginning with the day on which he is deemed to have entered into the contract<sup>12</sup>.

Where the original disposal related to other property in addition to the premises to which the right of first refusal applied<sup>13</sup> at the time of the disposal, a notice under these provisions has effect only in relation to the premises to which that right applied at the time of the original disposal, and the terms of the contract have effect with any necessary modifications<sup>14</sup>. In such a case the notice under these provisions may specify the subject-matter of the disposal, and the terms on which the disposal is to be made, whether doing so expressly or by reference to the original disposal, or may provide for that estate or interest, or any such terms, to be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>15</sup>.

A person nominated for those purposes by the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats may be replaced by another person so nominated if, and only if, he has (for any reason) ceased to be able to act as a nominated person: Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 12D(2) (as so substituted). Where two or more persons have been nominated and any of them ceases to act without being replaced, the remaining person or persons so nominated may continue to act: s 12D(3) (as so substituted). Where, in the exercise of its power to award costs, the court or the Lands Tribunal makes, in connection with any proceedings arising under or by virtue of Pt I (ss 1-20) (as amended) (see PARA 1744 et seq ante, PARA 1772 et seq post), an award of costs against the person or persons so nominated, the liability for those costs is a joint and several liability of that person or those persons together with the qualifying tenants by whom the relevant notice was served: s 12D(4) (as so substituted).

1771 Right of qualifying tenants to take benefit of contract

NOTE 6--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal: Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 12D(4) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/26. TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(1) COLLECTIVE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL/(iii) Enforcement by Tenants of Rights against Purchaser or Subsequent Purchasers/1772. Right of qualifying tenants to compel sale etc by purchaser.

1772. Right of qualifying tenants to compel sale etc by purchaser.

The following provisions apply where:

- 4330 (1) the original disposal<sup>1</sup> consisted of entering into a contract and no notice has been served in pursuance of the statutory right of the qualifying tenants<sup>2</sup> to take the benefit of the contract<sup>3</sup>; or
- 4331 (2) the original disposal did not consist of entering into a contract<sup>4</sup>.

The requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats<sup>5</sup> may serve a notice (a 'purchase notice') on the purchaser<sup>6</sup> requiring him to dispose of the estate or interest that was the subject-matter of the original disposal, on the terms on which it was made, including those relating to the consideration payable, to a person or persons nominated for these purposes<sup>7</sup> by any such majority of qualifying tenants of those flats<sup>8</sup>. Any such notice must be served before the end of the period of six months beginning:

- 4332 (a) if a notice was served on the purchaser in exercise of the statutory right to information as to the terms of the disposal etc<sup>9</sup>, with the date on which the purchaser complied with that notice;
  - 4333 (b) in any other case, with the date by which:
- 303
- 162. (i) notices in pursuance of the statutory duty of the new landlord to inform tenants of their rights<sup>10</sup> and relating to the original disposal; or
  - 163. (ii) where that statutory duty does not apply, documents of any other description indicating that the original disposal has taken place and alerting the tenants to the existence of their rights of first refusal<sup>11</sup> and the time within which any such rights must be exercised,
- 304
- 4334 have been served on the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats<sup>12</sup>.

Where the original disposal related to other property in addition to premises to which the right of first refusal applied<sup>13</sup> at the time of the disposal, a purchase notice must:

- 4335 (A) require the purchaser only to make a disposal relating to those premises; and
- 4336 (B) require him to do so on the terms referred to above<sup>14</sup> with any necessary modifications; and in such a case the purchase notice may specify the subject-matter of the disposal, and the terms on which the disposal is to be made, whether doing so expressly or by reference to the original disposal, or may provide for those matters to be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>15</sup>.

Where the property which the purchaser is required to dispose of in pursuance of the purchase notice has since the original disposal increased in monetary value owing to any change in circumstances, other than a change in the value of money, the amount of the consideration payable to the purchaser for the disposal by him of the property in pursuance of the purchase notice is to be the amount that might reasonably have been obtained on a corresponding disposal made on the open market at the time of the original disposal if the change in circumstances had already taken place<sup>16</sup>.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/26. TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(1) COLLECTIVE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL/(iii) Enforcement by Tenants of Rights against Purchaser or Subsequent Purchasers/1773. Discharge of mortgages etc and duty of nominated person to redeem them.

1773. Discharge of mortgages etc and duty of nominated person to redeem them.

The following provisions apply where:

- 4337 (1) the original disposal<sup>1</sup> consisted of entering into a contract and no notice has been served in pursuance of the statutory right of the qualifying tenants<sup>2</sup> to take the benefit of the contract<sup>3</sup>; or
- 4338 (2) the original disposal did not consist of entering into a contract<sup>4</sup>.

Where the property which the purchaser<sup>5</sup> is required to dispose of in pursuance of the purchase notice<sup>6</sup> has since the original disposal become subject to any charge or other incumbrance, then, unless the court<sup>7</sup> by order directs otherwise:

- 4339 (a) in the case of a charge to secure the payment of money or the performance of any other obligation by the purchaser or any other person, the instrument by virtue of which the property is disposed of by the purchaser to the person or persons nominated for these purposes<sup>8</sup> operates<sup>9</sup> to discharge the property from that charge<sup>10</sup>; and
- 4340 (b) in the case of any other incumbrance, the property must be so disposed of subject to the incumbrance<sup>11</sup> but with a reduction in the consideration payable to the purchaser corresponding to the amount by which the existence of the incumbrance reduces the value of the property<sup>12</sup>.

Where, in accordance with head (a) above, an instrument will operate to discharge any property from a charge to secure the payment of money, it is the duty of the nominated person<sup>13</sup> to apply the consideration payable<sup>14</sup>, in the first instance, in or towards the redemption of any such charge and, if more than one, according to their priorities<sup>15</sup>. Where this applies to any charge or charges, then if, and only if, the consideration payable is applied by the nominated person in accordance therewith or paid into court by him<sup>16</sup>, the instrument in question operates to discharge any property from a charge to secure the payment of money notwithstanding that the consideration payable is insufficient to enable the charge or charges to be redeemed in its or their entirety<sup>17</sup>.

For the purpose of determining the amount payable in respect of any such charge, a person entitled to the benefit of such a charge is not permitted to exercise any right to consolidate that charge with a separate charge on other property<sup>18</sup>; and, for the purpose of discharging any property from such a charge, a person may be required to accept three months' or any longer notice of the intention to pay the whole or part of the principal secured by the charge, together with interest to the date of payment, notwithstanding that the terms of the security make other provision or no provision as to the time and manner of payment; but he is entitled, if he so requires, to receive such additional payment as is reasonable in the circumstances in respect of the costs of reinvestment or other incidental costs and expenses and in respect of any reduction in the rate of interest obtainable on reinvestment<sup>19</sup>.

Where any property is discharged by head (a) above from a charge, without the obligations secured by the charge being satisfied by the receipt of the whole or part of the consideration payable, the discharge of that property from the charge does not prejudice any right or remedy for the enforcement of those obligations against other property comprised in the same or any other security, nor prejudice any personal liability as principal or otherwise of the purchaser<sup>20</sup> or any other person<sup>21</sup>.

10 Ibid s 12B(5)(a) (as substituted: see note 4 supra). Section 12B(5)(a) (as so substituted) and Sch 1 Pt I (as amended) apply, with any necessary modifications, to mortgages and liens as they apply to charges; but nothing in those provisions applies to a rentcharge: s 12B(6) (as so substituted).

15 Ibid Sch 1 para 2(1) (as amended: see note 12 supra). Subject to Sch 1 para 2(4), Sch 1 para 2(1) (as so amended) does not apply to a charge which is a debenture holders' charge, that is to say a charge, whether a floating charge or not, in favour of the holders of a series of debentures issued by a company or other body of persons, or in favour of trustees for such debenture holders; and any such charge must be disregarded in determining priorities for the purposes of Sch 1 para 2(1): Sch 1 para 2(3). Schedule 1 para 2(3) does not have effect, however, in relation to a charge in favour of trustees for debenture holders which at the date of the instrument by virtue of which the property is disposed of by the new landlord is, as regards that property, a specific and not a floating charge: Sch 1 para 2(4).

Nothing in Sch 1 (as amended) is to be construed as preventing a person from joining in the instrument referred to in Sch 1 para 2(1) (as so amended) for the purpose of discharging the property in question from any charge without payment or for a lesser payment than that to which he would otherwise be entitled; and, if he does so, the persons to whom the consideration payable ought to be paid must be determined accordingly: Sch 1 para 5(2).

TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(1) COLLECTIVE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL/(iii) Enforcement by Tenants of Rights against Purchaser or Subsequent Purchasers/1774. Payments into court.

1774. Payments into court.

Where any property is to be discharged from a charge<sup>1</sup> and a person is or may be entitled<sup>2</sup> in respect of the charge to receive the whole or part of the consideration payable<sup>3</sup>, then, if:

4341 (1) for any reason difficulty arises in ascertaining how much is to be payable in respect of the charge; or

4342 (2) for any specified reason<sup>4</sup> difficulty arises in making a payment in respect of the charge, the nominated person<sup>5</sup> may pay into court on account of the consideration payable the amount, if known, of the payment to be made in respect of the charge or, if that amount is not known, the whole of that consideration or such lesser amount as the nominated person thinks right in order to provide for that payment<sup>6</sup>.

Payment may be made into court in accordance with head (2) above where the difficulty arises for any of the following reasons, namely:

- 4343 (a) because a person who is or may be entitled to receive payment cannot be found or ascertained;
- 4344 (b) because any such person refuses or fails to make out a title, or to accept payment and give a proper discharge, or to take any steps reasonably required of him to enable the sum payable to be ascertained and paid; or
- 4345 (c) because a tender of the sum payable cannot, by reason of complications in the title to it or the want of two or more trustees or for other reasons, be effected, or not without incurring or involving unreasonable cost or delay<sup>7</sup>.

Without prejudice to head (1) above, the whole or part of the consideration payable may be paid into court by the nominated person if, before execution of the instrument<sup>8</sup>, notice is given to him:

- 4346 (i) that the purchaser<sup>9</sup> or a person entitled to the benefit of a charge on the property in question requires him to do so for the purpose of protecting the rights of persons so entitled, or for reasons related to the bankruptcy or winding up of the purchaser; or
- 4347 (ii) that steps have been taken to enforce any charge on the purchaser's interest in that property by the bringing of proceedings in any court, or by the appointment of a receiver or otherwise;

and, where payment into court is to be made by reason only of a notice under this provision, and the notice is given with reference to proceedings in a court specified in the notice other than a county court, payment must be made into the court so specified<sup>10</sup>.

Subsequent Purchasers/1775. Right of qualifying tenants to compel grant of new tenancy by superior landlord.

1775. Right of qualifying tenants to compel grant of new tenancy by superior landlord.

The following provisions apply where the original disposal<sup>1</sup> consisted of the surrender by the landlord<sup>2</sup> of a tenancy held by him ('the relevant tenancy')<sup>3</sup>.

The requisite majority of qualifying tenants<sup>4</sup> of the constituent flats<sup>5</sup> may serve a notice on the purchaser<sup>6</sup> requiring him to grant a new tenancy of the premises which were subject to the relevant tenancy, on the same terms as those of the relevant tenancy and so as to expire on the same date as that tenancy would have expired, to a person or persons nominated for these purposes<sup>7</sup> by any such majority of qualifying tenants of those flats<sup>8</sup>. Any such notice must be served before the end of the period of six months beginning:

- 4348 (1) if a notice was served on the purchaser in exercise of the statutory right to information as to the terms of the disposal etc<sup>9</sup>, with the date on which the purchaser complied with that notice;
- 4349 (2) in any other case, with the date by which documents of any description indicating that the original disposal has taken place, and alerting the tenants to the existence of their rights of first refusal<sup>10</sup> and the time within which any such rights must be exercised, have been served on the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats<sup>11</sup>.

If the purchaser paid any amount to the landlord as consideration for the surrender by him of that tenancy, the nominated person must pay that amount to the purchaser<sup>12</sup>.

Where the premises subject to the relevant tenancy included premises other than premises to which the right of first refusal applied<sup>13</sup> at the time of the disposal, a notice under these provisions must:

- 4350 (a) require the purchaser only to grant a new tenancy relating to the premises to which that right then applied; and
- 4351 (b) require him to do so on the terms referred to above<sup>14</sup> subject to any necessary modifications<sup>15</sup>.

The purchase notice may specify the subject-matter of the disposal<sup>16</sup>, and the terms on which the disposal is to be made, whether doing so expressly or by reference to the original disposal, or may provide for those matters to be determined by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>17</sup>.

TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(1) COLLECTIVE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL/(iii) Enforcement by Tenants of Rights against Purchaser or Subsequent Purchasers/1776. Determination of questions by leasehold valuation tribunal.

1776. Determination of questions by leasehold valuation tribunal.

A leasehold valuation tribunal has jurisdiction to hear and determine:

- 4352 (1) any question arising in relation to any matters specified in a notice of election to take the benefits of a contract<sup>1</sup> or a purchase notice<sup>2</sup>; and
- 4353 (2) any question arising for determination as mentioned<sup>3</sup> in the relevant statutory provisions<sup>4</sup>.

On an application under this provision the interests of the persons by whom the notice referred to in head (1) above was served<sup>5</sup> must be represented by the nominated person<sup>6</sup>; and accordingly the parties to any such application must not include those persons<sup>7</sup>.

As well as the general particulars to be included with an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>8</sup>, the following documents and particulars must be included with an application under the above provisions:

- 4354 (a) a copy of any notice served in relation to the enfranchisement;
- 4355 (b) the name and address of the freeholder and any intermediate landlord;
- 4356 (c) the name and address of any person having a mortgage or other charge over an interest in the premises the subject of the application held by the freeholder or other landlord;
- 4357 (d) the date on which the landlord acquired the property and the terms of acquisition including the sums paid; and
- 4358 (e) a copy of the lease<sup>9</sup>.

The tribunal may, however, dispense with or relax any of the requirements of heads (a) to (e) above if satisfied that the particulars and documents included with an application are sufficient to enable the application to be determined and that no prejudice will, or is likely to, be caused to any party to the application<sup>10</sup>.

4 Ibid s 13(1) (s 13 substituted by the Housing Act 1996 s 92(1), Sch 6 Pt II). TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(1) COLLECTIVE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL/(iii) Enforcement by Tenants of Rights against Purchaser or Subsequent Purchasers/1777. Withdrawal of nominated person from transaction.

1777. Withdrawal of nominated person from transaction.

Where notice has been duly served<sup>1</sup> on the landlord<sup>2</sup> under:

4359 (1) the statutory provision conferring a right on the qualifying tenants<sup>3</sup> to compel a sale etc by the purchaser<sup>4</sup>; or

4360 (2) the statutory provision conferring a right on the qualifying tenants to compel the grant of a new tenancy by the superior landlord<sup>5</sup>, the nominated person<sup>6</sup> may at any time before a binding contract is entered into in pursuance of the notice, serve notice on the purchaser (a 'notice of withdrawal') indicating an intention no longer to proceed with the disposal<sup>7</sup>.

If at any such time the nominated person becomes aware that the number of qualifying tenants of the constituent flats<sup>8</sup> desiring to proceed with the disposal is less than the requisite majority of those tenants<sup>9</sup>, he must forthwith serve a notice of withdrawal<sup>10</sup>.

If a notice of withdrawal is served under these provisions the purchaser may recover from the nominated person any costs reasonably incurred by him in connection with the disposal down to the time when the notice is served on him<sup>11</sup>. If a notice of withdrawal is served at a time when proceedings arising under or by virtue of the right of first refusal<sup>12</sup> are pending before the court<sup>13</sup> or the Lands Tribunal, the liability of the nominated person for any costs incurred by the purchaser as so mentioned is to be such as may be determined by the court or, as the case may be, by the tribunal<sup>14</sup>. The costs that may be recovered by the purchaser under these provisions do not include any costs incurred by him in connection with an application to a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>15</sup>.

UPDATE

1777 Withdrawal of nominated person from transaction

TEXT AND NOTE 14--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal:
Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 14(4) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/26. TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(1) COLLECTIVE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL/(iii) Enforcement by Tenants of Rights against Purchaser or Subsequent Purchasers/1778. Right of qualifying tenants against subsequent purchaser.

1778. Right of qualifying tenants against subsequent purchaser.

The following provisions apply where, at the time when a notice is served<sup>1</sup> on the purchaser<sup>2</sup> under the statutory provision:

- 4361 (1) conferring a right to information as to the terms of a disposal etc<sup>3</sup>;
- 4362 (2) conferring a right on the qualifying tenants<sup>4</sup> to take the benefit of the contract<sup>5</sup>;
- 4363 (3) conferring a right on the qualifying tenants to compel a sale etc by the purchaser<sup>6</sup>; or
- 4364 (4) conferring a right on the qualifying tenants to compel the grant of a new tenancy by the superior landlord<sup>7</sup>, he no longer holds the estate or interest that was the subject-matter of the original disposal<sup>8</sup>.

In the case of such a notice as is referred to in head (1) above, the purchaser must, within the period for complying with that notice:

- 4365 (a) serve notice on the person specified in the notice as the person to whom particulars are to be provided of the name and address of the person to whom he has disposed of that estate or interest ('the subsequent purchaser'); and
- 4366 (b) serve on the subsequent purchaser a copy of the notice referred to in head (1) above and of the particulars given by him in response to it<sup>9</sup>.

In the case of a notice such as is referred to in head (2), head (3) or head (4) above, the purchaser must forthwith:

- 4367 (i) forward the notice to the subsequent purchaser; and
- 4368 (ii) serve on the nominated person<sup>10</sup> notice of the name and address of the subsequent purchaser<sup>11</sup>.

Once the purchaser serves a notice in accordance with head (a) or head (ii) above, then the statutory provisions described in heads (2) to (4) above<sup>12</sup>, the provisions relating to determination of questions by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>13</sup> and the provisions relating to withdrawal of the nominated person from the transaction<sup>14</sup>, instead of applying to the purchaser, apply to the subsequent purchaser as if he were the transferee<sup>15</sup> under the original disposal<sup>16</sup>.

The above provisions have effect, with any necessary modifications, in a case where, instead of disposing of the whole of the estate or interest referred to above to another person, the purchaser has disposed of it in part or in parts to one or more other persons<sup>17</sup>.

(iv) Termination of Rights against Purchasers or Subsequent Purchasers

1779. Termination of rights against purchasers or subsequent purchasers.

If, at any time after a notice has been served<sup>1</sup> under the statutory provisions:

- 4369 (1) conferring a right to information as to the terms of a disposal etc<sup>2</sup>;
- 4370 (2) conferring a right on the qualifying tenants<sup>3</sup> to take the benefit of the contract<sup>4</sup>;

- 4371 (3) conferring a right on the qualifying tenants to compel a sale etc by the purchaser<sup>5</sup>; or
- 4372 (4) conferring a right on the qualifying tenants to compel the grant of a new tenancy by the superior landlord<sup>6</sup>, the premises affected by the original disposal<sup>7</sup> cease to be premises to which the right of first refusal applies<sup>8</sup>, the purchaser<sup>9</sup> may serve a notice on the qualifying tenants of the constituent flats<sup>10</sup> stating that the premises have ceased to be premises to which that right applies, and that any such notice served on him, and anything done in pursuance of it, is to be treated as not having been served or done<sup>11</sup>. A landlord<sup>12</sup> who has not served such a notice on all of the qualifying tenants of the constituent flats is nevertheless to be treated as having duly served such a notice if he has served such a notice on not less than 90% of those tenants, or, where those qualifying tenants number less than ten, if he has served such a notice on all but one of them<sup>13</sup>.

Where a period of three months beginning with the date of service of a notice under the provisions referred to in head (1), head (2) or head (3) above on the purchaser has expired:

- 4373 (a) without any binding contract having been entered into between the purchaser and the nominated person<sup>14</sup>; and
- 4374 (b) without there having been made any application in connection with the notice to the court<sup>15</sup> or to a leasehold valuation tribunal, the purchaser may serve on the nominated person a notice stating that the notice, and anything done in pursuance of it, is to be treated as not having been served or done<sup>16</sup>.

Where any such application as is mentioned in head (b) above was made within the period of three months there referred to, but:

- 4375 (i) a period of two months beginning with the date of the determination of that application has expired;
- 4376 (ii) no binding contract has been entered into between the purchaser and the nominated person; and
- 4377 (iii) no other such application is pending, the purchaser may serve on the nominated person a notice stating that any notice served on him under the provisions referred to in head (1), head (2) or head (3) above, and anything done in pursuance of any such notice, is to be treated as not having been served or done<sup>17</sup>.

Where the purchaser serves a notice in accordance with the above provisions, the tenants' right of first refusal<sup>18</sup> ceases to have effect in relation to him in connection with the original disposal<sup>19</sup>. Where a purchaser is entitled to serve a notice stating that the premises have ceased to be premises to which that right applies<sup>20</sup> but does not do so, that right<sup>21</sup> continues to have effect in relation to him in connection with the original disposal as if the premises in question were still premises to which it applies<sup>22</sup>.

1780. Notices served by prospective purchasers to ensure that rights of first refusal do not arise.

Where:

- 4378 (1) any disposal<sup>1</sup> of an estate or interest in any premises consisting of the whole or part of a building is proposed to be made by a landlord<sup>2</sup>; and
- 4379 (2) it appears to the person who would be the transferee<sup>3</sup> under that disposal ('the purchaser') that any such disposal would, or might, be a relevant disposal<sup>4</sup> affecting premises to which the right of first refusal applies<sup>5</sup>, the purchaser may serve notices under this provision on the tenants<sup>6</sup> of the flats<sup>7</sup> contained in the premises referred to in head (1) above ('the flats affected')<sup>8</sup>.

Any such notice must:

- 4380 (a) inform the person on whom it is served of the general nature of the principal terms of the proposed disposal, including in particular:
  - 305 164. (i) the property to which it would relate and the estate or interest in that property proposed to be disposed of by the landlord; and
  - 165. (ii) the consideration required by him for making the disposal;
  - 306 4381 (b) invite that person to serve a notice on the purchaser stating:
    - 307 166. (i) whether the landlord has served on him, or on any predecessor in title of his, an offer notice<sup>9</sup> with respect to the disposal; and
    - 167. (ii) if the landlord has not so served any such notice, whether he is aware of any reason why he is not entitled to be served with any such notice by the landlord; and
    - 168. (iii) if he is not so aware, whether he would wish to avail himself of the right of first refusal conferred by any such notice if it were served; and
    - 308 4382 (c) inform that person of the effect<sup>10</sup> of the following provisions<sup>11</sup>.

Where the purchaser has so served notices on at least 80% of the tenants of the flats affected and:

- 4383 (A) not more than 50% of the tenants on whom those notices have been served by the purchaser have served notices on him in pursuance of head (b) above by the end of the period of two months beginning with the date on which the last of them was served by him with a notice under these provisions; or
- 4384 (B) more than 50% of the tenants on whom those notices have been served by the purchaser have served notices on him in pursuance of head (b) above but the notices in each case indicate that the tenant serving it either does not regard himself as being entitled to be served by the landlord with an offer notice<sup>12</sup> with respect to the disposal or would not wish to avail himself of the right of first refusal conferred by such a notice if it were served,

The court<sup>1</sup> may, on the application of any person interested, make an order requiring any person who has made default in complying with any duty imposed on him by any provision relating to the right of first refusal<sup>2</sup> to make good the default within such time as is specified in the order<sup>3</sup>. An application may not, however, be so made unless:

4385 (1) a notice has been previously served on the person in question requiring him to make good the default<sup>4</sup>; and 4386 (2) more than 14 days have elapsed since the date of service of that notice without his having done so<sup>5</sup>.

The statutory restriction on making a relevant disposal<sup>6</sup> may be enforced by an injunction granted by the court<sup>7</sup>.

1782. Offence of failure to comply with statutory requirements.

A landlord<sup>1</sup> commits an offence if, without reasonable excuse, he makes a relevant disposal<sup>2</sup> affecting premises to which the right of first refusal applies<sup>3</sup>:

4387 (1) without having first complied with the statutory requirements as regards the service of offer notices<sup>4</sup> on the qualifying tenants<sup>5</sup> of flats<sup>6</sup> contained in the premises; or 4388 (2) in contravention of any prohibition or restriction imposed<sup>7</sup> by the relevant statutory provisions<sup>8</sup>.

Proceedings for such an offence may be brought by a local housing authority<sup>9</sup>; and a person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale<sup>10</sup>. Where such an offence committed by a body corporate is proved:

4389 (a) to have been committed with the consent or connivance of a director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate, or a person purporting to act in such a capacity; or

4390 (b) to be due to any neglect on the part of such an officer or person, he, as well as the body corporate, is guilty of the offence and liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly<sup>11</sup>. Where the affairs of a body corporate are managed by its members, the above provision applies in relation to the acts and defaults of a member in connection with his functions of management as if he were a director of the body corporate<sup>12</sup>.

Nothing in the above provisions, however, affects the validity of the disposal<sup>13</sup>.

(2) COLLECTIVE COMPULSORY ACQUISITION BY TENANTS OF LANDLORD'S INTEREST

1783. Right to apply for acquisition order and premises to which that right applies.

The following provisions<sup>1</sup> have effect for the purpose of enabling qualifying tenants<sup>2</sup> of flats<sup>3</sup> contained in any qualifying premises<sup>4</sup> to make an application to the court<sup>5</sup> for an order ('an acquisition order') providing for a person nominated by them to acquire their landlord's<sup>6</sup> interest in the premises without his consent<sup>7</sup> provided the conditions for making an acquisition order are met<sup>8</sup>.

Those provisions apply to premises if:

- 4391 (1) they consist of the whole or part of a building<sup>9</sup>; and
- 4392 (2) they contain two or more flats held by tenants of the landlord who are qualifying tenants<sup>10</sup>; and
- 4393 (3) the total number of flats held by such tenants is not less than two-thirds of the total number of flats contained in the premises<sup>11</sup>.

Those provisions do not, however, apply:

- 4394 (a) to any such premises<sup>12</sup> if:
  - 309 169. (i) any part or parts of the premises is or are occupied or intended to be occupied otherwise than for residential purposes; and
  - 170. (ii) the internal floor area of that part or those parts, taken together, exceeds 50%<sup>13</sup> of the internal floor area of the premises, taken as a whole;
  - 310 4395 and, for these purposes, the internal floor area of any common parts<sup>14</sup> is to be disregarded<sup>15</sup>;
  - 4396 (b) to any such premises at a time when:
    - 311 171. (i) the interest of the landlord in the premises is held by an exempt landlord<sup>16</sup> or a resident landlord<sup>17</sup>; or

1784. Meaning of 'qualifying tenant'.

A person is<sup>1</sup> a qualifying tenant of a flat<sup>2</sup> if he is the tenant of the flat under a long lease<sup>3</sup> other than one constituting a tenancy to which Part II of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954<sup>4</sup> applies<sup>5</sup>.

A person is not, however, to be regarded as being a qualifying tenant of a flat contained in any particular premises consisting of the whole or part of a building if, by virtue of one or more long leases none of which constitutes a tenancy to which Part II of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1954 applies, he is the tenant not only of the flat in question but also of at least two other flats contained in those premises<sup>6</sup>.

A tenant of a flat under a long lease whose landlord is a qualifying tenant of that flat is not to be regarded as being a qualifying tenant of that flat<sup>7</sup>.

1     Ie for the purposes of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 Pt III (ss 25-34) (as amended): see PARA 1783 ante; the text and notes 2-7 infra; and PARA 1785 et seq post.

6     Ibid s 26(2) (amended, and s 26(4) added, by the Housing Act 1988 s 119, Sch 13 para 4(1), (2)). For the purposes of the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 26(2) (as so amended), any tenant of a flat contained in the premises in question who is a body corporate is treated as the tenant of any other flat so contained and let to an associated company as defined in s 20(1) (see PARA 1748 note 8 ante): s 26(4) (as so added).

7     Ibid s 26(3).

TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(2) COLLECTIVE COMPULSORY ACQUISITION BY TENANTS OF LANDLORD'S INTEREST/1785. Preliminary notice by tenants.

1785. Preliminary notice by tenants.

Before an application for an acquisition order<sup>1</sup> is made in respect of any qualifying premises<sup>2</sup>, a notice must be served<sup>3</sup> on the landlord<sup>4</sup> by qualifying tenants<sup>5</sup> of the flats<sup>6</sup> contained in the premises who, at the date when it is served, constitute the requisite majority<sup>7</sup> of such tenants<sup>8</sup>. Such a notice must:

- 4398 (1) specify the names of the qualifying tenants by whom it is served, the addresses of their flats and the name and the address in England and Wales of a person on whom the landlord may serve notices<sup>9</sup>, including notices in proceedings<sup>10</sup>, instead of serving them on those tenants;
- 4399 (2) state that those tenants intend to make an application for an acquisition order to be made by the court in respect of such qualifying premises as are specified in the notice but, if head (4) below is applicable, that they will not do so if the landlord complies with the requirement specified in pursuance of that head;

- 4400 (3) specify the grounds on which the court<sup>11</sup> would be asked to make such an order and the matters that would be relied on by the tenants for the purpose of establishing those grounds;
- 4401 (4) where those matters are capable of being remedied by the landlord, require the landlord, within such reasonable period as is specified in the notice, to take such steps for the purpose of remedying them as are so specified; and
- 4402 (5) contain such information, if any, as the Secretary of State<sup>12</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>13</sup> may by regulations prescribe<sup>14</sup>.

The court may by order dispense with the requirement so to serve a notice in a case where it is satisfied that it would not be reasonably practicable to serve such a notice on the landlord; but the court may, when doing so, direct that such other notices are served, or such other steps are taken, as it thinks fit<sup>15</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'an acquisition order' see PARA 1783 ante.

2 I.e. any premises to which the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 Pt III (ss 25-34) (as amended) (see PARAS 1783-1784 ante; the text and notes 3-14 infra; and PARA 1786 et seq post) applies. As to such premises see PARA 1783 ante.

3 I.e. a notice under ibid s 27 (as amended): see the text and notes 4-15 infra.

4 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 53 note 1 ante.

5 For the meaning of 'qualifying tenant' see PARA 1784 ante.

6 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1744 note 7 ante.

7 For these purposes, any reference to the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the flats contained in any premises is a reference to qualifying tenants of the flats so contained with not less than two-thirds of the available votes; and (1) the total number of available votes must correspond to the total number of those flats for the time being let to qualifying tenants; and (2) there must be one available vote in respect of each of the flats so let which must be attributed to the qualifying tenant to whom it is let: Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 27(4) (amended by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 85(1), (3)). Nothing in the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 Pt III (ss 25-34) (as amended) is, however, to be construed as requiring the persons constituting any such majority in any one context to be the same as the persons constituting any such majority in any other context: s 27(5).

8 Ibid s 27(1). Section 27(1) is subject to s 27(3) (see the text and note 15 infra); s 27(1). As to the service of notices see PARA 1751 ante.

9 I.e. in connection with ibid Pt III (ss 25-34) (as amended).

10 For these purposes, 'notices in proceedings' means notices or other documents served in, or in connection with, any legal proceedings: ibid s 60(1).

11 For the meaning of 'the court' see PARA 1773 note 7 ante.

12 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante.

13 As to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

14 Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 27(2). At the date at which this title states the law, no such regulations had been made. As to the making of regulations generally see PARA 352 note 9 ante.

PARAS 1386-2000)/26. TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(2) COLLECTIVE COMPULSORY ACQUISITION BY TENANTS OF LANDLORD'S INTEREST/1786. Applications for acquisition orders.

1786. Applications for acquisition orders.

An application for an acquisition order<sup>1</sup> in respect of any qualifying premises<sup>2</sup> must be made by qualifying tenants<sup>3</sup> of the flats<sup>4</sup> contained in the premises who, at the date when it is made, constitute the requisite majority<sup>5</sup> of such tenants<sup>6</sup>. No such application may, however, be made to the court<sup>7</sup> unless:

- 4403 (1) in a case where a preliminary notice has been served<sup>8</sup>, either the specified period<sup>9</sup> has expired without the landlord's<sup>10</sup> having taken the steps that he was required to take<sup>11</sup> or he was not required to take such steps<sup>12</sup>; or
- 4404 (2) in a case where the requirement to serve such a notice has been dispensed with<sup>13</sup>, either any notices required to be served, and any other steps required to be taken, by virtue of the order have been served or, as the case may be, taken, or no direction was given by the court when making the order<sup>14</sup>.

An application for an acquisition order may be made<sup>15</sup> in respect of two or more qualifying premises<sup>16</sup>.

The claim form must:

- 4405 (a) identify the property to which the claim relates and give details to show that the statutory right to apply for an acquisition order<sup>17</sup> applies;
- 4406 (b) give details of the claimants to show that they constitute the requisite majority of qualifying tenants<sup>18</sup>;
- 4407 (c) state the names and addresses of the claimants and of the landlord of the property, or, if the landlord cannot be found or his identity ascertained, the steps taken to find him or ascertain his identity;
- 4408 (d) state the name and address of:
  - 313 173. (i) the person nominated by the claimants for the statutory purposes<sup>19</sup>; and
  - 174. (ii) every person known to the claimants who is likely to be affected by the application, including, but not limited to, the other tenants of flats contained in the property, whether or not they could have made a claim, any mortgagee or superior landlord of the landlord, and any tenants' association<sup>20</sup>; and
  - 314
- 4409 (e) state the grounds of the claim<sup>21</sup>.

A copy of the preliminary notice served on the landlord<sup>22</sup> must accompany the claim form unless the court has dispensed<sup>23</sup> with the requirement to serve a notice<sup>24</sup>. The landlord of the property, and the nominated person, if he is not a claimant, must be defendants<sup>25</sup>.

The general procedure on a landlord and tenant claim has already been discussed<sup>26</sup>.

TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(2) COLLECTIVE COMPULSORY ACQUISITION BY TENANTS OF LANDLORD'S INTEREST/1787. Conditions for making acquisition orders.

1787. Conditions for making acquisition orders.

The court<sup>1</sup> may, on an application for an acquisition order<sup>2</sup>, make such an order in respect of any premises if:

- 4410 (1) the court is satisfied that those premises were, at the date of service on the landlord<sup>3</sup> of the preliminary notice<sup>4</sup>, if any, and on the date when the application was made, qualifying premises<sup>5</sup> and that they have not ceased to be such premises since the date when the application was made; and
- 4411 (2) either of the specified conditions<sup>6</sup> is fulfilled with respect to those premises; and
- 4412 (3) the court considers it appropriate to make the order in the circumstances of the case<sup>7</sup>.

The first of the specified conditions referred to in head (2) above is that the court is satisfied:

- 4413 (a) that the landlord either is in breach of any obligation owed by him to the applicants under their leases<sup>8</sup> and relating to the management of the premises in question<sup>9</sup>, or any part of them, or, in the case of an obligation dependent on notice, would be in breach of any such obligation but for the fact that it has not been reasonably practicable for the tenant<sup>10</sup> to give him the appropriate notice; and
- 4414 (b) that the circumstances by virtue of which he is, or would be, in breach of any such obligation are likely to continue<sup>11</sup>.

The second of those conditions is that, both at the date when the application was made and throughout the period of two years immediately preceding that date, there was in force an appointment<sup>12</sup> of a person to act as manager in relation to the premises in question which was made by reason of an act or omission on the part of the landlord<sup>13</sup>.

An acquisition order may, if the court thinks fit:

- 4415 (i) include any yard, garden, outhouse or appurtenance belonging to, or usually enjoyed with, the premises specified in the application on which the order is made;
- 4416 (ii) exclude any part of the premises so specified<sup>14</sup>.

Where the premises in respect of which an application for an acquisition order is made consist of part only of more extensive premises in which the landlord has an interest and it appears to the court that the landlord's interest in the latter premises is not reasonably capable of being severed, either in the manner contemplated by the application or in any manner authorised by virtue of head (ii) above, then, notwithstanding that heads (1) and (2) above apply, the court may not make an acquisition order on the application<sup>15</sup>.

In a case where an application for an acquisition order was preceded by the service of a preliminary notice<sup>16</sup>, the court may, if it thinks fit, make such an order notwithstanding that any period specified in the notice<sup>17</sup> was not a reasonable period or that the notice failed in any other respect to comply with any statutory requirement<sup>18</sup> or any requirement in any regulations applying<sup>19</sup> to the notice<sup>20</sup>.

Where any premises are qualifying premises at the time when an application for an acquisition order is made in respect of them, they do not cease<sup>21</sup> to be such premises by reason only that:

- 4417 (A) the interest of the landlord in them subsequently becomes held by an exempt landlord<sup>22</sup> or a resident landlord<sup>23</sup>; or 4418 (B) they subsequently become included within the functional land<sup>24</sup> of any charity<sup>25</sup>.

UPDATE

1787 Conditions for making acquisition orders

TEXT AND NOTE 25--Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 29(7) amended: Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 Sch 8 para 39.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/26. TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(2) COLLECTIVE COMPULSORY ACQUISITION BY TENANTS OF LANDLORD'S INTEREST/1788. Content of acquisition orders.

1788. Content of acquisition orders.

Where an acquisition order<sup>1</sup> is made by the court<sup>2</sup>, the order must provide<sup>3</sup> for the nominated person<sup>4</sup> to be entitled to acquire the landlord's<sup>5</sup> interest in the premises specified in the order on such terms as may be determined by agreement between the landlord and the qualifying tenants<sup>6</sup> in whose favour the order was made or, in default of agreement, determined<sup>7</sup> by a leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>8</sup>. An acquisition order may be granted subject to such conditions as the court thinks fit; and in particular its operation may be suspended on terms fixed by the court<sup>9</sup>.

The persons applying for the order must secure that the nominated person is joined as a party to the application; and no further nomination of a person<sup>10</sup> may be made by them after the order is made, whether in addition to, or in substitution for, the existing nominated person, except with the approval of the court<sup>11</sup>.

Where the landlord is, by virtue of any covenant, condition or other obligation, precluded from disposing of his interest in the premises in respect of which an acquisition order has been made unless the consent of some other person is obtained:

- 4419 (1) he must use his best endeavours to secure that the consent of that person to that disposal is obtained and, if it appears to him that that person is obliged not to withhold his consent unreasonably but has nevertheless so withheld it, must institute proceedings for a declaration to that effect; but
- 4420 (2) if the landlord has discharged any duty imposed on him by head (1) above and the consent of that person has been withheld and no such declaration has been made, the order ceases to have effect<sup>12</sup>.

As to leasehold valuation tribunals see generally para 58 et seq ante.

The Land Charges Act 1972 (see LAND CHARGES) and the Land Registration Act 2002 (see LAND REGISTRATION) apply in relation to an acquisition order as they apply in relation to an order affecting land made by the court for the purpose of enforcing a judgment or recognisance: Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 30(6) (amended by the Land Registration Act 2002 s 133, Sch 11 para 20).

TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(2) COLLECTIVE COMPULSORY ACQUISITION BY TENANTS OF LANDLORD'S INTEREST/1789. Determination of terms by leasehold valuation tribunals.

1789. Determination of terms by leasehold valuation tribunals.

A leasehold valuation tribunal<sup>1</sup> has jurisdiction to determine the terms on which the landlord's<sup>2</sup> interest in the premises specified in an acquisition order<sup>3</sup> may be acquired by the nominated person<sup>4</sup> to the extent that those terms have not been determined by agreement between the landlord and either the qualifying tenants<sup>5</sup> in whose favour the order was made or the nominated person; and the tribunal must determine<sup>6</sup> any such terms on the basis on what appears to it to be fair and reasonable<sup>7</sup>.

Where an application is so made for the tribunal to determine the consideration payable for the acquisition of a landlord's interest in any premises, the tribunal must do so by determining an amount equal to the amount which, in its opinion, that interest might be expected to realise if sold on the open market by a willing seller on the appropriate terms<sup>8</sup> and on the assumption that none of the tenants of the landlord of any premises comprised in those premises was buying or seeking to buy that interest<sup>9</sup>.

On any such application the interests of the qualifying tenants in whose favour the acquisition order was made must be represented by the nominated person; and accordingly the parties to any such application may not include those tenants<sup>10</sup>.

5 For the meaning of 'qualifying tenant' see PARA 1784 ante.

6 le subject to the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 31(2) (as amended): see the text and notes 8-9 infra.

7 Ibid s 31(1) (s 31(1), (2), (6) amended by the Housing Act 1996 s 92(1), Sch 6 Pt IV para 5). Nothing in the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 31 (as amended) is to be construed as authorising a leasehold valuation tribunal to determine any terms dealing with matters in relation to which provision is to be made by s 32 (see PARA 1790 post) or s 33 (see PARA 1793 post): s 31(6) (as so amended).

With the exception of particulars of the date on which the landlord acquired the property and the terms of acquisition including the sums paid (see PARA 1776 ante at head (d) in the text), the same documents and particulars must be submitted with the application to the tribunal as must be submitted with an application under s 13 (as substituted) (see PARA 1776 ante): see the Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (England) Regulations 2003, SI 2003/2099, reg 3(2), Sch 1 para 1(c), Sch 2 para 1(1)-(3), (6) (Sch 2 para 1(6) added by SI 2004/3098); Leasehold Valuation Tribunals (Procedure) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/681, reg 3(2), Sch 1 para 1(c), Sch 2 para 1(1)-(3), (6) (Sch 2 para 1(6) added by SI 2005/1356).

8 For these purposes, 'the appropriate terms' means all the terms to which the acquisition of the landlord's interest in pursuance of the order is to be subject, whether determined by agreement as mentioned in the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 31(1) (as amended) or on an application under s 31 (as amended), apart from those relating to the consideration payable: s 31(3).

TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(2) COLLECTIVE COMPULSORY ACQUISITION BY TENANTS OF LANDLORD'S INTEREST/1790. Discharge of existing mortgages.

1790. Discharge of existing mortgages.

Where the landlord's<sup>1</sup> interest in any premises is acquired in pursuance of an acquisition order<sup>2</sup>, the instrument by virtue of which it is so acquired operates<sup>3</sup> to discharge the premises from any charge on that interest to secure the payment of money or the performance of any other obligation by the landlord or any other person, except where:

4421 (1) it has been agreed between the landlord and either the qualifying tenants<sup>4</sup> in whose favour the order was made or the nominated person<sup>5</sup> that the landlord's interest should be acquired subject to the charge; or

4422 (2) the court<sup>6</sup> is satisfied, whether on the application for the order or on an application made by the person entitled to the benefit of the charge, that in the exceptional circumstances of the case it would be fair and reasonable that the landlord's interest should be so acquired, and orders accordingly<sup>7</sup>.

Where any premises are so discharged from a charge, without the obligations secured by the charge being satisfied by the receipt of the whole or part of the consideration payable<sup>8</sup>, the discharge of those premises from the charge does not prejudice any right or remedy for the enforcement of those obligations against other property comprised in the same or any other security, nor prejudice any personal liability as principal or otherwise of the landlord or any other person<sup>9</sup>.

TENANCIES OF FLATS; OTHER COLLECTIVE RIGHTS/(2) COLLECTIVE COMPULSORY ACQUISITION BY TENANTS OF LANDLORD'S INTEREST/1791. Duty of nominated person to redeem mortgages.

1791. Duty of nominated person to redeem mortgages.

Where an instrument will operate<sup>1</sup> to discharge any premises from a charge to secure the payment of money, it is the duty of the nominated person<sup>2</sup> to apply the consideration payable<sup>3</sup>, in the first instance, in or towards the redemption of any such charge and, if there are more than one, then according to their priorities<sup>4</sup>.

Where the above provisions apply to any charge or charges, then if, and only if, the consideration payable is applied by the nominated person in accordance therewith or paid into court by him<sup>5</sup>, the instrument in question operates<sup>6</sup> to discharge any premises from a charge to secure the payment of money notwithstanding that the consideration payable is insufficient to enable the charge or charges to be redeemed in its or their entirety<sup>7</sup>.

For the purpose of determining the amount payable in respect of any such charge, a person entitled to the benefit of a charge is not permitted to exercise any right to consolidate that charge with a separate charge on other property<sup>8</sup>; and, for the purpose of discharging any premises from such a charge, a person may be required to accept three months' or any longer notice of the intention to pay the whole or part of the principal secured by the charge, together with interest to the date of payment, notwithstanding that the terms of the security make other provision or no provision as to the time and manner of payment; but he is entitled, if he so requires, to receive such additional payment as is reasonable in the circumstances in respect of the costs of reinvestment or other incidental costs and expenses and in respect of any reduction in the rate of interest obtainable on reinvestment<sup>9</sup>.

1 le in accordance with the Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 32(1): see PARA 1790 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'the nominated person' means the person or persons nominated for the purposes of ibid Pt III (ss 25-34) (as amended) (see PARA 1783 et seq ante, PARA 1793 et seq post) by the persons who applied for the acquisition order in question: s 32(1), (3), Sch 1 para 6. 3 For the meaning of 'the consideration payable' see PARA 1790 note 8 ante.

4 Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 Sch 1 para 7(1). Subject to Sch 1 para 7(4), Sch 1 para 7(1) does not apply to a charge which is a debenture holders' charge within the meaning of Sch 1 para 2(3) (see PARA 1773 note 15 ante); and any such charge must be disregarded in determining priorities for the purposes of Sch 1 para 7(1): Sch 1 para 7(3). Schedule 1 para 7(3) does not have effect, however, in relation to a charge in favour of trustees for debenture holders which at the date of the instrument by virtue of which the landlord's interest in the premises in question is acquired is, as regards those premises, a specific and not a floating charge: Sch 1 para 7(4).

Nothing in Sch 1 (as amended) is to be construed as preventing a person from joining in the instrument referred to in Sch 1 para 7(1) for the purpose of discharging the premises in question from any charge without payment or for a lesser payment than that to which he would otherwise be entitled; and, if he does so, the persons to whom the consideration payable ought to be paid must be determined accordingly: Sch 1 para 10(2).

1792. Payments into court.

Where<sup>1</sup> any premises are to be discharged from a charge and a person is or may be entitled<sup>2</sup> in respect of the charge to receive the whole or part of the consideration payable<sup>3</sup>, then, if:

4423 (1) for any reason difficulty arises in ascertaining how much is to be payable in respect of the charge; or

4424 (2) for any specified reason<sup>4</sup> difficulty arises in making a payment in respect of the charge, the nominated person<sup>5</sup> may pay into court on account of the consideration payable the amount, if known, of the payment to be made in respect of the charge or, if that amount is not known, the whole of that consideration or such lesser amount as the nominated person thinks right in order to provide for that payment<sup>6</sup>.

Payment may be made into court in accordance with head (2) above where the difficulty arises for any of the following reasons, namely:

4425 (a) because a person who is or may be entitled to receive payment cannot be found or ascertained;

4426 (b) because any such person refuses or fails to make out a title, or to accept payment and give a proper discharge, or to take any steps reasonably required of him to enable the sum payable to be ascertained and paid; or

4427 (c) because a tender of the sum payable cannot, by reason of complications in the title to it or the want of two or more trustees or for other reasons, be effected, or not without incurring or involving unreasonable cost or delay<sup>7</sup>.

Without prejudice to head (1) above, the whole or part of the consideration payable must be paid into court by the nominated person if, before execution of the instrument<sup>8</sup>, notice is given to him:

- 4428 (i) that the landlord<sup>9</sup> or a person entitled to the benefit of a charge on the premises in question requires him to do so for the purpose of protecting the rights of persons so entitled, or for reasons related to the bankruptcy or winding up of the landlord; or
- 4429 (ii) that steps have been taken to enforce any charge on the landlord's interest in those premises by the bringing of proceedings in any court, or by the appointment of a receiver or otherwise;

and, where payment into court is to be made by reason only of a notice under this provision, and the notice is given with reference to proceedings in a court specified in the notice other than a county court, payment must be made into the court so specified<sup>10</sup>.

1793. Acquisition order where landlord cannot be found.

Where an acquisition order<sup>1</sup> is made by the court<sup>2</sup> in a case where the landlord<sup>3</sup> cannot be found, or his identity cannot be ascertained, the order must provide for the landlord's interest in the premises specified in the order to vest in the nominated person<sup>4</sup> on the following terms, namely:

- 4430 (1) such terms as to payment as are specified below<sup>5</sup>; and
- 4431 (2) such other terms as the court thinks fit, being terms which, in the opinion of the court, correspond so far as possible to those on which the interest might be expected to be transferred if it were being transferred by the landlord<sup>6</sup>.

The terms as to payment referred to in head (1) above are terms requiring the payment into court of:

- 4432 (a) such amount as a surveyor selected by the President of the Lands Tribunal may certify to be in his opinion the amount which the landlord's interest might be expected to realise if sold on the open market by a willing seller on the appropriate terms and on the assumption that none of the tenants of the landlord of any premises comprised in those premises was buying or seeking to buy that interest<sup>7</sup>; and
- 4433 (b) any amounts or estimated amounts remaining due to the landlord from any tenants of his of any premises comprised in the premises in respect of which the order is made, being amounts or estimated amounts determined by the court as being due from those persons under the terms of their leases<sup>8</sup>.

Where any amount or amounts so required to be paid into court are so paid, the landlord's interest vests in the nominated person in accordance with the order<sup>9</sup>.

1794. Discharge of acquisition order; withdrawal by tenants.

If, on an application by a landlord<sup>1</sup> in respect of whose interest an acquisition order<sup>2</sup> has been made, the court<sup>3</sup> is satisfied:

- 4434 (1) that the nominated person<sup>4</sup> has had a reasonable time within which to effect the acquisition of that interest in pursuance of the order but has not done so; or
- 4435 (2) that the number of qualifying tenants<sup>5</sup> of flats<sup>6</sup> contained in the premises in question who desire to proceed with the acquisition of the landlord's interest is less than the requisite majority<sup>7</sup> of qualifying tenants of the flats contained in those premises; or
- 4436 (3) that the premises in question have ceased to be qualifying premises<sup>8</sup>, the court may discharge the order<sup>9</sup>.

Where:

- 4437 (a) a notice is served on the landlord by the qualifying tenants by whom a preliminary notice has been served<sup>10</sup> or, as the case may be, by whom an application has been made for an acquisition order, or by the person nominated<sup>11</sup> by any such tenants; and
- 4438 (b) the notice indicates an intention no longer to proceed with the acquisition of the landlord's interest in the premises in question, the landlord may<sup>12</sup> recover under this provision any costs reasonably incurred by him in connection with the disposal by him of that interest down to the time when the notice is served; and, if the notice is served after the making of an acquisition order, the order ceases to have effect<sup>13</sup>.

If, whether before or after the making of an acquisition order, the nominated person becomes aware:

- 4439 (i) that the number of qualifying tenants of flats contained in the premises in question who desire to proceed with the acquisition of the landlord's interest is less than the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the flats contained in those premises; or
- 4440 (ii) that those premises have ceased to be qualifying premises, he must forthwith serve on the landlord a notice indicating an intention no longer to proceed with the acquisition of that interest<sup>14</sup>.

If, at any time when any proceedings taken in respect of an acquisition order<sup>15</sup> are pending before the court or the Lands Tribunal:

- 4441 (A) a notice of intention not to proceed<sup>16</sup> is served on the landlord; or
- 4442 (B) the nominated person indicates that he is no longer willing to act in the matter and nobody is nominated<sup>17</sup> in his place; or
- 4443 (C) the number of qualifying tenants of flats contained in the premises in question who desire to proceed with the acquisition of the landlord's interest falls below the requisite majority of qualifying tenants of the flats contained in those premises; or
- 4444 (D) those premises cease to be qualifying premises, or if the court discharges an acquisition order<sup>18</sup>, the landlord may recover such costs incurred by him in connection with the disposal by him of his interest in those premises as the court or, as the case may be, the tribunal may determine<sup>19</sup>.

Nothing in the above provisions is to be construed as authorising the court to discharge an acquisition order where the landlord's interest has already been acquired in pursuance of the order<sup>20</sup>.

UPDATE*1794 Discharge of acquisition order; withdrawal by tenants

TEXT AND NOTE 19--Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal: Landlord and Tenant Act 1987 s 34(4) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(1) INTRODUCTION/1795. Tenant's rights; in general.

27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY*(1) INTRODUCTION*1795. Tenant's rights; in general.

Under Part V of the Housing Act 1985<sup>1</sup> a secure tenant<sup>2</sup> has the right, in certain circumstances and subject to certain conditions and exceptions, to acquire the freehold of the dwelling house<sup>3</sup> which he occupies or to be granted a lease<sup>4</sup> of that dwelling house (the 'right to buy')<sup>5</sup>. The Housing Act 1996<sup>6</sup> introduced a right to acquire which extends the right to buy, with modifications, to certain assured tenants<sup>7</sup>.

The statutory right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms is no longer exercisable, except in transitional cases<sup>8</sup>, and the following statutory rights formerly ancillary to the right to buy have been abolished, namely:

- 4445 (1) the right to a mortgage<sup>9</sup>;
- 4446 (2) the right to defer completion<sup>10</sup>; and
- 4447 (3) the right<sup>11</sup> to be granted a shared ownership lease<sup>12</sup>.

The right to buy may be suspended because of anti-social behaviour by the tenant, a member of his family or a visitor to the dwelling house<sup>13</sup>.

1    Ie the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended): see PARA 1796 et seq post.

2    References in ibid Pt V (as amended) to a secure tenancy or a secure tenant in relation to a time before 26 August 1984 are to a tenancy which would have been a secure tenancy if the Housing Act 1980 Pt I Ch II (ss 28-50) (repealed) and the Housing and Building Control Act 1984 Pt I (ss 1-38) (repealed) had then been in force or to a person who would then have been a secure tenant: Housing Act 1985 s 185(1). For the purpose of determining whether a person would have been a secure tenant and his tenancy a secure tenancy (1) a predecessor of a local authority is to be deemed to have been such an authority; and (2) a housing association is to be deemed to have been registered if it is or was a registered social landlord at any later time: s 185(2) (amended by the Housing Act 1996 (Consequential Provisions) Order 1996, SI 1996/2325, art 5, Sch 2 para 14(16)). As to secure tenants see PARA 1300 et seq ante; for the meaning of 'local authority' see PARA 1300 note 8 ante; and as to housing associations and other registered social landlords see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 11, 66 et seq.

Where the preserved right to buy (see PARA 1900 et seq post) arises, and the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241, apply, then in the provisions of the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (as amended) for the expressions 'secure tenant' and 'tenant' there is substituted, except in the provisions listed in the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241, Sch 1 para 1(2), the expression 'qualifying person': Sch 1 para 1(1). See also note 7 infra.

4 For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

1796. Meaning of 'house', 'flat' and 'dwelling house'.

The following provisions apply to the interpretation of 'house', 'flat' and 'dwelling house' when used in the statutory provisions<sup>1</sup> conferring the right to buy<sup>2</sup>.

A dwelling house is a house if, and only if, it or so much of it as does not consist of land included by virtue of the provisions set out below<sup>3</sup> is a structure reasonably so called; so that:

4448 (1) where a building is divided horizontally, the flats or other units into which it is divided are not houses;

4449 (2) where a building is divided vertically, the units into which it is divided may be houses;

4450 (3) where a building is not structurally detached, it is not a house if a material part of it lies above or below the remainder of the structure<sup>4</sup>.

A dwelling house which is a commonhold unit<sup>5</sup> is, however, to be treated as a house and not as a flat<sup>6</sup>.

A dwelling house which is not a house is a flat<sup>7</sup>.

For the statutory purposes<sup>8</sup>, land let together with a dwelling house is to be treated as part of the dwelling house, unless the land is agricultural land<sup>9</sup> exceeding two acres<sup>10</sup>. There is also to be treated as included in a dwelling house any land which does not satisfy this condition but is or has been used for the purpose of the dwelling house if:

- 4451 (a) the tenant<sup>11</sup>, by a written notice served on the landlord<sup>12</sup> at any time before he exercises the right to buy<sup>13</sup>, requires the land to be included in the dwelling house; and
- 4452 (b) it is reasonable in all the circumstances for the land to be so included<sup>14</sup>.

Such a notice may be withdrawn by a written notice served on the landlord at any time before the tenant exercises the right to buy<sup>15</sup>. Where such a notice is served or withdrawn after the service of the landlord's notice of the purchase price etc<sup>16</sup>, the parties must, as soon as practicable after the service or withdrawal, take all such steps<sup>17</sup> as may be requisite for the purpose of securing that all parties are, as nearly as may be, in the same position as they would have been in if the notice had been served or withdrawn before the service of that landlord's notice<sup>18</sup>.

The above provisions are modified in so far as they apply to:

- 4453 (i) the extended right to buy<sup>19</sup>;
- 4454 (ii) the preserved right to buy<sup>20</sup>; and
- 4455 (iii) the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996<sup>21</sup>.

On receiving any notice so served by the tenant, the landlord must, as soon as practicable (1) serve a copy of the notice on the authority or body which is its landlord in relation to the dwelling house; and (2) serve on the tenant notice in writing that this has been done and of the name and address of that authority or body: s 184(3B) (as so added). If the authority or body referred to in head (1) supra is an intermediate landlord, it must in turn serve a copy of the notice on the authority or body which is its immediate landlord in relation to the dwelling house (and so on, if that authority or body is also an intermediate landlord): s 184(3C) (as so added). An authority or body which serves a copy of the tenant's notice on another authority or body in accordance with s 184(3C) (as so added) must at the same time notify the landlord and the tenant that this has been done and of the name and address of the authority or body: s 184(3D) (as so added). On receiving a notice served on it by the tenant under s 184 (as amended and as modified for these purposes), the freeholder must, as soon as practicable, serve a copy of the notice on each authority or body which, to its knowledge, has a leasehold interest in the dwelling house and notify the tenant that this has been done: s 184(3E) (as so added).

20 As to the preserved right to buy see PARA 1900 et seq post. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(1) INTRODUCTION/1797. Provisions restricting right to buy etc of no effect.

1797. Provisions restricting right to buy etc of no effect.

A provision of a lease<sup>1</sup> held by the landlord<sup>2</sup> or a superior landlord, or of an agreement, whenever made, is void in so far as it purports to prohibit or restrict:

- 4456 (1) the grant of a lease in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>3</sup> or the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms (where that right is still exercisable)<sup>4</sup>; or 4457 (2) the subsequent disposal, whether by way of assignment, sublease or otherwise, of a lease so granted, or to authorise a forfeiture, or impose on the landlord or superior landlord a penalty or disability, in the event of such a grant or disposal<sup>5</sup>.

Where a dwelling house<sup>6</sup> let on a secure tenancy<sup>7</sup> is land held:

4458 (a) for the purposes of pleasure grounds<sup>8</sup>; or

4459 (b) in accordance with a local authority's duty to maintain open spaces and burial grounds<sup>9</sup>, the dwelling house is deemed<sup>10</sup> to be freed from any trust arising solely by virtue of its being land held in trust for enjoyment by the public<sup>11</sup> or, as the case may be, for<sup>12</sup> an open space or burial ground<sup>13</sup>.

1798. Power to extend right to buy etc.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>2</sup> may by order provide that, where there are in a dwelling house<sup>3</sup> let on a secure tenancy<sup>4</sup> one or more interests to which these provisions apply, the statutory provisions relating to the right to buy and to the right (where still exercisable) to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>5</sup> and the statutory provisions relating to secure tenancies<sup>6</sup> have effect with such modifications as are specified in the order<sup>7</sup>.

The above provisions apply to an interest held by:

- 4460 (1) a local authority<sup>8</sup>;
- 4461 (2) a new town corporation<sup>9</sup>;
- 4462 (3) a housing action trust<sup>10</sup>;
- 4463 (4) an urban development corporation<sup>11</sup>;
- 4464 (5) the Housing Corporation<sup>12</sup>; or
- 4465 (6) a registered social landlord<sup>13</sup>, which is immediately superior to the interest of the landlord<sup>14</sup> or to another interest to which these provisions apply<sup>15</sup>.

Such an order:

- 4466 (a) may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case;
- 4467 (b) may contain such consequential, supplementary or transitional provisions as appear to the Secretary of State or to the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister to be necessary or expedient; and
- 4468 (c) must be made by statutory instrument<sup>16</sup>.

Where, in pursuance of the statutory provisions relating to the right to buy and to the right (where still exercisable) to acquire on rent to mortgage terms as so modified<sup>17</sup>, a secure tenant serves a notice claiming to exercise the right to buy and the interest of the landlord, an intermediate landlord<sup>18</sup> or the freeholder<sup>19</sup> in the dwelling house passes to a person other than an authority mentioned in heads (1) to (6) above, the freeholder must as soon as practicable serve on the tenant a notice in writing telling him that he is no longer entitled to acquire the freehold of the dwelling house<sup>20</sup>.

The landlord and an intermediate landlord must:

- 4469 (i) on written request give the freeholder such information and assistance as it may reasonably require in order to give effect to the relevant statutory provisions<sup>21</sup>; and
- 4470 (ii) ensure that all deeds and other documents in its possession or under its control to which the tenant is entitled or which he reasonably requires on the conveyance to him of the freehold of the dwelling house<sup>22</sup> are available for this purpose<sup>23</sup>.

At the date at which this title states the law, no order under s 171 (as amended) modifying the provisions of Pt IV (as amended) had been made.

Where there are in a dwelling house let on a secure tenancy one or more interests which are interests to which the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, art 3 applies, and the dwelling house is a house, the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended) has effect with the modifications specified in the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, art 3(1), Schedule: art 3(1). Article 3(1) applies to an interest held by (1) a local authority; (2) a new town corporation; (3) a housing action trust; (4) an urban development corporation; (5) the Housing Corporation; or (6) a registered housing association other than one excepted from the right to buy by the Housing Act 1985 s 120, Sch 5 para 1 (charities: see PARA 1808 post), Sch 5 para 2 (co-operatives: see PARA 1810 post) or Sch 5 para 3 (as amended) (associations which have not received grant: see PARA 1810 post), which is immediately superior to the interest of the landlord or to another interest to which the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, art 3 applies: see art 3(2). For transitional provisions see art 6.

18 'Intermediate landlord' means the owner of a lease of the dwelling house (other than one created by way of security) which is immediately superior to the lease of the landlord or to the lease of another intermediate landlord: Housing Act 1985 s 187 (definition added for these purposes by the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, Sch 1 para 64).

19 'Freeholder' means the owner of the freehold of the dwelling house: Housing Act 1985 s 187 (definition as added: see note 18 supra).

22 le including in the case of registered land the land certificate and any other documents which would be necessary to perfect the tenant's title if the title were not to be registered: Housing Act 1985 s 177A(b) (as added for these purposes: see note 23 infra). However, land certificates are no longer issued although official copies of the register and of the title plan are available as is a 'title information document' explaining why the official copy has been issued and how to obtain further copies: see LAND REGISTRATION vol 26 (2004 Reissue) PARA 1129.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(1) INTRODUCTION/1799. Information to help tenants decide whether to exercise right to buy etc.

1799. Information to help tenants decide whether to exercise right to buy etc.

Every body which lets dwelling houses<sup>1</sup> under secure tenancies<sup>2</sup> must prepare a document that contains information for its secure tenants<sup>3</sup> about such matters as are specified in an order made by the Secretary of State<sup>4</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>5</sup>. The matters that may be so specified are matters which the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister considers that it would be desirable for secure tenants to have information about when considering whether to exercise the right to buy or (where still exercisable) the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>6</sup>. The information contained in the document must be restricted to information about the specified matters<sup>7</sup>, and the information about those matters:

- 4471 (1) must be such as the body concerned considers appropriate; but
- 4472 (2) must be in a form which the body considers best suited to explaining those matters in simple terms<sup>8</sup>.

Once a body has prepared the document so required, it must revise that document as often as it considers necessary in order to ensure that the information contained in it:

- 4473 (a) is kept up to date so far as is reasonably practicable; and
- 4474 (b) reflects any changes in the matters for the time being specified in an order made under the above provisions<sup>9</sup>.

The following provisions set out when the document so prepared by a body is to be published or otherwise made available<sup>10</sup>. The body must:

- 4475 (i) publish the document, whether in its original or a revised form; and
- 4476 (ii) supply copies of it to the body's secure tenants, at such times as may be prescribed by, and otherwise in accordance with, an order<sup>11</sup> made by the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>12</sup>. The body must make copies of the current version<sup>13</sup> of the document available to be supplied, free of charge, to persons requesting them<sup>14</sup>. The copies must be made available for that purpose at the body's principal offices, and at such other places as it considers appropriate, at reasonable hours<sup>15</sup>. The body must take such steps as it considers appropriate to bring to the attention of its secure tenants the fact that copies of the current version of the document can be obtained free of charge from the places where, and at the times when, they are so made available<sup>16</sup>.

1800. Costs.

- 4477 (1) the right to buy<sup>3</sup>;
- 4478 (2) the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms, where still exercisable<sup>4</sup>; or
- 4479 (3) any right to make a final or interim payment on the redemption of a landlord's share<sup>5</sup>, is void in so far as it purports to oblige the tenant to bear any part of the costs incurred by the landlord in connection with the tenant's exercise of that right<sup>6</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

3 As to the right to buy see PARA 1803 et seq post. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

5 Is any such right as is mentioned in ibid s 151A, Sch 6A para 2(1) (as added) (see PARA 1878 post) or Sch 6A para 6(1) (as added) (see PARA 1880 post).

1801. Notices and evidence.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>2</sup> may by regulations prescribe the form of any notice under the statutory provisions relating to the right to buy and to the right (where still exercisable) to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>3</sup> and the particulars to be contained in the notice<sup>4</sup>; and such regulations:

- 4480 (1) may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas; and
- 4481 (2) must be made by statutory instrument<sup>5</sup>.

Where the form of, and the particulars to be contained in, such a notice are so prescribed, a tenant<sup>6</sup> who proposes to claim, or has claimed, to exercise the right to buy may request the landlord<sup>7</sup> to supply him with a form for use in giving such notice; and the landlord must do so within seven days of the request<sup>8</sup>.

A notice may be served by sending it by post<sup>9</sup>.

Where the landlord is a housing association<sup>10</sup>, a notice to be served by the tenant on the landlord may be served by leaving it at, or sending it to, the principal office of the association or the office of the association with which the tenant usually deals<sup>11</sup>.

A notice served by a tenant under the statutory provisions relating to the rights referred to above is not invalidated by an error in, or omission from, the particulars which are required<sup>12</sup> to be contained in the notice<sup>13</sup>. Where as a result of such an error or omission:

- 4482 (a) the landlord has mistakenly admitted or denied the right to buy<sup>14</sup> or the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>15</sup>; or
- 4483 (b) the landlord has formed a mistaken opinion as to any matter required to be stated in a notice by any of the specified statutory provisions<sup>16</sup> and has stated that opinion in the notice, the parties must, as soon as practicable after they become aware of the mistake, take all such steps, whether by way of amending, withdrawing or re-serving any notice or extending any period or otherwise, as may be requisite for the purpose of securing that all parties are, as nearly as may be, in the same position as they would have been if the mistake had not been made<sup>17</sup>.

A landlord or the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister may, if he or it thinks fit, accept a statutory declaration<sup>18</sup> made for the purposes of the statutory provisions relating to the rights referred to above as sufficient evidence of the matters declared in it<sup>19</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>2</sup> may by order repeal or amend a provision of a local Act passed before 8 August 1980 where it appears to him or to the Assembly or minister that the provision is inconsistent with a statutory provision relating to the right to buy<sup>3</sup>. Before making such an order, the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister must consult any local housing authority<sup>4</sup> appearing to him or to it to be concerned<sup>5</sup>.

An order so made may contain such transitional, incidental or supplementary provisions as the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister considers appropriate<sup>6</sup>; and such an order:

(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE

(i) Secure Tenant's Right to Buy; in general

1803. Right to acquire freehold or lease.

A secure tenant<sup>1</sup> has the right to buy, that is to say, the right<sup>2</sup>:

- 4486 (1) if the dwelling house<sup>3</sup> is a house<sup>4</sup> and the landlord<sup>5</sup> owns the freehold, to acquire the freehold of the dwelling house;
- 4487 (2) if the landlord does not own the freehold or if the dwelling house is a flat<sup>6</sup>, whether or not the landlord owns the freehold, to be granted a lease<sup>7</sup> of the dwelling house<sup>8</sup>.

Where a secure tenancy is a joint tenancy, then, whether or not each of the joint tenants occupies the dwelling house as his only or principal home<sup>9</sup>, the right to buy belongs jointly to all of them or to such one or more of them as may be agreed between them; but such an agreement is not valid unless the person or at least one of the persons to whom the right to buy is to belong occupies the dwelling house as his only or principal home<sup>10</sup>.

(ii) Tenant of Registered Social Landlord's Right to Acquire Dwelling

1804. Introduction.

Since the phasing out of secure tenancies after 15 January 1989<sup>1</sup>, most new tenants of social housing have been granted assured tenancies<sup>2</sup>. Prior to the Housing Act 1996, most tenants of registered social landlords<sup>3</sup> did not have a statutory right to buy their homes because of the exclusions contained in Schedule 5 to the Housing Act 1985<sup>4</sup> although a former secure tenant of a local authority whose dwelling is transferred to the private sector as part of a voluntary transfer becomes an assured tenant following transfer but retains the right to buy under what is called a 'preserved right to buy'<sup>5</sup>. Registered social landlords are, however, permitted to offer discounts to the tenants who wish to buy their homes<sup>6</sup>; and the relevant provisions of the Housing Act 1996<sup>7</sup> confer on an assured or secure tenant of a registered social landlord the statutory right to acquire his home, subject to a number of qualifications<sup>8</sup>. The right to buy provisions of the Housing Act 1985<sup>9</sup> are applied for these purposes subject to prescribed exceptions, adaptations and modifications<sup>10</sup>.

4 See the Housing Act 1985 s 120, Sch 5 (as amended); and PARA 1808 et seq post. The right to buy under the Housing Act 1985 is expressed to be limited to secure tenants: see s 118; and PARA 1803 ante.

6 See the Social Landlords (Permissible Additional Purposes or Objects) Order 1996, SI 1996/2256, art 3(a). A registered social landlord in England may also dispose of houses on leases (1) granted on a payment of premium calculated by reference to a percentage of the value of the house or the cost of providing it; or (2) under which the tenant (or his personal representatives) will or may be entitled to a sum calculated by reference directly or indirectly to the value of the house: art 3(d) (added by SI 2005/2863). PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(ii) Tenant of Registered Social Landlord's Right to Acquire Dwelling/1805. Right of tenant to acquire dwelling.

1805. Right of tenant to acquire dwelling.

A tenant of a registered social landlord<sup>1</sup> has the right to acquire the dwelling<sup>2</sup> of which he is a tenant if:

- 4488 (1) he is a tenant under an assured tenancy<sup>3</sup>, other than an assured shorthold tenancy<sup>4</sup> or a long tenancy<sup>5</sup>, or under a secure tenancy<sup>6</sup>;
- 4489 (2) the dwelling was provided with public money<sup>7</sup> and has remained in the social rented sector<sup>8</sup>; and
- 4490 (3) he satisfies any further qualifying conditions applicable under the right to buy provisions of the Housing Act 1985<sup>9</sup> as they apply in relation to the right<sup>10</sup> of a tenant to acquire a dwelling<sup>11</sup>.

These provisions also apply with modifications in England, and as from a day to be appointed<sup>12</sup> in Wales, in relation to a dwelling ('a funded dwelling') provided or acquired wholly or in part by means of a grant<sup>13</sup> to a body other than a registered social landlord<sup>14</sup>. For this purpose, the reference in the above provisions to a registered social landlord includes a reference to any person to whom such a grant has been paid<sup>15</sup>.

A tenant of a registered social landlord who satisfies the conditions in heads (1) and (2) above has the right to acquire, that is to say, the right, in the circumstances and subject to the conditions and exceptions stated in the relevant provisions of Part V of the Housing Act 1985<sup>16</sup>:

- 4491 (a) if the dwelling house<sup>17</sup> is a house and the landlord owns the freehold, to acquire the freehold of the dwelling house;
- 4492 (b) if the landlord does not own the freehold or if the dwelling house is a flat, whether or not the landlord owns the freehold, to be granted a lease of the dwelling house<sup>18</sup>.

1 As to registered social landlords see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 11, 66 et seq.

2 For these purposes, 'dwelling' means a building or part of a building occupied or intended to be occupied as a separate dwelling, together with any yard, garden, outhouses and appurtenances belonging to it or usually enjoyed with it: Housing Act 1996 s 63(1).

3 For the meaning of 'assured tenancy' see PARA 1018 ante (definition applied by ibid s 230).

4 For the meaning of 'assured shorthold tenancy' see PARAS 1044 et seq, 1051 ante (definition applied by ibid s 230).

5 For the meaning of 'long tenancy' see the Housing Act 1985 s 115 (as amended); and PARA 1303 ante (definition applied by the Housing Act 1996 s 63(1)).

6 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARA 1300 (definition applied by ibid s 230).

7 For this purpose a dwelling will be regarded as provided with public money if (1) it was provided or acquired wholly or in part by means of a grant under the Housing Act 1996 s 18 (as amended) (social housing grant: see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 66); (2) it was provided or acquired wholly or in part by applying or appropriating sums standing in the disposal proceeds fund of a registered social landlord (see s 25 (as amended); and HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 105); or (3) it was acquired by a registered social landlord after 1 April 1997 on a disposal by a public sector landlord at a time when it was capable of being let as a separate dwelling: s 16(2); Housing Act 1996 (Commencement No 10 and Transitional Provisions) Order 1997, SI 1997/618, art 2(1), Schedule para 1. 'Public sector landlord' means any of the authorities or bodies within the Housing Act 1985 s 80(1) (as amended) (the landlord condition for secure tenancies: see PARA 1301 ante); Housing Act 1996 s 63(1).

A dwelling will be regarded for the purposes of s 16 (as amended) as provided by means of a grant under s 18 (as amended) if, and only if, the relevant authority when making the grant notified the recipient that the dwelling was to be so regarded: s 16(4) (amended by the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 140, Sch 16 paras 81, 82(1)(a)). The relevant authority must before making the grant inform the applicant that it proposes to give such a notice and allow him an opportunity to withdraw his application within a specified time: Housing Act 1996 s 16(4) (as so amended). For the meaning of 'the relevant authority' for these purposes see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 55 note 1.

In relation to England, a notice under s 16(4) (as amended) must be taken to be given to a registered social landlord by the Housing Corporation if it is sent using electronic communications to such number or address as the registered social landlord has for the time being notified to the Housing Corporation for that purpose: s 16(5) (s 16(5)-(7) added by the Housing (Right to Acquire) (Electronic Communications) (England) Order 2001, SI 2001/3257, art 2). The means by which notice is sent must be such as to enable the registered social landlord to reproduce the notice by electronic means in a form which is visible and legible: Housing Act 1996 s 16(6) (as so added). An 'electronic communication' is a communication transmitted, whether from one person to another, from one device to another, or from a person to a device or vice versa, by means of an electronic communications network, or by other means but while in an electronic form: s 16(7) (as so added; amended by the Communications Act 2003 s 406(1), Sch 17 para 136).

References in the Housing Act 1996 Pt I (ss 1-64) (as amended) to the provision of a dwelling or house include the provision of a dwelling or house (a) by erecting the dwelling or house, or converting a building into dwellings or a house; or (b) by altering, enlarging, repairing or improving an existing dwelling or house; and references to a dwelling or house provided by means of a grant or other financial assistance are to its being so provided directly or indirectly: s 63(2).

8 A dwelling will be regarded for the purposes of ibid s 16 (as amended) as having remained within the social rented sector if, since it was so provided or acquired (1) the person holding the freehold interest in the dwelling has been either a registered social landlord or a public sector landlord; and (2) any person holding an interest as lessee (otherwise than as mortgagee) in the dwelling has been (a) an individual holding otherwise than under a long tenancy; or (b) a registered social landlord or a public sector landlord: s 16(3). In s 16(3)(a) (see head (1) supra) the reference to the freehold interest in the dwelling includes a reference to such an interest in the dwelling as is held by the landlord under a lease granted in pursuance of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Sch 9 para 3 (as amended) (mandatory leaseback to former freeholder on collective enfranchisement: see PARA 1658 ante); Housing Act 1996 s 16(3A) (added by the Housing Act 2004 s 202(1), (2)).

For the purposes of s 16 (as amended) a funded dwelling is to be regarded as having remained within the social rented sector in relation to any relevant time if, since it was acquired or provided, it was used (1) by the recipient of the grant mentioned in s 16A(1) (as added); or (2) if s 27B (as added) applies in relation to the grant (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 35), by each person to whom the grant was, or is treated as having been, paid, exclusively for the purposes for which the grant was made or any other purposes agreed to by the relevant authority: s 16A(4) (as so added). Accordingly, for these purposes in the provisions in the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (as amended), for the expression 'right to buy' there is substituted the expression 'right to acquire' save for the references to the right to buy in s 122(4) (as added for these purposes: see PARA 1826 post) and s 130(2)(aa) (as added) (see PARA 1840 post): Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, Sch 1 para 2.

TEXT AND NOTES 7-15--See Transfer of Housing Corporation Functions (Modifications and Transitional Provisions) Order 2008, SI 2008/2839.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(ii) Tenant of Registered Social Landlord's Right to Acquire Dwelling/1806. Supplementary provisions.

1806. Supplementary provisions.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>2</sup> may by order<sup>3</sup>:

- 4493 (1) specify the amount or rate of discount to be given on the exercise of the right of a tenant to acquire a dwelling<sup>4</sup>; and
- 4494 (2) designate rural areas in relation to dwellings in which that right does not arise<sup>5</sup>.

Before making an order which would have the effect that an area ceased to be designated under head (2) above, the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister must consult:

- 4495 (a) the local housing authority<sup>6</sup> or authorities in whose district<sup>7</sup> the area or any part of it is situated or, if the order is general in its effect, local housing authorities in general; and
- 4496 (b) such bodies appearing to him or to the Assembly or minister to be representative of registered social landlords<sup>8</sup> as he or it considers appropriate<sup>9</sup>.

The provisions of Part V of the Housing Act 1985<sup>10</sup> apply in relation to the right of a tenant to acquire a dwelling<sup>11</sup> subject to any such order and subject to such other exceptions, adaptations and other modifications<sup>12</sup> as may be specified by regulations made by the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>13</sup>. The regulations may provide that:

- 4497 (i) the powers of the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister to intervene, give directions or assist<sup>14</sup> do not apply;

- 4498 (ii) the statutory exceptions for charities and certain housing associations<sup>15</sup> and the right of appeal to Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister with regard to dwellings for elderly persons<sup>16</sup> do not apply;
- 4499 (iii) the statutory provisions relating to the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms (where still exercisable)<sup>17</sup> do not apply;
- 4500 (iv) the provisions relating to restrictions on disposals in National Parks etc<sup>18</sup> do not apply; and
- 4501 (v) the provisions relating to the preserved right to buy<sup>19</sup> do not apply;

but nothing in heads (i) to (v) above affects the generality of the power<sup>20</sup> to make such regulations<sup>21</sup>. Such regulations may also:

- 4502 (A) make provision for continuing the effect of a suspension order<sup>21</sup> where the secure tenancy<sup>22</sup> in respect of which the order was made has been replaced by an assured tenancy<sup>23</sup>;
- 4503 (B) make specified provision<sup>24</sup> with regard to the disclosure of information about anti-social behaviour<sup>25</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante.

2 As to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales, see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

3 An order or regulations under the Housing Act 1996 s 17 (see the text and notes 4-21 infra) may make different provision for different cases or classes of case including different areas, and may contain such incidental, supplementary and transitional provisions as the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister considers appropriate (s 17(5)) and must be made by statutory instrument subject, if made by the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament (s 17(7)).

4 Ie the right conferred by the Housing Act 1996 s 16 (as amended): see PARA 1805 ante. For the meaning of 'dwelling' see PARA 1805 note 2 ante. As to the relevant authority see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 5.

In exercise of the power conferred by head (1) in the text, the following orders have been made: (1) the Housing (Right to Acquire) (Discount) (Wales) Order 1997, SI 1997/569 (which extends to dwellings in Wales only (art 1); prescribes the percentage rate of discount to be given on the exercise of the right to acquire as 25% of the open market value of the dwelling subject to a maximum of £16,000 (art 3) and provides that any question arising as to the open market value of a dwelling at the relevant time is to be determined by the district valuer (art 4)); and (2) the Housing (Right to Acquire) (Discount) Order 2002, SI 2002/1091, which prescribes different amounts of discount applicable to dwellings in specified areas in England, subject to a maximum amount of discount of 50% of the value of the dwelling (art 2, Schedule).

This exclusion is also disapplied where the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996<sup>9</sup> arises<sup>10</sup>.

1813. Dwelling houses for the disabled.

The right to buy<sup>1</sup> does not arise if:

4516 (1) the dwelling house<sup>2</sup> has features which are substantially different from those of ordinary dwelling houses and are designed to make it suitable for occupation by physically disabled persons<sup>3</sup> and:

315

175. (a) it is one of a group of dwelling houses which it is the practice of the landlord<sup>4</sup> to let for occupation by physically disabled persons; and

316

4517 (2) the dwelling house is one of a group of dwelling houses which it is the practice of the landlord to let for occupation by persons who are suffering or have suffered from a mental disorder<sup>6</sup> and a social service is, or special facilities are, provided wholly or partly for the purpose of assisting those persons<sup>7</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

3 A dwelling has features 'designed' to make it suitable for occupation by a disabled person only where the dwelling is built with such features for occupation by a disabled person and not where an ordinary dwelling is merely 'intended', by reason of special features, for occupation by a disabled person: Freeman v Wansbeck District Council [1984] 2 All ER 746, (1983) 82 LGR 131, CA.

4 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

5 Housing Act 1985 s 120, Sch 5 para 7. The Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 7 is modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies: see art 3(1), Schedule para 66(c).

6 For these purposes, 'mental disorder' has the same meaning as in the Mental Health Act 1983 (see MENTAL HEALTH vol 30(2) (Reissue) PARA 402): Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 9(2).

7 Ibid Sch 5 para 9(1). The Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 9(1) is modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, applies: see Schedule para 66(c).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(iii) Exceptions; Suspension of Right/1814. Certain dwelling houses for persons with special needs.

1814. Certain dwelling houses for persons with special needs.

The right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996<sup>1</sup> does not arise if the dwelling house<sup>2</sup> is one of a group of dwelling houses which it is the practice of the landlord<sup>3</sup> to let for occupation by persons who have special needs<sup>4</sup> and require intensive housing assistance<sup>5</sup> and such intensive housing assistance is provided, either directly or indirectly, by the landlord<sup>6</sup>.

1 As to the right to acquire see PARAS 1804-1807 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'persons who have special needs' means persons who are vulnerable as a result of age, physical disability or illness, a mental disorder or impairment of any kind, drug or alcohol addiction, violence or the threat of violence by a member of a person's family, or other special reason: Housing Act 1985 s 120, Sch 5 para 9A(3) (Sch 5 para 9A added by the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 40(c)).

5 For these purposes, 'intensive housing assistance' means the provision by the landlord to persons with special needs of assistance on housing issues which is significantly greater than the assistance which is generally provided by registered social landlords to tenants who do not have special needs: Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 9A(2) (as added: see note 4 supra). As to registered social landlords see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 11, 66 et seq.

6 Ibid Sch 5 para 9A(1) (as added: see note 4 supra).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(iii) Exceptions; Suspension of Right/1815. Certain dwelling houses for elderly persons.

1815. Certain dwelling houses for elderly persons.

The right to buy<sup>1</sup> does not arise if:

- 4518 (1) the dwelling house<sup>2</sup> is one of a group of dwelling houses:
 317
 177. (a) which are particularly suitable, having regard to their location, size, design, heating systems and other features, for occupation by elderly persons; and
 178. (b) which it is the practice of the landlord<sup>3</sup> to let for occupation by persons aged 60 or more, or for occupation by such persons and physically disabled persons;
 318
 4519 and special facilities<sup>4</sup> are provided wholly or mainly for the purposes of assisting those persons<sup>5</sup>;
 4520 (2) the dwelling house:
 319
 179. (a) is particularly suitable<sup>6</sup>, having regard to its location, size, design, heating system and other features, for occupation by elderly persons; and
 180. (b) was let to the tenant or a predecessor in title of his for occupation by a person who was aged 60 or more, whether the tenant or predecessor or another person<sup>7</sup>.
 320

Head (2) above does not, however, apply unless the dwelling house concerned was first let before 1 January 1990<sup>8</sup>. Nor does it apply to the right to acquire<sup>9</sup> conferred by the Housing Act 1996<sup>10</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

4 The facilities so referred to are facilities which consist of or include (1) the services of a resident warden; or (2) the services of a non-resident warden, a system for calling him and the use of a common room in close proximity to the group of dwelling houses: Housing Act 1985 s 120, Sch 5 para 10(2).

5 Ibid Sch 5 para 10(1) (amended by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 106(1); for transitional provisions see s 106(3), (4)).

The Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 10(1) (as so amended) is modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies: see art 3(1), Schedule para 66(d).

6 In determining whether a dwelling is particularly suitable, no regard is to be had to the presence of any feature provided by the tenant or a predecessor in title of his: Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 11(2) (Sch 5 para 11 substituted by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 106(2)).

Notwithstanding anything in the Housing Act 1985 s 181 (as amended) (jurisdiction of county court: see PARA 1922 post), any question arising under Sch 5 para 11 (as substituted and amended) is to be determined as follows: (1) if an application for the purpose is made by the tenant to the appropriate tribunal or authority before the end of the period of 56 days beginning with the service of the landlord's notice under s 124 (as amended) (see PARA 1828 post), the question must be determined by the appropriate tribunal or authority; and (2) if no such application is so made, the question is deemed to have been determined in favour of the landlord: Sch 5 para 11(3)-(5) (as so substituted; amended by the Housing Act 2004 s 181(1), (2); at the date at which this title states the law, the latter amendment was in force in relation to England only and in relation to Wales the application was to be made to, and the question determined by, the National Assembly for Wales). For these purposes, 'the appropriate tribunal or authority' means (a) in relation to England, a residential property tribunal; and (b) in relation to Wales, the Assembly; and the Housing Act 2004 s 231 (appeals to the Lands Tribunal: see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 199) does not apply to any decision of a residential property tribunal under this provision: Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 11(5A), (5B) (added by the Housing Act 2004 s 181(1), (3), as from 4 July 2005 in relation to England (Housing Act 2004 (Commencement No 4 and Transitional Provisions) (England) Order 2005, SI 2005/1729, art 2(a)) and as from a day to be appointed under the Housing Act 2004 s 270(4), (5)(c) in relation to Wales; at the date at which this title states the law, no such day had been appointed). As to residential property tribunals and their jurisdiction under the Housing Act 2004 see ss 229, 230; and HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 187-188. The following provisions apply to any application under the Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 11(4) (as substituted) in respect of a dwelling house in England which was made to the Secretary of State before 4 July 2005 and was not determined by him before that day: Housing Act 2004 s 181(4). If the application was made more than 28 days before that day, it was to be determined by the Secretary of State as if the amendments made by s 181 had not come into force: s 181(5). Otherwise the application is to be determined by a residential property tribunal, and the Secretary of State must make all such arrangements as he considers necessary for the purpose of, or in connection with, enabling it to be so determined: s 181(6). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante; and as to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante. For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

The Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 11(4), (5) (as substituted and amended) is modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, applies: see Schedule para 66(e).

7 Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 11(1) (as substituted: see note 6 supra). As to the effect on this exception to the right to buy of the disposal and subsequent leaseback of the public sector landlord's interest in the premises under the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 Pt I Ch I (ss 1-38) (as amended) see s 37, Sch 10 para 2(4), (5)(b) (as amended); and PARA 1668 ante.

1815 Certain dwelling houses for elderly persons

NOTE 6--Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 11(5B) amended: Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 310(1). See further s 310(2). Reference to the Lands Tribunal is now to the Upper Tribunal: Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 11(5B) (amended by SI 2009/1307).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(iii) Exceptions; Suspension of Right/1816. Dwelling houses held on Crown tenancies.

1816. Dwelling houses held on Crown tenancies.

The right to buy<sup>1</sup> does not arise if the dwelling house<sup>2</sup> is held by the landlord<sup>3</sup> on a tenancy from the Crown<sup>4</sup> unless:

- 4521 (1) the landlord is entitled to grant a lease<sup>5</sup> without the concurrence of the appropriate authority; or
- 4522 (2) the appropriate authority notifies the landlord that as regards any Crown interest affected the authority will give its consent to the granting of such a lease<sup>6</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'tenancy from the Crown' means a tenancy of land in which there is a Crown interest superior to the tenancy; and 'Crown interest' and 'appropriate authority' mean respectively (1) an interest comprised in the Crown Estate, and the Crown Estate Commissioners or other government department having the management of the land in question; (2) an interest belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Duchy of Lancaster, and the Chancellor of the Duchy; (3) an interest belonging to the Duchy of Cornwall, and such person as the Duke of Cornwall or the possessor for the time being of the Duchy appoints; (4) any other interest belonging to a government department or held on behalf of Her Majesty for the purposes of a government department, and that department: Housing Act 1985 s 120, Sch 5 para 12(2). For the meaning of 'tenancy' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante. As to the Crown Estate Commissioners see CROWN PROPERTY vol 12(1) (Reissue) PARA 280.

5 In pursuance of ibid Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended): see PARA 1795 et seq ante, PARA 1819 et seq post. For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

6 Ibid Sch 5 para 12(1). Section 179(1) (as amended) (see PARA 1797 ante) is to be disregarded for the purposes of Sch 5 para 12(1)(a): Sch 5 para 12(3). The Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 12 is omitted where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies: see art 3(1), Schedule para 66(f).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(iii) Exceptions; Suspension of Right/1817. Dwelling house due to be demolished within 24 months.

1817. Dwelling house due to be demolished within 24 months.

The right to buy<sup>1</sup> does not arise if a final demolition notice is in force<sup>2</sup> in respect of the dwelling house<sup>3</sup>. A 'final demolition notice' is a notice:

- 4523 (1) stating that the landlord<sup>4</sup> intends to demolish the dwelling house or, as the case may be, the building containing it ('the relevant premises');
- 4524 (2) setting out the reasons why the landlord intends to demolish the relevant premises;
- 4525 (3) specifying the date by which he intends to demolish those premises ('the proposed demolition date') and the date when the notice will cease to be in force, unless extended<sup>5</sup>;
- 4526 (4) stating that one of conditions A to C below is satisfied in relation to the notice, specifying the condition concerned; and
- 4527 (5) stating that the right to buy does not arise in respect of the dwelling house while the notice is in force<sup>6</sup>.

If, at the time when the notice is served<sup>7</sup>, there is an existing claim to exercise the right to buy in respect of the dwelling house, the notice must, instead of complying with head (5) above, state that that claim ceases to be effective on the notice coming into force, but that there is a statutory right to compensation<sup>8</sup> in respect of certain expenditure, and the notice must also give details of that right to compensation and of how it may be exercised<sup>9</sup>.

The proposed demolition date must fall within the period of 24 months beginning with the date of service of the notice on the tenant<sup>10</sup>; and a final demolition notice is in force for these purposes in respect of the dwelling house concerned during the period of 24 months so mentioned, subject to compliance with the relevant statutory conditions in a case to which they apply<sup>11</sup> and to the provisions<sup>12</sup> allowing for an extension of that period<sup>13</sup>.

A final demolition notice may only be served for these purposes if one of conditions A to C is satisfied in relation to the notice<sup>14</sup>. Condition A is that the proposed demolition of the dwelling house does not form part of a scheme<sup>15</sup> involving the demolition of other premises<sup>16</sup>. Condition B is that:

- 4528 (a) the proposed demolition of the dwelling house does form part of a scheme involving the demolition of other premises; but
- 4529 (b) none of those other premises needs to be acquired by the landlord in order for the landlord to be able to demolish them<sup>17</sup>.

Condition C is that:

- 4530 (i) the proposed demolition of the dwelling house does form part of a scheme involving the demolition of other premises; and
- 4531 (ii) one or more of those premises need to be acquired by the landlord in order for the landlord to be able to demolish them; but
- 4532 (iii) in each case arrangements for their acquisition are in place<sup>18</sup>.

If, while a final demolition notice is in force:

- 4533 (A) the landlord decides not to demolish the dwelling house in question, he must, as soon as is reasonably practicable, serve a notice ('a revocation notice') on the tenant which informs him of the landlord's decision and that the demolition notice is revoked as from the date of service of the revocation notice<sup>25</sup>;
- 4534 (B) it appears to the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister that the landlord has no intention of demolishing the dwelling house in question, he or it may serve a notice ('a revocation notice') on the tenant which informs him of the Secretary of State's or the Assembly's or minister's conclusion, and that the demolition notice is revoked as from the date of service of the revocation notice<sup>26</sup>; but the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister may not serve a revocation notice unless he or it has previously served a notice on the landlord which informs him of the intention to serve the revocation notice<sup>27</sup>.

Where a revocation notice is served under head (A) or head (B) above, the demolition notice ceases to be in force as from the date of service of the revocation notice<sup>28</sup>.

Once a final demolition notice has, for any reason, ceased to be in force in respect of a dwelling house without it being demolished, no further final demolition notice may be served in respect of it during the period of five years following the time when the notice ceases to be in force, unless it is served with the consent of the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister and the notice states that it is so served<sup>29</sup>. Such consent may be given subject to compliance with such conditions as the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister may specify<sup>30</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

2 As to when such a notice is in force see the text and notes 11-13 infra.

3 Housing Act 1985 s 120, Sch 5 para 13(1) (Sch 5 paras 13-16 added by the Housing Act 2004 s 182(1); for transitional provisions see s 182(2)).

4 For the purposes of the Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 paras 13-15 (as added), any reference to the landlord, in the context of a reference to an intention or decision on his part to demolish or not to demolish any premises, or of a reference to the acquisition or transfer of any premises, includes a reference to a superior landlord: Sch 5 para 13(9) (as added: see note 3 supra). 6 Ibid Sch 5 para 13(2) (as added: see note 3 supra).

7 Any notice under ibid Sch 5 para 13 or 15 (as added) may be served on a person: (1) by delivering it to him, by leaving it at his proper address or by sending it by post to him at that address; or (2) if the person is a body corporate, by serving it in accordance with head (1) supra on the secretary of the body: Sch 5 para 16(1) (as added: see note 3 supra). For these purposes and the Interpretation Act 1978 s 7 (service of documents by post) the proper address of a person on whom a notice is to be served is (a) in the case of a body corporate or its secretary, that of the registered or principal office of the body; and (b) in any other case, the last known address of that person: Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 16(2) (as so added).

8 Ie that ibid s 138C (as added) confers such a right: see PARA 1850 post.

11 Ie subject to compliance with ibid Sch 5 para 13(6), (7) (as added: see note 3 supra). If (1) the dwelling house is contained in a building which contains one or more other dwelling houses; and (2) the landlord intends to demolish the whole of the building, the landlord must have served a final demolition notice on the occupier of each of the dwelling houses contained in it (whether addressed to him by name or just as 'the occupier'); but an accidental omission to serve a final demolition notice on one or more occupiers does not prevent this condition from being satisfied: Sch 5 para 13(6) (as so added). A notice stating that the landlord intends to demolish the relevant premises must have appeared: (a) in a local or other newspaper circulating in the locality in which those premises are situated (other than one published by the landlord); and (b) in any newspaper published by the landlord; and (c) on the landlord's website (if he has one): Sch 5 para 13(7) (as so added). The notice so mentioned must contain the following information: (i) sufficient information to enable identification of the premises that the landlord intends to demolish; (ii) the reasons why the landlord intends to demolish those premises; (iii) the proposed demolition date; (iv) the date when any final demolition notice or notices relating to those premises will cease to be in force, unless extended or revoked under Sch 5 para 15 (as added); (v) that the right to buy will not arise in respect of those premises or (as the case may be) in respect of any dwelling house contained in them; (vi) that there may be a right to compensation under s 138C (as added) (see PARA 1850 post) in respect of certain expenditure incurred in respect of any existing claim: Sch 5 para 13(8) (as so added).

12 Ie the provisions of ibid Sch 5 para 15(1)-(7) (as added): see the text and notes 19-28 infra.

16 Ibid Sch 5 para 14(2) (as added: see note 3 supra). For these purposes, 'premises' means premises of any description: Sch 5 para 14(6) (as so added).

17 Ibid Sch 5 para 14(3) (as added: see note 3 supra).

18 Ibid Sch 5 para 14(4) (as added: see note 3 supra). For these purposes, arrangements for the acquisition of any premises are in place if (1) an agreement under which the landlord is entitled to acquire the premises is in force; or (2) a notice to treat has been given in respect of the premises under the Compulsory Purchase Act 1965 s 5 (as amended) (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 616); or (3) a vesting declaration has been made in respect of the premises under the Compulsory Purchase (Vesting Declarations) Act 1981 s 4 (see COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND vol 18 (2009) PARA 687); Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 14(5) (as so added).

1817 Dwelling house due to be demolished within 24 months

TEXT AND NOTES--Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 paras 13, 15, 16 amended, Sch 5 para 15A added: Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 Sch 13 paras 1-5, Sch 16. For transitional provision see Sch 13 para 14.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(iii) Exceptions; Suspension of Right/1818. Dwelling houses where the debt is equal to or greater than the purchase price plus the discount.

1818. Dwelling houses where the debt is equal to or greater than the purchase price plus the discount.

The right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996<sup>1</sup> does not arise if the net debt<sup>2</sup> or the peak debt<sup>3</sup> attributable to the dwelling house<sup>4</sup> on the date of service of the tenant's notice claiming to exercise the right to acquire<sup>5</sup> is equal to or greater than the purchase price plus the discount<sup>6</sup>.

1 As to the right to acquire see PARAS 1804-1807 ante.

2 For these purposes, the net debt is the amount of the relevant costs, as defined infra, less the amount of public subsidy as defined infra: see the Housing Act 1985 s 120, Sch 5 para 13(2) (Sch 5 para 13 added for these purposes by the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 40(e)). 'The relevant costs' means the costs incurred by the landlord in respect of the acquisition of the dwelling house, the construction of the dwelling house (including the costs of development works and the acquisition of land) but does not include the costs of (1) works of repair or maintenance; (2) works to deal with any defect affecting the dwelling house; (3) works of improvement where they are paid for on or after the date of service of the tenant's notice under the Housing Act 1985 s 122 (see PARA 1826 post) unless (a) the landlord has before that date entered into a written contract for the carrying out of the works; or (b) the tenant has agreed in writing to the carrying out of the works and either the works have been carried out no later than the date of service of the landlord's notice under s 125 (as amended) (landlord's notice of purchase price and other matters: see PARA 1829 post) or the works will be carried out under the proposed terms of the conveyance: Sch 5 para 13(4) (as so added). 'Public subsidy' means grant or other financial assistance of any kind used by the landlord in whole or in part in connection with the acquisition, construction (including the costs of development and the acquisition of land), repair, maintenance or improvement of the dwelling house where such grant or assistance is received from (i) the relevant authority under the Housing Act 1996 s 18 (as amended) (social housing grants: see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 66); (ii) the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales under the Housing Grants, Construction and Regeneration Act 1996 s 126 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1504) under the programme designated 'City Challenge' in England and the programmes designated the 'Strategic Development Scheme' and 'Welsh Capital Challenge' in Wales; (iii) a local housing authority where grant is paid pursuant to an application by the landlord under the Local Government and Housing Act 1989 Pt VIII (repealed) or the Housing Grants, Construction and Regeneration Act 1996 Pt I Ch I (ss 1-59) (as amended) (grants etc for renewal of private sector housing: see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 622 et seq); (iv) National Lottery; and (v) a local authority in a case where the local authority has conveyed the freehold or leasehold of land to the landlord at a price which is below the market value of the land at the time of the conveyance: Housing Act 1985 Sch 5 para 13(5) (as so added).

3 For these purposes the peak debt is the amount under a loan agreement, ie the portion of the maximum amount which the landlord may borrow under a loan agreement which is attributable to the dwelling house: ibid Sch 5 para 13(3) (as added: see note 2 supra). 'A loan agreement' means an agreement (1) for a loan between a lender and the landlord which is wholly or partly secured by a charge (however created or arising) on the landlord's interest in the dwelling house; (2) which specifies the portion of the maximum amount which the landlord may borrow in any period which is attributable to the dwelling house; and (3) which is for the purpose of the provision of moneys for use in connection with the acquisition of land held for housing purposes and housing stock pursuant to a disposal under s 32 (as amended) (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 305); and where a loan is for such a purpose it may include the construction of dwelling houses (including the costs of development works and the acquisition of land) and works of repair, maintenance or improvement to dwelling houses pursuant to such acquisition: Sch 5 para 13(6) (as so added).

4 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

5 Ie the notice under the Housing Act 1985 s 122: see PARA 1826 post.

6 Ibid Sch 5 para 13(1) (as added: see note 2 supra).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(iii) Exceptions; Suspension of Right/1819. Circumstances in which the right to buy cannot be exercised.

1819. Circumstances in which the right to buy cannot be exercised.

The right to buy<sup>1</sup> cannot be exercised if:

4535 (1) the tenant<sup>2</sup> is obliged to give up possession of the dwelling house<sup>3</sup> in pursuance of an order of the court or will be so obliged at a date specified in the order<sup>4</sup>;

4536 (2) the person, or one of the persons, to whom the right to buy belongs has a bankruptcy petition<sup>5</sup> pending against him, is an undischarged bankrupt<sup>6</sup> or has made a composition or arrangement with his creditors<sup>7</sup> the terms of which remain to be fulfilled<sup>8</sup>.

The right to buy cannot be exercised at any time during the suspension period under a suspension order<sup>9</sup> made in respect of the secure tenancy<sup>10</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

4 Housing Act 1985 s 121(1). There is a potential clash of competing claims, namely that of a landlord for possession and that of the tenant to exercise the right to buy. The conflict is not to be resolved by a race to judgment or to execution of judgment: Bristol City Council v Lovell [1998] 1 All ER 775, [1998] 1 WLR 446, HL, overruling Dance v Welwyn Hatfield District Council [1990] 3 All ER 572, [1990] 1 WLR 1097, CA, and explaining Taylor v Newham London Borough Council [1993] 2 All ER 649, [1993] 1 WLR 444. The mere fact that the statutory conditions to exercise a right to buy are fulfilled does not dictate the priority of the competing claims: Basildon District Council v Wahlen [2006] EWCA Civ 326, [2006] 1 WLR 2744, [2006] All ER (D) 413 (Mar); and see Martin v Medina Housing Association Ltd [2006] EWCA Civ 367, [2006] 15 EG 134 (CS), [2006] All ER (D) 478 (Mar) (where the right to buy had been established but the stage had not been reached at which all matters relating to the grant had been agreed or determined). Where a landlord's application for possession and a tenant's application for the right to buy were scheduled together, it was held that the judge was correct to hear the application for possession first (see Tandridge District Council v Bickers (1998) 31 HLR 432, CA) and it has since been held that the cases in which it is right not to hear the claims together will be rare; if each claim is arguable it must be right to investigate the merits as a whole which will involve considering both cases at the same time (Basildon District Council v Wahlen supra). For guidance in balancing a sound case by a tenant for further implementation of his right to buy the property in question and, on the other hand, a good case for possession being reasonable on the ground that the accommodation afforded by the dwelling house is more extensive than is reasonable required by the tenant (ie the Housing Act 1985 s 84(2)(c), Sch 2 Pt III, Ground 16 (as amended): see PARA 1375 ante) see Basildon District Council v Wahlen supra; Kensington and Chelsea London Borough Council v Hislop [2003] EWHC 2944 (Ch), [2004] 1 All ER 1036, [2003] All ER (D) 113 (Dec). If a local authority needs to delay the statutory timetable applicable to the right to buy it is preferable for the authority to obtain the court's ruling on the appropriate order for determination of the rival proceedings but a refusal to process a tenant's notice did not require the court to consider the right to buy claim first: see Tandridge District Council v Bickers supra.

UPDATE

1819 Circumstances in which the right to buy cannot be exercised

TEXT AND NOTE 4--The right to buy cannot be exercised if the tenant is subject to an order of the court for possession of the dwelling house: Housing Act 1985 s 121(1) (substituted by Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 304(1)). See further s 304(2).

NOTE 4--The right to buy pursuant to a notice already served under the 1985 Act s 122 is not permanently lost once the tenant is obliged to deliver up possession; otherwise, a secure tenant who has served notice exercising his right to buy will lose the right to rely on the notice, however far advanced the exercise and however blameless he is for the triggering of s 121: Knowsley Housing Trust v White; Honeygan-Green v Islington LBC; Porter v Shepherds Bush Housing Association [2008] UKHL 70, [2008] All ER (D) 115 (Dec).

Although s 121(1) destroys a tenant's right to buy a dwelling house made subject to a possession order, it does not preclude the right to buy another dwelling house not subject to a possession order of which he becomes the tenant: Manchester City Council v Benjamin [2008] EWCA Civ 189, [2009] 1 All ER 798.

1820. Order suspending right to buy because of anti-social behaviour.

The court may, on the application of the landlord<sup>1</sup> under a secure tenancy<sup>2</sup>, make a suspension order in respect of the tenancy<sup>3</sup>. A suspension order is an order providing that the right to buy<sup>4</sup> may not be exercised in relation to the dwelling house<sup>5</sup> during such period as is specified in the order ('the suspension period')<sup>6</sup>.

The court will fix a date for the hearing when it issues the claim form<sup>7</sup>. The defendant must be served with the claim form and the particulars of claim not less than 21 days before the hearing date<sup>8</sup>. Where the defendant does not file a defence within the specified time<sup>9</sup> he may take part in any hearing but the court may take his failure to do so into account when deciding what order to make about costs<sup>10</sup>. The landlord may not obtain a default judgment<sup>11</sup>.

At the hearing fixed in accordance with the rules set out above<sup>12</sup> or at any adjournment of that hearing the court may either decide the claim or give case management directions<sup>13</sup>. Where the claim is genuinely disputed on grounds which appear to be substantial, case management directions so given will include the allocation of the claim to a track<sup>14</sup> or directions to enable it to be allocated<sup>15</sup>.

The court must not make a suspension order unless it is satisfied:

- 4537 (1) that the tenant<sup>16</sup>, or a person residing in or visiting the dwelling house, has engaged or threatened to engage in anti-social behaviour or use of premises for unlawful purposes<sup>17</sup>; and
- 4538 (2) that it is reasonable to make the order<sup>18</sup>.

When deciding whether it is reasonable to make the order, the court must consider, in particular:

- 4539 (a) whether it is desirable for the dwelling house to be managed by the landlord during the suspension period; and

- 4540 (b) where the conduct mentioned in head (1) above consists of conduct by a person which is capable of causing nuisance or annoyance, the effect that the conduct, or the threat of it, has had on other persons, or would have if repeated<sup>19</sup>.

Where a suspension order is made, any existing claim to exercise the right to buy in relation to the dwelling house ceases to be effective as from the beginning of the suspension period<sup>20</sup>, and the obligation to complete<sup>21</sup> does not apply to the landlord, in connection with such a claim, at any time after the beginning of that period<sup>22</sup>. The order does not, however, affect the computation<sup>23</sup> of any qualifying period<sup>24</sup>.

The court may, on the application of the landlord, make, on one or more occasions, a further order which extends the suspension period under the suspension order by such period as is specified in the further order<sup>25</sup>. The court must not make such a further order unless it is satisfied:

- 4541 (i) that, since the making of the suspension order, or the last order extending the suspension period<sup>26</sup>, the tenant, or a person residing in or visiting the dwelling house, has engaged or threatened to engage in such conduct as is described in head (1) above; and 4542 (ii) that it is reasonable to make the further order<sup>27</sup>.

When deciding whether it is reasonable to make such a further order, the court must consider, in particular:

- 4543 (A) whether it is desirable for the dwelling house to be managed by the landlord during the further period of suspension; and 4544 (B) where the conduct mentioned in head (i) above consists of conduct by a person which is capable of causing nuisance or annoyance, the effect that the conduct, or the threat of it, has had on other persons, or would have if repeated<sup>28</sup>.

A suspension order may be claimed in the alternative to a possession order, in which case there are different procedural rules<sup>29</sup>.

2 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARA 1300 et seq ante.

3 Housing Act 1985 s 121A(1) (s 121A added by the Housing Act 2004 s 192(2)).

5 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

6 Housing Act 1985 s 121A(2) (as added: see note 3 supra). Where a suspension claim is, or both a suspension and a demotion claim are, made other than in a possession claim, CPR 65.14-CPR 65.19 apply: CPR 65.13. The claim must be made in the county court for the district in which the property to which the claim relates is situated; and the claim form and form of defence sent with it must be in the forms set out in the relevant practice direction: CPR 65.14(1), (2). The particulars of claim must be filed and served with the claim form: CPR 65.15. As to demotion claims see PARA 1351 ante.

7 CPR 65.16(1). The hearing date will be not less than 28 days from the date of issue of the claim form: CPR 65.16(2). The standard period between the issue of the claim form and the hearing will be not more than eight weeks: CPR 65.16(3). The court may extend or shorten the time for compliance with any rule and may adjourn or bring forward a hearing: see CPR 3.1(2)(a), (b); and CIVIL PROCEDURE VOL 11 (2009) PARAS 247, 249.

The court may use its powers under CPR 3.1(2)(a), (b) to shorten the time periods set out in CPR 65.16(2)-(4): Practice Direction--Anti-social Behaviour and Harassment PD 65 para 8.1. Particular consideration should be given to the exercise of this power if (1) the defendant, or a person for whom the defendant is responsible, has assaulted or threatened to assault (a) the claimant; (b) a member of the claimant's staff; or (c) another resident in the locality; (2) there are reasonable grounds for fearing such an assault; or (3) the defendant, or a person for whom the defendant is responsible, has caused serious damage or threatened to cause serious damage to the property or to the home or property of another resident in the locality: para 8.2. Where para 8.2 applies but the case cannot be determined at the first hearing fixed under CPR 65.16, the court will consider what steps are needed to finally determine the case as quickly as reasonably practicable: Practice Direction--Anti-social Behaviour and Harassment PD 65 para 8.3.

8 CPR 65.16(4). The claimant must use the appropriate claim form and particulars of claim form set out in Practice Direction--Forms PD 4 Table 1; and the defence must be in form N11D as appropriate: Practice Direction--Anti-social Behaviour and Harassment PD 65 para 6.2. The claimant's evidence should include details of the conduct alleged and any other matters relied upon: para 6.3. An acknowledgement of service is not required and CPR Pt 10 (see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 184 et seq) does not apply: CPR 65.17(1). Where the claimant serves the claim form and particulars of claim, he must produce at the hearing a certificate of service of those documents and CPR 6.14(2)(a) (see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 151) does not apply: CPR 65.18(5).

In a suspension claim, the particulars of claim must (1) state that the suspension claim is a claim under the Housing Act 1985 s 121A (as added); (2) state which of the bodies the claimant's interest belongs to in order to comply with the landlord condition under s 80 (as amended) (see PARA 1300 ante); (3) identify the property to which the claim relates; (4) state details of the conduct alleged; and (5) explain why it is reasonable to make the order, having regard in particular to the factors set out in s 121A(4) (as added) (see heads (a)-(b) in the text): Practice Direction--Anti-social Behaviour and Harassment PD 65 para 7.2.

9 le the time specified in CPR 15.4: see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 201.

10 CPR 65.17(2).

11 See CPR 65.17(3), disapplying CPR Pt 12 (default judgment: see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 506 et seq).

12 le fixed in accordance with CPR 65.16(1): see the text and note 7 supra.

13 CPR 65.18(1). As to case management see generally CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 246 et seq. Except where the claim is allocated to the fast track or the multi-track, or the court directs otherwise, any fact that needs to be proved by the evidence of witnesses at a hearing referred to in CPR 65.18(1) may be proved by evidence in writing: CPR 65.18(3). All witness statements must be filed and served at least two days before the hearing: CPR 65.18(4). As to the general rule about evidence, which is subject to any provision to the contrary, see CPR 32.2(1), (2); and CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 979.

Each party should wherever possible include all the evidence he wishes to present in his statement of case, verified by a statement of truth: Practice Direction--Anti-social Behaviour and Harassment PD 65 para 9.1. If (1) the maker of a witness statement does not attend a hearing; and (2) the other party disputes material evidence contained in the statement, the court will normally adjourn the hearing so that oral evidence can be given: para 9.3.

14 When the court decides the track for the claim, the matters to which it must have regard include: (1) the matters set out in CPR 26.8 (see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 270); and (2) the nature and extent of the conduct alleged: CPR 65.19.

15 CPR 65.18(2).

16 For these purposes, any reference to the tenant under a secure tenancy is, in relation to a joint tenancy, a reference to any of the joint tenants: Housing Act 1985 s 121A(9) (as added: see note 3 supra). For the meaning of 'tenant' generally see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

17 le has engaged in conduct to which the Housing Act 1996 s 153A (as added) or s 153B (as added) (injunctions against anti-social behaviour: see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 268 et seq) applies. The claimant's evidence should include details of the conduct to which the Housing Act 1996 s 153A or s 153B (each as added) applies and in respect of which the suspension claim is made: Practice Direction--Anti-social Behaviour and Harassment PD 65 para 9.2.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(iv) Qualifying Period/1821. In general.

(iv) Qualifying Period

1821. In general.

The right to buy<sup>1</sup> does not arise unless the period which is to be taken into account<sup>2</sup> is at least five years<sup>3</sup>; but, where the secure tenancy<sup>4</sup> is a joint tenancy<sup>5</sup>, that condition need be satisfied with respect to one only of the joint tenants<sup>6</sup>.

A person exercising the right to buy is entitled to a discount of a percentage calculated by reference to the qualifying period for the right to buy<sup>7</sup>.

The period to be so taken into account for qualification for the right to buy and the right to a discount is the period qualifying, or the aggregate of the periods qualifying, under the provisions<sup>8</sup> set out in the following paragraphs<sup>9</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

2 In accordance with the Housing Act 1985 s 119(1) (as amended), s 129(1) (as substituted), Sch 4 (as amended) (see PARA 1822 et seq post) for the purposes of s 119 (as amended).

3 Ibid s 119(1) (amended by the Housing Act 2004 s 180(1)). That amendment does not, however, apply in relation to a secure tenancy (1) if the tenancy was entered into before, or in pursuance of an agreement made before, the day on which it came into force (ie 18 January 2005); or (2) if head (1) supra does not apply but the tenant is a public sector tenant on that day and does not cease to be such a tenant at any time before serving a notice in respect of the tenancy under the Housing Act 1985 s 122 (see PARA 1826 post); and for these purposes 'public sector tenant' has the same meaning as in Sch 4 (as amended) (see PARA 1823 post): Housing Act 2004 s 180(5), (6). In such cases, the original time limit of two years applies: see the Housing Act 1985 s 119(1) (as originally enacted).

4 For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARA 1795 note 2 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

5 As to the position where a secure tenancy is a joint tenancy see PARA 1803 ante.

6 Housing Act 1985 s 119(2). Section 119(2) is modified where the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241 (see PARA 1900 et seq post), apply: see reg 2(1), Sch 1 para 4.

7 See the Housing Act 1985 s 129(1) (as substituted); and PARA 1839 post.

8 In the provisions of ibid Sch 4 paras 2-10 (as amended): see PARA 1822 et seq post.

9 Ibid Sch 4 para 1. Schedule 4 para 1 is substituted where the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 (see PARAS 1804-1807 ante) arises, so as to read 'The period to be taken into account for the purposes of s 119 (qualification for the right to acquire) is the period qualifying, or the aggregate of the periods qualifying, under the following provisions of this Schedule': see the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 39(a).

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(iv) Qualifying Period/1822. Periods occupying accommodation subject to public sector tenancy.

1822. Periods occupying accommodation subject to public sector tenancy.

A period qualifies for the right to buy<sup>1</sup> and the right to a discount<sup>2</sup> if it is a period during which, before the relevant time<sup>3</sup>, the secure tenant<sup>4</sup> or his spouse or civil partner, if they are living together at the relevant time, or a deceased spouse or deceased civil partner of his, if they were living together at the time of the death, was a public sector tenant<sup>5</sup> or was the spouse or civil partner of a public sector tenant and occupied as his only or principal home the dwelling house<sup>6</sup> of which the spouse or civil partner was such a tenant<sup>7</sup>.

Where the public sector tenant of a dwelling house died or otherwise ceased to be a public sector tenant of the dwelling house and thereupon a child of his<sup>8</sup> who occupied the dwelling house as his only or principal home (the 'new tenant') became the public sector tenant of the dwelling house, whether under the same or another public sector tenancy, then a period during which the new tenant, since reaching the age of 16, occupied as his only or principal home a dwelling house of which a parent of his was a public sector tenant or one of joint tenants under a public sector tenancy, being either:

- 4545 (1) the period at the end of which he became the public sector tenant; or 4546 (2) an earlier period ending two years or less before the period mentioned in head (1) above or before another period within this provision, is treated<sup>9</sup> as a period during which he was a public sector tenant<sup>10</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

2 As to the right to a discount see PARA 1839 et seq post.

3 For these purposes, 'the relevant time', in relation to the exercise of the right to buy, means the date on which the notice of claim is served on the landlord: Housing Act 1985 s 122(1), (2). See further Copping v Surrey County Council [2005] EWCA Civ 1604, [2006] 1 EGLR 42, [2005] All ER (D) 340 (Dec), cited in PARA 1829 note 9 post.

6 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

For these purposes, a person who, as a joint tenant under a public sector tenancy, occupied a dwelling house as his only or principal home is treated as having been the public sector tenant under that tenancy: Sch 4 para 3. For the meaning of 'only or principal home' see PARA 1300 note 19 ante.

8 For these purposes, two persons are treated as parent and child if they would be so treated under ibid s 186(2) (as amended) (see PARA 1827 note 3 post): Sch 4 para 4(3).

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(iv) Qualifying Period/1823. Meaning of 'public sector tenant'.

1823. Meaning of 'public sector tenant'.

'Public sector tenant' means<sup>1</sup> a tenant<sup>2</sup> under a public sector tenancy<sup>3</sup>. A tenancy, other than a long tenancy<sup>4</sup>, under which a dwelling house<sup>5</sup> was let as a separate dwelling was a public sector tenancy at a time when the landlord condition<sup>6</sup> and the tenant condition<sup>7</sup> were satisfied<sup>8</sup>.

The landlord condition is<sup>9</sup> that the interest of the landlord belonged to, or to a predecessor of, a local authority<sup>10</sup>, a new town corporation<sup>11</sup>, a housing action trust<sup>12</sup>, the former Development Board for Rural Wales<sup>13</sup>, an urban development corporation<sup>14</sup>, the Housing Corporation<sup>15</sup> or the former Housing for Wales<sup>16</sup>, a registered social landlord<sup>17</sup> which is not a co-operative housing association<sup>18</sup>, the Secretary of State where that interest belonged to him as the result of the exercise by him of functions under Part III of the Housing Associations Act 1985<sup>19</sup> or to, or to a predecessor of, a corresponding authority or body<sup>20</sup> in Scotland and Northern Ireland<sup>21</sup>. The landlord condition is treated as having been satisfied:

- 4547 (1) in the case of a dwelling house comprised in a housing co-operative agreement<sup>22</sup> made, in England and Wales, by a local housing authority<sup>23</sup>, new town corporation or the former Development Board for Rural Wales if the interest of the landlord belonged to the housing co-operative<sup>24</sup>; and 4548 (2) in such circumstances as may be prescribed for these purposes by order of the Secretary of State<sup>25</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by order of the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>26</sup>, if the interest of the landlord belonged to a person who is so prescribed<sup>27</sup>.

The tenant condition is that the tenant was an individual and occupied the dwelling house as his only or principal home<sup>28</sup> or, where the tenancy was a joint tenancy, that each of the joint tenants was an individual and at least one of them occupied the dwelling house as his only or principal home<sup>29</sup>. The tenant condition is not met during any period when a tenancy is<sup>30</sup> a demoted tenancy<sup>31</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(v) Claim to Exercise the Right to Buy or Right to Acquire/A. TENANT'S NOTICE OF CLAIM/1826. Tenant's notice claiming to exercise right.

(v) Claim to Exercise the Right to Buy or Right to Acquire

A. TENANT'S NOTICE OF CLAIM

1826. Tenant's notice claiming to exercise right.

A secure tenant<sup>1</sup> claims to exercise the right to buy<sup>2</sup> by written notice to that effect served on the landlord<sup>3</sup>; and the notice may be withdrawn at any time by notice in writing served on the landlord<sup>4</sup>.

Where the extended right to buy arises<sup>5</sup>, the notice may be withdrawn by notice in writing served on the landlord or on the freeholder, depending on whether or not the tenant has received the freeholder's notice admitting or denying that right<sup>6</sup>. In such cases, where a notice claiming to exercise the right to buy is served by the tenant, the landlord must, as soon as practicable:

- 4552 (1) serve a copy of the notice on the authority or body which is its landlord in relation to the dwelling house; and
- 4553 (2) serve on the tenant a notice in writing that this has been done and of the name and address of that authority or body<sup>7</sup>.

If the authority or body referred to in head (1) above is an intermediate landlord, it must in turn serve a copy of the notice on the authority or body which is its immediate landlord in relation to the dwelling house, and so on, if that authority or body is also an intermediate landlord<sup>8</sup>. The landlord and each of the intermediate landlords, if any, must, at the same time as it serves on its landlord the copy of the tenant's notice, notify that authority or body whether to its knowledge there are any reasons for denying the tenant's right to buy and, if there are, state those reasons<sup>9</sup>. When an intermediate landlord so notifies its immediate landlord whether there are any reasons for denying the tenant's right to buy, it must send with that notification the notification or notifications which it has received<sup>10</sup> from the landlord or from any other intermediate landlord or landlords<sup>11</sup>. An authority or body which serves a copy of the tenant's notice on another authority or body<sup>12</sup> must at the same time notify the landlord and the tenant that this has been done and the name and address of the other authority or body<sup>13</sup>.

Where the preserved right to buy arises<sup>14</sup>, then where the qualifying dwelling house<sup>15</sup> is occupied by two or more qualifying persons<sup>16</sup> as joint tenants the right to buy may be exercised by such one or more of them as may be agreed between them<sup>17</sup>.

Where the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 arises<sup>18</sup>, then the tenant must not make an application to acquire the dwelling house under that Act at any time when he has made an application to buy under Part V of the Housing Act 1985<sup>19</sup>, as it applies in relation to the right to buy and the preserved right to buy, which has not been withdrawn by the tenant or denied by the landlord; but nothing in this provision prevents the tenant withdrawing such an application and submitting an application<sup>20</sup> under the 1996 Act right to acquire<sup>21</sup>.

4 Housing Act 1985 s 122(3). Where, however, there is not just lengthy inactivity but an express representation to the local authority that the tenant does not intend to proceed with the purchase, this is, in effect, an express release and the authority is entitled to conclude that the claim to buy has been cancelled: see Martin v Medina Housing Association Ltd [2006] EWCA Civ 367, [2006] 15 EG 134 (CS), [2006] All ER (D) 478 (Mar). Further, where the tenant does not proceed with the claim for a number of years, the landlord is entitled to interpret his failure to take any further steps as meaning that he has decided not to proceed: see Copping v Surrey County Council [2005] EWCA Civ 1604, [2006] 1 EGLR 42, [2005] All ER (D) 340 (Dec), per curiam.

1827. Claim to share right with members of family.

A secure tenant<sup>1</sup> may in his notice claiming to exercise the right to buy<sup>2</sup> require that not more than three members of his family<sup>3</sup> who are not joint tenants but occupy the dwelling house<sup>4</sup> as their only or principal home<sup>5</sup> should share the right to buy with him<sup>6</sup>. He may validly do so in the case of any such member only if:

- 4554 (1) that member is his spouse, is his civil partner or has been residing with him throughout the period of 12 months ending with the giving of the notice; or
- 4555 (2) the landlord<sup>7</sup> consents<sup>8</sup>.

Where, by such a notice, any members of the tenant's family are validly required to share the right to buy with the tenant, the right belongs to the tenant and those members jointly; and he and they are treated<sup>9</sup> as joint tenants<sup>10</sup>.

B. LANDLORD'S NOTICES IN RESPONSE

1828. Landlord's notice admitting or denying right to buy.

Where a notice claiming to exercise the right to buy<sup>1</sup> has been served by the tenant<sup>2</sup>, the landlord<sup>3</sup> must, unless the notice is withdrawn, serve on the tenant within the specified period<sup>4</sup> a written notice either:

- 4556 (1) admitting his right; or
- 4557 (2) denying it and stating the reasons why, in the opinion of the landlord, the tenant does not have the right to buy<sup>5</sup>.

Where the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 arises<sup>6</sup>, and the landlord, in his notice under the above provisions, admits the tenant's right to acquire, he may offer to make a disposal to that tenant of an alternative dwelling house<sup>7</sup>. The tenant may refuse the landlord's offer of an alternative dwelling house<sup>8</sup>; but if he accepts it, the provisions of Part V of the Housing Act 1985<sup>9</sup> apply to the alternative dwelling house<sup>10</sup>.

Where, however, the extended right to buy arises<sup>11</sup>, the following provisions apply in substitution for those set out above. Where the freeholder receives<sup>12</sup> a copy of the secure tenant's notice claiming to exercise right to buy<sup>13</sup>, and the notice has not been withdrawn, the freeholder must serve on the tenant, within the specified period<sup>14</sup>, a written notice either:

- 4558 (a) admitting his right; or
- 4559 (b) denying it and stating why, in the opinion of the freeholder, the tenant does not have the right to buy<sup>15</sup>.

The freeholder must, as soon as practicable, serve on the landlord and on each of the intermediate landlords, if any, a copy of the notice so served on the tenant<sup>16</sup>. If the tenant wishes to withdraw a notice claiming to exercise the right to buy before he has received the freeholder's notice admitting or denying that right, he may do so by notice in writing served on the landlord<sup>17</sup>. Where the landlord receives the tenant's notice of withdrawal after it has served on its landlord a copy of the tenant's notice claiming to exercise the right to buy, it must, as soon as practicable, serve on its landlord a copy of the notice of withdrawal<sup>18</sup>. An intermediate landlord must, in turn, similarly serve on its immediate landlord a copy of the tenant's notice of withdrawal<sup>19</sup>. If, however, the tenant wishes to withdraw his notice claiming to exercise the right to buy after he has received the freeholder's notice admitting or denying the right, he may do so by a notice in writing served on the freeholder<sup>20</sup>. Where the tenant serves a notice of withdrawal on the freeholder, the freeholder must, as soon as practicable, inform the landlord and the intermediate landlords, if any, of this fact<sup>21</sup>.

1     I.e. a notice under the Housing Act 1985 s 122: see PARA 1826 ante. For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

2     For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

3     For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

4     The period so specified for serving a notice is four weeks where the requirement of the Housing Act 1985 s 119 (as amended) (see PARA 1821 ante) is satisfied by a period or periods during which the landlord was the landlord on which the tenant's notice under s 122 was served, and eight weeks in any other case: s 124(2).

5     Ibid s 124(1). For the prescribed form of notice in reply to a tenant's right to buy claim see the Housing (Right to Buy) (Prescribed Forms) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/2194, reg 3, Sch 2, Form RTB2 (substituted in relation to England by SI 2005/1736; as originally made and substantially amended in relation to Wales). A form substantially to the like effect may be used: see the Housing (Right to Buy) (Prescribed Forms) Regulations 1986, SI 1986/2194, reg 3. A form substantially to the like effect may be used: see reg 3.

The duty under the Housing Act 1985 s 124 (as amended) is a continuing duty and there is no duty on the tenant to do anything other than wait for the landlord's decision: see Hanoman v Southwark London Borough Council [2004] EWHC 2039 (Ch), [2005] 1 All ER 795, [2004] All ER (D) 243 (Jun) (local housing authority had no power to treat the application to exercise the right to buy as withdrawn because the tenant had failed to provide information requested by the authority in relation to his entitlement within a short period of time under a unilaterally imposed deadline). ### 1828 Landlord's notice admitting or denying right to buy

NOTE 5--See Transfer of Housing Corporation Functions (Modifications and Transitional Provisions) Order 2008, SI 2008/2839.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(v) Claim to Exercise the Right to Buy or Right to Acquire/B. LANDLORD'S NOTICES IN RESPONSE/1829. Landlord's notice of purchase price and other matters.

1829. Landlord's notice of purchase price and other matters.

Where a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> has claimed to exercise the right to buy<sup>2</sup> and that right has been established, whether by the landlord's<sup>3</sup> admission or otherwise, the landlord must:

- 4560 (1) within eight weeks where the right is to acquire the freehold<sup>4</sup>; and
- 4561 (2) within 12 weeks where the right is to acquire a leasehold interest<sup>5</sup>, serve on the tenant a notice complying with the following provisions<sup>6</sup>.

The notice must describe the dwelling house<sup>7</sup>, must state the price at which, in the opinion of the landlord, the tenant is entitled to have the freehold conveyed or, as the case may be, the lease<sup>8</sup> granted to him and must, for the purpose of showing how the price has been arrived at, state:

- 4562 (a) the value at the relevant time<sup>9</sup>;
- 4563 (b) the improvements<sup>10</sup> disregarded<sup>11</sup> in determining value; and
- 4564 (c) the discount to which the tenant is entitled, stating the period to be taken into account<sup>12</sup> for the discount and, where applicable, the reduction for previous discount<sup>13</sup> or the limits<sup>14</sup> on the amount of discount<sup>15</sup>.

The notice must state the provisions which, in the opinion of the landlord, should be contained in the conveyance or grant<sup>16</sup>.

Where the notice states provisions which would enable the landlord to recover from the tenant service charges<sup>17</sup> or improvement contributions<sup>18</sup>, the notice must contain the estimates and other information<sup>19</sup> required<sup>20</sup>.

The notice must contain a description of any structural defect<sup>21</sup> known to the landlord affecting the dwelling house or the building in which it is situated or any other building over which the tenant will have rights under the conveyance or lease<sup>22</sup>.

The notice must also inform the tenant of:

- 4565 (i) the effect of the statutory provisions relating to the tenant's notice of intention<sup>23</sup>, the landlord's notice in default<sup>24</sup> and the effect of failure to comply<sup>25</sup>;
- 4566 (ii) his right<sup>26</sup> to have the value of the dwelling house at the relevant time determined or redetermined by the district valuer;
- 4567 (iii) the effect of the statutory provisions relating to a change of tenant<sup>27</sup> after service of the tenant's notice of intention;
- 4568 (iv) the effect of the statutory provisions relating to the landlord's notices to complete<sup>28</sup> and the effect of failure to comply<sup>29</sup>;
- 4569 (v) the effect of the statutory provisions relating to the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms, where still exercisable<sup>30</sup>; and
- 4570 (vi) the relevant amount and multipliers for the time being declared<sup>31</sup> by the Secretary of State<sup>32</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>33</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'secure tenant' see PARA 1795 note 2 ante; and for the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

4 Ie where the right is that mentioned in the Housing Act 1985 s 118(1)(a): see PARA 1803 ante at head (1) in the text.

5 Ie where the right is that mentioned in ibid s 118(1)(b): see PARA 1803 ante at head (2) in the text.

6 Ibid s 125(1).

7 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

8 For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

9 For the meaning of 'the relevant time' see PARA 1822 note 3 ante. For these purposes, a tenant can only use the date on which his notice claiming the right to buy was served as the valuation date of the property if his right to buy that property is established pursuant to the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (as amended) in connection with that notice: see Copping v Surrey County Council [2005] EWCA Civ 1604, [2006] 1 EGLR 42, [2005] All ER (D) 340 (Dec) (relevant date was date of service of notice in 2001, not date of service of earlier notice of claim in 1991 which had not been proceeded with, although it had not been formally withdrawn).

10 For these purposes, 'improvement' means, in relation to a dwelling house, any alteration in, or addition to, the dwelling house and includes (1) any addition to, or alteration in, the landlord's fixtures and fittings and any addition to or alteration connected with the provision of services to the dwelling house; (2) the erection of a wireless or television aerial; and (3) the carrying out of external decoration; and is to be similarly construed in relation to any other building or land: Housing Act 1985 s 187 (amended by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 24(2), Sch 5 para 30(1), (2)).

11 Ie in pursuance of the Housing Act 1985 s 127 (as amended): see PARA 1837 post.

12 Ie under ibid s 129 (as amended): see PARA 1839 post.

13 Ie the amount mentioned in ibid s 130(1): see PARA 1840 post.

14 Ie the limits in ibid s 131(1) (as amended) or s 131(2): see PARA 1841 post.

15 Ibid s 125(2). It has been held that a local authority owes no common law duty of care to the tenant when stating its opinion as to the purchase price in a notice under s 125 (as amended): see Blake v Barking and Dagenham London Borough Council (1996) 30 HLR 963, [1996] EGCS 145.

16 Housing Act 1985 s 125(3).

17 For these purposes, 'service charge' means an amount payable by a purchaser or lessee of premises (1) which is payable, directly or indirectly, for services, repairs, maintenance or insurance or the vendor's or lessor's costs of management; and (2) the whole or part of which varies or may vary according to the relevant costs: ibid s 621A(1) (s 621A added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 24(2), Sch 5 para 39). The relevant costs are the costs or estimated costs incurred or to be incurred by or on behalf of the payee or, in the case of a lease, a superior landlord, in connection with the matters for which the service charge is payable: Housing Act 1985 s 621A(2) (as so added). For these purposes, 'costs' includes overheads; and costs are relevant costs in relation to a service charge whether they are incurred, or to be incurred, in the period for which the service charge is payable or in an earlier or later period: s 621A(3) (as so added). In relation to a service charge, the 'payee' means the person entitled to enforce payment of the charge; and the 'payer' means the person liable to pay it: s 621A(4) (as so added).

18 For these purposes, 'improvement contribution' means an amount payable by a tenant of a flat in respect of improvements to the flat, the building in which it is situated or any other building or land, other than works carried out in discharge of any such obligations as are referred to in ibid s 139(1), s 151(1) (as substituted), Sch 6 para 16A(1) (as added) (see PARA 1861 post): s 187 (definition added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 24(2), Sch 5 para 30(1), (3)). For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1796 ante.

19 Ie the estimates and other information required by the Housing Act 1985 s 125A (as added) (see PARA 1830 post) or s 125B (as added) (see PARA 1831 post).

20 Ibid s 125(4) (substituted by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 4(1)).

21 Structural defects are defects affecting the structure which require making good as opposed to ordinary items of repair and maintenance: Payne and Woodland v Barnet London Borough Council (1997) 76 P & CR 293, 30 HLR 295, CA.

22 Housing Act 1985 s 125(4A) (added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 24(1)(c), Sch 5 para 3). This provision imposes on the landlord an unqualified obligation to give notice of any relevant structural defect known to him, whether or not he wishes to recover from the tenant any part of the cost of putting it right; but there is otherwise no change in the normal relationship between the parties prior to the grant of a long lease and no wider duty of care imposed on the landlord: see Payne and Woodland v Barnet London Borough Council (1997) 76 P & CR 293, 30 HLR 295, CA. Failure to disclose this information is a breach of statutory duty but does not give rise to an additional claim for misrepresentation: Rushton v Worcester City Council [2001] EWCA Civ 367, [2002] HLR 188, [2001] All ER (D) 195 (Mar).

1830. Estimates and information about service charges.

A landlord's notice<sup>1</sup> must state<sup>2</sup> as regards service charges<sup>3</sup>:

- 4571 (1) the landlord's estimate of the average annual amount, at current prices, which would be payable in respect of each head of charge in the reference period<sup>4</sup>; and and must contain a statement of the reference period adopted for the purpose of the estimates<sup>5</sup>.

A landlord's notice given in respect of a flat must, however, as regards service charges in respect of repairs, including works for the making good of structural defects, contain:

- 4573 (a) the further estimates required<sup>6</sup>, together with a statement of the reference period adopted for the purpose of the estimates; and
- 4574 (b) a statement of the effect of the statutory restrictions on service charges<sup>7</sup> by reference to the estimates of the amounts payable by the tenant<sup>8</sup> and the statutory right to a loan<sup>9</sup> in respect of certain service charges<sup>10</sup>.

The following further estimates are required for works in respect of which the landlord considers that costs may be incurred in the reference period:

- 4575 (i) for works itemised in the notice, estimates of the amount, at current prices, of the likely cost of, and of the tenant's likely contribution in respect of, each item, and the aggregate amounts of those estimated costs and contributions; and
- 4576 (ii) for works not so itemised, an estimate of the average annual amount, at current prices, which the landlord considers is likely to be payable by the tenant<sup>11</sup>.

1834. Change of tenant after notice claiming right to buy.

Where, after a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> ('the former tenant') has given notice claiming his right to buy<sup>2</sup>, another person ('the new tenant'):

- 4583 (1) becomes the secure tenant under the same secure tenancy<sup>3</sup>, otherwise than on an assignment by way of exchange<sup>4</sup>; or
- 4584 (2) becomes the secure tenant under a periodic tenancy arising on the termination of a fixed term<sup>5</sup> on the coming to an end of the secure tenancy, the new tenant is in the same position as if the notice had been given by him and he had been the secure tenant at the time it was given<sup>6</sup>.

Where the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 arises<sup>7</sup>, then where after an assured tenant<sup>8</sup> ('the former tenant') has given a notice claiming the right to acquire, another person ('the new tenant') becomes

- 4585 (a) the assured tenant by succession<sup>9</sup>; or
- 4586 (b) the assured tenant under a statutory tenancy arising on the end of a fixed term tenancy<sup>10</sup>, the new tenant is in the same position as if the notice had been given by him and he had been the tenant at the time it was given<sup>11</sup>.

If a landlord's notice of the purchase price<sup>12</sup> has been served on the former tenant, then, whether or not the former tenant has served a notice of intention<sup>13</sup>, the new tenant must serve such a notice within the period of 12 weeks beginning with whichever of the following is the later:

- 4587 (i) his becoming the secure tenant (or, in a case in which the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 arises, the tenant); and
- 4588 (ii) where the right to have the value of the dwelling house<sup>14</sup> determined or redetermined by the district valuer<sup>15</sup> is or has been exercised by him or the former tenant, the service of the notice<sup>16</sup> stating the effect of the determination or redetermination<sup>17</sup>.

The above provisions do not, however, confer any right on a person required<sup>18</sup> to share the right to buy unless he could have been validly so required had the notice claiming to exercise the right to buy been given by the new tenant<sup>19</sup>.

The above provisions apply with the necessary modifications if there is a further change in the person who is the secure tenant (or, in a case in which the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 arises, the tenant)<sup>20</sup>.

1834 Change of tenant after notice claiming right to buy

TEXT AND NOTE 17--1985 Act s 136(2) amended: Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 306(8), Sch 16. See further 1985 Act s 136(2A) (added by 2008 Act s 306(9)).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(vi) Change of Tenant or Landlord/1835. Change of landlord after notice claiming right to buy.

1835. Change of landlord after notice claiming right to buy.

Where the interest of the landlord<sup>1</sup> in the dwelling house<sup>2</sup> passes from the landlord to another body after a secure tenant<sup>3</sup> has given a notice claiming to exercise the right to buy<sup>4</sup>, all parties are<sup>5</sup> in the same position as if the other body had become the landlord before the notice was given and had been given that notice and any further notice given by the tenant to the landlord and had taken all steps which the landlord had taken<sup>6</sup>. Where, however, the extended right to buy arises<sup>7</sup>, and after a secure tenant has given a notice claiming to exercise the right to buy, the interest of the landlord, an intermediate landlord<sup>8</sup> or the freeholder<sup>9</sup> in the dwelling house passes from it to another person, or the interest comes to an end, then in substitution for the above provision heads (1) to (3) below apply as follows:

- 4589 (1) the landlord, intermediate landlord or freeholder, as the case may be, must forthwith notify its tenant of the change and a landlord or intermediate landlord must similarly notify its landlord;
- 4590 (2) an intermediate landlord so notified by its tenant must, in turn, similarly notify its immediate landlord or, if so notified by its landlord, must similarly notify its tenant; and
- 4591 (3) all parties are<sup>10</sup> in the same position as if the change had occurred before the notice claiming to exercise the right to buy was given and all other notices given had been given by or to the appropriate parties and all steps had been taken by them<sup>11</sup>.

If the circumstances after the disposal differ in any material respect, as for example where:

- 4592 (a) the interest of the disponee in the dwelling house after the disposal differs from that of the disponor before the disposal; or
- 4593 (b) any of the exceptions to the right to buy<sup>12</sup> becomes or ceases to be applicable, all those concerned must, as soon as practicable after the disposal, take all such steps, whether by way of amending or withdrawing and re-serving any notice or extending any period or otherwise, as may be requisite for the purpose of securing that all parties are, as nearly as may be, in the same position as they would have been if those circumstances had obtained before the disposal<sup>13</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(vii) Purchase Price/A. IN GENERAL/1837. Value of dwelling house.

1837. Value of dwelling house.

The value of a dwelling house<sup>1</sup> at the relevant time<sup>2</sup> is to be taken to be the price which at that time it would realise if sold on the open market by a willing vendor:

- 4596 (1) on the stated assumptions<sup>3</sup>;
- 4597 (2) disregarding any improvements<sup>4</sup> made by any specified person<sup>5</sup> and any failure to keep the dwelling house in good internal repair; and
- 4598 (3) on the assumption that any service charges<sup>6</sup> or improvement contributions<sup>7</sup> payable will not be less than the amounts to be expected in accordance with the estimates contained<sup>8</sup> in the landlord's notice<sup>9</sup>.

For a conveyance the assumptions are:

- 4599 (a) that the vendor was selling for an estate in fee simple with vacant possession;
- 4600 (b) that neither the tenant nor a member of his family residing with him wanted to buy; and
- 4601 (c) that the dwelling house was to be conveyed with the same rights and subject to the same burdens as it would be in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>10</sup>.

For the grant of a lease<sup>11</sup> the assumptions are:

- 4602 (i) that the vendor was granting a lease with vacant possession for the appropriate term<sup>12</sup>;
- 4603 (ii) that neither the tenant nor a member of his family residing with him wanted to take the lease;
- 4604 (iii) that the ground rent would not exceed £10 per annum; and
- 4605 (iv) that the grant was to be made with the same rights and subject to the same burdens as it would be in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>13</sup>.

5 The persons so specified are (1) the secure tenant; (2) any person who under the same tenancy was a secure tenant or an introductory tenant before him; and (3) any member of his family who, immediately before the secure tenancy was granted (or, where an introductory tenancy has become the secure tenancy, immediately before the introductory tenancy was granted), was a secure tenant or an introductory tenant of the same dwelling house under another tenancy, but do not include, in a case where the secure tenant's tenancy has at any time been assigned by virtue of Housing Act 1985 s 92 (as amended) (assignments by way of exchange: see PARA 1324 ante), a person who under that tenancy was a secure tenant or an introductory tenant before the assignment: s 127(4) (amended, and s 127(5) added, by the Housing Act 1996 (Consequential Amendments) Order 1997, SI 1997/74, art 2, Schedule, PARA 3(j), (k)). For the meanings of 'secure tenant' and 'secure tenancy' see PARA 1795 note 2 ante; and for the meaning of 'member of another's family' see PARA 1827 note 3 ante.

Where the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 arises (see PARAS 1804-1807 ante) and tenant is an assured tenant, the persons so specified are: (a) the assured tenant; (b) any member of his family who was an assured or secure tenant before him under the same tenancy, or who, immediately before the tenancy was granted, was an assured or secure tenant of the same dwelling house under another tenancy: Housing Act 1985 s 127(4A) (added for these purposes by the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 10). PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(vii) Purchase Price/A. IN GENERAL/1838. Determination of value by the district valuer.

1838. Determination of value by the district valuer.

Any question arising<sup>1</sup> as to the value of a dwelling house<sup>2</sup> at the relevant time<sup>3</sup> must be determined by the district valuer<sup>4</sup> in accordance with the following provisions<sup>5</sup>.

A tenant<sup>6</sup> may require that value to be determined, or as the case may be, redetermined, by a notice in writing served on the landlord<sup>7</sup> not later than three months after the service on him of the landlord's notice of the purchase price<sup>8</sup> or, if proceedings are then pending between the landlord and the tenant for the determination of any other question relating to the right to buy, within three months of the final determination of the proceedings<sup>9</sup>.

If such proceedings are begun after a previous determination<sup>10</sup>.

- 4606 (1) the tenant may, by notice in writing served on the landlord within four weeks of the final determination of the proceedings, require the value of the dwelling house at the relevant time to be redetermined; and
- 4607 (2) the landlord may at any time within those four weeks, whether or not a notice under head (1) above is served, require the district valuer to redetermine that value; and, where the landlord requires a redetermination to be so made, it must serve on the tenant a notice stating that the requirement is being or has been made<sup>11</sup>.

Before so making a determination or redetermination, the district valuer must consider any representation made to him by the landlord or the tenant within four weeks from the service of the tenant's notice or, as the case may be, from the service of the landlord's notice<sup>12</sup>.

As soon as practicable after a determination or redetermination has been so made, the landlord must serve on the tenant a notice stating the effect of the determination or redetermination and the terms<sup>13</sup> for the exercise of the right to buy<sup>14</sup>.

B. DISCOUNT

1839. In general.

A person exercising the right to buy<sup>1</sup> is entitled<sup>2</sup> to a discount of a percentage calculated by reference<sup>3</sup> to the qualifying period<sup>4</sup>. The discount is<sup>5</sup>:

- 4608 (1) in the case of a house<sup>6</sup>, 35% plus 1% for each complete year by which the qualifying period exceeds five years, up to a maximum of 60%;
- 4609 (2) in the case of a flat<sup>7</sup>, 50% plus 2% for each complete year by which the qualifying period exceeds five years, up to a maximum of 70%<sup>8</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>9</sup> may by order made with the consent of the Treasury provide, and in relation to Wales the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>10</sup> may by order provide, that in such cases as may be specified in the order:

- 4610 (a) the minimum percentage discount;
- 4611 (b) the percentage increase for each complete year of the qualifying period after the first five; or
- 4612 (c) the maximum percentage discount, shall be such percentage, higher than that specified above, as may be specified in the order<sup>11</sup>.

Where, however, the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 arises<sup>12</sup>, instead of a such a discount as is described above a person exercising that right is entitled to a discount of such amount or at such rate as the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister may by order prescribe<sup>13</sup>. Where the tenant has accepted the landlord's offer of an alternative dwelling house<sup>14</sup>, the discount to which the tenant is entitled is the discount prescribed<sup>15</sup> in relation to that alternative dwelling house<sup>16</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante.

2 Ie subject to the Housing Act 1985 s 129(2)-(3) (as amended) (see the text and notes 5-11 infra) and s 130 et seq (as amended) (see PARA 1840 et seq post).

3 Ie by reference to the period which is to be taken into account in accordance with ibid s 129(1), Sch 4 (as amended): see PARA 1821 et seq ante. Where joint tenants exercise the right to buy, Sch 4 (as amended) is to be construed as if for the secure tenant there were substituted that one of the joint tenants whose substitution will produce the largest discount: s 129(3). For the meaning of 'secure tenant' see PARA 1795 note 2 ante.

4 Ibid s 129(1) (s 129(1)-(2B) substituted by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 2(1), (2)). As to the reduction of discount where a previous discount is given see PARA 1840 post; as to the limits on the amount of discount see PARA 1841 post; and as to the repayment of discount on early disposal of the freehold or lease see PARA 1889 post.

5 Ie subject to any order under the Housing Act 1985 s 129(2A) (as substituted): see the text and notes 9-11 infra.

6 For the meaning of 'house' see PARA 1796 ante.

7 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1796 ante.

8 Housing Act 1985 s 129(2) (as substituted (see note 4 supra); amended by the Housing Act 2004 s 180(2), (3)). The amendments made by s 180 do not apply in relation to a secure tenancy (1) if the tenancy was entered into before, or in pursuance of an agreement made before, 18 January 2005 (ie the day on which s 180 came into force); or (2) if head (1) supra does not apply but the tenant is a public sector tenant on that day and does not cease to be such a tenant at any time before serving a notice in respect of the tenancy under s 122 (see PARA 1826 ante); and for these purposes 'public sector tenant' has the same meaning as in the Housing Act 1985 Sch 4 (as amended) (see PARA 1823 ante); Housing Act 2004 s 180(5), (6). In such cases, the first percentage specified in head (1) in the text is 32% and the first percentage specified in head (2) in the text is 44%; and the extra discount referred to in those heads accrues for each complete year by which the qualifying period exceeds two years: see the Housing Act 1985 s 129(2) (as so substituted).

The Housing Act 1985 s 129(2) (as so substituted and amended) is modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies: see art 3(1), Schedule para 16. For the modifications to the Housing Act 1985 s 129 (as amended) which have effect where the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 arises see the text and notes 12-16 infra.

10 As to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

11 Housing Act 1985 s 129(2A) (as substituted (see note 4 supra); amended by the Housing Act 2004 s 180(4)). For transitional provisions see note 8 supra. Such an order (1) may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case; (2) may contain such incidental, supplementary or transitional provisions as appear to the Secretary of State or to the Assembly or minister to be necessary or expedient; and (3) must be made by statutory instrument and may not, if made by the Secretary of State, be made unless a draft of it has been laid before and approved by resolution of each House of Parliament: Housing Act 1985 s 129(2B) (as so substituted). At the date at which this title states the law, no such order had been made. See, however, note 13 infra.

12 See PARAS 1804-1807 ante.

13 Housing Act 1985 s 129(1) (substituted for these purposes by the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 11(a)). As to the transfer of functions for these purposes so far as exercisable in relation to Wales para 27 note 4 ante. For the prescribed amount of discount see: (1) the Housing (Right to Acquire) (Discount) (Wales) Order 1997, SI 1997/569 (which extends to dwellings in Wales only (art 1); prescribes the percentage rate of discount to be given on the exercise of the right to acquire as 25% of the open market value of the dwelling subject to a maximum of £16,000 (art 3) and provides that any question arising as to the open market value of a dwelling at the relevant time is to be determined by the district valuer (art 4)); and (2) the Housing (Right to Acquire) (Discount) Order 2002, SI 2002/1091, which prescribes different amounts of discount applicable to dwellings in specified areas in England, subject to a maximum amount of discount of 50% of the value of the dwelling (art 2, Schedule).

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(vii) Purchase Price/B. DISCOUNT/1840. Reduction of discount where previous discount given.

1840. Reduction of discount where previous discount given.

There must be deducted from the discount<sup>1</sup> an amount equal to any previous discount<sup>2</sup> qualifying, or the aggregate of previous discounts qualifying, under the following provisions<sup>3</sup>.

A previous discount qualifies for these purposes if it was given:

- 4613 (1) to the person or one of the persons exercising the right to buy<sup>4</sup>; or
- 4614 (2) to the spouse or civil partner of that person or one of those persons, if they are living together at the relevant time; or
- 4615 (3) to a deceased spouse or deceased civil partner of that person or one of those persons, if they were living together at the time of the death; and, where a previous discount was given to two or more persons jointly, these provisions have effect as if each one of them had been given an equal proportion of the discount<sup>5</sup>.

Where the whole or part of a previous discount has been recovered by the person by whom it was given, or a successor in title of his:

- 4616 (a) by the receipt of a payment determined by reference to the discount; or 4617 (b) by a reduction so determined of any consideration given to that person, or a successor in title of his; or 4618 (c) in any other way, then so much of the discount as has been so recovered must be disregarded for these purposes<sup>6</sup>.

1 As to the discount to which a person exercising the right to buy is entitled see PARA 1839 ante.

2 For these purposes, 'a previous discount' means a discount given before the relevant time: (1) on conveyance of the freehold, or a grant or assignment of a long lease, of a dwelling house by a person within the Housing Act 1985 s 119(1), s 129(1) (as substituted), Sch 4 paras 7 or 7A (as added) (see PARA 1823 ante) or, in such circumstances as may be prescribed by order of the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister, by a person so prescribed; or (2) on conveyance of the freehold, or a grant or assignment of a long lease of a dwelling house by a person against whom the right to buy was exercisable by virtue of s 171A (as added) (see PARA 1900 post) to a person who was a qualifying person for the purposes of the preserved right to buy and in relation to whom that dwelling house was the qualifying dwelling house; or (3) in pursuance of the provision required by s 151A, Sch 6A paras 3-5 (as added) (see PARAS 1877, 1879 post) or Sch 6A para 7 (as added) (see PARA 1880 post); or (4) in pursuance of the provision required by s 151(1), Sch 8 para 1 (repealed) (terms of shared ownership lease; right to acquire additional shares) or any other provision to the like effect; or (5) in pursuance of any provision of, or required by, Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended) (see PARA 1795 et seq ante, PARA 1841 et seq post) as it has effect by virtue of the Housing Act 1996 s 17 (the right to acquire: see PARA 1806 ante): Housing Act 1985 s 130(2) (amended by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 24(2), Sch 5 para 29; the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 187(1), Sch 21 para 11; the Housing Act 1996 (Consequential Amendments) (No 2) Order 1997, SI 1997/627, art 2, Schedule, PARA 3(3)). For these purposes, 'dwelling house' includes any yard, garden, outhouses and appurtenances belonging to the dwelling house or usually enjoyed with it: Housing Act 1985 s 130(6). For the normal meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante; for the meaning of 'the relevant time' see PARA 1822 note 3 ante; and for the meaning of 'long lease' see PARA 1823 note 4 ante. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante; and as to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

Section 130(2) (as so amended) is modified where (1) the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies (see art 3(1), Schedule para 17); (2) the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619 (right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996: see PARAS 1804-1807 ante), apply (see the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 12).

An order under the Housing Act 1985 s 130 (as amended) may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas, and must be made by statutory instrument which is subject, if made by the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see s 130(5). In exercise of the power so conferred, and prior to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State made the Housing (Right to Buy) (Prescribed Persons) Order 1992, SI 1992/1703, which came into force on 17 August 1992: art 1. For the persons and bodies prescribed for these purposes see art 3, Schedule (which has been extensively amended).

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(vii) Purchase Price/B. DISCOUNT/1841. Limits on amount of discount; in general.

1841. Limits on amount of discount; in general.

Except where the Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>2</sup> so determines, the discount to which a person exercising the right to buy is entitled<sup>3</sup> may not reduce the price below the amount which, in accordance with a determination made by him or by it, is to be taken as representing so much of the costs incurred in respect of the dwelling house<sup>4</sup> as, in accordance with the determination:

- 4619 (1) is to be treated as incurred at or after the beginning of that period of account<sup>5</sup> of the landlord in which falls the date which is eight years, or such other period of time as may be specified in an order made by the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister<sup>6</sup>, earlier than the relevant time<sup>7</sup>; and
- 4620 (2) is to be treated as relevant for these purposes; and, if the price before discount is below that amount, there is to be no discount<sup>8</sup>. The discount may not in any case reduce the price by more than such sum as the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister may by order prescribe<sup>9</sup>.

Any such order or determination may make different provision for different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas<sup>10</sup>; and any such order must be made by statutory instrument<sup>11</sup>.

The above provisions do not apply in relation to the right to acquire<sup>12</sup> conferred by the Housing Act 1996<sup>13</sup>. Where that right is exercised, the limits on the amount of discount are prescribed in orders made under that Act<sup>14</sup>.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante.

2 As to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

3 As to the discount to which a person exercising the right to buy is entitled see PARA 1839 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

5 For these purposes, 'period of account', in relation to any costs, means the period for which the landlord made up those of its accounts in which account is taken of those costs: Housing Act 1985 s 131(1A) (added by the Housing Act 1988 s 122(1), (3)). For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

The Housing Act 1985 s 131(1), (1A), (3) (as amended) is modified, and Sch 5A is added and substituted, where the preserved right to buy (see PARA 1900 et seq post) arises: see PARA 1842 post.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(vii) Purchase Price/B. DISCOUNT/1842. Limits on amount of discount where the preserved right to buy arises.

1842. Limits on amount of discount where the preserved right to buy arises.

Where the preserved right to buy arises<sup>1</sup>, then unless the landlord<sup>2</sup> otherwise agrees:

- 4621 (1) the discount<sup>3</sup> must not reduce the price below the amount which is to be taken<sup>4</sup> as representing the costs incurred by the landlord in respect of the qualifying dwelling house<sup>5</sup> and is to be treated as relevant for these purposes<sup>6</sup>; and
- 4622 (2) if the price before discount is below that amount there is to be no discount<sup>7</sup>.

The discount may not in any case reduce the price by more than such sum as the Secretary of State<sup>8</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>9</sup> may by order prescribe<sup>10</sup>. Any such order may make different provision for different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas<sup>11</sup> and must be made by statutory instrument<sup>12</sup>.

1 See PARA 1900 et seq post.

2 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

3 As to the discount to which a person exercising the right to buy is entitled see PARA 1839 ante.

4 Ie in accordance with the Housing Act 1985 Sch 5A (as substituted for these purposes): see note 6 infra.

5 For the meaning of 'qualifying dwelling house' see PARA 1901 post.

6 The cost floor (ie the amount mentioned in head (1) in the text) is an amount equal to the aggregate of the costs which may be treated as relevant costs under the provisions of the Housing Act 1985 Sch 5A para 2 (as substituted for these purposes) or, as the case may be, Sch 5A para 3 (as so substituted), and of Sch 5A para 4 (as so substituted); and an estimate may be made for the purposes of arriving at the cost floor for a qualifying dwelling house where the amount of any relevant costs or payments for them cannot readily be ascertained: Sch 5A paras 1, 5, 6 (Sch 5A added for these purposes by the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241, reg 2, Sch 1 para 41, Sch 1 Pt II; substituted in relation to England by SI 1999/1213; and substituted, with minor changes in the wording, in relation to Wales by SI 2001/1301).

Except where a case falls within the Housing Act 1985 Sch 5A para 3 (as so substituted for these purposes) and subject to Sch 5A para 4 (as so substituted), the costs which may be treated as relevant costs for the purposes of s 131(1) (as substituted) are the following costs (including VAT) incurred by the landlord: (1) the costs of construction of the dwelling house (including site development works and the acquisition of land); (2) the costs of acquisition of the dwelling house; (3) the costs of works initially required following the acquisition of the dwelling house by the landlord to put it in good repair or to deal with any defect affecting it; (4) where the aggregate of the costs of works of repair or maintenance or works to deal with any defect affecting the dwelling house (except works within head (3) supra) exceeds the sum of £5,500, the costs in excess of that amount; and (5) the costs of other works to the dwelling house, except costs of the kind mentioned in head (4) supra: Sch 5A paras 1, 2(1) (as so substituted). The following costs are not to be treated as relevant costs for these purposes: (a) any administrative costs; (b) interest; and (c) any costs which are recoverable by the landlord as a service charge or an improvement contribution: Housing Act 1985 Sch 5A para 2(2) (as so substituted). For the meanings of 'service charge' and 'improvement contribution' see PARA 1829 notes 17-18 ante.

Subject to Sch 5A para 4 (as so substituted), where the Secretary of State (or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister) consented to the disposal of a qualifying dwelling house under s 32 (as amended) or s 43 (as amended) (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 305, 314) and the sale price attributed to the dwelling house on that disposal was nil, the costs which may be treated as relevant costs are the following costs (including VAT) incurred by the landlord: (i) the costs of works initially required following the acquisition of the dwelling house by the landlord to put it in good repair or to deal with any defect affecting it; (ii) the costs of works of repair or maintenance or works to deal with any defect affecting the dwelling house; (iii) the costs of improvement or other works to the dwelling house; (iv) the costs of works to any garage or parking area where the facility benefits the dwelling house; (v) the costs of works to provide or improve any communal facility provided in particular for the benefit of the dwelling house; (vi) professional fees and consultancy fees; and (vii) administrative costs not exceeding the sum of £2,000: Sch 5A para 3(1) (as so substituted). The following costs are not to be treated as relevant costs for these purposes, ie interest and any costs which are recoverable by the landlord as a service charge or an improvement contribution: Sch 5A para 3(2) (as so substituted).

Costs incurred on any relevant works are not to be treated as relevant costs if payment for them was made: (A) in a period of account ending more than 15 years before the date of service of the qualifying person's notice under s 122 (see PARA 1826 ante); or (B) on or after the date of service of the qualifying person's notice under s 122 unless: (aa) the landlord has before that date entered into a written contract for the carrying out of works; or (bb) the qualifying person has agreed in writing to the carrying out of works and the works have been carried out not later than the date of service of the landlord's notice under s 125 (as amended) (notice of purchase price: see PARA 1829 ante) or the works will be carried out under the proposed terms of the conveyance or grant; or (cc) the qualifying person was served a notice in writing under Sch 3A para 3(2) (as added and amended) (consultation on transfer: see PARA 1347 ante) and the costs come within head (3) or head (i) supra: Sch 5A para 4 (as so substituted).

In a case where a landlord is a company, references to the landlord in Sch 5A paras 2, 3 and 4 (as so substituted) include references to a connected company; and for this purpose 'connected company' means a subsidiary or holding company within the meaning of the Companies Act 1985 s 736 (as substituted) (see COMPANIES vol 14 (2009) PARA 25): Housing Act 1985 Sch 5A para 7 (as so substituted).

BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(viii) Completion of Purchase/A. IN GENERAL/1843. Duty of landlord to convey freehold or grant lease.

(viii) Completion of Purchase

A. IN GENERAL

1843. Duty of landlord to convey freehold or grant lease.

Where a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> has claimed to exercise the right to buy<sup>2</sup> and that right has been established, then, as soon as all matters relating to the grant have been agreed or determined, the landlord<sup>3</sup> must make to the tenant<sup>4</sup>:

- 4623 (1) if the dwelling house<sup>5</sup> is a house<sup>6</sup> and the landlord owns the freehold, a grant of the dwelling house for an estate in fee simple absolute; or
- 4624 (2) if the landlord does not own the freehold or if the dwelling house is a flat<sup>7</sup>, whether or not the landlord owns the freehold, a grant of a lease of the dwelling house, in accordance with<sup>8</sup> the relevant statutory provisions<sup>9</sup>; but there is an implicit requirement that the tenant must remain a secure tenant until the conveyance or grant of the property<sup>10</sup>. The duty so to convey the freehold or to grant a lease<sup>11</sup> is enforceable by injunction<sup>12</sup>.

The landlord is not, however, bound to comply with the above provisions:

- 4625 (a) if the tenant has failed to pay the rent or any other payment due from him as a tenant for a period of four weeks after it has been lawfully demanded from him, while the whole or part of that payment remains outstanding<sup>13</sup>;
- 4626 (b) if an application is pending before any court:
- 321 181. (i) for a demotion order<sup>14</sup> or Ground 2 possession order<sup>15</sup> to be made in respect of the tenant; or
- 182. (ii) for a suspension order<sup>16</sup> to be made in respect of the tenancy,
- 322 4627 until such time, if any, as the application is determined without either a demotion order or an operative Ground 2 possession order<sup>17</sup> being made in respect of the tenant, or a suspension order being made in respect of the tenancy, or the application is withdrawn<sup>18</sup>;
- 4628 (c) where a suspension order is made, at any time after the beginning of the suspension period<sup>19</sup>;
- 4629 (d) while an initial demolition notice<sup>20</sup> is in force<sup>21</sup>;
- 4630 (e) where a final demolition notice<sup>22</sup> is served<sup>23</sup>.

The secure tenancy<sup>24</sup> comes to an end on the grant to the tenant of an estate in fee simple, or of a lease, in pursuance of the right to buy; and, if there is then a subtenancy, the statutory provisions relating to the effect of the extinguishment of the reversion<sup>25</sup> apply as on a merger or surrender<sup>26</sup>.

Where, however, the tenant ceases to be a secure tenant because of a disposal to a private sector landlord, the right to buy is preserved: see PARA 1900 et seq post.

A tenant who has exercised his right to buy may be entitled to an injunction, but is not entitled to have his application heard as soon as he can bring it before the court and the judge is entitled to adjourn the application so that it can be heard together with the local authority's application for a possession order: see Bristol City Council v Lovell supra. As to injunctions generally see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 331 et seq. See also note 9 supra.

A process in four stages can be identified in the provisions of the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended); the first stage is the claim to exercise the right to buy, the fourth and consummating stage that of the grant. Between those stages are the intermediate second and third stages of the establishment of the right and the agreement or determination on, or of, the terms of the grant. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(viii) Completion of Purchase/A. IN GENERAL/1844. Duty to convey freehold and apportionment of purchase price where the extended right to buy arises.

1844. Duty to convey freehold and apportionment of purchase price where the extended right to buy arises.

Where the extended right to buy arises and the relevant regulations apply<sup>1</sup>, a secure tenant<sup>2</sup> has claimed to exercise the right to buy and that right has been established, then, as soon as all matters relating to the grant and to the amount have been agreed or determined, the freeholder<sup>3</sup> must make to the tenant a grant of the dwelling house<sup>4</sup> for an estate in fee simple absolute, in accordance with the relevant<sup>5</sup> statutory provisions<sup>6</sup>. The duty so to convey the freehold is enforceable by injunction<sup>7</sup>, subject to the statutory exceptions<sup>8</sup> already set out<sup>9</sup>.

On completion the freeholder must pay:

4631 (1) to the landlord<sup>10</sup> and to each intermediate landlord<sup>11</sup>, if any; and

4632 (2) to the rent owner of a rentcharge<sup>12</sup> charged on or issuing out of the lease of the landlord or an intermediate landlord, an amount calculated in accordance with the prescribed formula<sup>13</sup>. If that amount, as so calculated, is a negative amount, then on completion a landlord or intermediate landlord in relation to which that amount is a negative amount must pay to the freeholder an amount equal to that amount; and that amount is recoverable as a civil debt due to the freeholder by that landlord or intermediate landlord<sup>14</sup>.

The secure tenancy<sup>15</sup>, the lease of the landlord and the lease of each of the intermediate landlords, if any, in so far as any such lease relates to the dwelling house, come to an end and are extinguished on the grant to the tenant of an estate in fee simple in pursuance of the right to buy; and if there is then a subtenancy deriving out of the secure tenancy, the statutory provisions relating to the effect of the extinguishment of the reversion<sup>16</sup> apply as on a merger or surrender<sup>17</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(viii) Completion of Purchase/B. EFFECT OF DEMOLITION NOTICE SERVED BEFORE COMPLETION/(A) Initial Demolition Notice/1845. Meaning of 'initial demolition notice'; period of validity.

B. EFFECT OF DEMOLITION NOTICE SERVED BEFORE COMPLETION

(A) INITIAL DEMOLITION NOTICE

1845. Meaning of 'initial demolition notice'; period of validity.

An 'initial demolition notice' is<sup>1</sup> a notice served on a secure tenant<sup>2</sup>:

- 4633 (1) stating that the landlord<sup>3</sup> intends to demolish the dwelling house<sup>4</sup> or, as the case may be, the building containing it ('the relevant premises');
- 4634 (2) setting out the reasons why the landlord intends to demolish the relevant premises;
- 4635 (3) specifying the period within which he intends to demolish those premises<sup>5</sup>; and 4636 (4) stating that, while the notice remains in force, he will not be under any obligation to make a grant of an estate in fee simple or of a lease<sup>6</sup> in respect of any claim made by the tenant to exercise the right to buy<sup>7</sup> in respect of the dwelling house<sup>8</sup>.

An initial demolition notice must also state:

4637 (a) that the notice does not prevent:

323

183. (i) the making by the tenant of any such claim; or

184. (ii) the taking of steps<sup>9</sup> in connection with any such claim up to the point where the landlord's duty to make a grant<sup>10</sup> would otherwise operate in relation to the claim; or

185. (iii) the operation of that duty in most circumstances where the notice ceases to be in force; but

4638 (b) that, if the landlord subsequently serves a final demolition notice<sup>11</sup> in respect of the dwelling house, the right to buy will not arise in respect of it while that notice is in force and any existing claim will cease to be effective<sup>12</sup>.

If, at the time when an initial demolition notice is served, there is an existing claim to exercise the right to buy in respect of the dwelling house, the notice must:

4639 (A) state that there is a statutory right to compensation<sup>13</sup> in respect of certain expenditure; and 4640 (B) give details of that right to compensation and of how it may be exercised<sup>14</sup>.

An initial demolition notice comes into force<sup>15</sup> in respect of the dwelling house concerned on the date of service of the notice on the tenant and ceases to be so in force at the end of the period specified in accordance with head (3) above; but this is subject to compliance with the specified statutory conditions with respect to publicity<sup>16</sup> in a case to which they apply<sup>17</sup>.

the landlord is not bound to comply with the duty to make such a grant as is mentioned in head (2) above<sup>6</sup>, in connection with any such claim by the tenant, so long as the initial demolition notice remains<sup>7</sup> in force<sup>8</sup>.

EFFECT OF DEMOLITION NOTICE SERVED BEFORE COMPLETION/(A) Initial Demolition Notice/1847. Revocation or termination of initial demolition notices.

1847. Revocation or termination of initial demolition notices.

If, while an initial demolition notice<sup>1</sup> is in force:

- 4643 (1) the landlord<sup>2</sup> decides not to demolish the dwelling house<sup>3</sup> in question, he must, as soon as is reasonably practicable, serve a notice ('a revocation notice') on the tenant which informs him of the landlord's decision, and that the demolition notice is revoked as from the date of service of the revocation notice<sup>4</sup>;
 4644 (2) it appears to the Secretary of State<sup>5</sup> or, in relation to Wales, to the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>6</sup> that the landlord has no intention of demolishing the dwelling house in question, he or the Assembly or minister may serve a notice ('a revocation notice') on the tenant which informs him of the Secretary of State's or the Assembly's or minister's conclusion and that the demolition notice is revoked as from the date of service of the revocation notice<sup>7</sup>;

but he or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister may not serve a revocation notice unless he or it has previously served a notice on the landlord which informs him of the Secretary of State's or the Assembly's or minister's intention to serve the revocation notice<sup>8</sup>.

Where a revocation notice is served under head (1) or head (2) above, the demolition notice ceases to be in force as from the date of service of the revocation notice<sup>9</sup>.

If a compulsory purchase order has been made for the purpose of enabling the landlord to demolish the dwelling house in respect of which he has served an initial demolition notice, whether or not it would enable him to demolish any other premises as well, and:

- 4645 (a) a relevant decision to confirm the order with modifications, or not to confirm the whole or part of the order<sup>10</sup>, becomes effective while the notice is in force<sup>11</sup>; or
- 4646 (b) a relevant decision of the High Court to quash the whole or part of the order<sup>12</sup> becomes final while the notice is in force, the notice ceases to be in force as from the date when the decision becomes effective<sup>13</sup> or final<sup>14</sup>. Where an initial demolition notice so ceases to be in force, the landlord must, as soon as is reasonably practicable, serve a notice on the tenant which informs him that the notice has ceased to be in force as from the date in question, and of the reason why it has ceased to be in force<sup>15</sup>.

If, while an initial demolition notice is in force in respect of a dwelling house, a final demolition notice<sup>16</sup> comes into force<sup>17</sup> in respect of that dwelling house, the initial demolition notice ceases to be in force as from the date when the final demolition notice comes into force<sup>18</sup>. In such a case the final demolition notice must state that it is replacing the initial demolition notice<sup>19</sup>.

(B) FINAL DEMOLITION NOTICE

1849. Effect of final demolition notice served before completion.

In a case where:

- 4649 (1) a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> has claimed to exercise the right to buy<sup>2</sup>; but
- 4650 (2) before the landlord<sup>3</sup> has made to the tenant a grant of the dwelling house for an estate in fee simple absolute or for a lease<sup>4</sup> in respect of the claim, a final demolition notice<sup>5</sup> is served on the tenant<sup>6</sup>, the tenant's claim ceases to be effective as from the time when the final demolition notice comes into force<sup>7</sup> and, accordingly, the duty to make such a grant as is described in head (2) above<sup>8</sup> does not apply to the landlord, in connection with the tenant's claim, at any time after the notice comes into force<sup>9</sup>.

There is a statutory right to compensation<sup>10</sup> in certain cases where the above provisions apply<sup>11</sup>.

1850. Compensation where demolition notice served.

The following provisions apply where:

- 4651 (1) a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> has claimed to exercise the right to buy<sup>2</sup>;
- 4652 (2) before the landlord<sup>3</sup> has made to the tenant a grant of the dwelling house for an estate in fee simple absolute or for a lease<sup>4</sup> in respect of the claim, either an initial demolition notice<sup>5</sup> is served on the tenant<sup>6</sup> or a final demolition notice<sup>7</sup> is served on him<sup>8</sup>; and
- 4653 (3) the tenant's claim is established before that notice comes into force<sup>9</sup> under the relevant statutory provision<sup>10</sup>.

If, within the period of three months beginning with the date when the notice comes into force ('the operative date'), the tenant serves on the landlord a written notice claiming an amount of compensation in respect of expenditure reasonably incurred by the tenant before the operative date in respect of legal and other fees, and other professional costs and expenses, payable in connection with the exercise by him of the right to buy, the landlord must pay that amount to the tenant<sup>11</sup>. Such a notice must be accompanied by receipts or other documents showing that the tenant incurred the expenditure in question<sup>12</sup>.

(A) COMMON PROVISIONS

1851. In general.

The conveyance or grant may not exclude or restrict the general words implied in conveyances<sup>1</sup> unless the tenant<sup>2</sup> consents or the exclusion or restriction is made for the purpose of preserving or recognising an existing interest of the landlord<sup>3</sup> in tenant's incumbrances<sup>4</sup> or an existing right or interest of another person<sup>5</sup>.

A provision of the conveyance or lease<sup>6</sup> is void in so far as it purports to enable the landlord to charge the tenant a sum for or in connection with the giving of a consent or approval<sup>7</sup>.

- 1 Ie under the Law of Property Act 1925 s 62: see DEEDS AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS vol 13 (2007 Reissue) PARA 236.
- 2 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.
- 3 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.
- 4 For these purposes, 'tenant's incumbrances' means (1) an incumbrance on the secure tenancy which is also an incumbrance on the reversion; and (2) an interest derived, directly or indirectly, out of the secure tenancy; and 'incumbrances' includes personal liabilities attaching in respect of the ownership of land or an interest in land though not charged on the land or interest: Housing Act 1985 s 139(1), Sch 6 para 7. For the meaning of 'secure tenancy' see PARA 1795 note 2 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

Section 139(1) and Sch 6 para 7 are modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies: see art 3(1), Schedule para 22(a), 67(h). Where that Order applies, the freeholder must (1) execute the conveyance on its own behalf and in the names of the landlord and the intermediate landlord or landlords (if any) and it must be binding on those authorities or bodies; and (2) secure that the conveyance states that it is a conveyance to which this provision applies: Housing Act 1985 s 139(1A) (added for these purposes by the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, Schedule para 22(b)). For the meanings of 'intermediate landlord' and 'freeholder' see PARA 1798 notes 18-19 ante. The Housing Act 1985 Sch 6 para 7 is also modified where the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241 (see PARA 1900 et seq post), apply: see reg 2(1), Sch 1 para 43(a)(iii).

5 Housing Act 1985 Sch 6 para 1. Schedule 6 para 1 is modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, applies: see Schedule para 67(a).

The conveyance or grant:

See also PARA 1851 note 4 ante.

Where the Order referred to in head (1) supra applies, and the freeholder is aware of an obligation relating to the dwelling house breach of which may expose the landlord or an intermediate landlord to liability to another person, the freeholder must include in the conveyance such provision (if any) as may be reasonable in the circumstances to relieve the landlord or intermediate landlord (as the case may be) from, or to indemnify him against, that liability: Housing Act 1985 Sch 6 para 4A (as added for these purposes by the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, Schedule para 67(e)). For the meanings of 'intermediate landlord' and 'freeholder' see PARA 1798 notes 18-19 ante.

The concept of using a property as a private dwelling house involves its use, at least in some way, as a home; thus where a right to buy conveyance contained a restrictive covenant not to use the property or permit it to be used for any use other than that of a private dwelling house, its use for short holiday lettings only was in breach of that covenant: see Caradon District Council v Paton [2000] 3 EGLR 57, [2000] All ER (D) 637, CA.

The conveyance must be of an estate in fee simple absolute, subject to:

- 4667 (1) tenant's incumbrances;

(C) LEASES

1856. In general.

A lease<sup>1</sup> must be for the appropriate term<sup>2</sup> and at a rent not exceeding £10 per annum<sup>3</sup>.

If at the time the grant is made the landlord's<sup>4</sup> interest in the dwelling house<sup>5</sup> is not less than a lease for a term of which more than 125 years and five days are unexpired, the appropriate term is a term of not less than 125 years<sup>6</sup>. In any other case the appropriate term is a term expiring five days before the term of the landlord's lease of the dwelling house or, as the case may require, five days before the first date on which the term of any lease under which the landlord holds any part of the dwelling house is to expire<sup>7</sup>.

If the dwelling house is a flat<sup>8</sup> contained in a building which also contains one or more other flats and the landlord has since 8 August 1980 granted a lease of one or more of them for the appropriate term, the lease of the dwelling house may be for a term expiring at the end of the term for which the other lease, or one of the other leases, was granted<sup>9</sup>.

There are implied covenants by the landlord<sup>4</sup>:

- 4669 (1) to keep in repair the structure and exterior of the dwelling house and of the building in which it is situated, including drains, gutters and external pipes, and to make good any defect affecting the structure;
- 4670 (2) to keep in repair any other property over or in respect of which the tenant<sup>5</sup> has rights<sup>6</sup>;
- 4671 (3) to ensure, so far as practicable, that services which are to be provided by the landlord and to which the tenant is entitled, whether by himself or in common with others, are maintained at a reasonable level and to keep in repair any installations connected with the provision of those services<sup>7</sup>.

There is an implied covenant that the landlord is to rebuild or reinstate the dwelling house and the building in which it is situated in the case of destruction or damage by fire, tempest, flood or any other cause against the risk of which it is normal practice to insure<sup>8</sup>.

The county court may, by order made with the consent of the parties, authorise the inclusion in the lease<sup>9</sup> or in an agreement collateral to it of provisions excluding or modifying the obligations of the landlord under the covenants implied by the above provisions, if it appears to the court that it is reasonable to do so<sup>10</sup>.

Where the landlord's lease or a superior lease or an agreement collateral to the landlord's lease or a superior lease contains a covenant by a person imposing obligations which would otherwise be imposed by a covenant so implied, there is implied a covenant by the landlord to use its best endeavours to secure that that person's obligations under the first-mentioned covenant are discharged<sup>9</sup>.

The lease<sup>1</sup> may require the tenant<sup>2</sup> to bear a reasonable part of the costs incurred by the landlord<sup>3</sup>:

- 4674 (1) in discharging or insuring against the obligations imposed by the implied covenants relating to repairs, making good structural defects, the provision of services etc<sup>4</sup>; or

1862. Service charges payable by the tenant.

Where a lease<sup>1</sup> of a flat<sup>2</sup> requires the tenant<sup>3</sup> to pay service charges<sup>4</sup> in respect of repairs, including works for the making good of structural defects, his liability in respect of costs incurred in the initial period of the lease<sup>5</sup> is restricted as follows<sup>6</sup>.

He is not required to pay in respect of works itemised in the estimates contained in the landlord's notice<sup>7</sup> any more than the amount shown as his estimated contribution in respect of that item, together with an inflation allowance<sup>8</sup>; and he is not required to pay in respect of works not so itemised at a rate exceeding:

4676 (1) as regards parts of the initial period falling within the reference period<sup>9</sup> for the purposes of the estimates contained in the landlord's notice, the estimated annual average amount shown in the estimates;

4677 (2) as regards parts of the initial period not falling within that reference period, the average rate produced by averaging over the reference period all works for which estimates are contained in the notice; together, in each case, with an inflation allowance<sup>10</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'lease' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'flat' see PARA 1796 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'service charge' see PARA 1829 note 17 ante.

5 For these purposes, the initial period of the lease begins with the grant of the lease and ends five years after the grant, except that (1) if the lease includes provision for service charges to be payable in respect of costs incurred in a period before the grant of the lease, the initial period begins with the beginning of that period; and (2) if the lease provides for service charges to be calculated by reference to a specified annual period, the initial period continues until the end of the fifth such period beginning after the grant of the lease: Housing Act 1985 s 139(1), Sch 6 para 16B(4) (Sch 6 paras 16B, 16D added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 4(4), (6); the Housing Act 1985 Sch 6 para 16B(4) amended by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 187(2), Sch 22). The Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister may by order prescribe (1) the method by which inflation allowances for the purposes of Sch 6 para 16B (as added and amended) or Sch 6 para 16C (as added and amended) (see PARA 1865 post) are to be calculated by reference to published statistics; and (2) the information to be given to a tenant when he is asked to pay a service charge or improvement contribution to which the provisions of Sch 6 para 16B (as added and amended) or Sch 6 para 16C (as added and amended) are or may be relevant: Sch 6 para 16D(1) (as added: see note 5 supra). Such an order (a) may make different provision for different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas; (b) may contain such incidental, supplementary or transitional provisions as the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister thinks appropriate; and (c) must be made by statutory instrument which is subject, if made by the Secretary of State, to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see Sch 6 para 16D(2) (as so added). In exercise of the power so conferred, and prior to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State made the Housing (Right to Buy) (Service Charges) Order 1986, SI 1986/2195 (see PARAS 1863-1864 post) which came into operation on 7 January 1987: art 1. ### 1863. Inflation allowances.

The inflation allowance in respect of itemised works<sup>1</sup> must be calculated by the formula:

where C equals the index figure<sup>2</sup> relating to the last date in the initial period on which costs were incurred in respect of the item, whether or not such costs were the full costs incurred in respect of that item; E equals the amount shown in the estimates<sup>3</sup> as the tenant's estimated contribution in respect of that item; I equals the inflation allowance; and P equals the index figure relating to the date on which the landlord served the notice on the tenant<sup>4</sup>.

The inflation allowance in respect of works not so itemised must be calculated by the formula<sup>5</sup>:

or, as the case may be, by the formula<sup>6</sup>:

where A equals the amount shown in the estimates as the estimated annual average amount; C equals the index figure relating to the date on which the tenant is required to pay the relevant charge<sup>7</sup> for which the inflation allowance is being calculated or, if earlier, the date the initial period ends; I equals the inflation allowance; P equals the index figure relating to the date on which the landlord served the notice on the tenant<sup>8</sup>; and R equals the average rate produced by averaging over the reference period all works for which estimates are contained in the notice<sup>9</sup>.

7 For these purposes, 'relevant charge' means a service charge or an improvement contribution to which the provisions of ibid Sch 6 para 16B (as added and amended) (see PARA 1862 ante) or Sch 16 para 16C (as added and amended) (see PARA 1865 post) are or may be relevant: Housing (Right to Buy) (Service Charges) Order 1986, SI 1986/2195, art 2.

He is not required to make any payment in respect of works for which no estimate was given<sup>7</sup> in the landlord's notice<sup>8</sup>; nor is he required to pay in respect of works for which an estimate was given in that notice any more than the amount shown as his estimated contribution in respect of that item, together with an inflation allowance<sup>9</sup>.

(D) CHARGES

1867. Conveyance of freehold.

The following provisions apply to a charge, however created or arising, on the freehold where the freehold is conveyed in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>1</sup>.

If the charge is not a tenant's incumbrance<sup>2</sup> and is not a rentcharge<sup>3</sup>, the conveyance is effective to release the freehold from the charge<sup>4</sup>; but the release does not affect the personal liability of the landlord<sup>5</sup> or any other person in respect of any obligation which the charge was created to secure<sup>6</sup>.

If the charge is a rentcharge, the conveyance must be made subject to the charge; but, if the rentcharge also affects other land:

4689 (1) the conveyance must contain a covenant by the landlord to indemnify the tenant<sup>7</sup> and his successors in title in respect of any liability arising under the rentcharge; and

4690 (2) if the rentcharge is of a kind which may be redeemed<sup>8</sup>, the landlord must immediately after the conveyance take such steps as are necessary to redeem the rentcharge so far as it affects land owned by him<sup>9</sup>.

1 Housing Act 1985 s 139(1), Sch 6 para 21(1). For the meaning of 'the right to buy' see PARA 1803 ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'tenant's incumbrance' see PARA 1851 note 4 ante.

3 For these purposes, 'rentcharge' has the same meaning as in the Rentcharges Act 1977 (see RENTCHARGES AND ANNUITIES vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARA 774 note 1): Housing Act 1985 Sch 6 para 21(4).

4 Where the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 (see PARAS 1804-1807 ante) arises, the Housing Act 1985 Sch 6 para 21(2) (see the text and notes 2-3 supra, 5 infra) is modified by the addition, after the words 'from the charge' of the proviso 'Provided that (a) the landlord has complied with the requirements imposed on the landlord by [Sch 6] paragraph 22; or (b) the holder of the charge has agreed in writing with the landlord that paragraph 22 shall not apply': see the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 41(f). As to the requirements imposed by the Housing Act 1985 Sch 6 para 22 (as added for these purposes) see PARA 1869 post.

5 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

6 Housing Act 1985 Sch 6 para 21(2). See also PARA 1851 note 4 ante. Where that right arises, the Housing Act 1985 Sch 6 para 21A (as added for these purposes) applies to a charge (however created or arising) on a lease (including the secure tenancy) extinguished by s 139(2) (terms and effect of conveyance and mortgage: see PARA 1843 ante) when the freehold is conveyed in pursuance of the right to buy: Sch 6 para 21A(1) (added for these purposes by the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, Schedule para 69(c)). The extinguishment of the lease does not affect the personal liability of the landlord or intermediate landlord (as the case may be) or of any other person in respect of any obligation which the charge was created to secure: Housing Act 1985 Sch 6 para 21A(2) (as so added). PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(viii) Completion of Purchase/C. CONTENTS OF CONVEYANCE OR LEASE/(D) Charges/1869. Notice to lenders and discharge of the charge on the landlord's interest in the dwelling house where the right to acquire is exercised.

1869. Notice to lenders and discharge of the charge on the landlord's interest in the dwelling house where the right to acquire is exercised.

Where the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996<sup>1</sup> arises, the following provisions apply to a charge, however created or arising, on the interest of the landlord<sup>2</sup> in the dwelling house<sup>3</sup>, unless and until the landlord and the holder of the charge at any time agree otherwise in writing<sup>4</sup>. Within seven days of the landlord receiving the tenant's written notice of intention to pursue his claim to the right to acquire<sup>5</sup>, the landlord must serve on the holder of any charge secured against the dwelling house a written notice stating the purchase price of the dwelling house and the amount of discount and whether the landlord intends to redeem the charge in respect of the dwelling house on the grant of the lease or the conveyance of the freehold to the tenant pursuant to the right to acquire<sup>6</sup>. If the landlord's notice states that he intends to redeem the charge then, on the grant of the lease or the conveyance of the freehold, the sum required to redeem the charge must be paid by the landlord to the charge holder and the charge holder must supply to the landlord the necessary documentation to release the charge in respect of the dwelling house<sup>7</sup>. If the landlord does not intend to redeem the charge on the grant of a lease or the conveyance of the freehold the landlord's notice must, in addition, offer to the holder of the sole charge or the charge having priority the option of either:

- 4691 (1) taking as alternative security<sup>8</sup> a charge on the interest in a property of the landlord which has a value, excluding any amount secured by a charge with priority on the landlord's interest in the property, equal to or greater than the purchase price of the dwelling house plus the discount; or
- 4692 (2) an amount equal to the purchase price of the dwelling house plus the discount<sup>9</sup>.

The landlord is not, however, required to offer a property as alternative security unless the landlord owns a freehold or leasehold interest in a property with a value, excluding any amount secured by a charge on the interest which is being offered in the property, equal to or greater than the purchase price plus discount<sup>10</sup>.

Where head (1) or head (2) above applies, within 14 days of receipt of the landlord's notice the charge holder must serve on the landlord a written notice stating the option exercised by the charge holder<sup>11</sup>.

Where the charge holder exercises the option specified in head (1) above, the landlord must within 14 days of receipt of the charge holder's notice offer the charge holder a specified property in accordance with that head<sup>12</sup>. Where the charge holder accepts the property offered as alternative security the landlord must take all reasonable steps to enable the charge holder to secure a charge against the landlord's interest in the property within whichever is the later of:

- 4693 (a) 21 days of the date on which the landlord receives notification of the charge holder's acceptance of the property as alternative security; or 4694 (b) the grant of the lease or the conveyance of the freehold of the dwelling house pursuant to the right to acquire<sup>13</sup>.

If the landlord fails to take all reasonable steps to enable the charge holder to secure a charge against the landlord's interest in accordance with head (a) or head (b) above, the charge holder may require the landlord to pay within seven days an amount equal to the purchase price of the dwelling house plus the discount<sup>14</sup>. Where the charge holder rejects the property offered as alternative security the charge holder may require the landlord to pay an amount equal to the purchase price of the dwelling house plus the discount within whichever is the later of:

- 4695 (i) 21 days of the date on which the landlord receives notification of the charge holder's rejection of the property; or 4696 (ii) the grant of the lease or the conveyance of the freehold of the dwelling house pursuant to the right to acquire<sup>15</sup>.

Where the charge holder exercises the option in head (2) above, the landlord must pay the sum specified in that head on the grant of the lease or the conveyance of the freehold of the dwelling house pursuant to the right to acquire<sup>16</sup>.

Where the landlord and the charge holder have agreed in writing that the provisions set out above<sup>17</sup> are not to apply, on the grant of the lease or the conveyance of the freehold pursuant to the right to acquire the landlord must supply to the tenant a certificate confirming the agreement together with a copy of the agreement which is certified as a true copy<sup>18</sup>. Where, however, the provisions set out above apply, then provided that the landlord has complied with the requirements imposed on the landlord by them, any holder of a charge on the landlord's interest in the dwelling house must, on the grant of the lease or the conveyance of the freehold of the dwelling house pursuant to the right to acquire, provide to the landlord such documentation as is necessary to discharge their charge in respect of the dwelling house<sup>19</sup>. Where a charge holder does not so provide the documentation, or where the charge holder has failed to serve a notice stating the option exercised by him<sup>20</sup>, the landlord must, on the grant of the lease or the conveyance of the freehold pursuant to the right to acquire, supply to the tenant a certificate stating that the landlord has complied with the requirements imposed on the landlord by the provisions set out above<sup>21</sup>.

(ix) Completion Notices

1870. Landlord's first notice to complete.

The landlord<sup>1</sup> may serve on the tenant<sup>2</sup> at any time a written notice requiring him:

- 4697 (1) if all relevant matters<sup>3</sup> have been agreed or determined, to complete the transaction within a period stated in the notice; or
- 4698 (2) if any relevant matters are outstanding, to serve on the landlord within that period a written notice to that effect specifying the matters, and informing the tenant of the effect of these provisions<sup>4</sup> and of the statutory provisions<sup>5</sup> relating to a landlord's second notice to complete<sup>6</sup>. The period so stated in a notice must be such period, of at least 56 days, as may be reasonable in the circumstances<sup>7</sup>.

Such a notice may not, however, be served earlier than three months after:

- 4699 (a) the service of the landlord's notice of the purchase price and other matters<sup>8</sup>; or
- 4700 (b) where a notice has been served by the landlord admitting or denying the tenant's right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms, where still exercisable<sup>9</sup>, the service of that notice<sup>10</sup>.

Such a notice may not be served if:

- 4701 (i) a requirement for the determination or redetermination of the value of the dwelling house<sup>11</sup> by the district valuer<sup>12</sup> has not been complied with;
- 4702 (ii) proceedings for the determination of any other relevant matter have not been disposed of; or
- 4703 (iii) any relevant matter stated to be outstanding in a written notice served on the landlord by the tenant has not been agreed in writing or determined<sup>13</sup>.

1870 Landlord's first notice to complete

TEXT AND NOTE 13--1985 Act s 140(4) amended: Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 s 306(10).

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(2) THE RIGHT TO BUY AND THE RIGHT TO ACQUIRE/(ix) Completion Notices/1871. Landlord's second notice to complete.

1871. Landlord's second notice to complete.

If the tenant<sup>1</sup> does not comply with a landlord's first notice to complete<sup>2</sup>, the landlord may<sup>3</sup> serve on him a further written notice:

- 4704 (1) requiring him to complete the transaction within a period stated in the notice; and
- 4705 (2) informing him of the effect of these provisions in the event of his failing to comply<sup>4</sup>.

The period stated in such a notice must be such period, of at least 56 days, as may be reasonable in the circumstances<sup>5</sup>; and at any time before the end of that period, or that period as previously extended, the landlord may by a written notice served on the tenant extend it, or further extend it<sup>6</sup>.

If the tenant does not comply with such a notice, the notice claiming to exercise the right to buy<sup>7</sup> is deemed to be withdrawn at the end of that period or, as the case may require, that period as so extended<sup>8</sup>.

If such a notice has been served on the tenant and, by virtue of the tenant's failure to pay the rent etc<sup>9</sup>, the landlord is not bound to complete, the tenant is deemed not to comply with the notice<sup>10</sup>.

2 I.e. a notice under the Housing Act 1985 s 140 (as amended): see PARA 1870 ante. For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

3 The power to serve such a notice is discretionary and does not require the first notice to be followed by a second notice at any given time: Milne-Berry and Madden v Tower Hamlets London Borough Council (1997) 30 HLR 229, CA.

6 Ibid s 141(3). The requirement that any extension of time must be given in writing (1) is a formality which can be waived by the individual parties; and (2) does not prevent the doctrine of estoppel operating in favour of the tenant when the landlord has given a verbal extension of time: Milne-Berry and Madden v Tower Hamlets London Borough Council (1997) 30 HLR 229, CA, applying Daejan Properties Ltd v Mahoney (1995) 28 HLR 498, [1995] 2 EGLR 75, CA.

Once s 141(4) has taken effect, the tenant no longer has the protection of the statutory scheme and any extension of time granted by the landlord is at the landlord's discretion: see R (on the application of Burrell) v Lambeth London Borough Council [2006] EWHC 394 (Admin), [2006] RVR 230, [2006] All ER (D) 167 (Feb).

(3) TRANSITIONAL RIGHT TO ACQUIRE ON RENT TO MORTGAGE TERMS*(i) In general*1872. The former statutory right and the transitional cases in which it may be exercised.

Where:

- 4706 (1) a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> has claimed to exercise the right to buy<sup>2</sup>; and
- 4707 (2) his right to buy has been established and his notice claiming to exercise it remains in force, he also has the right<sup>3</sup>, in transitional cases, to acquire on rent to mortgage terms in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions<sup>4</sup>. As from 18 July 2005 ('the termination date')<sup>5</sup>, that right is not exercisable except in pursuance of a notice served<sup>6</sup> before that date<sup>7</sup>.

Where the right to buy belongs to two or more persons jointly, the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms also belongs to them jointly<sup>8</sup>.

In the cases in which it may still arise, the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms cannot be exercised if:

- 4708 (a) the exercise of the right to buy is precluded<sup>9</sup> by the existence of the specified circumstances<sup>10</sup>; or
- 4709 (b) either it has been determined that the tenant<sup>11</sup> is or was entitled to housing benefit in respect of any part of the relevant period<sup>12</sup>, or a claim for housing benefit in respect of any part of that period has been made, or is treated as having been made, by or on behalf of the tenant and has not been determined or withdrawn<sup>13</sup>; or
- 4710 (c) the minimum initial payment<sup>14</sup> in respect of the dwelling house exceeds the maximum initial payment<sup>15</sup> in respect of it<sup>16</sup>.

The right is not applicable where the preserved right to buy<sup>17</sup> or the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996<sup>18</sup> arises<sup>19</sup>.

5 For these purposes, 'the termination date' means the date falling eight months after the date of the passing of the Housing Act 2004: Housing Act 1985 s 142A(2) (s 142A added by the Housing Act 2004 s 190(1)).

9 le precluded by ibid s 121 (as amended): see PARA 1819 ante.

10 Ibid s 143(2) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

11 For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

12 For these purposes, 'the relevant period' means the period (1) beginning 12 months before the day on which the tenant claims to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms; and (2) ending with the day on which the conveyance or grant is executed in pursuance of that right: Housing Act 1985 s 143A(2) (as substituted: see note 4 supra). Section 143A(2) (as so substituted) is modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies: see art 3(1), Schedule para 24.

13 Housing Act 1985 s 143A(1) (as substituted: see note 4 supra). As to housing benefit see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 140 et seq.

14 Where, in the case of a dwelling house which is a house, the weekly rent at the relevant time did not exceed the relevant amount, the minimum initial payment is determined by the formula set out in ibid s 143B(3) (as substituted); and where, in the case of a dwelling house which is a house, the weekly rent at the relevant time exceeded the relevant amount, the minimum initial payment is determined by the formula set out in s 143B(4) (as substituted). The minimum initial payment in respect of a dwelling house which is a flat is 80% of the amount which would be the minimum initial payment in respect of the dwelling house if it were a house: s 143B(5) (as substituted: see note 4 supra). For the meanings of 'dwelling house' and 'flat' see PARA 1796 ante.

'Relevant amount' means the amount which at the relevant time was for the time being declared by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales for these purposes; 'relevant time' means the time of the service of the landlord's notice under s 146 (as substituted) (landlord's notice admitting or denying right: see PARA 1873 post); and 'rent' means rent payable under the secure tenancy, but excluding any element which is expressed to be payable for services, repairs, maintenance or insurance or the landlord's costs of management: s 143B(8) (as substituted: see note 4 supra). The relevant amount and multipliers for the time being declared for these purposes must be such that, in the case of a dwelling house which is a house, they will produce a minimum initial payment equal to the capital sum which, in the opinion of the Secretary of State or the Assembly, could be raised on a 25 year repayment mortgage in the case of which the net amount of the monthly mortgage payments was equal to the rent at the relevant time calculated on a monthly basis; and the Secretary of State or the Assembly is to assume (1) that the interest rate applicable throughout the 25 year term was the standard national rate for the time being declared by the Secretary of State or the Assembly under Sch 16 para 2 (local authority mortgage interest rates); and (2) that the monthly mortgage payments represented payments of capital and interest only: s 143B(6), (7) (as so substituted).

Section 143B(3), (4), (6), (8) (as substituted) are modified, and s 143B(5) (as substituted) is omitted, where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, applies: see Schedule para 25.

15 The maximum initial payment in respect of a dwelling house is 80% per cent of the price which would be payable if the tenant were exercising the right to buy: ibid s 143B(2) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(3) TRANSITIONAL RIGHT TO ACQUIRE ON RENT TO MORTGAGE TERMS/(i) In general/1873. Tenant's and landlord's notices.

1873. Tenant's and landlord's notices.

A secure tenant<sup>1</sup> claims to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>2</sup> by written notice to that effect served on the landlord<sup>3</sup>. The notice must have been served before 18 July 2005<sup>4</sup>. On the service of such a notice, any notice served by the landlord requiring the tenant to complete the purchase in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>5</sup> is deemed to have been withdrawn; and no such notice may be served by the landlord whilst a notice under these provisions remains in force<sup>6</sup>. The notice may be withdrawn at any time by notice in writing served on the landlord<sup>7</sup>; and, where a notice is so withdrawn, the tenant may complete the transaction in accordance with the statutory provisions<sup>8</sup> relating to the right to buy<sup>9</sup>.

Where such a notice has been served by the tenant, the landlord must, unless the notice is withdrawn, serve on the tenant as soon as practicable a written notice either:

- 4711 (1) admitting the tenant's right and informing him of the specified matters<sup>10</sup>; or
- 4712 (2) denying it and stating the reasons why, in the opinion of the landlord, the tenant does not have the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>11</sup>.

Where such a landlord's notice has been served on a secure tenant, he must within the specified period<sup>12</sup> serve a written notice on the landlord stating either:

- 4713 (a) that he intends to pursue his claim to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms and the amount of the initial payment which he proposes to make<sup>13</sup>; or
- 4714 (b) that he withdraws that claim and intends to pursue his claim to exercise the right to buy<sup>14</sup>; or
- 4715 (c) that he withdraws both of those claims<sup>15</sup>.

The landlord may serve notice in default<sup>16</sup>; and if the tenant does not comply with such a notice in default, the notice claiming to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms is deemed to be withdrawn<sup>17</sup>.

Where a secure tenant has served:

- 4716 (i) a notice<sup>18</sup> stating that he intends to pursue his claim to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms, and the amount of the initial payment which he proposes to make; or
- 4717 (ii) a notice<sup>19</sup> varying the amount stated in such a notice as is described in head (i) above, the landlord must, as soon as practicable, serve on the tenant a written notice<sup>20</sup> which must state:

- 4718 (A) the landlord's share on the assumption that the amount of the tenant's initial payment is that stated in the relevant notice<sup>21</sup>; and 4719 (B) the amount of the initial discount on that assumption<sup>22</sup>.

7 Ibid s 144(2) (as substituted: see note 3 supra). Where the extended right to buy arises, and the relevant regulations apply (see PARA 1798 ante), then if the tenant wishes to withdraw his notice claiming to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms, he may do so (1) before he has received the freeholder's notice under s 146 (as substituted) (notice admitting or denying right: see the text and notes 10-11 infra), by notice in writing served on the landlord; or (2) after he has received the freeholder's notice under s 146 (as substituted), by notice in writing served on the freeholder: s 144A(1) (s 144A added for these purposes by the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, art 3(1), Schedule para 27). The landlord must, as soon as practicable, serve a copy of a notice issued under heads (1)-(2) supra on the freeholder and each intermediate landlord (if any) and the freeholder must similarly serve a copy of a notice issued under head (2) supra on the landlord and any intermediate landlord: Housing Act 1985 s 144A(2) (as so added). Where a notice claiming to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms is withdrawn, the tenant may complete the transaction in accordance with the provisions of Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended and as modified for these purposes) relating to the right to buy: s 144A(3) (as so added). Where, in pursuance of s 144A(3) (as added), the tenant notifies the freeholder that he intends to complete the transaction in accordance with the right to buy provisions, the freeholder must, as soon as practicable, notify this fact in writing to the landlord and to the intermediate landlords (if any): s 144A(4) (as so added). The specified matters are: (1) the relevant amount and multipliers for the time being declared by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales for the purposes of s 143B (as substituted) (see PARA 1872 ante); (2) the amount of the minimum initial payment (see PARA 1872 ante); (3) the proportion which that amount bears to the price which would be payable if the tenant exercised the right to buy; (4) the landlord's share on the assumption that the tenant makes the minimum initial payment; (5) the amount of the initial discount on that assumption; and (6) the provisions which, in the landlord's opinion, should be contained in the conveyance or grant and the mortgage required by s 151B (as added and amended) (mortgage for securing redemption of landlord's share: see PARA 1883 post): s 146(2) (s 146 substituted by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 110).

11 Housing Act 1985 s 146(1) (as substituted: see note 10 supra). Section 146 (as substituted) is modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, applies: see Schedule para 28.

12 The period for serving a notice under the Housing Act 1985 s 146A(1) (as added) is the period of 12 weeks beginning with the service of the notice under s 146 (as substituted): s 146A(2) (ss 146A, 146B added by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 111).

13 The amount stated in such a notice (1) must not be less than the minimum initial payment and not more than the maximum initial payment; and (2) may be varied at any time by notice in writing served on the landlord: Housing Act 1985 s 146A(3) (as added: see note 12 supra). 16 The landlord may, at any time after the end of the period specified in the Housing Act 1985 s 146A(2) (as added) (see note 12 supra), serve on the tenant a written notice (1) requiring him, if he has failed to serve the notice required by s 146A(1) (as added), to serve that notice within 28 days; and (2) informing him of the effect of this provision and of s 146B(4) (as added) (see the text and note 17 infra): s 146B(1) (as added: see note 12 supra). At any time before the end of the period mentioned in head (1) supra, or that period as previously extended, the landlord may by written notice served on the tenant extend it (or further extend it): s 146B(2) (as so added). If at any time before the end of that period (or that period as extended under s 146B(2) (as added)) the circumstances are such that it would not be reasonable to expect the tenant to comply with a notice under s 146B (as added), that period (or that period as so extended) must by virtue of this provision be extended (or further extended) until 28 days after the time when those circumstances no longer obtain: s 146B(3) (as so added). See also note 15 supra.

17 Ibid s 146B(4) (as added: see note 12 supra). The notice claiming to exercise the right is so deemed to be withdrawn at the end of the period mentioned in s 146B(1)(a) (as added) (see note 16 head (1) supra) or, as the case may require, that period as extended under s 146B(2) or (3) (as added) (see note 16 supra): s 146B(4) (as so added).

The landlord's share, the amount of the initial discount and the amount of any previous discount which will be recovered by virtue of the transaction must be determined by the formulae set out in the Housing Act 1985 s 148 (substituted by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 113). The Housing Act 1985 ss 147, 148 (as substituted) are modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, applies: see Schedule para 30.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(3) TRANSITIONAL RIGHT TO ACQUIRE ON RENT TO MORTGAGE TERMS/(i) In general/1874. Change of landlord after notice claiming right.

1874. Change of landlord after notice claiming right.

- 4720 (1) had become the landlord before the notice was given; and
- 4721 (2) had been given that notice and any further notice given by the tenant to the landlord; and
- 4722 (3) had taken all steps which the landlord had taken<sup>6</sup>.

If, however, the extended right to buy arises and the relevant regulations apply<sup>7</sup>, then instead of the provision set out above the following provision applies. Where, after a secure tenant has given a notice claiming to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms, the interest of the landlord, an intermediate landlord<sup>8</sup> or the freeholder<sup>9</sup> in the dwelling house passes from it to another person, or the interest comes to an end:

- 4723 (a) the landlord, intermediate landlord or the freeholder, as the case may be, must forthwith notify its tenant of the change and a landlord or intermediate landlord must similarly notify its landlord;
- 4724 (b) an intermediate landlord so notified by its tenant must, in turn, similarly notify its immediate landlord or, if so notified by its landlord, must similarly notify its tenant; and
- 4725 (c) all parties are in the same position as if the change had occurred before the notice claiming to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms was given and all other notices given had been given by or to the appropriate parties and all steps had been taken by them<sup>10</sup>.

If the circumstances after the disposal differ in any material respect, as for example where:

- 4726 (i) the interest of the donee in the dwelling house after the disposal differs from that of the donor before the disposal; or
- 4727 (ii) any of the exceptions to the right to buy<sup>11</sup> becomes or ceases to be applicable,

all those concerned must, as soon as practicable after the disposal, take all such steps, whether by way of amending or withdrawing and re-serving any notice or extending any period or otherwise, as may be requisite for the purpose of securing that all parties are, as nearly as may be, in the same position as they would have been if those circumstances had obtained before the disposal<sup>12</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(3) TRANSITIONAL RIGHT TO ACQUIRE ON RENT TO MORTGAGE TERMS/(ii) Completion; Redemption of Landlord's Share/1875. Duty of landlord to convey freehold or grant lease.

(ii) Completion; Redemption of Landlord's Share

1875. Duty of landlord to convey freehold or grant lease.

Where a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> has, before 18 July 2005<sup>2</sup>, claimed to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>3</sup> and that right has been established, then, as soon as all matters relating to the grant and to securing the redemption of the landlord's share<sup>4</sup> have been agreed or determined, the landlord<sup>5</sup> must make to the tenant:

- 4728 (1) if the dwelling house<sup>6</sup> is a house<sup>7</sup> and the landlord owns the freehold, a grant of the dwelling house for an estate in fee simple absolute; or in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions<sup>9</sup>. If the tenant has failed to pay the rent or any other payment due from him as a tenant for a period of four weeks after it has been lawfully demanded from him, however, the landlord is not bound to comply with the above provisions while the whole or part of that payment remains outstanding<sup>10</sup>.

The duty imposed on the landlord to make a grant for an estate in fee simple absolute or a grant of a lease<sup>11</sup> is enforceable by injunction<sup>12</sup>.

The secure tenancy comes to an end on the grant to the tenant of an estate in fee simple, or of a lease, in pursuance of the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms; and, if there is then a subtenancy, the statutory provisions relating to the effect of the extinguishment of the reversion<sup>13</sup> apply as on a merger or surrender<sup>14</sup>.

Provision is made for the apportionment, on completion, of the initial payment where the extended right to buy arises and the relevant regulations apply<sup>15</sup>.

Section 150(1) is further substituted where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies: see art 3, Schedule para 32(a).

15 See the Housing Act 1985 s 150A (added for these purposes by the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, Schedule para 33). The Housing Act 1985 s 150A (as so added) may be disapplied by agreement and the parties may make instead such other apportionment as they consider to be fair and reasonable: see s 150B (as so added). In a case to which s 150B (as so added) does not apply, the freeholder, on receiving an interim or final payment, must pay to the authority or body which immediately before completion was the landlord or an intermediate landlord of the dwelling house and to any rent owner of a rentcharge which was then charged on or issued out of the lease of any such authority or body, an amount calculated by multiplying the amount of the payment by the apportionment fraction applicable to that authority, body or person, ascertained in accordance with s 138A (as added for these purposes) (apportionment of purchase price: see PARA 1844 ante); but no payment must be so made in relation to a lease of the dwelling house if it was a lease for a term certain and the residue of the term unexpired immediately before completion was a period of less than 12 months or if it was a periodic tenancy: Sch 6A para 7A(1), (2) (added for these purposes by the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, Schedule para 70(d)). For these purposes, 'rentcharge' and 'rent owner' have the same meanings as in the Rentcharges Act 1977 (see RENTCHARGES AND ANNUITIES vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARAS 774-775) and 'apportionment factor' has the meaning given by the Housing Act 1985 s 138A(2) (as added for these purposes): Sch 6A para 7A(3) (as so added).

1876. Terms and effect of conveyance or grant.

A conveyance of the freehold executed in pursuance of the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>1</sup> must conform with the provisions applicable to a conveyance executed in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>2</sup>; and the provisions relating to charges<sup>3</sup> apply to such a conveyance as they apply to a conveyance executed in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>4</sup>.

A grant of a lease<sup>5</sup> executed in pursuance of the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms must conform with the provisions applicable to a lease granted in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>6</sup>; and the provisions relating to charges<sup>7</sup> apply to such a lease as they apply to a lease executed in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>8</sup>. Where, however, a lease of a flat<sup>9</sup> granted in pursuance of the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms requires the tenant to pay:

- 4730 (1) service charges<sup>10</sup> in respect of repairs, including works for the making good of structural defects; or
- 4731 (2) improvement contributions<sup>11</sup>, his liability in respect of costs incurred at any time before the final payment<sup>12</sup> is made is restricted as follows<sup>13</sup>. He is not required to pay any more than the amount determined by the formula:

$$M = P \times \frac{100 - S}{100}$$ where M equals the maximum amount which he is required to pay; P equals the amount which he would otherwise be required to pay; and S equals the landlord's share<sup>14</sup> at the time expressed as a percentage<sup>15</sup>.

1 As to the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms and the date by which the right was to be claimed see PARA 1872 ante.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(3) TRANSITIONAL RIGHT TO ACQUIRE ON RENT TO MORTGAGE TERMS/(ii) Completion; Redemption of Landlord's Share/1877. Obligation to redeem landlord's share in certain circumstances.

1877. Obligation to redeem landlord's share in certain circumstances.

The conveyance or grant must contain a covenant binding on the secure tenant<sup>1</sup> and his successors in title<sup>2</sup> to make to the landlord<sup>3</sup>, immediately after:

- 4732 (1) the making of a relevant disposal which is not an excluded disposal; or
- 4733 (2) the expiry of the period of one year beginning with a relevant death<sup>4</sup>, whichever first occurs, a final payment, that is to say, a payment of the amount required to redeem the landlord's share<sup>5</sup>.

A disposal is an excluded disposal for these purposes if:

- 4734 (a) it is a further conveyance of the freehold or an assignment of the lease and the person or each of the persons to whom it is made is, or is the spouse or civil partner of, the person or one of the persons by whom it is made;
- 4735 (b) it is a vesting in a person taking under a will or intestacy; or
- 4736 (c) it is a disposal in pursuance of a property adjustment order or an order for the sale of property made in connection with matrimonial proceedings<sup>6</sup>, an order as to financial provision to be made from an estate<sup>7</sup>, a property adjustment order or an order for the sale of property after an overseas divorce, etc<sup>8</sup>, an order for financial relief against a parent<sup>9</sup> or a property adjustment order or order for the sale of property in connection with civil partnership proceedings or after overseas dissolution of a civil partnership<sup>10</sup>; and, in any case, an interest to which these provisions apply subsists immediately after the disposal<sup>11</sup>.

1 For these purposes, references to the secure tenant are references to the secure tenant or tenants to whom the conveyance or grant is made; and references to the secure tenant or, as the case may be, one of the secure tenants are to be construed accordingly: Housing Act 1985 s 151A, Sch 6A para 12(5) (s 151A, Sch 6A added by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 117(1), (2), Sch 16). For the meaning of 'secure tenant' see PARA 1795 note 2 ante.

The Housing Act 1985 s 151A, Sch 6A (as added and amended) are (1) modified where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies (see art 3(1), Schedule paras 35, 70; and see also PARA 1875 note 16 ante); (2) omitted where the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241 (see PARA 1900 et seq post), apply (see reg 2(1), Sch 1 para 44); (3) omitted where the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619 (right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996: see PARAS 1804-1807 ante), apply (see the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 42).

2 For these purposes, references to the secure tenant's successors in title do not include references to any person entitled to a legal charge having priority to the mortgage required by the Housing Act 1985 s 151B (as added) (see PARA 1883 post) or any person whose title derives from such a charge: Sch 6A para 12(6) (as added: see note 1 supra).

3 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'relevant death' means the death of a person who immediately before his death was the person or, as the case may be, the last remaining person entitled to an interest to which the Housing Act 1985 Sch 6A para 1 (as added) applies: Sch 6A para 1(3) (as added: see note 1 supra). A beneficial interest in the dwelling house is an interest to which Sch 6A para 1 (as added and amended) applies if the person entitled to it is (1) the secure tenant or, as the case may be, one of the secure tenants; or (2) a qualifying person: Sch 6A para 1(4) (as so added).

'Qualifying person' means a qualifying partner or a qualifying resident: Sch 6A para 12(1) (Sch 6A para 12(1)-(3) (as added) amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 81, Sch 8 para 35(1), (4)). A person is a qualifying partner for these purposes if (1) he is entitled to a beneficial interest in the dwelling house immediately after the time when there ceases to be an interest to which this provision applies; (2) he is occupying the dwelling house as his only or principal home immediately before that time; and (3) he is (a) the spouse, the civil partner, a former spouse, a former civil partner, the surviving spouse, the surviving civil partner, a surviving former spouse or a surviving former civil partner of the person who immediately before that time was entitled to the interest to which this provision applies or, as the case may be, the last remaining such interest; or (b) the surviving spouse, the surviving civil partner, a surviving former spouse or a surviving former civil partner of a person who immediately before his death was entitled to such an interest: Housing Act 1985 Sch 6A para 12(2) (as so amended). A person is a qualifying resident for these purposes if: (i) he is entitled to a beneficial interest in the dwelling house immediately after the time when there ceases to be an interest to which this provision applies; (ii) he is occupying the dwelling house as his only or principal home immediately before that time; (iii) he has resided throughout the period of 12 months ending with that time (A) with the person who immediately before that time was entitled to the interest to which this provision applies or, as the case may be, the last remaining such interest; or (B) with two or more persons in succession each of whom was throughout the period of residence with him entitled to such an interest; and (iv) he is not a qualifying partner: Sch 6A para 12(3) (as so amended).

1879. Final discount.

Where a final payment<sup>1</sup> is made by, or by two or more persons who include, the secure tenant<sup>2</sup> or, as the case may be, one of the secure tenants or a qualifying person<sup>3</sup>, the person or persons making the payment is or are entitled<sup>4</sup> to a final discount equal to 20% of the value of the landlord's share<sup>5</sup>. The above provisions do not, however, apply if the final payment is made after the end of the protection period, that is to say, the period of two years beginning with the time when there ceases to be an interest to which these provisions apply<sup>6</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>7</sup> may by order made with the consent of the Treasury provide, or in relation to Wales the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>8</sup> may by order provide, that the percentage discount shall be such percentage as may be specified in the order<sup>9</sup>; and such an order:

- 4737 (1) may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas;
- 4738 (2) may contain such incidental, supplementary or transitional provisions as appear to the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister necessary or expedient; and
- 4739 (3) must be made by statutory instrument<sup>10</sup>.

Except where the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister so determines, however, a final discount may not reduce the total purchase price<sup>11</sup>, that is to say, the aggregate of the initial payment<sup>12</sup>, the final payment and any interim payments<sup>13</sup>, below the amount which would be applicable<sup>14</sup> in respect of the dwelling house<sup>15</sup> if the relevant time<sup>16</sup> were the time when the value of the dwelling house is agreed or determined<sup>17</sup>.

The total discount, that is to say, the aggregate of the initial discount, the final discount and any interim discounts, may not in any case reduce the total purchase price by more than the sum prescribed<sup>18</sup> at the time when the value of the dwelling house is agreed or determined<sup>19</sup>.

If a final payment is made after the end of the first 12 months of the protection period, there must be deducted from any final discount given<sup>20</sup> an amount equal to 50% of that discount<sup>21</sup>.

There must be deducted from any final discount given<sup>22</sup> an amount equal to any previous discount qualifying, or the aggregate of any previous discounts qualifying, under the statutory provisions<sup>23</sup> relating to the reduction of discount where a previous discount is given<sup>24</sup>.

A determination under these provisions may make different provision for different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas<sup>25</sup>.

RIGHT TO ACQUIRE ON RENT TO MORTGAGE TERMS/(ii) Completion; Redemption of Landlord's Share/1880. Right to make interim payment at any time.

1880. Right to make interim payment at any time.

The conveyance or grant must include provision entitling the secure tenant<sup>1</sup> and his successors in title<sup>2</sup> at any time to make to the landlord<sup>3</sup> an interim payment, that is to say, a payment which:

- 4740 (1) is less than the amount required to redeem the landlord's share<sup>4</sup>; but 4741 (2) is not less than 10% of the value<sup>5</sup> of the dwelling house<sup>6</sup> agreed or determined<sup>7</sup>.

The right is exercisable by written notice served on the landlord, claiming to make an interim payment and stating the amount of the interim payment proposed to be made<sup>8</sup>; and the notice may be withdrawn at any time by written notice served on the landlord<sup>9</sup>.

If the interim payment is not tendered to the landlord before the end of the period of three months beginning with the time when the value of the dwelling house is agreed or determined, the notice claiming to make an interim payment is deemed to have been withdrawn<sup>10</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(3) TRANSITIONAL RIGHT TO ACQUIRE ON RENT TO MORTGAGE TERMS/(ii) Completion; Redemption of Landlord's Share/1881. Value of dwelling house.

1881. Value of dwelling house.

For the purposes of the final payment<sup>1</sup> or any interim payment<sup>2</sup>, the value of a dwelling house<sup>3</sup> is the amount which for those purposes is agreed at any time between the parties or, in default of such agreement, is determined at any time by an independent valuer<sup>4</sup>, as the amount which, in accordance with these provisions, is to be taken as its value at that time<sup>5</sup>.

That value is to be taken<sup>6</sup> to be the price which the interest of the secure tenant<sup>7</sup> in the dwelling house would realise if sold on the open market by a willing vendor:

- 4742 (1) on the assumption that the specified liabilities<sup>8</sup> would be discharged by the vendor; and
- 4743 (2) disregarding the specified<sup>9</sup> matters<sup>10</sup>.

The liabilities referred to in head (1) above are:

- 4744 (a) any mortgages of the interest of the secure tenant;
- 4745 (b) the liability under the covenant to pay the amount required to redeem the landlord's share<sup>11</sup>; and
- 4746 (c) any liability under the covenant required<sup>12</sup> by the statutory provisions relating to the repayment of discount on early disposal<sup>13</sup>.

The matters to be disregarded in pursuance of head (2) above are:

- 4747 (i) any interests or rights created over the dwelling house by the secure tenant;
- 4748 (ii) any improvements made by the secure tenant or certain predecessors as secure tenant<sup>14</sup>; and
- 4749 (iii) any failure by the secure tenant or any of those persons, where the dwelling house is a house<sup>15</sup>, to keep the dwelling house in good repair, including decorative repair and, where the dwelling house is a flat<sup>16</sup>, to keep the interior of the dwelling house in such repair<sup>17</sup>.

Where, at the time when the value of the dwelling house is agreed or determined, the dwelling house has been destroyed or damaged by fire, tempest, flood or any other cause against the risk of which it is normal practice to insure, and has not been fully rebuilt or reinstated, that value is to be taken to include the value of such of the following as are applicable, namely:

- 4750 (A) any sums paid or falling to be paid to the secure tenant under a relevant policy<sup>18</sup> in so far as they exceed the cost of any rebuilding or reinstatement which has been carried out;
- 4751 (B) any rights of the secure tenant under the implied covenant to rebuild or reinstate<sup>19</sup>; and
- 4752 (C) any rights of the secure tenant under the implied covenant by the landlord<sup>20</sup> to use its best endeavours to secure rebuilding or reinstatement<sup>21</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'final payment' see PARA 1877 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'interim payment' see PARA 1880 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

4 For these purposes, 'independent valuer' means an independent valuer appointed in pursuance of provisions in that behalf contained in the conveyance or grant: Housing Act 1985 s 151A, Sch 6A para 12(1) (s 151A, Sch 6A added by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 117(1), (2), Sch 16). The conveyance or grant must include provision requiring any sums falling to be paid to an independent valuer, whether by way of fees or expenses or otherwise, to be paid by the secure tenant or his successors in title: Housing Act 1985 Sch 6A para 9 (as so added). For the meaning of references to the secure tenant's successors

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(3) TRANSITIONAL RIGHT TO ACQUIRE ON RENT TO MORTGAGE TERMS/(ii) Completion; Redemption of Landlord's Share/1883. Mortgage for securing redemption of landlord's share.

1883. Mortgage for securing redemption of landlord's share.

The liability that may arise under the covenant for the redemption of the landlord's share<sup>1</sup> must be secured by a mortgage<sup>2</sup>.

The mortgage has priority<sup>3</sup> immediately after any legal charge securing an amount advanced to the secure tenant<sup>4</sup> by an approved lending institution<sup>5</sup> for the purpose of enabling him to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>6</sup> where he has claimed that right before 18 July 2005<sup>7</sup>.

The following, namely:

- 4753 (1) any advance which is made otherwise than for the purpose of enabling him to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms and is secured by a legal charge having priority to the mortgage; and
- 4754 (2) any further advance which is so secured, rank in priority to the mortgage if, and only if, the landlord<sup>8</sup> by written notice served on the institution concerned gives its consent; and the landlord must so give its consent if the purpose of the advance or further advance is an approved purpose<sup>9</sup>.

The landlord may at any time by written notice served on an approved lending institution postpone the mortgage to any advance or further advance which:

- 4755 (a) is made to the tenant by that institution; and
- 4756 (b) is secured by a legal charge not having priority to the mortgage; and the landlord must serve such a notice if the purpose of the advance or further advance is an approved purpose<sup>10</sup>.

Where different parts of an advance or further advance are made for different purposes, each of those parts is to be regarded as a separate advance or further advance for these purposes<sup>11</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>12</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>13</sup> may by order prescribe matters for which the deed by which the mortgage is effected must make provision, and terms which must, or must not, be contained in that deed; but only in relation to deeds executed after the order comes into force<sup>14</sup>. Such an order may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas, and must be made by statutory instrument<sup>15</sup>.

The deed by which the mortgage is effected may contain such other provisions as may be:

- 4757 (i) agreed between the mortgagor and the mortgagee; or
- 4758 (ii) determined by the county court to be reasonably required by the mortgagor or the mortgagee<sup>16</sup>.

1884. Completion notices.

4759 (1) if all relevant matters<sup>4</sup> have been agreed or determined, to complete the transaction within a period stated in the notice; or

4760 (2) if any relevant matters are outstanding, to serve on the landlord within that period a written statement to that effect specifying the matters, and informing the tenant of the effect of these provisions<sup>5</sup> and of the effect of the statutory provisions<sup>6</sup> relating to a landlord's second notice and failure to complete<sup>7</sup>.

The period stated in such a notice must be such period, of at least 56 days, as may be reasonable in the circumstances<sup>8</sup>.

Such a notice may not be served earlier than 12 months after the service of the landlord's notice<sup>9</sup> admitting or denying the tenant's right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>10</sup> and may not be served if:

4761 (a) a requirement for the determination or redetermination of the value of the dwelling house<sup>11</sup> by the district valuer<sup>12</sup> has not been complied with;

4762 (b) proceedings for the determination of any other relevant matter have not been disposed of; or 4763 (c) any relevant matter stated to be outstanding in a written notice served on the landlord by the tenant has not been agreed in writing or determined<sup>13</sup>.

If the tenant does not comply with a landlord's first notice to complete, the landlord may serve on him a further written notice:

- 4764 (i) requiring him to complete the transaction within a period stated in the notice; and
- 4765 (ii) informing him of the effect of these provisions<sup>14</sup> in the event of his failing to comply<sup>15</sup>.

The period stated in such a notice must be such period, of at least 56 days, as may be reasonable in the circumstances<sup>16</sup>; and at any time before the end of that period, or that period as previously extended, the landlord may by a written notice served on the tenant extend it, or further extend it<sup>17</sup>. If the tenant does not comply with such a notice, the notice claiming to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>18</sup> and the notice claiming to exercise the right to buy<sup>19</sup> are deemed to have been withdrawn at the end of that period or, as the case may require, that period as so extended<sup>20</sup>. If such a notice has been served on the tenant and, by virtue of the tenant's failure to pay rent etc<sup>21</sup>, the landlord is not bound to complete, the tenant is deemed not to comply with the notice<sup>22</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(4) TENANT'S SANCTIONS FOR LANDLORD'S DELAYS/1885. Tenant's notices of delay.

(4) TENANT'S SANCTIONS FOR LANDLORD'S DELAYS

1885. Tenant's notices of delay.

Where a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> has claimed to exercise the right to buy<sup>2</sup>, he may serve on his landlord<sup>3</sup> a notice (an 'initial notice of delay') in any of the following cases, namely:

- 4766 (1) where the landlord has failed to serve a notice<sup>4</sup> within the appropriate period<sup>5</sup>;
- 4767 (2) where the tenant's right to buy has been established and the landlord has failed to serve a notice<sup>6</sup> within the appropriate period<sup>7</sup>;
- 4768 (3) where the tenant considers that delays on the part of the landlord are preventing him from exercising expeditiously his right to buy or his right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>8</sup> (if he has claimed the latter right before 18 July 2005<sup>9</sup>).

An initial notice of delay:

- 4769 (a) must specify the most recent action of which the tenant is aware which has been taken by the landlord<sup>10</sup>; and
- 4770 (b) must specify a period ('the response period'), not being less than one month, beginning on the date of service of the notice, within which the service by the landlord of a counter-notice will have the effect of cancelling the initial notice of delay<sup>11</sup>.

Within the response period specified in an initial notice of delay or at any time thereafter, the landlord may serve on the tenant a counter-notice in either of the following circumstances:

- 4771 (i) if the initial notice specifies either of the cases in heads (1) and (2) above and the landlord has served, or is serving together with the counter-notice, the required notice<sup>12</sup>; or
- 4772 (ii) if the initial notice specifies the case in head (3) above and there is no action<sup>13</sup> which, at the beginning of the response period, it was for the landlord to take in order to allow the tenant expeditiously to exercise his right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms and which remains to be taken at the time of service of the counter-notice<sup>14</sup>.

Such a counter-notice must specify the circumstances by virtue of which it is served<sup>15</sup>.

At any time when the response period specified in an initial notice of delay has expired and the landlord has not so served a counter-notice, the tenant may serve on the landlord a notice (an 'operative notice of delay') which must state that the statutory provisions relating to payments of rent attributable to the purchase price<sup>16</sup> will apply to payments of rent made by the tenant on or after the default date or, if the initial notice of delay specified the case in head (3) above, the date of service of the notice<sup>17</sup>.

If, after a tenant has served an initial notice of delay, a counter-notice has been so served, then, whether or not the tenant has also served an operative notice of delay, if any of the cases in heads (1) to (3) above again arises, the tenant may serve a further initial notice of delay and the above provisions apply again accordingly<sup>18</sup>.

(ii) Repayment of Discount

1889. Repayment of discount on early disposal.

A conveyance of the freehold or the grant of a lease<sup>1</sup> in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>2</sup> or the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>3</sup> must, unless in the case of a conveyance or grant in pursuance of the right to buy there is no discount, contain a covenant binding on the secure tenant<sup>4</sup> and his successors in title to the following effect<sup>5</sup>.

In the case of a conveyance or grant in pursuance of the right to buy, the covenant must be to pay the landlord<sup>6</sup> such sum, if any, as the landlord may demand<sup>7</sup> on the occasion of the first relevant disposal<sup>8</sup>, other than an exempted disposal<sup>9</sup>, which takes place within the period of five years beginning with the conveyance or grant<sup>10</sup>. Where, however, a secure tenant has served on his landlord an operative notice of delay<sup>11</sup>, the five years referred to above begin from a date which precedes the date of the conveyance of the freehold or grant of the lease by a period equal to the time, or, if there is more than one such notice, the aggregate of the times, during which any payment of rent falls<sup>12</sup> to be taken<sup>13</sup> into account<sup>14</sup>.

In the case of a conveyance or grant in pursuance of the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms, the covenant must be to pay the landlord such sum, if any, as the landlord may demand<sup>15</sup> on the occasion of the first relevant disposal, other than an exempted disposal, which takes place within the period of five years beginning with the making of the initial payment<sup>16</sup>.

10 Housing Act 1985 s 155(2) (s 155(2), (3) substituted by the Housing Act 2004 s 185(1), (2)).

The amendments made by s 185 do not apply in any case where the tenant's notice under the Housing Act 1985 s 122 (notice claiming to exercise right to buy: see PARA 1826 ante) was served before 18 January 2005 (ie the day on which the Housing Act 2004 s 185 came into force: see s 270(3)(a)): s 185(5). Section 185(7), however, applies in any such case if the first relevant disposal to which the covenant for repayment of discount applies takes place on or after 18 January 2005: s 185(6). In the following provisions, ie (1) the Housing Act 1985 s 155(2) (as amended by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 2(3)) and the Housing Act 1985 s 155(3) (as substituted by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 120(1)) as they have effect without the amendments made by the Housing Act 2004 s 185; and (2) any covenant for repayment of discount, any reference (however expressed) to a person being liable to pay an amount to the landlord on demand is to be read as a reference to his being liable to pay to the landlord so much of that amount (if any) as the landlord may demand: s 185(7). In s 185(6), (7), 'covenant for repayment of discount' means the covenant contained in a conveyance or grant in accordance with the Housing Act 1985 s 155 (as amended): Housing Act 2004 s 185(8).

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(5) FUTURE DISPOSALS/(ii) Repayment of Discount/1890. Amount of discount which may be demanded by landlord.

1890. Amount of discount which may be demanded by landlord.

For the purposes of the covenant to repay discount on an early disposal in the case of a conveyance or grant in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>1</sup>, the landlord<sup>2</sup> may demand such sum as he considers appropriate, up to and including the maximum amount specified for these purposes<sup>3</sup>. The maximum amount which may be demanded by the landlord is a percentage of the price or premium paid for the first relevant disposal<sup>4</sup> which is equal to the discount to which the secure tenant<sup>5</sup> was entitled, where the discount is expressed as a percentage of the value which was taken<sup>6</sup> as the value of the dwelling house<sup>7</sup> at the relevant time<sup>8</sup>. For each complete year which has elapsed after the conveyance or grant and before the disposal, however, the maximum amount which may be demanded by the landlord is reduced by one-fifth<sup>9</sup>.

In calculating the maximum amount which may be so demanded by the landlord, such amount, if any, of the price or premium paid for the disposal which is attributable to improvements made to the dwelling house:

- 4794 (1) by the person by whom the disposal is, or is to be, made; and
- 4795 (2) after the conveyance or grant and before the disposal, must be disregarded<sup>10</sup>. The amount to be disregarded under this provision is such amount as may be agreed between the parties or determined by the district valuer<sup>11</sup>; but the district valuer is not required<sup>12</sup> to make a determination for these purposes unless:

- 4796 (a) it is reasonably practicable for him to do so; and
- 4797 (b) his reasonable costs in making the determination are paid by the person by whom the disposal is, or is to be, made<sup>13</sup>.

If the district valuer does not make a determination for these purposes, and in default of an agreement, no amount is required to be disregarded under this provision<sup>14</sup>.

For the purposes of the covenant to repay discount on an early disposal in the case of a conveyance or grant in pursuance of the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms, where that right is still exercisable<sup>15</sup>, the landlord may demand such sum as he considers appropriate, up to and including the maximum amount specified for these purposes<sup>16</sup>. The maximum amount which may be demanded by the landlord is the discount, if any, to which the tenant was entitled on the making of:

- 4798 (i) the initial payment<sup>17</sup>;
- 4799 (ii) any interim payment<sup>18</sup> made before the disposal; or
- 4800 (iii) the final payment<sup>19</sup> if so made, reduced, in each case, by one-fifth for each complete year which has elapsed after the making of the initial payment and before the disposal<sup>20</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(5) FUTURE DISPOSALS/(ii) Repayment of Discount/1891. Treatment of deferred resale agreements.

1891. Treatment of deferred resale agreements.

If a secure tenant<sup>1</sup> or his successor in title enters into an agreement<sup>2</sup> to which this provision applies<sup>3</sup>, any liability arising under the required covenant to repay discount on an early disposal<sup>4</sup> must be determined as if a relevant disposal<sup>5</sup> which is not an exempted disposal<sup>6</sup> had occurred at the appropriate time<sup>7</sup>; and for these purposes 'the appropriate time' means:

- 4801 (1) the time when the agreement is entered into; or
- 4802 (2) if it was made before the beginning of the discount repayment period<sup>8</sup>, immediately after the beginning of that period<sup>9</sup>.

An agreement is one to which these provisions apply if it is an agreement between the secure tenant or his successor in title and any other person:

- 4803 (a) which is made, expressly or impliedly, in contemplation of, or in connection with, the tenant exercising, or having exercised, the right to buy<sup>10</sup>,
- 4804 (b) which is made before the end of the discount repayment period; and
- 4805 (c) under which a relevant disposal, other than an exempted disposal, is or may be required to be made to any person after the end of that period<sup>11</sup>.

Such an agreement is within heads (a) to (c) above whether or not the date on which the disposal is to take place is specified in the agreement, and whether or not any requirement to make the disposal is or may be made subject to the fulfilment of any condition<sup>12</sup>.

The Secretary of State<sup>13</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>14</sup> may by order provide:

- 4806 (i) for the above provisions<sup>15</sup> to apply to agreements of any description specified in the order in addition to those within heads (a) to (c) above;
- 4807 (ii) for the above provisions<sup>16</sup> not to apply to agreements of any description so specified to which they would otherwise apply<sup>17</sup>.

Such an order may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case and must be made by statutory instrument<sup>18</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(5) FUTURE DISPOSALS/(ii) Repayment of Discount/1892. Liability to repay is a charge on the premises.

1892. Liability to repay is a charge on the premises.

The liability that may arise under the covenant to repay discount on an early disposal<sup>1</sup> is a charge on the dwelling house<sup>2</sup>, taking effect as if it had been created by deed expressed to be by way of legal mortgage<sup>3</sup>.

The charge has priority<sup>4</sup> as follows:

- 4808 (1) if it secures the liability that may arise under the covenant to repay discount on an early disposal in the case of a conveyance or grant in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>5</sup>, immediately after any legal charge securing an amount advanced to the secure tenant<sup>6</sup> by an approved lending institution<sup>7</sup> for the purpose of enabling him to exercise the right to buy;
- 4809 (2) if it secures the liability that may arise under the covenant to repay discount on an early disposal in the case of a conveyance or grant in pursuance of the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms, where that right is still exercisable<sup>8</sup>, immediately after the mortgage which is required<sup>9</sup> for securing the redemption of the landlord's share, and which has priority<sup>10</sup> immediately after any legal charge securing an amount advanced to the secure tenant by an approved lending institution for the purpose of enabling him to exercise the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>11</sup>.

The following, namely:

- 4810 (a) any advance which is made otherwise than for the purpose mentioned in head (1) or head (2) above and is secured by a legal charge having priority to the charge taking effect by virtue of these provisions; and
- 4811 (b) any further advance which is so secured, rank in priority to that charge if, and only if, the landlord<sup>12</sup> by written notice served on the institution concerned gives its consent; and the landlord must so give its consent if the purpose of the advance or further advance is an approved purpose<sup>13</sup>.

The landlord may at any time by written notice served on an approved lending institution postpone the charge taking effect by virtue of these provisions to any advance or further advance which is made to the tenant by that institution and is secured by a legal charge not having priority to that charge; and the landlord must serve such a notice if the purpose of the advance or further advance is an approved purpose<sup>14</sup>.

Provision is made for the apportionment of discount so recovered where the liability arises under the extended right to buy<sup>15</sup>.

1 The covenant required by the Housing Act 1985 s 155 (as amended): see PARA 1889 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'dwelling house' see PARA 1796 ante.

3 Housing Act 1985 s 156(1). The covenant required by s 155 (as amended) (see PARA 1889 ante) does not, by virtue of its binding successors in title of the tenant, bind a person exercising rights under a charge having priority over the charge taking effect by virtue of s 156 (as amended) (see the text and notes 4-14 infra), or a person deriving title under him; and a provision of the conveyance or grant, or of a collateral agreement, is void in so far as it purports to authorise a forfeiture, or to impose a penalty or disability, in the event of any such person failing to comply with that covenant: s 156(3A) (added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 24(1)(a), Sch 5 para 1(2), (5)). For the meaning of 'tenant' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

The Housing Act 1985 s 156 (as amended) is modified (1) where the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies (see art 3(1), Schedule para 42); (2) where the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241 (see PARA 1900 et seq post), apply (see reg 2(1), Sch 1 para 21); (3) where the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619 (right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996: see PARAS 1804-1807 ante), apply (see the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 20).

7 For these purposes, the approved lending institutions are (1) the relevant authority; (2) an authorised deposit taker; (3) an authorised insurer; and (4) any body specified, or of a class or description specified, in an order made by the Secretary of State or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister: Housing Act 1985 s 156(4) (amended by the Housing Act 1996 ss 222, 227, Sch 18 para 22(1)(c), Sch 19 Pt XIII; the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 140, Sch 16 para 5; the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (Consequential Amendments and Repeals) Order 2001, SI 2001/3649, art 299(1), (4)). As to the relevant authority see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 5; and for the meanings of 'authorised deposit taker' and 'authorised insurer' see PARA 1883 note 5 ante. Any such order must be made by statutory instrument and may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas: Housing Act 1985 s 156(5). Before making an order varying or revoking a previous order, the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister must give an opportunity for representations to be made on behalf of any body which, if the order were made, would cease to be an approved lending institution for these purposes: s 156(6). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 27 note 3 ante; and as to the transfer of functions so far as exercisable in relation to Wales see PARA 27 note 4 ante.

By virtue of the Housing (Consequential Provisions) Act 1985 s 2(2), the Housing (Right to Buy) (Priority of Charges) Order 1984, SI 1984/1554 (as amended), and the Housing (Right to Buy) (Priority of Charges) Order 1985, SI 1985/1979 (as amended) have effect as if so made. The power conferred by the Housing Act 1985 s 156(4) (as amended) has been exercised by the Secretary of State and (following the transfer of functions in relation to Wales, by the Assembly) to make numerous orders: for recent examples see the Housing (Right to Buy) (Priority of Charges) (England) Order 2005, SI 2005/92; the Housing (Right to Buy) (Priority of Charges) (England) (No 2) Order 2005, SI 2005/407; the Housing (Right to Buy) (Priority of Charges) (England) Order 2006, SI 2006/1263; the Housing (Right to Buy) (Priority of Charges) (England) (No 2) Order 2006, SI 2006/2563; the Housing (Right to Buy) (Priority of Charges) (Wales) Order 2005, SI 2005/1351; the Housing (Right to Buy) (Priority of Charges) (Wales) Order 2006, SI 2006/950.

13 Housing Act 1985 s 156(2A) (as substituted: see note 11 supra). The approved purposes are (1) to enable the tenant to make an interim or final payment; (2) to enable the tenant to defray, or to defray on his behalf, any of the following: (a) the cost of any works to the dwelling house; (b) any service charge payable in respect of the dwelling house for works, whether or not to the dwelling house; and (c) any service charge or other amount payable in respect of the dwelling house for insurance, whether or not of the dwelling house, and (3) to enable the tenant to discharge, or to discharge on his behalf, any of the following: (a) so much as is still outstanding of any advance or further advance which ranks in priority to the charge taking effect by virtue of the Housing Act 1985 s 156 (as amended); (b) any arrears of interest on such an advance or further advance; and (c) any costs and expenses incurred in enforcing payment of any such interest, or repayment, in whole or in part, of any such advance or further advance: s 156(4A) (s 156(4A), (4B) added by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 120(4)). For the meaning of 'interim payment' see PARA 1880 ante; for the meaning of 'final payment' see PARA 1877 ante; and for the meaning of 'service charge' see PARA 1829 note 17 ante.

Where different parts of an advance or further advance are made for different purposes, each of those parts is to be regarded as a separate advance or further advance for these purposes: Housing Act 1985 s 156(4B) (as so added).

15 Subject in cases of acquisition on rent to mortgage terms to ibid s 150B (as added for these purposes) (power to agree final apportionment: see PARA 1875 note 15 ante), where the whole or any part of any discount obtained by the tenant is recovered by the freeholder (whether by the receipt of a payment determined by reference to the discount or by a reduction so determined of any consideration given by the freeholder or in any other way), the freeholder must pay: (1) to the authority or body which immediately before completion was the landlord or an intermediate landlord; and (2) to the rent owner of any rentcharge which was then charged on or issued out of the lease of any such authority or body, a sum calculated by multiplying the amount of the discount recovered by the freeholder by the apportionment fraction applicable to that authority, body or person (ascertained in accordance with s 138A (as added for these purposes: see PARA 1844 ante); but no such payment must be made in relation to a lease if it is a lease for a term certain and the residue of the term unexpired immediately before completion was a period of less than 12 months or if it was a periodic tenancy: s 156A(1), (2) (as added for these purposes by the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240, art 3, Schedule para 43). For these purposes, 'apportionment fraction' has the meaning given by the Housing Act 1985 s 138A(2) (as added for these purposes) (apportionment of purchase price: see PARA 1844 ante); and 'rentcharge' and 'rent owner' have the same meanings as in the Rentcharges Act 1977 (see RENTCHARGES AND ANNUITIES vol 39(2) (Reissue) PARAS 774-775): Housing Act 1985 s 156A(3) (as so added for these purposes).

(iii) Landlord's Right of First Refusal

1893. Right of first refusal for landlord etc.

A conveyance of the freehold or grant of a lease<sup>1</sup> in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>2</sup> must<sup>3</sup> contain the following covenant, which is binding on the secure tenant<sup>4</sup> and his successors in title<sup>5</sup>. The covenant must be to the effect that, until the end of the period of ten years beginning with the conveyance or grant, there will be no relevant disposal<sup>6</sup> which is not an exempted disposal<sup>7</sup>, unless the prescribed conditions<sup>8</sup> have been satisfied in relation to that or a previous such disposal<sup>9</sup>. The limitation imposed by such a covenant<sup>10</sup> is a local land charge<sup>11</sup> and the Chief Land Registrar must enter in the register of title<sup>12</sup> a restriction reflecting the limitation imposed by any such covenant<sup>13</sup>.

In a case to which the statutory restriction on the disposal of dwelling houses situated in a National Park, an area of outstanding natural beauty or a designated rural area<sup>14</sup> applies, the conveyance or grant may contain a covenant such as is mentioned above instead of a covenant such as is mentioned in the provisions<sup>15</sup> imposing that restriction<sup>16</sup>. The conveyance or grant may, however, do so only if either:

4813 (2) where the conveyance or grant is executed by a housing association<sup>19</sup>, the relevant authority<sup>20</sup>, consents<sup>21</sup>. Consent may be given in relation to a particular disposal, or disposals by a particular landlord or disposals by landlords generally, and may, in any case, be given subject to conditions<sup>22</sup>.

Accordingly, nothing in s 188 affects (1) the operation of a limitation contained in such a conveyance or grant in accordance with the Housing Act 1985 s 157(4) (repealed subject to transitional provisions); or (2) the operation, in relation to such a limitation, of s 157(6) (as amended) (so far as it renders a disposal in breach of covenant void) or s 158 (as amended) (consideration payable: see PARA 1898 post): Housing Act 2004 s 188(6).

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(5) FUTURE DISPOSALS/(iii) Landlord's Right of First Refusal/1894. Power to prescribe conditions.

1894. Power to prescribe conditions.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>2</sup> may by regulations prescribe such conditions as he or it considers appropriate for and in connection with conferring on:

- 4814 (1) a landlord<sup>3</sup> who has conveyed a freehold or granted a lease<sup>4</sup> to a person ('the former tenant') in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>5</sup>; or
- 4815 (2) such other person as is determined in accordance with the regulations, a right of first refusal to have a disposal within head (a) or head (b) below, namely:

- 4816 (a) a reconveyance or conveyance of the dwelling house; or
- 4817 (b) a surrender or assignment of the lease, made to him for the specified<sup>6</sup> consideration<sup>7</sup>. Such regulations may, in particular, make provision:

- 4818 (i) for the former tenant<sup>8</sup> to offer to make such a disposal to such person or persons as may be prescribed<sup>9</sup>;
- 4819 (ii) for a prescribed recipient of such an offer to be able either to accept the offer or to nominate some other person as the person by whom the offer may be accepted<sup>10</sup>;
- 4820 (iii) for the person who may be so nominated to be either a person of a prescribed description or a person whom the prescribed recipient considers, having regard to any prescribed matters, to be a more appropriate person to accept the offer<sup>11</sup>;
- 4821 (iv) for a prescribed recipient making such a nomination to give a notification of the nomination to the person nominated, the former tenant and any other prescribed person<sup>12</sup>;
- 4822 (v) for authorising a nominated person to accept the offer and for determining which acceptance is to be effective where the offer is accepted by more than one person<sup>13</sup>;
- 4823 (vi) for the period within which the offer may be accepted or within which any other prescribed step is to be, or may be, taken<sup>14</sup>;
- 4824 (vii) for the circumstances in which the right of first refusal lapses, whether following the service of a notice to complete or otherwise, with the result that the former tenant is able to make a disposal on the open market<sup>15</sup>;
- 4825 (viii) for the manner in which any offer, acceptance or notification is to be communicated<sup>16</sup>.

Such regulations may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case and must be made by statutory instrument<sup>17</sup>.

If made by the Secretary of State, the instrument is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament: see s 156A(10) (as so added). ### 1897. Rejection of the offer.

The recipient of an offer notice<sup>1</sup> must serve a rejection notice<sup>2</sup> as soon as it has decided that it does not wish to either:

- 4840 (1) accept the offer itself; or
- 4841 (2) nominate another person<sup>3</sup> to accept the offer<sup>4</sup>.

The rejection notice must be served within eight weeks<sup>5</sup> from the date of receipt of the offer notice<sup>6</sup>. It must be in writing and must state that the person is rejecting the offer to purchase the property<sup>7</sup>.

Where an owner<sup>8</sup> has served an offer notice and the recipient:

- 4842 (a) has not served either an acceptance notice or a rejection notice within eight weeks from the date of receipt of the offer notice; or
- 4843 (b) has served a rejection notice, then the owner may<sup>9</sup> dispose of the property as he sees fit<sup>10</sup>; but if after the expiry of the period of 12 months<sup>11</sup> the owner retains his interest in the property, the relevant regulations apply<sup>12</sup> if there is to be a relevant disposal<sup>13</sup>, other than an exempted disposal<sup>14</sup>, of the owner's interest in the property<sup>15</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(5) FUTURE DISPOSALS/(iii) Landlord's Right of First Refusal/1898. Consideration for disposal.

1898. Consideration for disposal.

The consideration for a disposal in pursuance of the right of first refusal<sup>1</sup> must be such amount as may be agreed between the parties, or determined by the district valuer<sup>2</sup>, as being the amount which is to be taken to be the value of the dwelling house<sup>3</sup> at the time when the offer is made<sup>4</sup>. That value is to be taken to be the price which, at that time, the interest to be reconveyed, conveyed, surrendered or assigned would realise if sold on the open market by a willing vendor, on the assumption that any liability under:

- 4844 (1) the covenant to repay discount on early disposal<sup>5</sup>; and
- 4845 (2) any covenant to redeem the landlord's share where a conveyance or grant is executed in pursuance of the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>6</sup>; and
- 4846 (3) any covenant to pay for the outstanding share on the disposal of a dwelling house subject to a shared ownership lease<sup>7</sup>, would be discharged by the vendor<sup>8</sup>.

If the offer is accepted<sup>9</sup>, no payment may be required in pursuance of any such covenant as is mentioned in heads (1) to (3) above; but the consideration must be reduced<sup>10</sup> by such amount, if any, as, on a disposal made at the time the offer was made, being a relevant disposal<sup>11</sup> which is not an exempted disposal<sup>12</sup>, would fall to be paid under that covenant<sup>13</sup>. Where, however, there is a charge on the dwelling house having priority over the charge to secure payment of the sum due under the covenant mentioned in heads (1) to (3) above, the consideration may not be so reduced below the amount necessary<sup>14</sup> to discharge the outstanding sum secured by the first-mentioned charge at the date of the offer<sup>15</sup>.

(iv) Other Restrictions on Disposal

1899. Restrictions on disposal of dwelling houses in National Parks etc.

Where a conveyance or grant is executed<sup>1</sup> by a local authority<sup>2</sup> or a housing association<sup>3</sup> ('the landlord') of a dwelling house<sup>4</sup> situated in a National Park, an area designated<sup>5</sup> as an area of outstanding natural beauty or an area designated by order of the Secretary of State<sup>6</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>7</sup> as a rural area<sup>8</sup>, the conveyance or grant may<sup>9</sup> contain a covenant limiting the freedom of the tenant<sup>10</sup>, including any successor in title of his and any person deriving title under him or such a successor, to dispose of the dwelling house in the following manner<sup>11</sup>. The limitation is that until such time, if any, as may be notified in writing by the landlord to the tenant or a successor in title of his:

4847 (1) there will be no relevant disposal<sup>12</sup> which is not an exempted disposal<sup>13</sup> without the written consent of the landlord, but that consent may not be withheld if the disposal is to a person satisfying the specified condition<sup>14</sup>; and 4848 (2) there will be no disposal by way of tenancy<sup>15</sup> or licence<sup>16</sup> without the written consent of the landlord unless the disposal is to a person satisfying that condition or by a person whose only or principal home<sup>17</sup> is, and throughout the duration of the tenancy or licence remains, the dwelling house<sup>18</sup>.

The condition is that the person to whom the disposal is made or, if it is made to more than one person, at least one of them, has throughout the period of three years immediately preceding the application for consent or, in the case of a disposal by way of tenancy or licence, preceding the disposal:

4849 (a) had his place of work in a region designated by order of the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister which, or part of which, is comprised in the National Park or area; or or has had the one in part or parts of that period and the other in the remainder; but the region need not have been the same throughout the period<sup>19</sup>.

A disposal in breach of such a covenant is void and, so far as it relates to disposals by way of tenancy or licence, such a covenant may be enforced by the landlord as if:

- 4851 (i) the landlord were possessed of land adjacent to the house concerned; and
- 4852 (ii) the covenant were expressed to be made for the benefit of such adjacent land<sup>20</sup>.

Instead of the covenant described above, and subject to the required consent<sup>21</sup>, the conveyance or grant may contain a covenant conferring a right of first refusal<sup>22</sup> on the landlord or other prescribed person<sup>23</sup>.

(6) PRESERVATION OF RIGHT TO BUY ON DISPOSAL TO PRIVATE SECTOR LANDLORD

1900. Cases in which right to buy is preserved.

The right to buy<sup>1</sup> and the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>2</sup> in the cases where the latter right is still exercisable<sup>3</sup> continue to apply where a person ceases to be a secure tenant<sup>4</sup> of a dwelling house<sup>5</sup> by reason of the disposal by the landlord<sup>6</sup> of an interest in the dwelling house to a person who is not an authority or body fulfilling the landlord condition<sup>7</sup> for secure tenancies<sup>8</sup>.

The above provisions do not, however, apply:

4853 (1) where the former landlord<sup>9</sup> was a person against whom the right to buy could not be exercised by virtue of its being a charity or a certain type of housing association<sup>10</sup>; or 4854 (2) in such other cases as may be excepted from the operation of these provisions by order of the Secretary of State<sup>11</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by order of the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>12</sup>.

Orders made under head (2) above:

4855 (a) may relate to particular disposals and may make different provision with respect to different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas; and 4856 (b) must be made by statutory instrument<sup>13</sup>.

The preserved right to buy<sup>14</sup> does not apply where the extended right to buy<sup>15</sup>, or the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996<sup>16</sup>, arises and the relevant regulations<sup>17</sup> apply<sup>18</sup>.

- 4858 (2) a qualifying successor<sup>2</sup>; and
- 4859 (3) a person to whom a tenancy<sup>3</sup> of a dwelling house<sup>4</sup> is granted jointly with a person who has the preserved right to buy<sup>5</sup> in relation to that dwelling house, has the preserved right to buy so long as he occupies the relevant dwelling house as his only or principal home<sup>6</sup>, subject to the following provisions<sup>7</sup>. Such a person ceases, however, to have the preserved right to buy if the tenancy of a relevant dwelling house becomes a demoted tenancy<sup>8</sup> by virtue of a demotion order<sup>9</sup>.

The following are qualifying successors for these purposes:

- 4860 (a) where the former secure tenancy was not a joint tenancy and, immediately before his death, the former secure tenant was tenant under an assured tenancy<sup>10</sup> of a dwelling house in relation to which he had the preserved right to buy, a member of the former secure tenant's family<sup>11</sup> who acquired that assured tenancy under the will or intestacy of the former secure tenant or in whom that assured tenancy vested<sup>12</sup> by way of a statutory succession to the assured tenancy;
- 4861 (b) where the former secure tenancy was not a joint tenancy, a member of the former secure tenant's family to whom the former secure tenant assigned his assured tenancy of a dwelling house in relation to which, immediately before the assignment, he had the preserved right to buy;
- 4862 (c) a person who becomes the tenant of a dwelling house, in place of the person who had the preserved right to buy in relation to that dwelling house, in pursuance of a property adjustment order made in connection with matrimonial proceedings<sup>13</sup>, an order transferring the tenancy on divorce, separation etc<sup>14</sup>, a property adjustment order after an overseas divorce, etc<sup>15</sup>, an order for financial relief against a parent<sup>16</sup> or a property adjustment order in connection with civil partnership proceedings<sup>17</sup> or after overseas dissolution of a civil partnership<sup>18</sup>.

The relevant dwelling house is in the first instance:

- 4863 (i) in relation to a person within head (1) above, the dwelling house which was the subject of the qualifying disposal<sup>19</sup>;
- 4864 (ii) in relation to a person within head (2) above, the dwelling house of which he became the statutory tenant or tenant as mentioned in heads (a) to (c) above;
- 4865 (iii) in relation to a person within head (3) above, the dwelling house of which he became a joint tenant as mentioned in that head<sup>20</sup>.

If a person having the preserved right to buy becomes the tenant of another dwelling house in place of the relevant dwelling house, whether the new dwelling house is entirely different or partly or substantially the same as the previous dwelling house, and the landlord is the same person as the landlord of the previous dwelling house or, where that landlord was a company, is a connected company<sup>21</sup>, the new dwelling house becomes the relevant dwelling house for the purposes of the preserved right to buy<sup>22</sup>.

1 For these purposes, the 'former secure tenant' is the person mentioned in the Housing Act 1985 s 171A(1) (as added) (see PARA 1900 ante): s 171A(2)(c) (ss 171A, 171B added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 8(1)).

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(6) PRESERVATION OF RIGHT TO BUY ON DISPOSAL TO PRIVATE SECTOR LANDLORD/1902. Modification of statutory provisions.

1902. Modification of statutory provisions.

Where the right to buy is preserved<sup>1</sup>, the statutory provisions relating to that right<sup>2</sup> have effect subject to such exceptions, adaptations and other modifications as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to Wales, by the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>4</sup>.

The regulations may in particular provide:

- 4866 (1) that certain of the exceptions to the right to buy<sup>5</sup> do not apply;
- 4867 (2) that the statutory provisions relating to the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>6</sup>, where that right is still exercisable<sup>7</sup>, do not apply; and
- 4868 (3) that the landlord<sup>8</sup> is not required to but may include a covenant for the repayment of discount, provided its terms are no more onerous than those of the covenant to be included<sup>9</sup> under the statutory provisions with regard to early disposal<sup>10</sup>.

The prescribed exceptions, adaptations and other modifications must take the form of textual amendments of the statutory provisions relating to the right to buy as they apply in cases where the right to buy is preserved; and the first regulations, and any subsequent consolidating regulations, must set out the statutory provisions relating to the right to buy as they so apply<sup>11</sup>. The regulations:

- 4869 (a) may make different provision for different cases or descriptions of case, including different provision for different areas;
- 4870 (b) may contain such incidental, supplementary and transitional provisions as the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister considers appropriate; and
- 4871 (c) must be made by statutory instrument<sup>12</sup>.

Such regulations may also:

- 4872 (i) make provision for continuing the effect of a suspension order<sup>13</sup> where the secure tenancy<sup>14</sup> in respect of which the order was made has been replaced by an assured tenancy<sup>15</sup>;
- 4873 (ii) make specified provision<sup>16</sup> with regard to the disclosure of information about anti-social behaviour<sup>17</sup>.

In exercise of the power so conferred, and prior to the transfer of functions in relation to Wales, the Secretary of State made the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241, which came into force on 11 October 1993: see reg 1(1). For transitional provisions see regs 1(2), 3, Schs 3, 4. Subject to reg 3, the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (as amended), as it applies in the circumstances described in s 171A(1) (as added) (cases in which right to buy is preserved: see PARA 1900 ante) has effect subject to the exceptions, adaptations and other modifications specified in the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241, Sch 1; and is set out, as it so applies, in Sch 2: reg 2(1), (2). For general modifications to terminology see Sch 1 paras 1, 2. The specific modifications made by Sch 1, and set out in Sch 2, are set out in the text and notes to the appropriate paragraph of this title if they are substantive, but are otherwise merely referred to in the notes to the appropriate paragraph where relevant. UPDATE*1902 Modification of statutory provisions

NOTE 4--SI 1993/2241 Sch 2 amended: SI 2006/680.

SI 1986/2092 further amended: SI 2008/2831.

Halsbury's Laws of England/LANDLORD AND TENANT (VOLUME 27(1) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1-700; VOLUME 27(2) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 701-1385; VOLUME 27(3) (2006 REISSUE) PARAS 1386-2000)/27. PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(6) PRESERVATION OF RIGHT TO BUY ON DISPOSAL TO PRIVATE SECTOR LANDLORD/1903. Disposal of landlord's interest in qualifying dwelling house.

1903. Disposal of landlord's interest in qualifying dwelling house.

The disposal by the landlord<sup>1</sup> of a interest in the qualifying dwelling house<sup>2</sup>, whether his whole interest or a lesser interest, does not affect the preserved right to buy, unless:

- 4874 (1) as a result of the disposal a specified authority or body<sup>3</sup> becomes the landlord of the qualifying person<sup>4</sup> or persons; or
- 4875 (2) the statutory provisions relating to the effect of failure to register an entry protecting a preserved right to buy<sup>5</sup> apply, in which case the right to buy ceases to be preserved<sup>6</sup>.

The disposal by the landlord of a qualifying dwelling house of less than his whole interest as landlord of the dwelling house, or in part of it, requires the consent of the Secretary of State<sup>7</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the consent of the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>8</sup>, unless the disposal is to the qualifying person or persons<sup>9</sup>. Consent may be given in relation to a particular disposal or generally in relation to disposals of a particular description and may, in either case, be given subject to conditions<sup>10</sup>.

A disposal made without the consent so required is void, except in a case where, by reason of a failure to make the entries on the land register or land charges register<sup>11</sup>, the preserved right to buy does not bind the person to whom the disposal is made<sup>12</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'landlord' see PARA 1300 note 1 ante.

2 For these purposes, references to a qualifying dwelling house, in relation to the preserved right to buy, are to a dwelling house in relation to which a person has that right: Housing Act 1985 s 171B(2) (ss 171B, 171D added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 8(1)). 4 For these purposes, references to a qualifying person, in relation to the preserved right to buy, are to a person who has that right: ibid s 171B(2) (as added: see note 2 supra). The rights of a qualifying person under Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended) (see PARA 1795 et seq ante, PARA 1904 et seq post) in relation to the qualifying dwelling house are not to be regarded as falling within the Land Registration Act 2002 Sch 3 (specified interests overriding registered dispositions: see LAND REGISTRATION vol 26 (2004 Reissue) PARA 962) (and so are liable to be postponed under s 29 (see LAND REGISTRATION vol 26 (2004 Reissue) PARA 935), unless protected by means of a notice in the register): Housing Act 1985 s 171G, Sch 9A para 6(1) (substituted by the Land Registration Act 2002 s 133, Sch 11 para 18(1), (10)). PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(6) PRESERVATION OF RIGHT TO BUY ON DISPOSAL TO PRIVATE SECTOR LANDLORD/1904. Termination of landlord's interest in qualifying dwelling house.

1904. Termination of landlord's interest in qualifying dwelling house.

On the termination of the landlord's<sup>1</sup> interest in the qualifying dwelling house<sup>2</sup>:

- 4876 (1) on the occurrence of an event determining his estate or interest, or by re-entry on a breach of condition or forfeiture; or
- 4877 (2) where the interest is a leasehold interest, by notice given by him or a superior landlord, on the expiry or surrender of the term, or otherwise<sup>3</sup>, the right to buy<sup>4</sup> ceases to be preserved<sup>5</sup>.

The termination of the landlord's interest by merger on his acquiring a superior interest, or on the acquisition by another person of the landlord's interest together with a superior interest, does not affect the preserved right to buy, unless:

- 4878 (a) as a result of the acquisition a specified authority or body<sup>6</sup> becomes the landlord of the qualifying person<sup>7</sup> or persons; or
- 4879 (b) the statutory provisions relating to the effect of failure to register an entry protecting a preserved right to buy<sup>8</sup> apply, in which case the right to buy ceases to be preserved<sup>9</sup>.

Where the termination of the landlord's interest<sup>10</sup> is caused by the act or omission of the landlord, a qualifying person who is thereby deprived of the preserved right to buy is entitled to be compensated by him<sup>11</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(6) PRESERVATION OF RIGHT TO BUY ON DISPOSAL TO PRIVATE SECTOR LANDLORD/1905. Transfer of qualifying person to alternative accommodation.

1905. Transfer of qualifying person to alternative accommodation.

The court may not order a qualifying person<sup>1</sup> to give up possession of the qualifying dwelling house<sup>2</sup> on the grounds that suitable alternative accommodation is available<sup>3</sup> unless the court is satisfied:

4880 (1) that the preserved right to buy<sup>4</sup> will continue<sup>5</sup> to be exercisable in relation to the dwelling house offered by way of alternative accommodation and that the interest of the landlord<sup>6</sup> in the new dwelling house will be:

331

194. (a) where the new dwelling house is a house<sup>7</sup>, not less than the interest of the landlord in the existing dwelling house; or

195. (b) where the new dwelling house is a flat<sup>8</sup>, not less than the interest of the landlord in the existing dwelling house or a term of years of which 80 years or more remain unexpired, whichever is the less; or

332

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(6) PRESERVATION OF RIGHT TO BUY ON DISPOSAL TO PRIVATE SECTOR LANDLORD/1906. Disposal after notice claiming to exercise right to buy etc.

1906. Disposal after notice claiming to exercise right to buy etc.

Where notice has been given in respect of a dwelling house<sup>1</sup> claiming to exercise the right to buy<sup>2</sup> and before completion of the exercise of that right the dwelling house is the subject of:

- 4882 (1) a qualifying disposal<sup>3</sup>; or
- 4883 (2) a disposal to an authority or body satisfying the landlord condition for secure tenancies<sup>4</sup>, all parties are in the same position as if the disponee had become the landlord<sup>5</sup> before the notice was given and had been given that notice and any further notice given by the tenant<sup>6</sup> to the landlord and had taken all steps which the landlord had taken<sup>7</sup>.

If, however, the circumstances after the disposal differ in any material respect, as for example where:

- 4884 (a) the interest of the disponee in the dwelling house after the disposal differs from that of the disponor before the disposal; or
- 4885 (b) any of the exceptions to the right to buy<sup>8</sup> becomes or ceases to be applicable, all those concerned must, as soon as practicable, take all such steps, whether by way of amending or withdrawing and re-serving any notice or extending any period or otherwise, as may be requisite for the purpose of securing that all parties are, as nearly as may be, in the same position as they would have been if those circumstances had obtained before the disposal<sup>9</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/(7) POWERS OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE ETC/1907. General powers to intervene.

(7) POWERS OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE ETC

1907. General powers to intervene.

The Secretary of State<sup>1</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>2</sup> may use his or its powers under the provisions set out below where it appears to him or to the Assembly or minister that tenants<sup>3</sup> generally, a tenant or tenants of a particular landlord<sup>4</sup>, or tenants of a description of landlords, have or may have difficulty in exercising effectively and expeditiously the right to buy<sup>5</sup> or the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>6</sup> where the latter right is still exercisable<sup>7</sup>. These powers may, however, be exercised only after the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister has given the landlord or landlords notice in writing of his or its intention to do so and while the notice is in force<sup>8</sup>. Such a notice is deemed to be given 72 hours after it has been sent<sup>9</sup>.

Where a notice has been so given to a landlord or landlords, no step taken by the landlord or any of the landlords while the notice is in force or before it was given has any effect in relation to the exercise by a secure tenant<sup>10</sup> of the right to buy or the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms except in so far as the notice otherwise provides<sup>11</sup>.

While such a notice is in force, the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister may do all such things as appear to him or to it necessary or expedient to enable secure tenants of the landlord or landlords to which the notice was given to exercise the right to buy and the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms; and he or the Assembly is not bound to take the steps which the landlord would have been bound<sup>12</sup> to take<sup>13</sup>.

Such a notice may be withdrawn by a further notice in writing, either completely or in relation to a particular landlord or a particular case or description of case<sup>14</sup>. The further notice may give such directions as the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister may think fit for the completion of a transaction begun before the further notice was given; and such directions are binding on the landlord, and may require the taking of steps different from those which the landlord would have been required to take if the Secretary of State's or the Assembly's or minister's powers to intervene<sup>15</sup> had not been used<sup>16</sup>.

Where, in consequence of the exercise of his or its powers to intervene, the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister receives sums due to a landlord, he or it may retain them while a notice is in force in relation to the landlord and is not bound to account to the landlord for interest accruing on them<sup>17</sup>.

Where the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister exercises his or its powers to intervene with respect to secure tenants of a landlord, he or the Assembly may:

- 4886 (1) calculate, in such manner and on such assumptions as he or it may determine, the costs incurred by him or by it in doing so; and
- 4887 (2) certify a sum as representing those costs; and a sum so certified is a debt from the landlord to the Secretary of State or to the Assembly or minister payable on a date specified in the certificate, together with interest from that date at a rate so specified<sup>18</sup>. Sums so payable may, without prejudice to any other method of recovery, be recovered from the landlord by the withholding of sums due from the Secretary of State or from the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister, including sums payable to the landlord and received by the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister in consequence of his or its exercise of his or its powers to intervene<sup>19</sup>.

The powers set out above, and the various powers described in the following paragraphs<sup>20</sup>, do not apply:

- 4888 (a) where the preserved right to buy arises<sup>21</sup>; or
- 4889 (b) where the right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996 arises<sup>22</sup>,

1908. Vesting orders.

For the purpose of conveying a freehold or granting a lease<sup>1</sup> in the exercise of his or its general powers to intervene<sup>2</sup>, the Secretary of State<sup>3</sup> or, in relation to Wales, the National Assembly for Wales or the relevant Welsh minister<sup>4</sup> may execute a document ('a vesting order'), containing such provisions as he or the Assembly or minister may determine<sup>5</sup>.

A vesting order has the like effect, except in so far as it otherwise provides, as a conveyance or grant duly executed in pursuance of the statutory provisions relating to the right to buy or (where still exercisable<sup>6</sup>) the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>7</sup>, and, in particular, binds both the landlord and its successors in title and the tenant<sup>8</sup> and his successors in title, including any person deriving title under him or them, to the same extent as if the covenants contained in it and expressed to be made on their behalf had been entered into by them<sup>9</sup>.

If the landlord's title to the dwelling house<sup>10</sup> in respect of which a vesting order is made is not registered, the vesting order must contain a certificate stating that the freehold conveyed or grant made by it is subject only to such incumbrances, rights and interests as are stated elsewhere in the vesting order or summarised in the certificate<sup>11</sup>.

On a vesting order being presented to the Chief Land Registrar, he must register the tenant as proprietor of the title concerned; and, if the title has not previously been registered:

4890 (1) he must so register him with an absolute title or, as the case may require, a good leasehold title; and 4891 (2) he must, for the purpose of registration, accept the certificate in the vesting order as sufficient evidence of the facts stated in it<sup>12</sup>.

- 4900 (2) within such period as may be so specified or such longer period as the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister may allow, to furnish a copy of any document or supply any information<sup>6</sup>.

but head (iv) above does not affect the law and practice regulating the descriptions of persons who may appear in, conduct, defend and address the court in any proceedings<sup>10</sup>.

In so far as expenses are incurred by the Secretary of State or the Assembly or the relevant Welsh minister in providing the applicant with assistance under these provisions, the recovery of those expenses, as taxed or assessed in such manner as may be prescribed by rules of court, constitute a first charge for the benefit of the Secretary of State or the Assembly or minister:

(8) REGISTRATION OF TITLE

(i) Right to Buy

1912. Registration of title.

Where the landlord's<sup>1</sup> title to the dwelling house<sup>2</sup> is not registered, the landlord must give the tenant<sup>3</sup> a certificate stating that the landlord is entitled to convey the freehold or make the grant subject only to such incumbrances, rights and interests as are stated in the conveyance or grant or summarised in the certificate<sup>4</sup>.

Where the landlord's interest in the dwelling house is a lease<sup>5</sup>, the certificate must also state particulars of that lease and, with respect to each superior title:

- 4912 (1) where it is registered, the title number;
- 4913 (2) where it is not registered, whether it was investigated in the usual way on the grant of the landlord's lease<sup>6</sup>.

The Chief Land Registrar must, for the purpose of the registration of title, accept such a certificate as sufficient evidence of the facts stated in it; but, if as a result he has to meet a claim against him<sup>7</sup>, the landlord is liable to indemnify him<sup>8</sup>.

The Housing Act 1985 s 154(1) (now repealed) is stated to be (1) modified where the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241 (see PARA 1900 et seq ante), apply (see reg 2, Sch 1 para 19); (2) substituted where the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619 (right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996: see PARAS 1804-1807 ante), apply (see the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 18); but it is apprehended that these provisions have now lapsed with the repeal of the Housing Act 1985 s 154(1).

(ii) Preserved Right to Buy

1913. Statement to be contained in instrument effecting qualifying disposal.

On a qualifying disposal<sup>1</sup>, the disponent must secure that the instrument effecting the disposal:

4914 (1) states that the disposal is, so far as it relates to dwelling houses<sup>2</sup> occupied by secure tenants<sup>3</sup>, a disposal in a case where the right to buy is preserved on a disposal to a private landlord<sup>4</sup>; and

4915 (2) lists, to the best of the disponor's knowledge and belief, the dwelling houses to which the disposal relates which are occupied by secure tenants<sup>5</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'qualifying disposal' see PARA 1901 note 19 ante. For these purposes, references to a disposal or to the instrument effecting a disposal are to the conveyance, transfer, grant or assignment, as the case may be: Housing Act 1985 s 171G, Sch 9A para 10 (Sch 9A added by the Housing and Planning Act 1986 s 8(2), Sch 2). PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/ (8) REGISTRATION OF TITLE/(ii) Preserved Right to Buy/1914. Registration of title on qualifying disposal.

1914. Registration of title on qualifying disposal.

Where on a qualifying disposal<sup>1</sup> the disponor's title to the dwelling house<sup>2</sup> is not registered, the disponor must give the disponee a certificate stating that the disponor is entitled to effect the disposal subject only to such incumbrances, rights and interests as are stated in the instrument effecting the disposal or summarised in the certificate<sup>3</sup>. Where the disponor's interest in the dwelling house is a lease<sup>4</sup>, the certificate must also state particulars of the lease and, with respect to each superior title:

4916 (1) where it is registered, the title number;

4917 (2) where it is not registered, whether it was investigated in the usual way on the grant of the disponor's lease<sup>5</sup>.

The certificate must be in a form approved by the Chief Land Registrar and must be signed by such officer of the disponor or such other person as may be approved by the Chief Land Registrar; and the Chief Land Registrar must, for the purpose of registration of title, accept the certificate as sufficient evidence of the facts stated in it<sup>6</sup>.

Where the Chief Land Registrar approves an application for registration of a disposition of registered land or, as the case may be, of the disponee's title under a disposition of unregistered land, and the instrument effecting the disposal contains the required statement described above, he must enter in the register:

4918 (a) a notice in respect of the rights of qualifying persons<sup>7</sup> in relation to dwelling houses comprised in the disposal; and 4919 (b) a restriction reflecting the statutory limitation<sup>8</sup> on subsequent disposal<sup>9</sup>.

Where the registered title to land contains an entry made by virtue of the preserved right to buy<sup>10</sup>, the Chief Land Registrar must, for the purpose of removing or amending the entry, accept as sufficient evidence of the facts stated in it a certificate by the registered proprietor that the whole or a specified part of the land is not subject to any right of a qualifying person under the right to buy<sup>11</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/ (8) REGISTRATION OF TITLE/(ii) Preserved Right to Buy/1915. Change of qualifying dwelling house.

1915. Change of qualifying dwelling house.

The following provisions apply where a new dwelling house<sup>1</sup> becomes<sup>2</sup> the qualifying dwelling house<sup>3</sup> which is entirely different from the previous qualifying dwelling house or includes new land, and apply to the new dwelling house or the new land, as the case may be<sup>4</sup>.

If the landlord's<sup>5</sup> title is registered, the landlord must apply for the entry in the register of:

- 4920 (1) a notice in respect of the rights of the qualifying person<sup>6</sup> or persons<sup>7</sup>; and
- 4921 (2) a restriction reflecting the statutory limitation<sup>8</sup> on subsequent disposal<sup>9</sup>.

If the landlord's title is not registered, the rights of the qualifying person or persons are registrable under the Land Charges Act 1972 in the same way as an estate contract<sup>10</sup> and the landlord must, and a qualifying person may, apply for such registration<sup>11</sup>.

1916. Statement required on certain disposals on which right to buy ceases to be preserved.

A conveyance of the freehold or grant of a lease<sup>1</sup> of the qualifying dwelling house<sup>2</sup> to a qualifying person<sup>3</sup> in pursuance of the right to buy<sup>4</sup> must state that it is made in pursuance of the statutory right to buy<sup>5</sup> as that right applies by virtue of the statutory preservation<sup>6</sup> of that right<sup>7</sup>.

Where on a conveyance of the freehold or grant of a lease of the qualifying dwelling house to a qualifying person otherwise than in pursuance of the right to buy the dwelling house ceases to be subject to any rights arising under the statutory provisions relating to the right to buy, the conveyance or grant must contain a statement to that effect<sup>8</sup>.

Where on a disposal<sup>9</sup> of an interest in a qualifying dwelling house the dwelling house ceases to be subject to the rights of a qualifying person by virtue of that person's becoming the tenant of an authority or body satisfying the landlord condition for secure tenancies<sup>10</sup>, the instrument by which the disposal is effected must state that the dwelling house ceases as a result of the disposal to be subject to any rights arising by virtue of the statutory preservation of the right to buy<sup>11</sup>.

PUBLIC OR SOCIAL HOUSING SECTOR RIGHT TO BUY/ (8) REGISTRATION OF TITLE/(ii) Preserved Right to Buy/1917. Liability to compensate or indemnify.

1917. Liability to compensate or indemnify.

A claim for breach of statutory duty<sup>1</sup> lies where:

- 4922 (1) the disponor on a qualifying disposal<sup>2</sup> fails to comply with his duty to secure the inclusion of the required statement in the instrument effecting the disposal<sup>3</sup>; or
- 4923 (2) the landlord<sup>4</sup> on a change of the qualifying dwelling house<sup>5</sup> fails to comply with his duty to apply for registration to protect the preserved right to buy<sup>6</sup>, and a qualifying person<sup>7</sup> is deprived of the preserved right to buy by reason of the non-registration of the matters which would have been registered if that duty had been complied with<sup>8</sup>.

If the Chief Land Registrar has to meet a claim<sup>9</sup> as a result of acting upon:

- 4924 (a) a certificate of title on first registration<sup>10</sup>;
- 4925 (b) a statement required on a disposal on which the right to buy ceases to be preserved<sup>11</sup>; or
- 4926 (c) a certificate that the dwelling house has ceased to be subject to the right to buy<sup>12</sup>, the person who gave the certificate or made the statement must indemnify him<sup>13</sup>.

(9) CHARGE TO STAMP DUTY LAND TAX

1918. Introduction.

The circumstances in which stamp duty land tax is chargeable on the grant of a lease have already been discussed<sup>1</sup>. That tax is dealt with in detail elsewhere in this work<sup>2</sup>; but the Finance Act 2003 makes particular provision with regard to:

- 4927 (1) right to buy transactions<sup>3</sup>;
- 4928 (2) shared ownership leases<sup>4</sup>, including those granted under the preserved right to buy<sup>5</sup>; and
- 4929 (3) rent to mortgage transactions<sup>6</sup>; and those provisions are discussed below<sup>7</sup>.

1 See PARA 124 ante.

2 See generally STAMP DUTIES AND STAMP DUTY RESERVE TAX.

3 For the meaning of 'right to buy transaction' for these purposes see PARA 1919 post.

4 For the meaning of 'shared ownership lease' for these purposes see PARA 1920 post. There is now no statutory right to be granted such a lease: see PARA 1795 ante.

5 As to the preserved right to buy see PARA 1900 et seq ante.

6 For the meaning of 'rent to mortgage transaction' for these purposes see PARA 1921 post. The right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms under the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended) (see PARA 1872 et seq ante) is now only exercisable if claimed before 18 July 2005: see s 142A (as added); and PARA 1872 ante.

7 See the Finance Act 2003 s 70, Sch 9 (as amended); and PARAS 1919-1921 post.

1919. Right to buy transactions.

Where the whole or part of the chargeable consideration<sup>1</sup> for a transaction is contingent<sup>2</sup>, the amount or value of the consideration must normally be determined for the purposes of the charge to stamp duty land tax<sup>3</sup> on the assumption that the outcome of the contingency will be such that the consideration is payable or, as the case may be, does not cease to be payable<sup>4</sup>. In the case of a right to buy transaction, however, that requirement does not apply<sup>5</sup> and any consideration that would be payable only if a contingency were to occur, or that is payable only because a contingency has occurred, does not count as chargeable consideration<sup>6</sup>.

A 'right to buy transaction' means, for these purposes:

- 4930 (1) the sale of a dwelling at a discount, or the grant of a lease of a dwelling at a discount, by a relevant public sector body<sup>7</sup>; or
- 4931 (2) the sale of a dwelling, or the grant of a lease of a dwelling, in pursuance of the preserved right to buy<sup>8</sup>.

1 For the meaning of 'chargeable consideration' see the Finance Act 2003 s 50, Sch 4 (as amended); and STAMP DUTIES AND STAMP DUTY RESERVE TAX. A grant under the Housing Act 1996 s 20 (as amended) or s 21 (as amended) (purchase grants in respect of disposals at a discount by registered social landlords: see PARA 1807 ante) does not count as part of the chargeable consideration for a right to buy transaction in relation to which the vendor is a registered social landlord: Finance Act 2003 s 70, Sch 9 para 1(5).

2 For these purposes, 'contingent', in relation to consideration, means (1) that it is to be paid or provided only if some uncertain future event occurs; or (2) that it is to cease to be paid or provided if some uncertain future event occurs: ibid s 51(3).

3 Ie for the purposes of ibid Pt 4 (ss 42-124) (as amended): see PARA 124 ante; and STAMP DUTIES AND STAMP DUTY RESERVE TAX.

4 See ibid s 51(1); and STAMP DUTIES AND STAMP DUTY RESERVE TAX.

5 Ibid Sch 9 para 1(1)(a).

6 Ibid Sch 9 para 1(1)(b).

7 The following are relevant public sector bodies for these purposes (ibid Sch 9 para 1(3) (amended by the Welsh Development Agency (Transfer of Functions to the National Assembly for Wales and Abolition) Order 2005, SI 2005/3226, art 7(1)(b), Sch 2 Pt 1 para 14), ie:

61 (1) government: a Minister of the Crown; Northern Ireland department;

- 62 (2) local government: a local housing authority within the meaning of the Housing Act 1985 (see PARA 1311 note 4 ante); a county council in England; a district council within the meaning of the Local Government Act (Northern Ireland) 1972;
- 63 (3) social housing: the Housing Corporation (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 18); the Northern Ireland Housing Executive; a registered social landlord (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARAS 11, 66 et seq); a housing action trust established under the Housing Act 1988 Pt III (ss 60-92) (as amended) (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 319 et seq);
- 64 (4) new towns and development corporations: the Commission for the New Towns (now part of English Partnerships: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1383 et seq); a development corporation established by an order made, or having effect as if made, under the New Towns Act 1981 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1322 et seq); a new town commission established under the New Towns Act (Northern Ireland) 1965 s 7; an urban development corporation established by an order made under the Local Government, Planning and Land Act 1980 s 135 (as amended) (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1428 et seq);
- 65 (5) police: a police authority within the meaning of the Police Act 1996 s 101(1) (as amended); the Northern Ireland Policing Board;
- 66 (6) miscellaneous: an Education and Libraries Board within the meaning of the Education and Libraries (Northern Ireland) Order 1986, SI 1986/594; the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority; and a body prescribed for these purposes by Treasury order.

Heads (1)-(6) supra omit the statutory references to public sector bodies in Scotland.

8 Finance Act 2003 Sch 9 para 1(2). For the purposes of head (2) in the text, the transfer of a dwelling, or the grant of a lease of a dwelling, is made in pursuance of the preserved right to buy if (1) the vendor is, in England and Wales, a person against whom the right to buy under the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended) (see PARA 1795 et seq ante, PARA 1922 post) is exercisable by virtue of s 171A (as added) (see PARA 1900 ante); (2) the purchaser is the qualifying person for the purposes of the preserved right to buy (see PARA 1901 ante); and (3) the dwelling is the qualifying dwelling house in relation to the purchaser (see PARA 1901 ante): Finance Act 2003 Sch 9 para 1(4).

- 4932 (1) in accordance with the provisions allowing election for market value treatment<sup>6</sup>; or
- 4933 (2) in accordance with the provisions<sup>7</sup> allowing for staircasing<sup>8</sup>.

Where the purchaser elects for tax to be charged in accordance with head (1) above, an election for tax to be so charged must be included in the land transaction return<sup>9</sup> made in respect of the grant of the lease, or in an amendment of that return, and is irrevocable, so that the return may not be amended so as to withdraw the election<sup>10</sup>. The transfer of the reversion to the lessee or lessees under the terms of a lease to which head (1) above applies is exempt from charge if an election was made for tax to be charged in accordance with the above provisions, and any tax chargeable in respect of the grant of the lease has been paid<sup>11</sup>.

Similarly, where the purchaser elects for tax to be charged in accordance with head (2) above, an election for tax to be so charged must be included in the land transaction return made in respect of the grant of the lease, or in an amendment of that return, and is irrevocable, so that the return may not be amended so as to withdraw the election<sup>12</sup>.

Where under a shared ownership lease<sup>13</sup>:

- 4934 (a) the lessee or lessees have the right, on the payment of a sum, to require the terms of the lease to be altered so that the rent payable under it is reduced; and
- 4935 (b) by exercising that right the lessee or lessees acquire an interest, additional to one already held, calculated by reference to the market value of the dwelling<sup>14</sup> and expressed as a percentage of the dwelling or its value (a 'share of the dwelling'), such an acquisition is exempt from charge if:

- 4936 (i) an election was made for stamp duty land tax to be charged in accordance with head (1) or, as the case may be, head (2) above and any tax chargeable in respect of the grant of the lease has been paid; or
- 4937 (ii) immediately after the acquisition the total share of the dwelling held by the lessee or lessees does not exceed 80 per cent<sup>15</sup>.

1    Ie a lease which satisfies the conditions set out in note 4 infra.

2    For these purposes, a 'qualifying body' means (1) a local housing authority within the meaning of the Housing Act 1985 (see PARA 1311 note 4 ante); (2) a housing association within the meaning of the Housing Associations Act 1985 or the corresponding Northern Ireland legislation; (3) a housing action trust established under the Housing Act 1988 Pt III (ss 60-92) (as amended) (see HOUSING vol 22 (2006 Reissue) PARA 319 et seq); (4) the Northern Ireland Housing Executive; (5) the Commission for the New Towns (now part of English Partnerships: see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1383 et seq); (6) a development corporation established by an order made, or having effect as if made, under the New Towns Act 1981 (see TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING vol 46(3) (Reissue) PARA 1322 et seq); Finance Act 2003 s 70, Sch 9 para 5(1), (2) (Sch 9 para 5(1) amended by the Finance Act 2004 s 303(2)).

3    For these purposes, a lease is granted 'in pursuance of the preserved right to buy' if: (1) the vendor is a person against whom the right to buy under the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended) is exercisable by virtue of s 171A (as added) (preservation of right to buy on disposal to private sector landlord: see PARA 1900 ante); (2) the lessee is, or lessees are, the qualifying person for the purposes of the preserved right to buy (see PARA 1901 ante); and (3) the lease is of a dwelling that is the qualifying dwelling house in relation to the purchaser (see PARA 1901 ante): Finance Act 2003 Sch 9 para 5(1), (3) (as amended: see note 2 supra).

4    The statutory conditions are as follows: see ibid Sch 9 paras 2(2), 4(2). In case to which head (1) in the text applies (ie a case falling within Sch 9 para 2(2)):

- 67   (1) the lease must be of a dwelling;
- 68   (2) the lease must give the lessee or lessees exclusive use of the dwelling;
- 69   (3) the lease must provide for the lessee or lessees to acquire the reversion;

70 (4) the lease must be granted partly in consideration of rent and partly in consideration of a premium calculated by reference to (a) the market value of the dwelling; or (b) a sum calculated by reference to that value;

71 (5) the lease must contain a statement of (a) the market value of the dwelling; or (b) the sum calculated by reference to that value, by reference to which the premium is calculated.

Section 118 (meaning of 'market value': see STAMP DUTIES AND STAMP DUTY RESERVE TAX) does not apply in relation to the reference in head (5) supra to the market value of the dwelling: Sch 9 para 2(5).

In a case to which head (2) in the text applies (ie a case falling within Sch 9 para 4(2)):

72 (i) the lease must be of a dwelling;

73 (ii) the lease must give the lessee or lessees exclusive use of the dwelling;

74 (iii) the lease must provide that the lessee or lessees may, on the payment of a sum, require the terms of the lease to be altered so that the rent payable under it is reduced;

75 (iv) the lease must be granted partly in consideration of rent and partly in consideration of a premium calculated by reference to (A) the premium obtainable on the open market for the grant of a lease containing the same terms as the lease but with the substitution of the minimum rent for the rent payable under the lease; or (B) a sum calculated by reference to that premium;

76 (v) the lease must contain a statement of the minimum rent and of (A) the premium obtainable on the open market; or (B) the sum calculated by reference to that premium, by reference to which the premium is calculated.

For these purposes, the 'minimum rent' means the lowest rent which could become payable under the lease if it were altered as mentioned in head (iii) supra at the date when the lease is granted: Sch 9 para 4(5).

5 As to stamp duty land tax see PARA 124 ante; and STAMP DUTIES AND STAMP DUTY RESERVE TAX.

6 Ie in accordance with the Finance Act 2003 Sch 9 para 2.

7 Ie in accordance with ibid Sch 9 para 4.

8 See ibid Sch 9 paras 2(1), 4(1).

9 As to the land transaction return see ibid s 76; and STAMP DUTIES AND STAMP DUTY RESERVE TAX.

10 Ibid Sch 9 para 2(3). Where Sch 9 para 2 applies, the chargeable consideration for the grant of the lease is to be taken to be the amount stated in the lease in accordance with Sch 9 para 2(2)(e)(i) or (ii) (see note 4 head (5)(a), (b) supra): Sch 9 para 2(4).

11 Ibid Sch 9 para 3.

12 Ibid Sch 9 para 4(3). Where Sch 9 para 4 applies, the rent in consideration of which the lease is granted is to be taken to be the minimum rent stated in the lease in accordance with Sch 9 para 4(2)(e) (see note 4 head (v) supra), and the chargeable consideration for the grant other than rent is to be taken to be the amount stated in the lease in accordance with Sch 9 para 4(2)(e)(i) or (ii) (see note 4 head (v)(A), (B) supra): Sch 9 para 4(4).

13 For these purposes, 'shared ownership lease' means a lease granted (1) by a qualifying body (see note 2 supra); or (2) in pursuance of the preserved right to buy (see note 3 supra), in relation to which the conditions in ibid Sch 9 para 2(2) or Sch 9 para 4(2) (see note 4 supra) are met: Sch 9 para 4A(3) (Sch 9 para 4A added by the Finance Act 2004 s 303(1)).

14 The Finance Act 2003 s 118 (meaning of 'market value') does not apply in relation to the references in Sch 9 para 4A (as added) to the market value of the dwelling: Sch 9 para 4A(4) (as added: see note 13 supra).

15 Ibid Sch 9 para 4A(1), (2) (as added: see note 13 supra).

(10) JURISDICTION

1922-2000. Jurisdiction of the county court.

A county court has jurisdiction:

- 4942 (1) to entertain any proceedings brought under the statutory provisions relating to the right to buy and the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms<sup>1</sup>; and
- 4943 (2) to determine any question arising under the right to buy or under a conveyance or grant executed in pursuance of the right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms, but subject to the power of the district valuer<sup>2</sup> to determine matters of valuation<sup>3</sup>.

The jurisdiction so conferred includes jurisdiction to entertain proceedings on any such question as is mentioned in head (2) above notwithstanding that no other relief is sought than a declaration<sup>4</sup>.

1    le any proceedings brought under the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (ss 118-188) (as amended): see PARA 1795 et seq ante. See also PARA 1795 note 7 ante. The right to acquire on rent to mortgage terms is now only exercisable if claimed before 18 July 2005: see s 142A (as added); and PARA 1872 ante.

2    le under ibid s 128 (as amended) (see PARA 1838 ante), s 155C (as added) (see PARA 1890 ante) and s 158 (as amended) (see PARA 1898 ante).

3    Ibid s 181(1) (amended by the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 s 187(1), Sch 21 paras 22, 23; the Housing Act 2004 s 186(2)).

The Housing Act 1985 s 181(1) (as so amended) is modified where (1) the Housing (Extension of Right to Buy) Order 1993, SI 1993/2240 (see PARA 1798 ante), applies: (see art 3(1), Schedule para 62); (2) the Housing (Preservation of Right to Buy) Regulations 1993, SI 1993/2241 (see PARA 1900 et seq ante), apply (see reg 2(1), Sch 1 para 37); (3) the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619 (right to acquire conferred by the Housing Act 1996: see PARAS 1804-1807 ante), apply (see the Housing (Right to Acquire) Regulations 1997, SI 1997/619, reg 2, Sch 1 para 35).

4    Housing Act 1985 s 181(2). If a person takes proceedings in the High Court which he could, by virtue of the Housing Act 1985 s 181 (as amended), have taken in the county court, he is not entitled to recover any costs: s 181(3) (prospectively repealed by the Courts and Legal Services Act 1990 s 125(7), Sch 20, as from a day to be appointed; at the date at which this title states the law, that repeal was not in force). See also Gregory v Tower Hamlets London Borough Council [2006] All ER (D) 65 (Jul), CA (where proceedings begun in the county court are transferred to the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court under CPR 54.20, which provides that 'the court may order a claim to continue as if it had not been started under this section' and enables claims brought by judicial review to continue as ordinary civil claims under CPR Pt 7, that does not necessarily lead to the conclusion that the proceedings could have been brought in the county court and are solely proceedings under the Housing Act 1985 Pt V (as amended), and s 181(3) does not deprive the court of jurisdiction to make a costs order in favour of the claimant).
